[1] Until within recent years the appointment or election of a President pro tempore was held by the Senate to be for the occasion only, so that more than one appears in several sessions and in others none was chosen. Since Mar. 12, 1890, they have served until "the Senate otherwise ordered."

[2] The Constitution (art. I, sec. 4) provided that "The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year * * * on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day." Pursuant to a resolution of the Continental Congress, the first session of the First Congress convened Mar. 4, 1789. Up to and including May 20, 1820, 18 acts were passed providing for the meeting of Congress on other days in the year. Since that year Congress met regularly on the first Monday in December until 1934, when the twentieth amendment to the Constitution became effective, changing the meeting of Congress to Jan. 3. The first and second sessions of the First Congress were held in New York City; subsequently, including the first session of the Sixth Congress, Philadelphia was the meeting place; since then Congress has convened in Washington.

[3] Elected to count the vote for President and Vice President, which was done Apr. 6, 1789, a quorum of the Senate then appearing for the first time. John Adams, Vice President, appeared Apr. 21, 1789, and took his seat as President of the Senate.

[4] Elected Speaker pro tempore for Apr. 20, 1798, and again for May 28, 1798.

CAPITOL BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS

THE CAPITOL

This building is situated on a plateau 88 feet above the level of the Potomac River and covers an area of 153,112 square feet, or approximately 3½ acres. Its length, from north to south, is 751 feet 4 inches; its width, including approaches, is 350 feet; and its location is described as being in latitude 38°53′20.4″ north and longitude 77°00′35.7″ west from Greenwich. Its height above the base line on the east front to the top of the Statue of Freedom is 287 feet 5½ inches. The dome is built of iron, and the aggregate weight of material used in its construction is 8,909,200 pounds.

The Statue of Freedom surmounting the dome is entirely of bronze and weighs 14,985 pounds. It was modeled by Thomas Crawford, father of Francis Marion Crawford, the novelist, in Rome, Italy, and the plaster model shipped to this country. It was cast in bronze at the shops of Clark Mills, on the Bladensburg Road, not far from the city of Washington. The cost of the bronze casting and the expenses in connection therewith were $20,796.82, and, as the sculptor Crawford was paid $3,000 for the plaster model, the entire cost of the statue was $23,796.82. It was erected and placed in its present position December 2, 1863.

SELECTION OF A SITE FOR THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

It may seem strange that, in the selection of the 10 miles square for the territory in which the National Capital should find a home, a locality was selected with but a meager population. It may have been the intent to found a capital which should develop its own particular surroundings instead of attempting to conform with conditions then existing. But the principal reason was the lesson learned from European experiences, where the location of the country's capital in a large city offered an opportunity for the coercion of legislators by the citizens of the capital. From the inception of the Continental Congress, either through necessity or voluntarily, it had moved from Philadelphia to Baltimore, Lancaster, York, Princeton, Annapolis, Trenton, and New York City. Philadelphia seems to have been the favorite location, and it was from this city that the Federal Congress, organized in New York City, took up its abode until its removal to Washington in the year 1800.

The original 10 miles square was formed from territory donated by Virginia and Maryland, and the cornerstone was erected and fixed on April 15, 1791, at Hunters Point, just south of Alexandria, Va. This area remained intact until the year 1846, when the Congress transferred to Virginia the portion furnished by that State.

PLANS FOR THE CAPITOL BUILDING

Following the selection of a site for the Capital, some little time elapsed before advertisements appeared offering a prize of $500, or a medal of the same value, to be awarded for the "most approved plan" for a Capitol Building. Some 14 plans were submitted—some writers claim 16—but of these plans none was wholly satisfactory. In October 1792, Dr. William Thornton, a versatile physician of Tortola, West Indies, requested by letter an opportunity to present a plan as within the terms of the original advertisement. The request was granted and his plan accepted by the commissioners on April 5, 1793.

Affairs seemed to move rapidly in those days, for on September 18, 1793, the cornerstone was laid with Masonic ceremonies in the southeast corner of the north section of the building. Thornton's plan provided for a central section nearly square in area, surmounted by a low dome, this central section to be flanked on the north and south by rectangular buildings, with a length of 126 feet and a width of 120 feet. The northern wing was the first completed, and in this small building the legislative and judicial branches of the Government, as well as the courts of the District of Columbia, were accommodated at the time of the removal of the Government from Philadelphia in the year 1800.

BUILDING OF THE CAPITOL

In the development of the accepted plans of Dr. William Thornton in the erection of the first unit of the building—the previous Supreme Court section—three architects were employed—Stephen H. Hallett, George Hadfield, and James Hoban, the architect of the White House. The erection of the southern section of the Capitol, which is now occupied by Statuary Hall, was under the charge of B. H. Latrobe, and in 1807 the House of Representatives, which had previously met in the former Supreme Court section of the Capitol and in a temporary brick building within the walls of the southern wing, known as the Oven, commenced the occupancy of this new legislative chamber. The north wing was finished in 1800 and the south wing in 1811. A wooden passageway connected the two buildings. This condition existed when the interior of both buildings was burned by the British on August 24, 1814.

The work of reconstruction of the damaged interiors was commenced by B. H. Latrobe, who continued the work of restoration until December 1817, when he resigned, and Charles Bulfinch, a prominent architect of Boston, Mass., continued the work of restoration and the erection of the central portion of the building, commencing in 1818 and continuing until its completion in 1827.

During the period of restoration and completion the Congress met, for its first session after the fire, in Blodget's Hotel at Seventh and E Streets, and soon thereafter in a building erected for that purpose on First Street NE., occupying a portion of the site now occupied by the United States Supreme Court Building. They continued this occupancy until 1819, when the Capitol was again ready for occupancy.

The original Capitol as completed was built of Aquia Creek (Va.) sandstone, procured from quarries owned by the Government. This structure was 352 feet 4 inches in length and 229 feet in depth. The central portion was surmounted by a low dome, and the sandstone interior was unchanged when the new dome was erected in a later period. The cost of this original building, including the grading of the grounds, repairs, etc., up to the year 1827, was $2,433,844.13.

Following the completion of the old Capitol in 1827, and the termination of the services of the architect, Charles Bulfinch, in 1830, such architectural services as were needed were performed by different architects until the year 1851, when the building of the present Senate and House wings was commenced, the plans of Thomas U. Walter having been selected in preference to others submitted. On July 4, 1851, the cornerstone of the extensions was laid in the northeast corner of the House wing. The oration was delivered by Daniel Webster, and his prophetic utterances on that occasion have been quoted many times. In the building of the Senate and House wings the exterior marble came from the quarries of Lee, Mass., and the columns from quarries of Cockeysville, Md.

This work was prosecuted under the architectural direction of Thomas U. Walter from 1851 to 1865 during his tenure as Architect of the Capitol, and thereafter certain uncompleted details were supervised by his successor, Edward Clark, whose term ran from 1865 to 1902. The present House Chamber was occupied for legislative purposes December 16, 1857, and the Senate Chamber January 4, 1859.

The addition of the Senate and House wings made the construction of a new dome necessary for the preservation of architectural symmetry. The Dome of the original central building was constructed of wood, covered with copper. This was replaced in 1856 by the present structure of cast iron, completed in 1865. The greatest exterior diameter of the dome is 135 feet 5 inches. The rotunda is 97 feet in diameter, and its height from the floor to where the dome closes in at the base of the lantern is 180 feet 3 inches.

The Capitol has a floor area of 14 acres, and 430 rooms are devoted to office, committee, and storage purposes. There are 14,518 square feet of skylights, 679 windows, and 550 doorways. The dome receives light through 108 windows, and from the architect's office to the dome there are 365 steps, one for each day of the year.

CAPITOL GROUNDS

The original grounds area was at one time a part of Cern Abby Manor, and at an early date was occupied by a subtribe of the Algonquin Indians known as the Powhatans, whose council house was then located at the foot of the hill.

In 1853, according to the report of Randolph Coyle, civil engineer, the Capitol Grounds contained approximately 29.32 acres. The present area of the old section of the grounds is 58.8 acres.

During the 35 years following the completion of the Capitol the additional ground was acquired in order to obtain a better landscape surrounding in keeping with the enlarged Capitol. The terraces were built on the north, west, and south sides of the building. These changes resulted in an improved appearance of the building, which still remained in an incomplete condition, as the east front had not been extended as contemplated by the plans of Thomas U. Walter, under whose direction the Senate and House wings had been added and the new dome constructed.

During the period 1910–35 the Capitol Grounds were enlarged and improved by the purchase, development, and annexation of 61.8 additional acres; and the addition of this new area to the 58.8 acres comprising the old grounds section gives a present total grounds area of 120.6 acres.

HOUSE OFFICE BUILDINGS

OLD BUILDING

An increased membership of the Senate and House resulted in a demand for additional rooms for the accommodation of the Senators and Representatives, and on March 3, 1903, the Congress authorized the erection of a fireproof office building for the use of the House Members as office and committee rooms. The first brick was laid July 5, 1905, in square no. 690, and formal exercises were held at the laying of the cornerstone on April 14, 1906, in which President Theodore Roosevelt participated. The building was completed and occupied January 10, 1908. A subsequent change in the basis of congressional representation made necessary the building of an additional story. The entire cost of the building, including site, amounted to $4,860,155.71. This office building contains 690 rooms, and was considered at the time of its completion fully equipped for all of the needs of a modern building for office purposes.

NEW BUILDING

Under legislation contained in authorization act of January 10, 1929, and in the urgent deficiency bill of March 4, 1929, provisions were made for an additional House Office Building, to be located on the west side of New Jersey Avenue (opposite the first House Office Building).

The cornerstone was laid June 24, 1932, and the building was completed and ready for beneficial occupancy April 20, 1933. It contains 251 two-room suites, 16 committee rooms; each suite and committee room being provided with a storeroom. Eight floors are occupied by Members; the basement and sub-basement by shops and mechanics needed for the proper maintenance of the building. The cost of this building, including site, furnishings, and equipment, was $7,805,705.

SENATE OFFICE BUILDING

The demand for a new building to be used for offices was greater for the Representatives, on account of the large number forming the membership of that body, and because the Members of the Senate were supplied with additional office space by the purchase of the Maltby Building, located on the northwest corner of B Street and New Jersey Avenue NW. However, the acquisition of this building supplied but a temporary purpose, and its condemnation as an unsafe structure created on the part of the Senators a desire for safer and more commodious quarters. Accordingly, square 686, on the northeast corner of Delaware Avenue and B Street NE., was purchased as a site for the Senate Office Building, and the plans for the House Office Building were adapted for the Senate Office Building, the only change being the omission of the fourth side of the building fronting on First Street NE., this being planned for but not completed. The cornerstone of this building was laid without special exercises on July 31, 1906, and the building was occupied March 5, 1909. In June 1934 the building was completed by the erection of the First Street Wing, construction of which was commenced in 1931, together with alterations to the C Street Facade, and construction of terraces, balustrades, and approaches. The cost of the completed building, including site, furnishings, and equipment, was $8,429,357.

CAPITOL POWER PLANT

During the development of the plans for fireproof office buildings for occupancy by the Senators and Representatives, the question of heat, light, and power was considered. The Senate and House wings of the Capitol were heated by separate heating plants. The Library of Congress also had in use a heating plant for that building, and it was finally determined that the solution of the heating and lighting, with power for elevators, could be adequately met by the construction of a central power plant to furnish all heat and power, as well as light, for the Capitol group of buildings.

Having determined the need of a central power plant, a site was selected in Garfield Park, bounded by New Jersey Avenue, South Capitol Street, Virginia Avenue, and B Street SE. This park being a Government reservation, an appropriation of money was not required to secure title. The determining factors leading to the selection of this site were its nearness to the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad and its convenient distance to the river and the buildings to be cared for by the plant.

The dimensions of the Capitol power plant, which was completed and placed in operation in 1910, are 244 feet 8 inches by 117 feet, with a height over the boiler room of 81 feet to accommodate the coal bunkers. A recent additional building, for accommodation of shops and storerooms, is located near the power plant and is built of selected red brick, it being 90 feet long, 50 feet wide, and 2 stories high. The building is located upon concrete foundations resting upon 790 simplex reinforced concrete piles; the superstructure is of red brick. There are 2 Alphons Custodis radial brick chimneys 212 feet in height and 11 feet in diameter at the top.

The buildings served by the power plant are connected by a reinforced-concrete steam tunnel 7 feet high by 4½ feet wide, with walls approximately 12 inches thick. This tunnel originally ran from the power plant to the Senate Office Building, with connecting tunnels for the House Office Building, the Capitol, and the Library of Congress, and has since been extended to the Government Printing Office and the Washington City Post Office, with steam lines extended to serve the new House Office Building, the Supreme Court Building, the Annex to the Library of Congress, and the relocated Botanic Garden.

In 1935 Congress authorized the air conditioning of the Capitol, Senate, and House Office Buildings and provided therefor an appropriation of $2,550,000 and, in 1937, an additional amount of $1,672,000, including authorization for construction of a central refrigeration plant to serve the systems. An addition to the power plant building, 123 feet 2 inches long, 79 feet 6 inches wide, with a height of 37 feet 10 inches, was constructed to house the refrigeration plant. This plant, which was placed in operation May 3, 1938, is, as of March 1939, the largest central station water-cooling plant ever constructed. Its huge pumps carry chilled water through large supply mains to the four buildings served. The refrigerating capacity of the plant may best be described in terms of the melting of a block of ice 50 feet by 50 feet and the height of a seven-story building every 24 hours.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

ORIGIN AND FORM OF GOVERNMENT

The District of Columbia was established under the authority and direction of acts of Congress approved July 16, 1790, and March 3, 1791, which were passed to give effect to a clause in the eighth section of the first article of the Constitution of the United States giving Congress the power—

"To exercise exclusive Legislation in all Cases whatsoever, over such District (not exceeding ten Miles square) as may, by Cession of particular States, and the Acceptance of Congress, become the Seat of the Government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all Places purchased by the Consent of the Legislature of the State in which the Same shall be, for the erection of Forts, Magazines, Arsenals, dock-Yards, and other needful Buildings;—"

The States of Maryland and Virginia made cessions contemplated by this clause in the years 1788 and 1789, respectively. From the cessions tendered by the two States was selected the territory for the permanent seat of the General Government. This territory was 10 miles square, lying on either side of the Potomac River at the head of navigation. Later, 1846, Congress retroceded to Virginia that portion ceded by it. The Maryland or retained portion is approximately 70 square miles.

The seat of government of the United States was first definitely named by the clause in the act entitled "An act providing a permanent form of government for the District of Columbia," approved June 11, 1878, as follows: "That all territory which was ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States, for the permanent seat of government of the United States, shall continue to be designated as the District of Columbia" (20 Stat. 102), although it had been incidentally mentioned as such in several preceding statutes.

The land within the ceded territory was owned by a number of people. In Georgetown, President Washington negotiated with the proprietors or landowners of that portion of the ceded territory selected as the site of the city of Washington, which comprised about 10 percent of the area of the present District of Columbia. On the second day, March 30, 1791, he concluded an agreement which was put in writing and signed by the proprietors. By it the President was given sole power to lay off streets as he pleased. These proprietors conveyed their holdings to trustees named by the President to hold title to the same during the laying out of the Federal city and then convey as agreed to the United State and the proprietors, respectively. Under this agreement the proprietors donated to the United States all of the lands for the streets and one-half of the city lots throughout the entire city. Sites reserved by the United States for the public buildings, parks, and other public purposes were paid for by the United States in Maryland money the equivalent to $66.66 per acre. Such payment, amounting to $36,099, was made out of the proceeds from the sale of some of the lots which these proprietors had donated to the United States. This was the only purchase price paid by the United States for any part of the entire acquisition of 5,128 acres for the purpose of building the Capital City.

The land within the original city of Washington comprised a total of 6,111 acres and was divided to the United States 4,147 acres—3,606 acres for streets and 541 acres for public purposes. The remaining 1,964 acres was divided into squares and the squares into lots. The whole number of lots was 20,272—10,136 to the United States and the same number to the proprietors.

Thomas Jefferson, then Secretary of State, declared the liberality of the proprietors was "noble."

The United States lots were sold from time to time, chiefly before 1800 and up to 1835, and brought $741,024.45 (S. Doc. 247, 64th Cong., 1st sess., p. 23). This was a considerable sum as compared with the average annual income of the Federal Government during the 12 years from 1789 to 1800, it being about 13 percent of that average of about $5,600,000. The lots which still remained the property of the United States after gifts of them to charitable and literary institutions were sold about September 1865 for a moderate sum.

The proceeds from the sales of the Government lots were largely applied to the erection of the original Government buildings and improvements in their immediate neighborhood. The funds for these buildings were supplemented by grants of $120,000 by the State of Virginia and $72,000 by the State of Maryland (H. R. Report 269, 21st Cong., 1st sess., Doc. No. 5, p. 47). Both President Washington and President Jefferson expected the sale of these lots, if properly conserved, would not only provide ample funds for the erection of the public buildings without charge upon the lean Federal Treasury but would leave what Jefferson termed "the residuary interest of the city" which was intended to be used for streets and other city improvements. The failure of the Government to make these expected improvements so retarded the appreciation of values of the lots that the Government's prospective income from this source fell far short of expectations. The landowners who had so generously given their land to the Government as well as those who had been induced to purchase failed to realize the enhancement of value of their lots because of the failure of expected abutting and community improvements. The faith of Mr. Jefferson and the proprietors matched, but their fond hopes were not realized. The original proprietor of the land whereon is the Capitol Building, Daniel Carroll, of Duddington, in 1837 wrote "that the unfortunate proprietors are generally brought to ruin," who "were so wild as to suppose that the donation was so great the Government might pave the streets with ingots of gold or silver."

The city was planned and partly laid out by Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant, a French engineer. This work was perfected and completed by Maj. Andrew Ellicott. The building of the city and the erection of the public buildings was in charge of three commissioners selected by the President and subject to his direction.

When the Government establishment was moved in 1800 there existed within the 10 miles square two municipal corporations; the corporation of the city of Alexandria, incorporated by Virginia; and the corporation of the city of Georgetown, incorporated by Maryland.

The act of February 27, 1801, was the first legislation by Congress for the government of the District of Columbia following the removal to the permanent seat of government. While this act failed to set up a complete local government, it declared all of the laws of the States of Maryland and Virginia as then existing to be in force in the parts of the District ceded by the respective States. It created two counties, Washington County being the area outside of the cities of Washington and Georgetown on the Maryland side of the river and Alexandria County being the area beyond the limits of the city of Alexandria on the Virginia side of the river. It also created the circuit court, the office of marshal of the District, the office of United States attorney for the District, justices of the peace for the two counties, a register of wills, and a judge of the orphan's court (2 Stat. 103).

The first government of the city of Washington consisted of a mayor appointed by the President of the United States and a city council elected by the people of the city. This was in 1802. The act chartering the city of Washington also created the levy courts, consisting originally of the justices of the peace of the respective counties (2 Stat. 115; 2 Stat. 773; 3 Stat. 195; 9 Stat. 230; 12 Stat. 384). The levy courts were given broad administrative powers over the counties of Washington and Alexandria, but had no judicial functions. At a later date the levy court of Washington County was composed of nine members appointed by the President (12 Stat. 799). Thus, there were within the 10 miles square five distinct local administrative units, namely (1) the corporation of Washington, (2) the corporation of Georgetown, (3) the county of Washington, (4) the corporation of Alexandria, and (5) the county of Alexandria. These were reduced to three units in 1846 with the retrocession of Alexandria city and county to the State of Virginia (9 Stat. 35; 9 Stat. 1000). The members of the city councils of the three municipalities were elected as were the mayors of Georgetown and Alexandria. In 1812 the city council was permitted to elect the mayor of Washington and in 1820 and thereafter the mayor was elected by the people (3 Stat. 583). The term of the mayor of Washington was for 2 years. This government continued until 1871.

By an act of Congress of February 21, 1871, the corporation of Washington, the corporation of Georgetown, and the levy court for Washington County were abolished and the administration consolidated into a so-called territorial form of government. This government consisted of a governor, a board of public works, and a legislative assembly. This legislative assembly consisted of a council of 11 members and a house of delegates of 22 members. The District then also had a Delegate in the House of Representatives of the United States. The Governor, the board of public works, and council were appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The 22 members of the house of delegates and the Delegate in Congress were elected by the people. The District had a Delegate in Congress until March 4, 1875.

This form of government lasted for 3 years, until June 20, 1874, when Congress provided that the District should be governed by three commissioners, appointed by the President. This was known as the temporary form of government and lasted until July 1, 1878, when the present permanent commission government was set up (18 Stat. 116). In the creation of the temporary commission form of government in 1874 and the permanent form in 1878 no provision was made for the franchise, and for the first time in three-quarters of a century no part of the District exercised the right of suffrage. The present form of government was created by act of Congress approved June 11, 1878 (20 Stat. 102).

The District of Columbia has an area of 69.245 square miles, of which 60.1 square miles are land. The river boundary is high-water mark along the Virginia shore of the Potomac River.

The local government of the District of Columbia is a municipal corporation having jurisdiction over the territory which was "ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States for the permanent seat of the Government of the United States" (20 Stat. 102). This government is administered by a board of three Commissioners having general equal powers and duties (20 Stat. 103).

Two of these Commissioners, who must have been actual residents of the District for 3 years next before their appointment and have during that period claimed residence nowhere else, are appointed from civil life by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate for the term of 3 years each and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

The other Commissioner is detailed from time to time by the President of the United States from the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army, and shall not be required to perform any other military duty (ib.). This Commissioner shall be selected from the captains or officers of higher grade having served at least 15 years in the Corps of Engineers of the Army of the United States (26 Stat. 1113).

Three officers of the same corps, junior to said Commissioner, may be detailed to assist him by the President of the United States (26 Stat. 246). The senior officer of the Corps of Engineers of the Army, who for the time being be detailed to act as assistant (and in case of his absence from the District, or disability, the junior officer so detailed), shall, in event of the absence from the District or disability of the Commissioner, who shall for the time being be detailed from the Corps of Engineers, perform all the duties imposed by law upon said Commissioner (26 Stat. 1113).

One of said Commissioners shall be chosen president of the Board of Commissioners at their first meeting and annually and whenever a vacancy shall occur (20 Stat. 103).

The Commissioners are in a general way vested with jurisdiction covering all the ordinary features of municipal government and are also members of the Zoning Commission (37 Stat. 974).

The expenditures of the District of Columbia are based upon estimates prepared annually by the Commissioners and submitted by them to Congress through the Bureau of the Budget. To the extent to which it shall approve of said estimates, Congress shall appropriate a portion out of the Treasury of the United States. The remainder of the amount of such approved estimates shall be levied and assessed upon the taxable property and privileges in said District other than the property of the United States and of the District of Columbia (act approved June 11, 1878; 20 Stat. 104). "All taxes collected shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States, and the same as well as the appropriations to be made by the Congress as aforesaid shall be disbursed for the expenses of said District, on itemized vouchers, which have been audited and approved by the auditor of the District of Columbia, certified by said Commissioners or a majority of them" (ib. 105). This act also provided that the cost of operation, development, and maintenance of the District of Columbia should be borne jointly by the United States and the District of Columbia upon a 50–50 basis. This ratio was in 1922 changed to a payment of 60 percent from the revenues of the District of Columbia and 40 percent by the United States and this provision was repealed by act of Congress approved May 16, 1938. For several years this legal ratio has been superseded in practice by an annual lump sum appropriation of from $9,000,000 to $9,500,000 and for the fiscal year 1939, $5,000,000 by the United States, the remainder of the local expenses being borne by the revenues of the District of Columbia derived from taxation of private property and privileges. For the past several years the Federal contribution has been approximately from 22 to 18 percent of the total District budget, while the money raised through local taxation represents approximately from 78 to 82 percent.

Congress has by sundry statutes empowered the Commissioners to make building regulations; plumbing regulations; to make and enforce all such reasonable and usual police regulations as they may deem necessary for the protection of lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of all persons, and the protection of all property within the District, and other regulations of a municipal nature.

While the District has a municipal form of government, Congress by various statutory enactments has treated it as a branch of the United States Government by including it in legislation applying to the executive departments, such as the Budget and Accounting Act, the act classifying the salaries of Federal employees, and the act providing for retirement of Federal employees.

All legislation affecting the District of Columbia must be passed by Congress under the provisions of the Constitution. The advice of the Commissioners is usually asked before such legislation is enacted.

OFFICIAL DUTIES

OFFICIAL DUTIES

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

SECRETARY OF STATE

The Secretary of State, who is the highest ranking Cabinet member, is charged under the direction of the President, with the conduct of negotiations of whatever character relating to the foreign affairs of the United States, and has charge of the correspondence with the diplomatic and consular representatives of the United States and with the representatives of foreign powers accredited to the United States. The Secretary of State grants and issues passports to nationals of the United States. Exequaturs to foreign consuls in the United States are issued through his office. He prescribes, promulgates, and administers regulations under treaties and laws governing international traffic in arms. He has custody of the seal of the United States, of current records relating to presidential electors, and of the originals of acts and resolutions of Congress subsequent to the Sixty-seventh Congress, and treaties, conventions, and other international agreements of the United States subsequent to August 14, 1906, and proclamations thereof by the President. He certifies the adoption of amendments to the Constitution of the United States. He publishes the acts and resolutions of Congress, Territorial papers, treaties and other international acts of the United States, and papers relating to the foreign relations of the United States.

UNDER SECRETARY OF STATE

The Under Secretary of State is one of the two principal assistants to the Secretary of State in the discharge of his various functions, aiding in the formulation and execution of the foreign policy of the Government and the reception of representatives of foreign governments and in other work of a highly responsible character. He gives especial attention to political relations with foreign governments. In the absence of the Secretary of State he becomes Acting Secretary of State.

COUNSELOR OF THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE

The Counselor of the Department of State is one of the two principal assistants to the Secretary of State in the discharge of his various functions, aiding in the formulation and execution of the foreign policies of the Government and the reception of representatives of foreign governments and in work of a highly responsible character. He gives especial attention to such important phases of our foreign relations as may be assigned to him by the Secretary of State. In the absence of the Secretary of State and the Under Secretary of State he becomes Acting Secretary of State.

The assistant to the Counselor is charged with the performance of research studies in matters relating to the formulation and execution of the foreign policies of the Government falling within the jurisdiction of the office of the Counselor, with particular reference to matters of neutrality; with providing the Secretary of State and the Counselor with information pertaining to current questions arising from civil and international armed conflicts; with matters pertaining to certain historical and constitutional questions and the ascertainment of presidential electors; and with assisting the Counselor, generally, in the work of his office.

ASSISTANT SECRETARIES OF STATE

One Assistant Secretary of State is charged with economic, financial, tariff, and general trade questions and such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Secretary of State.

One Assistant Secretary of State is charged with the administration of the Department of State and the Foreign Service and with supervision of matters relating to personnel and management. He is chairman of the Board of Appeals and Review. He is legislative, budget, and fiscal officer, charged with the supervision and preparation of estimates of appropriations of the Department and its several activities, their presentation to the Congress, and the allotments and expenditures of appropriations when made. He has supervision also over all matters pertaining to consular affairs, passports, visas, Foreign Service buildings, and international conferences. He is chairman of the Board of Foreign Service Personnel, the Board of Examiners for the Foreign Service, and the Foreign Service Officers' Training School Board.

One Assistant Secretary of State is charged with such duties as may be assigned to him by the Secretary of State.

DIVISION OF MONETARY RESEARCH

The Division of Monetary Research in the Office of the Secretary was established on March 25, 1938. The Division provides information, economic analyses, and recommendations for the use of the Secretary of the Treasury and other Treasury officials to assist in the formulation and execution of the monetary policies of the Department in connection with the stabilization fund and other operations under the Gold Reserve and the Silver Purchase Acts. Analyses are made pertaining to gold and silver, the flow of capital funds into and out of the United States, the position of the dollar in relation to foreign currencies, monetary, banking, and fiscal policies of foreign countries, exchange and trade restrictions abroad, and similar problems. Analyses are also prepared relating to the customs activities of the Department and to the duties of the Secretary of the Treasury under the Tariff Act and on other matters pertaining to international trade, including the trade-agreement program.

PROCUREMENT DIVISION

Public Buildings Branch.—The Public Buildings Branch of the Procurement Division on October 16, 1933, assumed the duties of the former Office of the Supervising Architect in accordance with the provisions of Executive Order No. 6166. dated June 10, 1933.

Under the Procurement Division the functions of the Public Buildings Branch are to collect and prepare for submission to Congress data and estimates for public building projects; to acquire land for public building sites; to determine space requirements and make space assignments in proposed new Federal buildings outside the District of Columbia; to prepare plans and specifications, and estimates for public building construction and to take bids and award contracts therefor; to supervise the construction, remodeling, extension, etc., of public buildings; to repair all public buildings formerly under control of the Treasury Department which were transferred to the custody of the Post Office and Interior Departments under Executive Order No. 6166; to operate, repair, equip, and maintain all public buildings in the custody of the Treasury Department outside of the District of Columbia; to lease and sell surplus Federal real estate; to clear leases of property rented by other Government departments and establishments; and to arrange leases of commercial space to accommodate Federal agencies as contemplated by section 3 of Public Act No. 351, approved August 27, 1935.

Branch of Supply.—The Branch of Supply is charged with the determination of policies and methods of procurement, warehousing, and distribution of Government property, facilities, structures, improvements, machinery, equipment, stores, and supplies; the performance of all activities incident to the purchase in definite quantities of those supplies for which requirements can be anticipated and consolidated; to contract for those supplies of the departments and establishments for which requirements cannot be consolidated in definite quantity purchase but for which common contracts can be made with advantage to the Government; to receive, warehouse, and distribute to the departments and establishments supplies maintained as stock items in the Federal Warehouse.

In addition to these definite purchasing and warehousing functions, the Branch of Supply is responsible for:

(a) The preparation and maintenance of the Federal Standard Stock Catalog.

(b) The preparation and distribution of Federal specifications.

(c) The coordination of all matters pertaining to contract forms and general policies pertaining to contract procedure.

(d) The coordination of the Government's freight, express, and other traffic activities within the continental limits of the United States.

(e) The coordination and supervision of the disposition of surplus property in Washington and in the field and to coordinate and supervise the disposition of property seized and forfeited under the Federal Alcohol Act and the Liquor Law Repeal and Enforcement Act of 1935 and firearms seized and forfeited under the National Firearms Act.

(f) The performance of all activities incident to the acquisition, assignment, and disposal of all motor equipment of the Treasury Department and the maintenance, repair, and garaging of such equipment of the Treasury Department located in the District of Columbia.

(g) The procurement, storage, and distribution of fuel (coal, coke, charcoal, fuel oil, wood, etc.) to all Federal and District Government buildings and establishments (except the Washington Navy Yard) in and adjacent to the District of Columbia.

(h) The repair and servicing of typewriting machines in Washington for the various Government departments and independent establishments and the Government of the District of Columbia.

(i) Supervision of 124 Federal business associations in the larger cities of the United States actively functioning as agencies of the Director of Procurement for the purpose of promoting cooperation among local Federal activities, with the object of effecting economies and increasing efficiency in the transaction of routine business of the Government, as well as assisting the Procurement Division in specific projects assigned them.

SECRET SERVICE DIVISION

This division, under the Chief of Secret Service, is charged with the protection of the President of the United States, his family, and the President-elect at all times and under all conditions. The White House police force is also under the control and supervision of the Chief of the Secret Service. A major function is the detection, arrest, and delivery to the marshal having jurisdiction of persons engaged in counterfeiting, forging, or altering of any of the obligations or other securities, as well as coins, of the United States or of foreign governments.

A staff of trained investigators is maintained for the purposes described above and to investigate violations of the Federal Farm Loan Act, Federal Farm Credit Act of 1935, War Finance Corporation Act, section 704 of the World War Adjusted Compensation Act, Gold Reserve Act of 1934, offenses against the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation named in section 12–B of the Banking Act of 1935 and covered by sections 112–117 of the Criminal Code (U. S. C., title 18, secs. 202 to 207), counterfeiting of Government transportation requests (act of December 11, 1926), and of liquor revenue stamps in violation of the Liquor Taxing Act of 1934, forgery of Government checks, thefts of Government property, investigations to establish responsibility of bidders on Government contracts, losses of insured shipments of Government securities, and certain investigations in connection with the Works Progress Administration. In addition, other crimes against the laws of the United States relating to the Treasury Department and the several branches of the public service under its control are investigated by the Secret Service, as the Secretary of the Treasury may direct. A uniformed force safeguards the paper currency and other Government securities and obligations during the process of manufacture at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, its transportation to other Government departments in Washington, and in the vaults of the money-handling divisions of the Treasury Department. The force also assists in the enforcement of the rules and regulations of the Department, and has police powers of arrest within the Treasury Buildings and on Government property. An agent of the Secret Service is detailed to supervise this uniformed force.

FEDERAL ALCOHOL ADMINISTRATION

The Federal Alcohol Administration was created by an act of Congress, approved August 29, 1935, entitled "Federal Alcohol Administration Act" (Public, No. 401, 74th Cong.) "to further protect the revenue derived from distilled spirits, wine, and malt beverages, to regulate interstate and foreign commerce and enforce the postal laws with respect thereto, to enforce the twenty-first amendment, and for other purposes." It is organized as a division of the Treasury Department and is headed by an Administrator who is appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

It is the duty of the Administrator to enforce the provisions of the act which prohibit exclusive outlets, "tied houses," commercial bribery, and consignment or conditional sales; to promulgate and enforce regulations relating to misbranding and advertising of distilled spirits, wine, and malt beverages; to enforce the provisions of the act prohibiting the sale of distilled spirits in bulk, except to certain qualified persons; and to prevent the combination through interlocking directorates of business enterprises engaged in the production, importation, or distribution of distilled spirits, wine, or malt beverages, where such combinations tend to burden interstate commerce.

The act requires that all distillers and rectifiers of distilled spirits, producers and blenders of wine, and importers and wholesalers of distilled spirits, wine, and malt beverages secure permits authorizing them to engage in such operations. The Administrator is charged with the duty of issuing permits to properly qualified persons, and is given the authority to revoke or suspend such permits for violation of any of their conditions, which include compliance with the provisions of the act, with the twenty-first amendment, and with all other Federal laws relating to distilled spirits, wine, and malt beverages. Violators of the statute, including brewers who are not required to hold permits, are subject to criminal prosecution and imposition of the penalties provided. It is the Administrator's purpose, through use of the authority conferred upon him by the act, to minimize, insofar as may be possible, the social evils generally associated with the production and sale of distilled spirits, wine, and malt beverages.

An annual report is made to Congress by the Administrator at the beginning of each regular session.

THE UNDER SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY, OFFICES UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has general supervision of the assessment and collection of all internal-revenue taxes and other miscellaneous taxing acts of Congress; the enforcement of internal-revenue laws; and the preparation and distribution of instructions, regulations, forms, blanks, stamps, etc. An annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury covering the activities of this service is made by the Commissioner.

For the purpose of efficient and effective administration of the internal-revenue laws the duties of the Bureau are assigned to various units as follows: Commissioner and Miscellaneous Unit, Income Tax Unit, Miscellaneous Tax Unit, Accounts and Collections Unit, and Alcohol Tax Unit.

The Commissioner and Miscellaneous Unit includes the immediate Office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the Assistant to the Commissioner, the Office of the Special Deputy Commissioner, the Technical Staff, the Intelligence Unit, Personnel Division, Administrative Division, Training Division, and Public Relations Division.

The Income Tax Unit is the agency of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for administering the Federal income and profits tax provisions of the revenue laws. Its duties are to prepare regulations for the administration of such provisions; to receive, audit, and verify the returns covering such taxes; to review and dispose of claims for refund, and to compile statistics from these returns. This unit also administers section 501 (title III) of the Revenue Act of 1936, Unjust Enrichment Tax.

The Miscellaneous Tax Unit is charged with the administration of all internal-revenue tax laws except income and profits taxes, social security taxes, and alcohol taxes, and is also responsible for adjusting and closing cases involving repealed miscellaneous internal-revenue taxes. This unit is also charged with the administration of taxes imposed under the Silver Purchase Act of June 19, 1934, the Bituminous Coal Conservation Act of 1937, approved April 26, 1937, the Sugar Act of 1937, approved September 1, 1937, and the Marihuana Tax Act of 1937, approved August 2, 1937.

The Accounts and Collections Unit is charged with the administration of matters having to do with the organization and management of the offices of collectors of internal revenue, including their field forces; with the administration of the taxing provisions of titles VIII and IX of the Social Security Act, approved August 18, 1935, and the Carriers Taxing Act of 1937, approved June 29, 1937; and with the administrative audit of revenue and disbursing accounts in the Internal Revenue Bureau and Service. It also issues stamps to collectors of internal revenue.

The Alcohol Tax Unit is charged with the administration of the internal-revenue laws relating to supervision of production and warehousing, and the tax payment of distilled spirits, alcohol, wines, fermented liquors, cereal beverages, and denatured alcohol. This Unit is also charged with the duty of detecting and prosecuting persons violating the statutes relating to these articles.

There are three main divisions of the Field Service, as follows: The Collection Service, the Field Audit Service, and the Supervisory Field Service of Alcohol Tax Unit.

In addition to the three aforementioned major field activities, there are the following field forces whose activities are supervised from Washington: Technical Staff Divisions, Intelligence Agents, Supervisors of Accounts and Collections, Miscellaneous and Sales Tax Agents, and Field Inspection Service.

BUREAU OF THE COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY

The most important functions of the Comptroller of the Currency are those relating to the organization of new national banks; the general supervision over the national banks in operation; the administration, through receivers, of national banks which have failed.

Reports of condition of national banks are required to be made to the Comptroller by the banks not less than three times a year upon a date fixed by the Comptroller. Under the direction of the Comptroller, national-bank examiners make regular examinations of the affairs of the national banks, showing their condition with reference to solvency and observance of the provisions of the National Bank Act. In case of deliberate violation, suit may be brought in the name of the Comptroller against any such bank for the forfeiture of its charter. If it appears to the Comptroller that any national bank is in an insolvent condition he is empowered to appoint a receiver.

The Comptroller of the Currency is an ex-officio member of the Board of Directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and sits regularly with the Board.

The Comptroller of the Currency is required by law to report directly to Congress annually and to recommend to Congress amendments to the national banking laws.

DIVISION OF TAX RESEARCH

The Division of Tax Research in the Office of the Secretary of the Treasury prepares analyses of taxes and tax systems and makes recommendations thereon to aid the Secretary of the Treasury in the formulation and execution of tax policies. Surveys and economic analyses in the field of taxation are made also for other Treasury officials and, on request, for the Congressional Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation. The Division is responsible for the assembly and publication of all statistical information pertaining to Federal taxation and in this connection exercises general supervision over the work of the Statistical Section of the Income Tax Unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

THE FISCAL ASSISTANT SECRETARY, OFFICES UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF ACCOUNTS AND DEPOSITS

The Office of the Commissioner of Accounts and Deposits has administrative supervision over the Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants and its relations to the office of the Treasurer of the United States, over the Division of Disbursement, over the Division of Deposits, and over the Section of Surety Bonds. It prepares periodic estimates of the future cash position of the Treasury for use of the Department in connection with its financing; prepares calls for the withdrawal of funds from special depositaries to meet current expenditures; directs the transfer of Government funds between Federal Reserve banks when necessary; directs fiscal agency functions in general, including deposits of gold certificates in gold-certificate fund for credit with Federal Reserve banks; supervises collections of principal and interest on foreign obligations; keeps the accounts, and handles generally matters relating to the indebtedness of foreign governments to the United States, including matters arising under funding agreements; supervises collections of railroad obligations owned by the Government and keeps the accounts relating thereto; handles the collection of other obligations owned by the United States which are turned over to the Treasury by other departments for collection; makes payments, keeps accounts, and handles matters generally relating to awards under the settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, under the claims agreement of October 25, 1934, between the United States and Turkey, and under the act of April 10, 1935, covering claims against the Republic of Mexico. The Commissioner likewise has control of the investment accounts of the Government and is responsible for the proper custody of investments and securities held by the Treasurer of the United States and the Federal Reserve banks for which the Secretary is responsible, other than those related to public debt operations. The Commissioner has supervision over the procedure for the maintenance of the system of accounts and disbursements under the Emergency Relief Appropriation Acts of 1935, 1936, 1937, and 1938.

The Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants is by law the official bookkeeping organization of the Government in regard to the receipt, appropriation, and expenditure of public moneys. The accounts and records of disbursements in this Division are on a basis of warrants issued, and differ somewhat from the actual cash expenditures as shown in the daily Treasury statement prepared in the Office of the Treasurer of the United States. This Division makes analyses of acts of Congress carrying appropriations and opens up the necessary appropriation accounts on its ledgers; it issues warrants for placing disbursing funds to the credit of disbursing officers, for the payment by the Treasury of claims settled by the General Accounting Office, and for covering into the Treasury the revenues and receipts of the Government. It handles the work involved in the Secretary's special deposit accounts, including alien property trusts and offers in compromise. It compiles, for submission to the Bureau of the Budget, the estimates of appropriations for the service of the Treasury and also estimates of appropriations required to meet the payment of judgments rendered against the Government by United States district courts and the Court of Claims, and of claims certified by the General Accounting Office as payable from appropriations which have expired by limitation of law. It approves the issuance of duplicates of checks drawn by officers or agents of the United States and maintains a record and handles claims for the proceeds of checks which are outstanding more than 1 year after the fiscal year in which issued. It maintains budgetary accounts relating to apportionments and obligations of funds pertaining to all departments and establishments of the Government, including governmental corporations operating on public funds, pursuant to the provisions of the Executive order of July 27, 1933.

In addition to the above this Division compiles and publishes an annual digest of the appropriations made by Congress and an annual combined statement of the receipts, expenditures, and unexpended balances under each appropriation account.

The Division of Disbursement was created under the Executive Order No. 6166 of June 10, 1933, which provided that the function of disbursement of moneys of the United States exercised by any agency of the Government is transferred to the Treasury Department and consolidated in that Division. The military services of the War and Navy Departments were exempted from the provisions of Executive Order No. 6166 by a subsequent Executive order. The function of disbursement of moneys of the United States in the other departments and agencies in Washington, and in the field, has been taken over and consolidated in this Division with the exception of the Postal Service and United States marshals. Nineteen regional offices have been established in the several Federal Reserve districts for the purpose of performing the disbursing functions outside of Washington for the regular departments and agencies. There have also been established offices in each State to provide disbursing facilities under the Emergency Relief Appropriation Acts of 1935, 1936, 1937, and 1938.

The Division of Deposits is charged with the administration of matters pertaining to designation and supervision of Government depositaries and the deposit of Government funds in such depositaries; i. e., the Federal Reserve banks, general and limited member bank depositaries, and special depositaries under the Liberty Loan acts, foreign depositaries, Territorial depositaries, Federal land banks, and the Philippine treasury; matters pertaining to the qualification of Federal savings and loan associations and Federal credit unions as fiscal agents of the United States under Treasury Circular 568, and matters pertaining to the functions of the Treasury under the Government Losses in Shipment Act.

The Commissioner of Accounts and Deposits has administrative control over surety companies authorized to transact business with the Government; fixes the qualifying power of each company; supervises the audit of the financial statements of the companies quarterly; notifies the companies of the settlement of fiscal officers' accounts under fidelity bonds; and has custody of official bonds running to the Government except those for post-office employees and for certain officials of Federal courts.

PUBLIC DEBT SERVICE

The Public Debt Service, under the Commissioner of the Public Debt, is charged with the conduct of transactions in public debt and paper currency issues of the United States. As agent it also conducts transactions in the interest-bearing issues of the Philippine and Puerto Rican Governments, the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, the Federal Housing Administration; and in the consolidated issues of the Federal farm loan banks. In addition to the Office of the Commissioner, the Service includes the Division of Loans and Currency, the Office of the Register of the Treasury, the Division of Paper Custody, and the Division of Accounts and Audit.

New security issues.—When a new issue of public debt securities is to be offered for subscription, the Public Debt Service prepares the necessary documents incident to the offering, and directs the handling of subscriptions for and allotments of the securities to be issued.

The Division of Loans and Currency is the issuing branch. It receives securities from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, makes original issues, and thereafter conducts exchanges, transfers, conversions, and replacements. It maintains accounts with holders of registered bonds, and prepares checks for payment of interest thereon. It audits redeemed United States paper currency and mutilated work of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

The Office of the Register of the Treasury is the retiring branch. This Office receives, examines, and has custody of securities retired for any account, including paid interest coupons.

The Service is charged with the procurement of distinctive paper required for printing currency and public debt securities and for other purposes, and in connection with its manufacture maintains a field force at the mills of the contractors. The Division of Paper Custody receives the distinctive paper from contractors and issues it to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing as required.

The Division of Accounts and Audit maintains administrative control accounts over all transactions with which the Public Debt Service is charged, and related transactions conducted by the Office of the Treasurer of the United States, and by the Federal Reserve banks acting in their capacities as fiscal agents of the United States. Similar accounts are maintained over transactions in distinctive and nondistinctive paper used in printing public debt and other securities, currency, stamps, etc. It also makes administrative examinations and audits of transactions so conducted and the securities involved. It maintains control accounts over reserve stocks of currency, and conducts administrative examinations and physical audits of such stocks, cash balances in the several divisions of the Treasurer's Office, and collateral securities held in trust by the Treasurer.

OFFICE OF THE TREASURER OF THE UNITED STATES

The Treasurer of the United States is charged with the receipt and disbursement of public moneys that may be deposited in the Treasury at Washington and in the other depositaries authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury to receive deposits of Government funds for credit in the account of the Treasurer of the United States. Funds advanced to disbursing officers for the use of Government departments and establishments under the appropriation of Congress are credited in the accounts of such disbursing officers on the books of the Treasurer, and disbursements therefrom are made by checks drawn on the Treasurer. In his Office are prepared and issued, for the Secretary of the Treasury, the daily Treasury statement of the United States, the monthly preliminary statement of the public debt, and the monthly preliminary statement of classified expenditures of the Government; the monthly statement of the outstanding paper currency of the Government is also published. The Treasury general ledger accounts of the trust fund, the reserve fund, the gold certificate fund, and the general fund, and other important accounts are maintained in his Office. He prepares an annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury. The Treasurer is fiscal agent for the issue and redemption of United States paper currency, for payment of principal and interest on the public debt on obligations the principal and interest of which are fully guaranteed by the United States, for payment of principal and interests on bonds of the Puerto Rican and Philippine governments (of which the Secretary of the Treasury is the transfer agent), and for the redemption of national-bank notes, Federal Reserve notes, and Federal Reserve bank notes. He is treasurer of the board of trustees of the Postal Savings System, trustee for bonds held to secure public deposits in national banks and bonds held to secure postal savings in banks, and custodian of miscellaneous securities and trust funds.

There are in the Office of the Treasurer six divisions: The Chief Clerk, Cashier, Division of Securities, Currency Redemption Division, Division of General Accounts, and Accounting Division, whose duties are indicated in general by their names.

BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING

This Bureau designs, engraves, and prints for the Government, United States currency, bonds, notes, bills, and certificates; Federal Reserve notes; Federal farm loan, joint-stock land bank, consolidated Federal farm loan and Federal farm mortgage bonds; Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds; revenue, customs, and postage stamps; Government, including Emergency Relief Administration, checks; and many other classes of engraved work for governmental use. It performs a similar function for the insular possessions of the Government.

BUREAU OF THE MINT

The Director of the Mint has general supervision of the mints, assay offices, and bullion depositories of the United States; prescribes the rules, subject to approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, for the business transactions of the mints and assay offices, receives daily reports on the operations of the field institutions, directs the coinage to be executed, reviews the accounts, authorizes expenditures, superintends the annual settlements of the several institutions, and makes special examinations of them when deemed necessary. Appointments, removals, and transfers in the mints, assay offices, and bullion depositories are subject to approval of the Director of the Mint.

The Director of the Mint publishes quarterly an estimate of the value of the standard coins of foreign countries for customhouse use and other public purposes; makes an annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury, covering the operations of the Mint Service for the fiscal year and giving statistics of the production of precious metals in the United States and the world for the calendar year. The Director is responsible for all gold and silver assets of the Government which are in custody of the mint.

DIVISION OF SAVINGS BONDS

The function of this Division is to promote the sale of savings bonds.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY IN CHARGE OF CUSTOMS, COAST GUARD, AND NARCOTICS, OFFICES UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF

CUSTOMS SERVICE

The Customs Service was established by the First Congress under the act of July 31, 1789, and subsequently districts and ports were established from time to time by acts of Congress. The act of August 24, 1912 (19 U. S. C. 1), authorized the President to reorganize the Customs Service, abolish ports, and abolish or consolidate districts, and under this authority the present form of field organization was effected by Presidential proclamation of March 3, 1913. The act of August 1, 1914, authorizes the President to arrange the several customs collection districts, abolish ports of entry, and establish new ports as may appear necessary from time to time, provided that the total number of districts and ports, or either of them, does not exceed the number which existed on the date of the passage of the said act.

There are at present 48 customs collection districts, including Puerto Rico but excluding the Virgin Islands, and each district is in charge of a collector of customs. There are seven comptroller districts, with a comptroller of customs at the head of each. The comptrollers check and verify all customs transactions. The customs investigative branch is designated the Customs Agency Service, and its activities are divided into 14 customs agency districts—10 in the United States and 4 in foreign countries. Each district in the United States is under the direction of a supervising customs agent, and each foreign district is under the direction of a Treasury attaché.

The Customs Service is under the direction of the Commissioner of Customs, which office was established by the act of March 3, 1927. This act also created the Bureau of Customs in lieu of the former divisional organization. Under the authority of that act the Secretary of the Treasury has conferred upon the Commissioner of Customs, subject to the general supervision and direction of the Secretary, the powers and duties in regard to the importation and entry of merchandise into or the exportation of merchandise from the United States vested in or imposed upon the Secretary of the Treasury by the Tariff Act of 1930 or any other law, except that regulations and certain classes of decisions require the approval of the Secretary.

The principal functions of the Service are to enter and clear vessels and supervise the discharge of cargo; enter, appraise, classify, and ascertain the quantities of imported merchandise, and assess and collect the duties thereon, or warehouse the merchandise; inspect international traffic by vessel, highway, railway, and air, and patrol the international borders for the purpose of enforcing the customs laws; review and allow or disallow protests by importers against rates or amounts of duties; determine the drawback due on the exportation of articles in the manufacture of which duty-paid imported materials are used, and certify such drawback for payment; prevent the smuggling of contraband, including narcotics, the introduction of prohibited articles, and prevent and detect undervaluations and other frauds on the customs revenue, and apprehend violators of the customs laws; enforce the anti-dumping act, the neutrality laws, and per form certain duties under the Foreign Trade Zones Act (19 U. S. C., ch. 1A, 1934 ed.).

Collectors of customs are field officers of the Department of Commerce in the enforcement of the navigation and shipping laws, and in this capacity document vessels of the United States, collect duties on tonnage, admeasure American vessels for registry, enrollment, or license. The Customs Service also cooperates with other services in the Treasury Department and other executive departments in the enforcement of the preventive, sanitary, and other laws under their respective administrations relating principally to articles brought to this country and in some cases to articles sent out of the country.

COAST GUARD

The act of January 28, 1915, provided that the Coast Guard be created in lieu of the then existing Revenue Cutter Service and the Life Saving Service and be composed of those two organizations. The act also provided that it shall constitute a part of the military forces of the United States, operating under the Treasury Department in time of peace and as a part of the Navy in time of war or when the President shall so direct.

The duties of the Coast Guard are as follows:

(a) Prevention of smuggling and enforcement of customs and all other Federal laws upon the high seas, and the navigable waters of the United States, its Territories and possessions. This authority (except as to prevention of smuggling and enforcement of customs and other specific laws) does not extend to inland waters other than harbors, bays, sounds, and roadsteads along the coasts, and the Great Lakes and connecting waters thereof. These law enforcement duties include: Customs laws; criminal laws; navigation laws—shipping, maritime, anchorage (captains of the port), motorboat, oil-pollution, regattas, and marine parades; conservation laws—fur seals, halibut, whaling, sponge fishing; immigration, quarantine, and neutrality laws; providing transportation facilities to customs and immigration officers in boarding vessels; examining merchant seamen for certificates as lifeboatmen.

(b) Assisting vessels in distress and saving and protecting life and property on the seas and navigable waters of the United States, its Territories and possessions, and along the coasts thereof. This includes flood relief on rivers; destruction and removal of derelicts, wrecks, or other dangers to navigation; international service of ice observation and ice patrol in the North Atlantic Ocean; extending medical and surgical aid to United States vessels engaged in deep-sea fishing; aid to trans-oceanic air commerce; caring for and transporting shipwrecked and destitute persons in Alaska and elsewhere; removing sick or injured sailors or passengers from vessels at sea by airplane, and furnishing medical advice by radio; assisting in keeping navigable channels free of ice; collecting statistics regarding loss of life and property on vessels.

(c) Constitutes a part of the military forces of the United States at all times, operating as a part of the Navy in time of war or when the President shall so direct.

To assist the commandant, who is charged by law with the administration of the Coast Guard, there are established at headquarters: Divisions of Engineering, Inspection, Operations, Finance, Aviation, Personnel, Communications, Intelligence, Procurement and Supplies, and a permanent board.

An annual report, covering the activities of the Coast Guard, is made to the Secretary of the Treasury.

BUREAU OF NARCOTICS

The Commissioner of Narcotics, under the direction and supervision of the Secretary of the Treasury, has general supervision of the enforcement of the Harrison Narcotic Act, the Marihuana Tax Act of 1937, and related statutes, including the administration of the permissive features of the Narcotic Drugs Import and Export Act, and cooperates with the Customs Bureau in the enforcement of the prohibitive features of the latter act. The Commissioner also cooperates (1) with the State Department in the discharge of the international obligations of the United States concerning the traffic in narcotic drugs and (2) with the several States in the suppression of the abuse of narcotic drugs in their respective jurisdictions.

The duties of the Bureau include the investigation and the detection and prevention of violations of the Federal narcotic laws (including the Marihuana Tax Act of 1937), the determination, with the cooperation of the Public Health Service, of quantities of crude opium and coca leaves to be imported into the United States for medical and legitimate uses, and the issuance of permits to import the crude narcotic drugs and to export drugs and preparations manufactured therefrom under the law and regulations. An annual report is made to Congress which also serves the purpose of the special report heretofore prepared in the Bureau on behalf of the Government for transmittal through the State Department to the nations signatory to the International Drug Conventions of 1912 and 1931.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY IN CHARGE OF PUBLIC HEALTH, OFFICE UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

The headquarters of the Public Health Service at Washington comprises eight divisions and the Chief Clerk's Office, the operations of which are coordinated and are under the immediate supervision of the Surgeon General, who makes an annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury on the activities of the Service.

The National Institute of Health is the research division of the Public Health Service, and conducts the scientific investigations of the Service. Through the Institute, the Department enforces the act of July 1, 1902, to regulate the sale of viruses, serums, toxins, and analogous products, including arsphenamine. The National Cancer Institute, created by act of August 5, 1937, functions as one of the divisions of the National Institute of Health.

The Division of Foreign and Insular Quarantine and Immigration administers the quarantine laws of the United States concerned with the prevention of the introduction of human contagious or infectious diseases from foreign ports into the United States, together with the observation of the provisions of the Pan-American Sanitary Code and the International Sanitary Convention of Paris, 1926, International Sanitary Convention for Aerial Navigation, and supervises the medical examination of intending immigrants conducted at certain American consulates abroad and at ports of entry in the United States and its insular possessions.

The activities of the Division of Domestic Quarantine include the following: (1) Enforcement of the Interstate Quarantine Regulations, with special reference to the control of water supplies used on interstate carriers and the sanitation of shellfish shipped in interstate commerce; (2) assistance to State and local health authorities in the enforcement of State and local laws and regulations; (3) cooperation with the State health authorities in preventing the spread of epidemic diseases; (4) assistance to State health departments in the development and maintenance of adequate public health services, including training of personnel as authorized under title VI of the Social Security Act; (5) cooperation with other establishments of the Federal Government in matters pertaining to public health engineering and sanitation; (6) annual conference of State and Territorial health officers with the Surgeon General.

The Division of Sanitary Reports and Statistics collects and publishes information regarding the prevalence and geographic distribution of diseases dangerous to the public health in the United States and foreign countries. The section on public health education cooperates with the State, local, and volunteer health agencies to extend health educational service throughout the United States.

Through the Division of Marine Hospitals and Relief, hospital and outpatient treatment is given at 26 marine hospitals and 131 other relief stations to legal beneficiaries who are chiefly seamen from American merchant vessels, Coast Guard personnel, patients of the Veterans' Administration, of the Employees' Compensation Commission, immigrants, and persons afflicted with leprosy. Physical examinations are made for the Civil Service Commission, shipping commissioners, and other Government agencies.

The Division of Personnel and Accounts attends to matters relating to personnel and the maintenance of personnel records; convenes boards for the examination or discipline of medical officers and other personnel; is responsible for all bookkeeping and accounting in connection with appropriations; and maintains and supervises property records.

The Division of Venereal Diseases was created by act of Congress in July 1918 (1) to study and investigate the cause, treatment, and prevention of venereal diseases; (2) to cooperate with State boards or departments of health for the prevention and control of such diseases within the States; and (3) to control and prevent the spread of these diseases in interstate traffic. Clinical and laboratory studies are conducted which pertain especially to the cause, treatment, prevalence, and prevention of syphilis and gonorrhea and are carried on both independently and in cooperation with other agencies. Among numerous cooperative activities may be included educational and informative measures and the study and institution of effective programs directed against the venereal diseases.

The Division of Mental Hygiene (formerly the Narcotics Division—name changed by act of June 14, 1930) is charged with the responsibility of administering the two narcotic farms; conducting studies of the nature of drug addiction and the best methods of treatment and rehabilitation of addicts; making studies of the quantities of narcotic drugs necessary to supply the normal and emergency medicinal and scientific requirements of the United States; conducting studies of the causes, prevalence, and means for the prevention and treatment of mental and nervous diseases; and supervising and furnishing medical and psychiatric service in the Federal penal and correctional institutions under the control of the Department of Justice (act of May 13, 1930).

The Chief Clerk and Administrative Officer has supervision of clerical personnel, office quarters and space assignments, the Public Health Service library, official files and records, mail, supplies of stationery to headquarters and field service, printing and binding for entire service, and procurement of office equipment for headquarters.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT TO THE SECRETARY, OFFICES UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF CLERK

The Chief Clerk, under the direction of the Secretary through his Administrative Assistant, is charged with the enforcement of departmental regulations of a general nature, and is custodian of sites for proposed public buildings in Washington.

He has supervision of the several service units, such as telephone, telegraph, duplicating, and motor messengers.

The Chief Clerk has administrative jurisdiction of the contingent appropriation and other miscellaneous appropriations, as well as the appropriations for Government exhibits at various expositions. He has the custody of the completed records and files of the Secretary's office and of the Treasury seal, and handles requests for certified copies of official papers.

He is chairman of the personnel committee of the Treasury and classification officer for the Department, and has general supervision of the assignment of annual efficiency ratings of the Treasury personnel.

In addition to the duties described above, the Chief Clerk has charge of the unassigned business of the Secretary's office.

DIVISION OF APPOINTMENTS

This Division has supervision over matters relating to appointments and other changes in the personnel of the departmental and field services of the Treasury Department, including negotiations with the Civil Service Commission. It prepares nominations and commissions of Presidential officers and arranges bonds required for Treasury officials. The Division has supervision over the work connected with the retirement and retention of employees under the retirement law, and keeps a record of leave granted to employees in the Department in Washington.

DIVISION OF PRINTING

The Division of Printing transacts all of the Treasury Department's printing and binding business with the Government Printing Office and outside contractors; approves requisitions for stationery supplies used by the Department; authorizes engraving work to be done by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for all Government departments and establishments unless money, securities, or postage stamps are involved, and has control over newspaper and periodical advertising for the Treasury Department; the binding of confidential Department records and the warehousing and distribution of blank books and forms for Washington and field offices of the Department. The Division also edits and prepares copy for weekly issues of "Treasury Decisions" under customs, internal revenue, narcotics, and other laws; prepares semiannual bound volumes thereof and maintains a mailing list for their distribution. Appropriations to the Department for printing and binding and for purchases of stationery supplies are under the administrative control of the Division.

CORRESPONDENCE DIVISION

This Division maintains control of all secretarial mail, including contacts with all branches of the Department in connection with official correspondence, both incoming and outgoing; prepares letters for the signature of the Secretary and routes others to the proper officials; has charge of the stenographic pool for the Secretary's office; performs such special duties as are assigned from time to time.

OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF TREASURY BUILDINGS

The Superintendent of Treasury Buildings, under the direction of the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary, is charged with direct responsibility for the maintenance and operation of all Treasury buildings in the District of Columbia except the buildings of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

COMMITTEE ON ENROLLMENT AND DISBARMENT

The Committee on Enrollment and Disbarment receives applications for admission to practice before the Treasury Department and for customhouse brokers' licenses. The committee passes upon such applications, enrolls applicants to practice before the Department, and issues customhouse brokers' licenses. The committee conducts hearings in disbarment proceedings, on complaints filed by the attorney for the Government, who represents the Department before the committee, and makes recommendations to the Secretary. Records in proceedings aimed at the revocation of customhouse brokers' licenses are referred to the committee for its recommendations.

PROCESSING TAX BOARD OF REVIEW

The Board of Review is an organization in the Treasury Department (independent of other bureaus and divisions in the Department) established by law to review and decide appeals of claimants from disallowances by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue of claims for refund of processing taxes paid. The Secretary of the Treasury appoints the members of the Board and assigns to it such personnel as may be necessary to perform its functions.

BUREAU OF THE BUDGET

The Bureau of the Budget, which was created by the Budget and Accounting Act, approved June 10, 1921, is in the Treasury Department but under the immediate direction of the President. The act requires the various Departments and establishments to submit to the Bureau by September 15 of each year their estimates of appropriation for the following fiscal year. The Bureau then conducts hearings on these estimates for the purpose of determining the amounts and textual character of the estimates to be recommended to the President for submission to Congress in the annual budget. This procedure applies also to supplemental or deficiency appropriation estimates not included in the budget document.

Under Budget Circular No. 344, of November 15, 1937, recommendations or reports on proposed or pending legislation (other than private relief legislation) requested from or advanced by any executive department or establishment are submitted to the Bureau of the Budget before submission to Congress. The Bureau then advises the submitting agency of the relationship of the legislation, or of the report or recommendation thereon, to the program of the President, which advice is included in the report or recommendation subsequently submitted to Congress. As a corollary to this function, the Bureau examines legislation that reaches enrolled bill form, obtains reports thereon from the Departments and establishments, and makes recommendation to the President for approval or disapproval of the legislation.

The Bureau is authorized by section 209 of the Budget and Accounting Act of 1921 to make detailed studies of the Departments and establishments, when so directed by the President, for the purpose of enabling him to determine what changes should be made, in the interest of economy and efficiency, in their organization and methods of operation.

To the Director of the Bureau were transferred by Executive Order No. 6166, dated June 10, 1933, the functions of making, waiving, and modifying apportionments of appropriations, formerly exercised by the heads of the Departments and establishments. Public Resolution No. 57, approved May 11, 1922, confers on the Director of the Bureau the authority to approve the use of printing and binding appropriations for the printing of journals, magazines, periodicals, and similar publications.

FEDERAL BOARD OF HOSPITALIZATION

(Reports through Director of the Bureau of the Budget)

Composed of the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs, who shall be the chairman of the Board, the Surgeon General of the Army, the Surgeon General of the Navy, the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, the Superintendent of the St. Elizabeths Hospital, the Solicitor General of the United States, the Assistant Administrator of Veterans' Affairs in charge of medical and domiciliary care, and the special representative of the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs on matters pertaining to national homes; created by Executive order promulgated by Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 46 of November 9, 1921 (subsequently superseded by Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 146 of Oct. 24, 1924, as amended by Circular No. 282 of July 28, 1930), for the purpose of coordinating the separate hospitalization activities of the Medical Department of the Army, the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery of the Navy, the Public Health Service, St. Elizabeths Hospital, the Office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and the Veterans' Administration. It is the duty of the board (a) to recommend general plans of operation designed to knit together in proper coordination the hospitalization activities of the several departments and establishments, with a view to increasing the usefulness and efficiency of the several organizations so as to achieve the maximum of service and economy in operation, maintenance, and betterments; (b) to give consideration and make recommendation of questions which may arise concerning the proper coordination of hospitalization facilities, with particular reference to the use of existing facilities, the construction of additional facilities, and the standardization and utilization of supplies.

DEPARTMENT OF WAR

SECRETARY OF WAR

The Secretary of War is head of the War Department, and performs such duties as are required of him by law or may be enjoined upon him by the President.

He is charged by law with the supervision of all estimates of appropriations for the expenses of the Department, including the Military Establishment; of all purchases of Army supplies; of all expenditures for the support, transportation, and maintenance of the Army; and of such expenditures of a civil nature as may be placed by Congress under his direction.

He is responsible for the proper execution of the provisions of the National Defense Act of 1920. He is held responsible for the protection of our seacoast harbors and cities; for the development of improved weapons and matériel; for the proper instruction of all military personnel; for the discipline and morale of the Military Establishment; for the defense of, and the administration of government in, those insular possessions that come under his jurisdiction.

He directs the activities of the Corps of Engineers in the improvement of the waterways of the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, including examinations, surveys, and economic studies of harbors and streams for the formulation of improvement projects. He recommends to Congress definite plans for improvement and makes contracts for the execution of the physical works required to make our waterways capable of meeting the needs of constantly expanding inland, coastwise, and foreign commerce.

He is charged with the formulation and execution of plans for flood control on inland rivers, power and irrigation development, and the survey and charting of the Great Lakes.

He is responsible for surveys of international boundary waters, the interoceanic survey (Nicaragua Canal route), and the construction of national monuments and memorials. He is also charged with the establishment of harbor lines, approval of plans for the construction of bridges, and issue of permits for wharves, piers, and other works upon navigable waters; investigation, in cooperation with the Federal Power Commission, of water-power projects; the removal of wrecks from navigable waters; the regulation of the operation of drawbridges, establishment and regulation of anchorage grounds, regulation of the use of navigable waters of the United States, the preservation of the American Falls of Niagara, and the administration of matters pertaining to the participation of the United States in the Niagara Control Board.

He is responsible for the defense, maintenance, care, and operation of the Panama Canal. This responsibility requires that he not only provide for the transit of ships from one ocean to the other but also for their repair, fueling, supplies, and foodstuffs, and the care and hospitalization of ships' personnel and passengers. The organization under his charge has supervision over public health, quarantine, and immigration service, customs, post offices, police and fire protection, hydrographic and meteorological observations, steamboat inspection, aids to navigation, construction and maintenance of roads, streets, water supply, and sewers.

He exercises jurisdiction over the civil affairs of the Philippine Islands.

He is president of the National Forest Reservation Commission, which is authorized to purchase such forested cut-over or denuded lands within the watersheds of navigable streams as in its judgment may be necessary to the regulation of stream flow or for the production of timber.

He supervises the activities of the Inland Waterways Corporation as authorized by the requirements of the Denison Act (Public, No. 801, 70th Cong.), which created this agency to complete our national transportation system and make possible the coordination of rail, water, air, motor, and pipe-line transportation.

He approves the purchase of supplies and equipment necessary for the operation of the barge lines, the location and erection of terminals, the terms and conditions of sales and leases to private management of the transportation facilities of any unit belonging to the corporation, and improvement and development projects for over 30,000 miles of inland waterways being improved and coordinated by the Inland Waterways Corporation.

He supervises the maintenance and conduct of the United States Military Academy at West Point and is responsible for all matters relating to leases, revocable licenses, and all other privileges upon lands under the control of the War Department.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR

The Assistant Secretary of War is charged with supervision of the procurement of all military supplies and other business of the War Department pertaining thereto, including the manufacture or production at the Government arsenals or Government-owned factories of the United States of all such supplies or articles needed by the War Department as such arsenals or factories are capable of manufacturing or producing upon an economical basis; and the assurance of adequate provision for the mobilization of matériel and industrial organizations essential to war-time needs. He is charged with supervising and acting upon matters pertaining to the purchase, lease, and sale of real estate, including leases, licenses, easements, and rights of way to others; the sale of surplus supplies, equipment, plants, land or other facilities, including engineer property pertaining to rivers and harbors; claims, foreign or domestic, by or against the War Department; clemency cases in litigation or remission of sentence by courts martial; matters relating to national cemeteries; activities relating to the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice and Civilian Marksmanship; permits for construction of bridges and laying of submarine cables; and the use of patent rights by the War Department and Army.

The current procurement branch of his office deals with all matters relating to the supervision of procurement of supplies in time of peace; the planning branch is responsible for plans for wartime procurement of supplies and for industrial mobilization planning; other matters are acted upon by members of his executive staff.

He supervises the Army Industrial College.

He is the Army member of the Army and Navy Munitions Board, the Navy member of that Board being the Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT

Assists the Secretary of War in directing the administration of the Department, Panama Canal, and Inland Waterways Corporation.

Is chief executive officer of the Department and has administrative direction of the divisions of the Office of the Secretary of War.

Has charge of the records and files, and supervision of the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the official mail and correspondence of the Secretary's office.

Acts upon appointments and all changes affecting status of civilian employees in the Department and its field services. Has charge of the following: Printing and binding and newspaper advertising for the War Department and the Army; expenditures from the War Department appropriations for contingent expenses, stationery, and postage; and allotment of office space assigned for the use of the Department in Washington.

WAR DEPARTMENT GENERAL STAFF

The War Department General Staff is organized under the provisions of the act approved June 4, 1920 (as amended).

The Chief of Staff is the immediate adviser of the Secretary of War on all matters relating to the Military Establishment and is charged by the Secretary of War with the planning, development, and execution of the Army program. He causes the War Department General Staff to prepare the necessary plans for recruiting, mobilizing, organizing, supplying, equipping, and training the Army for use in the national defense and for demobilization. As the agent and in the name of the Secretary of War he issues such orders as will insure that the plans of the War Department are harmoniously executed by all branches and agencies of the Military Establishment and that the Army program is carried out speedily and efficiently.

The War Department General Staff is charged with the preparation of plans as outlined above, including those for the mobilization of the manhood of the Nation in an emergency. It investigates and reports upon questions affecting the efficiency of all branches of the Army and their state of preparation for military operations. As prescribed by section 5 of the National Defense Act, as amended by the act of June 15, 1933, it formulates all policies and regulations affecting:

(1) The organization and distribution of the National Guard of the United States, and the organization, distribution, and training of the National Guard, through committees to which are added an equal number of officers of the National Guard of the United States.

(2) The organization, distribution, training, appointment, assignment, promotion, and discharge of members of the Officers' Reserve Corps, the Organized Reserves, and the Enlisted Reserve Corps, through committees to which are added an equal number of officers from the Officers' Reserve Corps.

(3) When such policies or regulations affect all three components the committees consist of an equal representation from the Regular Army, the National Guard of the United States, and the Officers' Reserve Corps.

It performs such other military duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be from time to time prescribed by the President, and renders professional aid and assistance to the Secretary of War and the Chief of Staff.

The Deputy Chief of Staff assists the Chief of Staff and acts for him in his absence. He reports directly to the Secretary of War in all matters not involving the establishment of important policies. In addition to his other duties, he is charged with supervision over the activities of all the divisions of the War Department General Staff.

The War Department General Staff includes the following divisions, each division being under the immediate control of an Assistant Chief of Staff: Personnel Division (First Division); Military Intelligence Division (Second Division); Operations and Training Division (Third Division); Supply Division (Fourth Division); War Plans Division. For the first four divisions, the abbreviations G–1, G–2, G–3, G–4, respectively, are prescribed. The prescribed abbreviation for the War Plans Division is W. P. D. The chiefs of the several divisions of the War Department General Staff are designated as Assistant Chiefs of Staff; the prescribed abbreviation A. C. of S. is followed by the prescribed abbreviation of the division.

The Personnel Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the personnel of the Army as individuals. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning the procurement, classification, assignment, promotion, transfer, retirement, and discharge, in peace and war, of all personnel of the Army of the United States, including the Regular Army, the National Guard, the Organized Reserves, the Officers' Reserve Corps, the Enlisted Reserve Corps, and the citizens' military training camps; measures for conserving manpower; replacements of personnel, Army regulations, uniform regulations, and such general regulations as especially concern individuals or matters of routine not specifically assigned to other sections; decorations; religious, recreational, and morale work; the Red Cross and similar agencies, with the exception of such part or parts of said agencies as may be wholly devoted to hospital and medical relief work; enemy aliens, prisoners of war, and conscientious objectors, including their security.

The Military Intelligence Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the collection, evaluation, and dissemination of military information. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of all activities concerning military topographical surveys and maps, including their reproduction and distribution; the custody of the General Staff map and photograph collection; military attachés, observers, and foreign-language students; intelligence personnel of all units; liaison with other intelligence agencies of the Government, and with duly accredited foreign military attachés and missions; codes and ciphers; translations; relations with the press; censorship in time of war.

The Operations and Training Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the organization, training, and operation of the military forces not expressly assigned to the War Plans Division. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning organization, including tables of organization, for all branches of the Army of the United States; assignments of units to higher organizations; so much of tables of equipment as relate to the allotment of major items of equipment to units and the distribution of such items within units; distribution and training, including educational and vocational training of the Army of the United States, the National Guard, and Organized Reserves; location of units of the Regular Army and Organized Reserves; all drill and service regulations, field service regulations, and General Staff manuals; special-service schools and general-service schools, including the Army War College and the Command and General Staff School; military training in civilian institutions and in civilian training camps; priorities in assigning replacements and equipment and important priorities affecting mobilization; movement of troops; military police.

The Supply Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the supply of the Army and with the preparation of basic supply plans. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning distribution, storage, and issue of supplies; transportation by land and water, including ports of embarkation and their necessary auxiliaries; traffic control; tables of equipment, the quantities and types of military supplies required for the use of the Army and essential to the military program; inventions; leasing of War Department facilities and issuing of revocable licenses; hospitalization and evacuation of men and animals, including such agencies or parts of agencies as may be wholly devoted to hospital and medical relief work; distribution and movement of supply, technical, and labor troops not employed as combat units; property responsibility and accountability; the determination and statement of plans and policies governing the preparation of estimates for funds for military purposes and priorities pertaining thereto, and, when necessary, with the restatement of such priorities, to govern the expenditure of all funds appropriated; the formulation of policies and projects governing the procurement of real estate in connection with the training, shelter, and housing of troops, and with the storage, distribution, and issue of supplies; policies relative to the procurement, construction, repair, maintenance, and disposition of buildings and all utilities connected therewith.

The War Plans Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the formulation of plans for the use in the theater of war of the military forces, separately or in conjunction with the naval forces, in the national defense. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning location and armament of coast and land fortifications; estimate of forces required and times at which they may be needed under various possible conditions necessitating the use of troops in the national defense; the initial strategical deployment; actual operations in the theater of war; consultation with G–3 and G–4 on major items of equipment; peace maneuvers, terrain exercises, and staff rides involving units higher than a division; and joint Army and Navy exercises. The War Plans Division is so organized as to enable it, in the event of mobilization, to furnish the nucleus of the General Staff personnel for each of the General Staff divisions required at the general headquarters in the field.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF CAVALRY

The Chief of Cavalry is under the supervision of the Chief of Staff in all matters relating to his arm, and furnishes the Chief of Staff with information and advice on all questions affecting the Cavalry. BOARD OF ENGINEERS FOR RIVERS AND HARBORS

The Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors is a permanent body created by the River and Harbor Act of June 13, 1902. To it are referred for consideration and recommendation all reports upon examinations and surveys provided for by Congress and all projects or changes in projects for works of river and harbor and flood-control improvements upon which report is desired by the Chief of Engineers, United States Army. It is further the duty of the Board, upon request of the Committee on Commerce of the Senate or of the Committees on Rivers and Harbors or Flood Control of the House of Representatives, in the same manner to examine and report through the Chief of Engineers upon any examinations, surveys, or projects for the improvement of navigation on rivers and harbors or relating to flood control. In its investigations the Board gives consideration to all engineering, commercial, navigation, and economic questions involved in determining the advisability of undertaking such improvements at the expense of the United States. The work of the Board has been extended to include passing upon the plans of local authorities for terminal improvements in order to determine their adequacy under the provisions of section 1 of the River and Harbor Act of March 2, 1919; advising and assisting local port authorities in planning the lay-out and equipment of terminal facilities; and the designing of floating plant for use in the prosecution of projects for river and harbor improvement. The Board is engaged on the investigations authorized by the Transportation Act approved February 28, 1920, with a view to the promotion of water transportation, and the investigations of ports authorized by the Merchant Marine Act approved June 5, 1920, to be made in cooperation with the United States Maritime Commission. Its duties also include the compilation, publication, and distribution of useful statistics, data, and information concerning ports and water transportation.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF ORDNANCE

The Chief of Ordnance is in command of the Ordnance Department, whose duties are to design, procure, store, supply, and maintain the ordnance and ordnance stores of the United States Army, including artillery, artillery ammunition, small arms, bombs, and all munitions of war which may be required for the fortifications of the Army, the armies of the field, and for the National Guard of the United States of America. The Ordnance Department performs all the technical engineering work necessary to investigate and construct experimental ordnance matériel for the adoption by the Army; prepares the necessary regulations for proof, inspection, storing, and for maintaining this matériel, as well as the detailed information necessary for the manufacture of munitions, for inspection of them, and for maintaining reserves prescribed by higher authority.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER

The Chief Signal Officer has immediate charge, under the direction of the Secretary of War, of the development, procurement, storage, issue, and repair of signal communication and meteorological equipment and supplies; the development, procurement, storage, and issue of all electrical apparatus associated with direction finding for determining the location of radio stations, aircraft and marine craft and of all the electrical apparatus associated with range finding; the preparation, publication, revision, storage, accounting, and distribution of all codes and ciphers required by the Army, and in time of war the interception of enemy radio and wire traffic, the goniometric location of enemy radio stations, the solution of intercepted enemy code and cipher messages, and laboratory arrangements for the employment and detection of secret inks; the installation, maintenance, and operation of all military signal communication systems and equipment, including military cable, telephone and telegraph lines, radio apparatus and stations, except the routine maintenance and operation of fixed fire-control communication systems and fixed airways and airdrome control systems and radio aids to air navigation, and the installation, maintenance, and operation of temporary systems used by combat troops in field operations, as provided in existing regulations over which he will exercise general supervision only; the transmission of messages for the Army by telegraph, radio, or otherwise; the direction of the Signal Corps and the control of the officers, enlisted men, and employees attached thereto; the coordination of the training of the personnel assigned to signal duties; the general supervision, coordination, and standardization of all radio operations of the Army, and the enforcement of regulations concerning the same; the assignment of call letters, radio frequencies, power, type of emission, and schedules for all Army radio stations; all photographic and cinematographic work of the Army not specifically assigned to other arms and services and all other duties pertaining to military signal communications.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF THE AIR CORPS

The Chief of the Air Corps is charged, under the direction of the Secretary of War, with the duty of procuring, by manufacture or purchase, and maintaining all aircraft, aircraft engines, and aircraft equipment for the Army, including airships, balloons, and airplanes, all appliances and facilities necessary to the operation and maintenance of said aircraft; of installing and maintaining all radio apparatus and signaling systems within the Air Corps activities; of establishing, maintaining, and operating all flying fields, aviation stations, repair and supply depots, exempted stations, etc.; training officers, flying cadets, enlisted men of the Air Corps, and candidates for aviation service in matters pertaining to military aviation; and with the technical inspections of aircraft and accessories and the preparation of the budget.

BUREAU OF INSULAR AFFAIRS

To the Bureau of Insular Affairs, under the immediate direction of the Secretary of War, are assigned all matters pertaining to civil government in those island possessions of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the War Department, except as otherwise provided by law. The affairs of the Philippine Islands are administered under the Secretary of War at the present time.

The Bureau is charged with the formulation and communication to the United States High Commissioner to the Philippine Islands for his action or for presentation to the authorities of the Government of the Commonwealth of the Philippines, of the policies and action of the Secretary of War in appropriate matters within the scope of his jurisdiction under general instructions of the President, and with the presentation to the Secretary of War of insular matters presented by the High Commissioner which require action by the Secretary of War or should be brought to his attention, or which should be presented by him to the President. It makes studies of varied questions such as those regarding legislation, financial matters, tariffs, trade relations, commercial and industrial possibilities, navigation, and other subjects relating to the Philippine Islands, and assists the United States High Commissioner by handling and presenting to the Secretary of War administrative matters as they arise. It assists in preparing for submission to Congress such proposed legislation affecting the insular possessions under War Department jurisdiction as may receive the approval of the Secretary of War and in the presentation before the courts of the United States of cases in which the insular authorities are concerned. The Bureau assembles statistical and other data, and makes studies and recommendations incident to the functions assigned to it, and acts as a general center of information regarding matters pertaining to the Philippine Islands. It supervises the agencies charged with the purchase in the United States and shipment of supplies and equipment for the insular government, United States High Commissioner, and Dominican Customs Receivership. It is the channel through which official correspondence pertaining to the Philippine Islands and the Dominican Customs Receivership is transmitted to and from the United States. It is the Federal agency which handles, under the direction of the Secretary of War, Philippine and Dominican Customs Receivership matters requiring contact with other Federal agencies. It performs other functions in the nature of assistance to the United States High Commissioner, including those incident to appointments and to expenditures of funds on behalf of his office. The Bureau is also the repository of the civil records of the Government of Occupation of Cuba (Jan. 1, 1899, to May 20, 1902) and of certain other records pertaining to functions formerly assigned to the Bureau from time to time but not at present so assigned. These functions include matters relating to the second occupation of Cuba (1906–9), Panama Canal (1904 and 1905), and the Haitian customs receivership (1920–24).

Under the convention of December 27, 1924, between the United States and the Dominican Republic (which replaced the convention of February 8, 1907), and the general regulations of the President of the United States issued thereunder, the Bureau has immediate supervision and control of the Dominican receivership for the collection of customs revenues and payment of the interest and principal of the adjusted bonded indebtedness of the Dominican Republic, and in some respects acts as the agent in the United States of the receivership.

NATIONAL GUARD BUREAU

The National Guard Bureau of the War Department is established by law to facilitate the administration and to promote the development of the National Guard while not in the service of the United States. It is vested with all the administrative duties (coordinating with department and corps area commanders) involving the organization, armament, equipment, discipline, training, and inspection of the National Guard; the conduct of camps of instruction of the National Guard and the administrative duties connected with the preparation of the National Guard for participation in field exercises and maneuvers of the Regular Army; the mobilization of the National Guard in time of peace; and all matters pertaining to the active National Guard not in Federal service, the inactive National Guard, and the unorganized militia of the United States not herein generally enumerated which do not under existing laws, regulations, orders, or practice come within the jurisdiction of the General Staff or any division, bureau, or branch of the War Department, and which shall not operate to divest any bureau, division, or branch of the War Department of duties now properly belonging to it.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF THE CHEMICAL WARFARE SERVICE

The Chief of the Chemical Warfare Service is charged with the investigation, development, manufacture, or procurement and supply to the Army of all smoke and incendiary materials, all toxic gases, and all gas-defense appliances; the research, design, and experimentation connected with chemical warfare and its material; and chemical projectile-filling plants and proving grounds; the supervision of the training of the Army in chemical warfare, both offensive and defensive, including the necessary schools of instruction; the organization, equipment, training, and operation of special gas troops; and such other duties as the President may from time to time prescribe.

THE ARMY WAR COLLEGE

The Army War College, located at Fort Humphreys, Washington, D. C., is one of the general service schools of the Army. It is the highest unit in the military educational system. Its object is to train selected officers for duty in the War Department General Staff and for high command in accordance with the doctrines and methods approved by the War Department. In addition it supervises the activities of the Historical Section, formerly a branch of the War Department General Staff.

THE ARMY INDUSTRIAL COLLEGE

The Army Industrial College is one of the three general service schools of the Army. It is located in the Munitions Building, Washington, D. C. It operates under supervision of the Assistant Secretary of War, pursuant to section 5a of the National Defense Act. Its mission is the training of officers for the procurement of munitions in the event of war and in the preparation of plans for the mobilization of matériel and industrial organizations essential to wartime needs.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

ATTORNEY GENERAL (FRANK MURPHY)

The Attorney General is the head of the Department of Justice (see sec. 346, R. S.) and as such is the chief law officer of the Federal Government. He represents the United States in legal matters generally and gives advice and opinions when requested by the President or by the heads of the executive departments.

He appears in the Supreme Court of the United States in cases of exceptional gravity and importance, exercises general superintendence and direction over United States district attorneys and marshals in the various judicial districts of the United States, and provides special counsel for the United States in cases of exceptional importance or when the character of the interests involved requires such action.

The duties of the Assistant to the Attorney General, the Assistant Attorneys General, the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Director of the Bureau of Prisons, and of the heads of the other major divisions and bureaus are performed under the direction of the Attorney General.

(See sec. 354, R. S., as amended by act of Feb. 27, 1877, 19 Stat. 241; secs. 356, 357, and 358, R. S.; act of June 30, 1906, 34 Stat. 816; secs. 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, and 366, R. S.)

SOLICITOR GENERAL (ROBERT H. JACKSON)

The Solicitor General assists the Attorney General in the execution of his duties and, by special provision of law, exercises all such duties in case of a vacancy in the office of the Attorney General, or his absence or disability.

Under the direction of the Attorney General, the Solicitor General has special charge of the business of and appears for and represents the Government in the Supreme Court of the United States.

When requested by the Attorney General, the Solicitor General may conduct and argue any case in which the United States is interested, in any court of the United States, or may attend to the interests of the Government in any State court or elsewhere, conferring with and directing the law officers of the Government throughout the country in the performance of their duties when occasion requires. (See secs. 347 and 349, R. S.) No appeal is taken by the United States to any appellate court without his authorization.

THE ASSISTANT TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL (MATTHEW F. M'GUIRE, ACTING)

The Assistant to the Attorney General has supervision over all of the major units of organization of the Department and also supervision over United States attorneys and marshals.

This office has charge of authorizations for appointments and the salaries pertaining thereto when not otherwise fixed by law; also promotions and demotions both in the Department and the field, as well as other general administrative matters; of legislation, and civil-service matters, including Federal Employees' Compensation and Retirement Acts, pensions, etc., also briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and special assignments by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (THURMAN W. ARNOLD)

This assistant has special charge of all suits and other matters arising under the Sherman and Clayton Acts and other antitrust matters.

In addition he has, under current assignment, charge of matters relating to the Federal Trade Commission Act, the Stockyards Act, the Radio Act, the Securities Act (except crimes), labor matters (including the Railway Labor Act of 1926), suits to set aside orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and general matters and statutes affecting interstate commerce. He has charge also of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and of special assignments by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (JAMES W. MORRIS)

This assistant has charge of the prosecution and defense of civil suits relating to taxes (except customs) and of appellate proceedings in connection therewith, including briefs and arguments on appeals from the Board of Tax Appeals; also of the enforcement of tax liens and of mandamus, injunctions, criminal proceedings, and general matters relating to taxes. He also has charge of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and of special assignments by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (SAM E. WHITAKER)

This assistant has charge of all civil suits and claims for and against the Government not otherwise specially assigned, patents and copyrights, cases arising out of war transactions, civil-bankruptcy matters, civil proceedings under the National Bank Act, admiralty and shipping matters, as well as alien property claims and litigation. He also has charge of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and of special assignments by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (CARL M'FARLAND)

This assistant has charge of matters relating to public lands and condemnation of lands, titles to lands, forest reserves, reclamation and irrigation projects, and the conservation of natural resources, Indian lands and affairs (including suits in the Court of Claims) except crimes. He also has charge of insular and territorial affairs except those specifically assigned, other than criminal, and of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, as well as matters specially assigned to him by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (BRIEN M'MAHON)

This assistant has charge of criminal cases generally, including matters involving criminal practice and procedure, such as questions concerning indictments, grand juries, search warrants, passports, alien enemies, extradition, etc.; also cases involving crimes on the high seas, crimes arising under the National Bank Act and under the naturalization laws, and generally directs district attorneys with respect of the conduct of criminal cases.

He also has charge of the administration and enforcement of the laws relating to alcoholic beverages, of kidnaping and racketeering cases, and of matters specially assigned to him by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (WEBSTER J. OLIVER)

This assistant has charge of protecting the interests of the Government in matters of reappraisement and classification of imported goods, and all litigation incident thereto. He also has charge of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and of matters specially assigned to him by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT SOLICITOR GENERAL (GOLDEN W. BELL)

The Assistant Solicitor General appears for and represents the Government in such cases as may be designated by the Solicitor General and performs such additional duties as may be required of him by the Attorney General. He has charge for the Attorney General of the preparation, review, and revision of opinions and, as to their form and legality, of Executive orders submitted to him by direction of the President, and also acts for the Attorney General upon offers in compromise of judgments and other claims existing against or in favor of the Government up to a certain limit, in addition to performing such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Attorney General.

DIRECTOR, FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION (J. EDGAR HOOVER)

The Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation has general charge of the investigation of offenses against the laws of the United States, except counterfeiting, narcotics, and other matters not within the jurisdiction of the Department of Justice; of the acquisition, collection, classification, preservation, and exchange of criminal identification records; and of such investigations regarding official matters under the control of the Department of Justice and the Department of State as may be directed by the Attorney General.

He also has charge of matters specially assigned to him by the Attorney General.

DIRECTOR, BUREAU OF PRISONS (JAMES V. BENNETT)

The Director of the Bureau of Prisons has general supervision of Federal penal institutions and prisoners, and of prison contracts and matters arising under the probation law. He also has charge of special assignments by the Attorney General.

DIRECTOR, BUREAU OF WAR RISK LITIGATION (JULIUS C. MARTIN)

Under the direction of The Assistant to the Attorney General, the Director of the Bureau of War Risk Litigation has charge of war-risk insurance matters (civil) exclusive of claims in favor of the Government, and, generally, of all matters arising under the World War Veterans' Act and kindred statutes. He also has charge of special assignments by the Attorney General.

DIRECTOR, BOND AND SPIRITS DIVISION (JOSEPH LAWRENCE)

The Director has supervision of the review and determination of internal-revenue taxes, filing of suits, compromises, preparation of bankruptcy claims, petitions for remissions of forfeitures, and other relevant civil matters arising under the National Prohibition Act prior to repeal, and associated revenue laws; the review and preliminary determination of criminal compromises and civil claims growing out of current violations of internal revenue liquor statutes; the supervision of the collection on forfeited bail bonds and judgments and fines in criminal cases, and other special assignments of a similar character by the Attorney General.

BOARD OF PAROLE

The Board of Parole consists of three members, appointed directly by the Attorney General, whose sole duties are to grant and revoke paroles of Federal prisoners.

ATTORNEY IN CHARGE OF PARDONS (DANIEL M. LYONS)

Under the direction of the Attorney General, the attorney in charge of pardons has charge of all applications for Executive clemency except those of the Army and Navy. He conducts all correspondence with respect thereto and prepares memoranda and recommendations for submission to the Attorney General and the Executive, and has charge of matters specially assigned to him by the Attorney General.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL (THOMAS D. QUINN)

Under the supervision of the Assistant to the Attorney General, the Administrative Assistant has in charge all administrative and organization matters of the Department, including those relating to the United States attorneys, marshals, and other field offices.

He handles administrative matters regarding personnel and supervises the clerical and subclerical forces of the Department (exclusive of the Federal Bureau of Investigation), the enforcement of general departmental regulations, and the designation of space requirements for court activities in Federal buildings throughout the country.

Has charge of budget, accounting, and auditing matters, including the examination of judicial offices.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

POSTMASTER GENERAL

The Postmaster General is the executive head of the Postal Service. He appoints all officers and employees under his supervision, except the four Assistant Postmasters General, the purchasing agent, the comptroller, and postmasters of the first, second, and third classes, who are appointed by the President of the United States. Subject to the approval of the President, he makes postal treaties with foreign governments. He awards and executes contracts for the Air and Ocean Mail Services. He is the executive head of Postal Savings and ex-officio chairman of the board of trustees.

CHIEF CLERK

The Chief Clerk of the Post Office Department is charged with the general superintendence and assignment of the clerical and subclerical forces of the Department; the care and maintenance of public property located in the Department building; the advertising of the Department; the supervision of requisitions entailing expenditure of the appropriations for the departmental service; the consideration of requisitions for the printing and binding required in the Department and Service; the receipt and inspection of blanks required in the Department; the supervision of receipt and inspection of supplies for the Department and Service delivered in Washington; superintendence of the publication and distribution of the Official Postal Guide and other postal publications; the miscellaneous correspondence and files of the Department; matters affecting the proper administration of the civil-service rules and regulations and the execution of the provisions of the Reclassification and Retirement Acts. The Chief Clerk is the liaison officer between the Department and the Classification Division of the Civil Service Commission.

PURCHASING AGENT

The Purchasing Agent supervises the purchase of all supplies for the Post Office Department proper and for all branches of the Postal Service. He reviews all requisitions and authorizations for supplies and, if proper, approves them. He passes upon all emergency purchases made locally by the field service. He determines the sufficiency and propriety of all specifications for supplies; prepares the advertisements and forms for proposals necessary to the making of contracts for supplies; and enters into contracts for such supplies for the Postmaster General.

SOLICITOR OF THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

The Solicitor is charged with the duty of giving opinions to the Postmaster General and the heads of the several offices of the Department upon questions of law arising in the course of business of the Postal Service; with the hearing and consideration of cases of alleged use of the mails to defraud the public and of cases relating to lotteries; with the consideration of all questions relating to the mailability of alleged indecent, obscene, scurrilous, or defamatory matter; with determining the legal acceptability of securities offered by banks to secure postal-savings deposits; with the examining and, when necessary, drafting of contracts of the Department; with the legal work incident to the enforcement of those provisions of the espionage law which concern the Post Office Department; with the consideration of all questions relating to the mailability of firearms; with the consideration and submission (with advice) to the Postmaster General of claims for damage done to persons or property by or through the operation of the Post Office Department, and of all claims of postmasters for losses by fire, burglary, or other unavoidable casualty, and of all certifications by the Comptroller for the Post Office Department of cases of proposed compromise of liabilities to the United States, and of the remission of fines, penalties, and forfeitures under the statutes; with the giving of advice, when desired, in the preparation or correspondence with the Department of Justice and other departments, including the Court of Claims, involving questions of law or relating to prosecutions or suits affecting or arising out of the Postal Service, and with assisting when desired in the prosecution or defense of such cases, and the maintenance of suitable records of opinions rendered affecting the Post Office Department and the Postal Service; and with the consideration of applications for pardons for crimes committed against the postal laws which may be referred to the Department; with the determining of questions as to the delivery of mail the ownership of which is in dispute; with the determination of legal questions arising from the Government's monopoly of the carriage of letters; and with such other duties as may from time to time be required by the Postmaster General.

The Solicitor is also charged with the duty of assisting in the defense of cases against the United States arising out of the transportation of the mails and in other matters affecting the postal revenues. These include suits in the Federal courts involving claims of the railroads and other contractors for the carriage of the mails; the representation of the Postmaster General and the preparation and presentation of the Department's cases in proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission for the determination by the Commission of the basis for adjustment of railroad mail pay and the fixing of fair and reasonable rates for the transportation of the mails and for services in connection therewith by railroads, and urban and interurban electric railway common carriers, and in other matters of petition by the Postmaster General to the Commission; the representation of the Postmaster General in hearings before the Department on orders changing the mode of transporting periodical mail matter and in connection with reviews of such orders by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

CHIEF INSPECTOR

The Chief Inspector is charged with the duty of keeping the Postmaster General and his assistants advised as to the condition and needs of the entire Postal Service. He is charged with the selection, government, and assignment to duty of post-office inspectors in charge, post-office inspectors and clerks at division headquarters. He authorizes and directs all investigations by inspectors and generally supervises the business of the post-office inspection service. He also has jurisdiction in all matters relating to depredations upon the mails, both domestic and international, and losses therein; reported violations of the postal laws such as the alleged use of the mails in schemes to defraud and in the promotion of lotteries; violations of the private express statutes (Government monopoly of the transportation of letter mail); mailing of explosives, poisons, firearms, intoxicants, and of letters of extortion containing threats to injure the reputation of any person, or to accuse him of a crime; forgery of money orders and postal savings certificates; mailing of obscene, scurrilous, and other matter prohibited transmission in the mails, and complaints of the interception of and tampering with the mails. He supervises the development of evidence and the preparation for prosecution of criminal offenses arising in connection with the operation of the Postal Service and considers claims for payment of rewards for the detection, arrest, and conviction of post-office burglars, robbers, highway mail robbers, and mailers of bombs. He is charged with the custody of money and property collected or received by inspectors, and with the restoration thereof to the United States or to the public, as their interests shall appear. He is charged also with the consideration of miscellaneous complaints against the service rendered at post offices of the second, third, and fourth classes. Administrative matters such as charges against postal employees of all classes (except inspectors and clerks at division headquarters), and the establishment of or changes in rural or star routes should be addressed to the proper bureau of the Department, and if an investigation by an inspector is necessary, such bureau will make request therefor on the Chief Inspector. Applications for permission to take the examination for the position of post-office inspector and the correspondence in connection with the appointment, promotion, and the character of service rendered by inspectors should be addressed to the Chief Inspector.

FIRST ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL

The First Assistant Postmaster General has charge of the following divisions to which are assigned the duties specified:

The Division of Post Office Service.—The computing for annual adjustment of salaries of postmasters at Presidential offices, the organization and management of post offices of the first and second classes; the establishment of contract stations, the appointment, disciplining, and fixing salaries of assistant postmasters, supervisory officers, clerks, special clerks, watchmen, messengers, laborers, printers, mechanics, and skilled laborers, and of city and village letter carriers; the establishment, maintenance, supervision, and extension of city and village delivery and collection service; allowances for clerk hire at first-, second-, and third-class offices, and for mail separations and "unusual conditions" at fourth-class offices, and for miscellaneous service items at first- and second-class offices, such as telephone and water rentals, laundry, towel service, and all matters concerning the Special Delivery Service and the hours of business at Presidential offices.

The Division of Postmasters.—The preparation of cases for the establishment, change of name, and discontinuance of post offices; the appointment of postmasters and keeping a record of such appointments; the obtaining, recording, and filing of bonds and oaths of office and issuance of postmasters' commissions; the consideration of charges and complaints against postmasters; and the regulation of hours of business and change of site of post offices of the fourth class.

The Division of Dead Letters and Dead Parcel Post.—The treatment of all unmailable and undelivered mail matter which is sent to it and the general supervision of the treatment of all such matter sent to its respective branches and to post offices at the several division headquarters of the Railway Mail Service for disposition; the verification and allowance of claims for credit by postmasters for postage-due stamps affixed to undelivered matter; the examination and forwarding or return of all letters which have failed of delivery; the inspection and return to the country of origin of undelivered foreign matter; recording and restoration to owners of letters and parcels which contain valuable enclosures; care and disposition of all money, negotiable paper, and other valuable articles found in undelivered matter, and correspondence, both foreign and domestic, relating to these subjects.

SECOND ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL

The Second Assistant Postmaster General has charge of the following divisions, to which are assigned the duties specified:

Railway Adjustments.—The supervision of expenditures for the transportation of mails on railroad, electric car, mail messenger, power boat, and Alaskan star routes, and with the preparation of orders, rules, and regulations governing the same, based on the law and the orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission; with the administrative audit of reports concerning the performance of service of the classes above stated; certifies accounts for payment, and prepares for proper deductions all cases of nonperformance; imposes fines for delinquencies and failures; and with the preparation of all correspondence affecting these services.

International Postal Service.—Supervision of the International Postal Service, including international registry, insured, and c. o. d. services, and parcel post; all matters affecting the transportation of mails, including the air mail (except those specifically assigned to the First Assistant), to and from foreign countries; international transit statistical operations; sea post service; Navy mail service; the negotiation and preparation of postal conventions (except those relative to the Money Order System) with foreign countries and the regulations for their execution, as well as the consideration of questions arising under them and the preparation of all correspondence in connection therewith.

Railway Mail Service.—The supervision of the Railway Mail Service and railway postal clerks; the preparation of plans and specifications of railway post-office cars; designation of trains on which railway post-office service is to be performed; the issuing of orders relative to the moving of the mail on railroad trains; the distribution and dispatch of mail matter in railway postal cars and post offices; the leasing of quarters for terminal railway post offices; the approval of purchases and expenditures necessary for the conduct of the Railway Mail Service; determining, subject to the Postal Laws and Regulations, what matter shall be excluded from the mails as liable to damage the contents of mail bags or harm the person of anyone engaged in the Postal Service, and how such matter as is admitted must be packed; the distribution to the Postal Service of mail pouches and sacks and mail-pouch locks; the designation and supervision of mail-bag depositories; the investigation of delays and damage to mail matter; the Star Route Contract Service (except in Alaska); the preparation of advertisements inviting proposals for the transportation of mails on star routes (except in Alaska), the award of such service, and the preparation of contracts therefor; the change of schedules on star routes; the inspection of monthly reports of the performance of Star Route Service, and the preparation of monthly statements to the General Accounting Office of the amounts found to be due contractors for service performed; attends to all correspondence relative to these matters.

Rural Mail Service.—The consideration of all matters pertaining to the Rural Delivery Service, and the appointment and discipline of rural carriers.

THIRD ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL

The Third Assistant Postmaster General has charge of the following divisions to which are assigned the duties specified:

Finance.—The financial operations, including the collection and deposit of postal revenues; the distribution of postal funds among the several depositaries so as to equalize, as far as possible, receipts and expenditures in the same section; the payment by warrant of all accounts settled by the General Accounting Office; the receipt and disposition of all moneys coming directly to the Department; and the keeping of books of account showing the fiscal operations of the Postal and Money Order Services and the regulation of box rents and key deposits.

Money Orders.—The supervision and management of the Money Order Service, both domestic and international; the preparation of conventions for the exchange of money orders with foreign countries.

Classification.—The general control of all business relating to the classification of domestic mail matter and the rates of postage thereon; the determination of the admissibility of publications to the second class of mail matter, the right to continue in that class, including the administration of the law requiring annual statements of their ownership, circulation, etc., and the instruction of postmasters relative thereto; also the use of penalty envelopes, the franking privilege, and the limit of weight and size of mail matter.

Stamps.—The supervision of the manufacture and issuance to postmasters of postage stamps, stamp books, stamped envelopes, postal cards, postal-savings stamps, and migratory bird hunting stamps, by the various contractors, and the keeping of the accounts and records of these transactions; the receipt and disposition of damaged and unsalable stamped paper returned by postmasters for redemption and credit; the issuance to postmasters of and accounting for internal-revenue stamps.

Registered mails.—The supervision and management of the domestic registry, insurance, and collect-on-delivery services; the establishment and control of all domestic registry dispatches and exchanges; the instruction of postmasters and the furnishing of information in relation to these matters; the consideration of all claims for indemnity for injured or lost domestic registered and certain insured and c. o. d. mail.

Postal Savings.—The conduct and management of the administrative office of the Postal Savings at Washington; the selection and designation of post offices as postal-savings depository offices and the supervision of the business transacted at such offices; the management and investment of postal-savings funds as the agent of the board of trustees; the administrative examination of accounts of postmasters and other fiscal agents of the system; the supervision of the sale of United States savings bonds at post offices, including the administrative examination of postmasters' accounts and settlement with the Treasury Department for bonds sold.

Cost ascertainment.—General direction of the work of ascertaining the revenues derived from and the cost of carrying and handling the several classes of mail matter and of performing the special services.

Parcel Post.—General direction of investigations of methods designed to improve the Parcel Post Service.

FOURTH ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL

The Fourth Assistant Postmaster General has charge of the following divisions, to which are assigned the duties specified:

Engineering and research.—The design and construction of buildings so far as the operation of the post-office service is concerned; the layout of post-office quarters in Federal buildings and leased buildings, including conveyor and other labor-saving equipment for same; general engineering problems affecting the activities of the Postal Service, and the consideration of the practicability of devices and inventions for use in the Postal Service.

Division of Traffic.—Relative to shipment of freight, express, drayage, crating, routing, and billing shipments of equipment, material, and supplies for the Department and Postal Service.

Post-office quarters.—The selection, leasing, and equipment of quarters for post offices of the first, second, and third classes, and stations thereof (except those located in Federal buildings, which are under the jurisdiction of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department); the leasing of quarters for the Railway Mail Service; the leasing and equipment of post-office garages, and the fixing of allowances for rent, light, and heat at offices of the first, second, and third classes, and stations thereof.

Motor Vehicle Service.—The authorization, operation, and maintenance of the Government-owned Motor Vehicle Service, including the appointment and discipline of the personnel employed in connection therewith; requisitions for materials, supplies, and garage equipment and correspondence pertaining thereto; requests for allowances for rent, light, fuel, power, water, telephone service, etc.; the monthly and quarterly reports and correspondence pertaining to the accounting system; the preparation of advertisements inviting proposals for the transportation of the mails in cities by means of screen wagons and pneumatic tubes, and the drafting of orders awarding such service, including the preparation of contracts therefor; the fixing of allowances for the hire of vehicles used in the delivery and collection service; the examination of reports and the preparation of orders making deductions and imposing fines for nonperformance of service and other delinquencies on the part of contractors.

Topography.—The compilation, revision, and distribution of post-route, rural-delivery, county, and local-center maps; the preparation of parcel-post zone keys.

Building operations and supplies.—The preparation of specifications for equipment and supplies for the Postal Service, and the custody, distribution, and transportation of such equipment and supplies; the distribution of parcel-post zone keys; the maintenance of a record of expenditures for equipment and supplies by appropriations; the manufacture and repair of mail bags and other mail containers and attachments, mail locks, keys, chains, tools, dies, etc.; the issuance of letter-box locks, mail keys, key chains, etc., to postmasters and other officials entitled thereto, and the maintenance of a record thereof; and the operation and maintenance of Federal buildings under the administration of the Post Office Department; the procurement and distribution of supplies therefor; the appointment and supervision of personnel necessary for the maintenance of these buildings.

BUREAU OF ACCOUNTS

The Comptroller of the Post Office Department, in charge of the Bureau of Accounts, created in the Budget and Accounting Act of 1921, and directed by the law to receive and make the administrative examination of all postal and money-order accounts. Reviews the income and expenditure of all third- and fourth-class post offices through summary reports from the central accounting post offices; states the general revenues and expenditures as part of the administrative duties formerly performed by the auditor for the Post Office Department in accordance with the law; also prepares monthly, quarterly, and annual financial statements from the accounts of postmasters, warrant payments, and the account of the disbursing officer, which comprises the revenue and expenditure in the control of the Bureau of Accounts; maintains the bookkeeping system from these records from which the general statistics and the special reports from the information of the Postmaster General are obtained.

As budget officer the Comptroller consolidates the departmental estimates and such supplemental and deficiency estimates as may be required.

The Comptroller also has supervision of the Division of Retirement Records, which maintains an individual record of deductions from salaries for each employee of the Post Office Department and the Postal Service who is eligible for the civil-service retirement and disability fund.

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY

The Secretary of the Navy performs such duties as the President of the United States, who is Commander in Chief, may assign him, and has the general superintendence of construction, manning, armament, equipment, and employment of vessels of war.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE NAVY

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy performs such duties in the Navy Department as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy or required by law.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE NAVY (AIR)

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy (Air) is charged with the supervision of naval aeronautics and the coordination of its activities with other governmental agencies, and performs such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Secretary of the Navy. (This position has been unfilled since June 1, 1932.)

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT AND CHIEF CLERK

Assists the Secretary and Assistant Secretary of the Navy in directing the administration of the Navy Department, including the United States Marine Corps.

Has administrative control over the clerical force and responsibility for the general business operations of the Department, involving supervision over matters relating to the employees of the Department and enforcement of departmental regulations.

Has supervision of the various divisions of the Secretary's Office, including the Navy Department Post Office and the Navy Department Garage; control of expenditures from appropriations for printing and binding and for contingent and miscellaneous expenses of the Department; custody of the records and files of the Secretary's Office, and supervision of the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the official mail and correspondence of the Secretary's Office.

Signs such official mail as the Secretary of the Navy may direct.

Is senior member of the Department Personnel Classification Board, which studies and allocates all Department and field service positions, within the purview of the Classification Act of 1923, as amended.

Is member of the Department Wage Board of Review, which considers and determines rates of wages for supervisory artisans, artisans, and other civilian workmen in the field service of the Navy Department and the United States Marine Corps engaged in ship construction and repair and other industrial and maintenance work.

Performs such other duties as may be required by the Secretary or Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

OFFICE OF ISLAND GOVERNMENTS (CENTRAL DIVISION)

This Office assists the Secretary of the Navy in his supervision of the insular possessions of the United States which are under naval administration.

These possessions at the present time comprise Guam and American Samoa.

OFFICE OF CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS

CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS

The Chief of Naval Operations is an officer on the active list of the Navy, appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, from among the officers of the line of the Navy, not below the grade of captain, for a period of 4 years. While so serving, the Chief of Naval Operations has the rank and title of admiral, to take rank next after the Admiral of the Navy.

The Chief of Naval Operations shall, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, be charged with the operations of the fleet and with the preparation and readiness of plans for its use in war (act of Mar. 3, 1915).

The Chief of Naval Operations is the senior Navy member of the Joint Army and Navy Board.

The duties of the Chief of Naval Operations shall include the direction of the Office of Naval Intelligence and the Division of Fleet Training; the operation of the Communication Service, of naval districts, of vessels assigned to the Naval Reserve, and of mines and mining; the operations of the Marine Corps, except when operating with the Army or on other detached duty by order of the President, and the operations of Coast Guard vessels when operating with the Navy; and the direction of all strategic and tactical matters, organization of the fleet, maneuvers, gunnery exercises, drills and exercises, and the training of the fleet for war.

He shall so coordinate all repairs and alterations to vessels and the supply of personnel and material thereto as to insure at all times the maximum readiness of the fleet for war.

He shall keep all bureaus and offices of the Navy Department informed in regard to action within their cognizance that is at any time necessary or desirable to improve the war efficiency of the fleet, and shall arrange for the coordination of effort of his office and of the bureaus and other offices of the Navy Department in relation thereto.

He shall, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, direct the movements and operations of vessels of the Navy, including the time of their assignment for docking, repairs, and alterations, and shall prepare schedules and issue orders in regard thereto.

He shall keep records of service of fleets, squadrons, and ships.

He shall advise the Secretary in regard to the military features and design of all new ships and as to any alterations of a ship which may affect her military value; as to the location, capacity, and protection of navy yards and naval stations, including all features which affect their military value; also, as to matters pertaining to fuel reservations and depots, the location of radio stations, visual signal stations, reserves of ordnance and ammunition, fuel stores, and other supplies of whatsoever nature, with a view to meeting effectively the demands of the fleet.

He shall advise the Secretary of the Navy on all business of the Department in regard to insular governments and foreign relations, and all correspondence in regard to these matters shall be presented for the Secretary's action through his office.

He is charged with the preparation, revision, and record of regulations for the government of the Navy, general orders, tactical instructions, drill books (except such as are issued by the Bureau of Navigation for the individual instruction of officers and enlisted men), signal codes, and cipher codes.

In preparing and maintaining in readiness plans for the use of the fleet in war, he shall freely consult with and have the advice and assistance of the various bureaus, boards, and offices of the Department and the Marine Corps Headquarters in matters coming under their cognizance. After the approval of any given war plans by the Secretary it shall be the duty of the Chief of Naval Operations to assign to the bureaus, boards, and offices such parts thereof as may be needed for the intelligent carrying out of their respective duties in regard to such plans and their maintenance in constant readiness.

In carrying out his duties he shall utilize the facilities of the appropriate bureaus and offices of the Navy Department.

The Chief of Naval Operations shall from time to time witness the operations of the fleet as an observer.

During the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretaries of the Navy the Chief of Naval Operations is next in succession to act as Secretary of the Navy (acts Mar. 3, 1915, and Feb. 11, 1927).

ASSISTANT TO THE CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS

An officer on the active list of the Navy is detailed by the Secretary of the Navy as Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations.

In the case of the death, resignation, absence, or sickness of the Chief of Naval Operations, the Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations shall, unless otherwise directed by the President, perform the duties of the Chief until his successor is appointed or such absence or sickness shall cease.

The Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations is next in authority to the Chief. He does not administer the details of any division but coordinates the activities of all divisions.

The Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations is a member of the Joint Army and Navy Board.

CENTRAL DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

This division of the office of the Chief of Naval Operations has cognizance of the following:

(a) Organization.

(b) Budget, legislation, Navy Regulations and General Orders, bureau manuals, courts and boards, honors and ceremonies, annual and special reports from naval forces; annual and special reports made by the Chief of Naval Operations.

(c) Administration of places under naval occupation.

(d) International affairs, including relations and contacts of naval forces, afloat and ashore, with governments or forces of other nations; liaison with State Department regarding naval forces in foreign waters or territory; and matters pertaining to treaties and conventions.

(e) Matters not clearly within the cognizance of any other office, or requiring central coordination, and such other matters as the Chief of Naval Operations may designate.

This division is charged with the duties of the Office of Island Governments.

WAR PLANS DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

The War Plans Division is charged with the preparation and maintenance of basic war plans for the development and maintenance of the naval forces in a state of readiness for war and for operating in war.

The Director of the War Plans Division is a member of the Joint Army and Navy Board. Three or more officers of the War Plans Division are detailed for Navy membership of the Joint Army and Navy Planning Committee, an agency of the Joint Army and Navy Board. One officer of the War Plans Division is assigned as a member of the Aeronautical Board. Through membership on these boards and committees the War Plans Division assists in the coordination of the plans and policies of the War and Navy Departments.

One officer of the War Plans Division is assigned as a member of the Shore Station Development Board.

SHIP MOVEMENTS DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

The Director of Ship Movements Division is responsible to the Chief of Naval Operations for:

(1) The organization of the United States Naval Forces in accordance with the policy of the Navy Department.

(2) The coordination, within the Office of Naval Operations, of the United States Fleet employment plans.

(3) The allocation of all floating equipment.

(4) The preparation of the annual fuel estimates for all naval forces and the allocation of this fuel to vessels.

(5) The coordination of the movements of all naval craft, whether surface, subsurface, or air.

(6) The operation of the Naval Transportation Service.

INTELLIGENCE DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

(Office of Naval Intelligence)

The Intelligence Division is charged with the collection of information for the Department and for other naval activities which require it. It publishes and disseminates such information to the Navy and to Government officials requiring it. It cooperates with the other executive departments of the Government in dsicovering and bringing to justice persons engaged in activities against the United States. It maintains all naval attachés abroad and is the official channel of communication for all foreign naval attachés in the United States. It is the Department's medium of communication to the press and public of items of naval interest.

It is the duty of the Office of Naval Intelligence to keep in close touch with all naval activities, both in and out of the Navy Department.

In time of war the Office of Naval Intelligence has charge of the censorship of cables and radio.

The Office of Naval Records and Library, in addition to maintaining a technical library for reference purposes, collects and classifies, with a view to publication, naval records of historical value.

COMMUNICATION DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

(Office of the Director of Naval Communications)

The Director of Naval Communications is charged with the administration, organization, and operation of the entire radio, telegraph, telephone, and cable systems of communications within the naval service, including the operation of the Navy overseas radio system and all communications between merchant ships and naval shore stations in the United States and its possessions. The foregoing includes the services rendered by shore direction-finder stations and commercial accounting. The Director of Naval Communications handles all matters pertaining to naval communications in any manner whatsoever, except those relating solely to purchase, supply, test, and installation of apparatus.

The Communication Office of the Navy Department (a section of the Communication Division) is responsible for the handling of all telegraphic and radio communications to and from the Navy Department.

FLEET MAINTENANCE DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

The Fleet Maintenance Division advises the Chief of Naval Operations on material matters afloat affecting the efficiency of the fleet and matters relating to the Merchant Marine Act of 1936. In so doing the Division keeps in close touch with the material bureaus and the navy yards, naval stations, and the high commands afloat.

The Director of the Fleet Maintenance Division is senior member of the District Craft Development Board and is a member of the Shore Station Development Board and the Joint Army and Navy Economy Board.

NAVAL DISTRICTS DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

The Naval Districts Division has cognizance of the following in connection with naval districts: Routine central administrative work; matters of policy; the military administration of the districts as a whole; and the supervision of plans for local defense in time of war. It handles matters in connection with the sale of naval vessels, and the loan of vessels to States, and their transfer to other Government departments.

The Shore Establishment Section is charged with matters pertaining to shore-station development, including the acquisition and disposal of shore properties.

The Naval Reserve Section is charged with initiation and formulation of policies relating to the Naval Reserve and with coordination of the resultant duties imposed upon the bureaus and offices of the Navy Department.

The Naval Districts Division has membership on the Shore Station Development Board.

INSPECTION DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

(Board of Inspection and Survey)

The activities at present under this Division are:

(a) Board of Inspection and Survey; and

(b) Membership on Joint Merchant Vessel Board.

The Board of Inspection and Survey is charged with inspections and trials of newly constructed naval vessels and, at intervals specified by law, with the material inspections of all vessels of the Navy. It is in close coordination with the Fleet Maintenance Division of the Office of Naval Operations.

The Joint Merchant Vessels Board is charged with the inspection of privately owned craft and the securing of such data relative to such craft as will determine their suitability for military purposes.

The president of the Board of Inspection and Survey is president of the Joint Merchant Vessel Board.

FLEET TRAINING DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

This Division of the Office of Naval Operations is charged with the following:

(a) The general direction of tactical, gunnery, engineering, damage-control, chemical-warfare, and communications training of the fleet.

(b) Coordinating study, research, and experiment in all bureaus pertaining to fleet training.

(c) The preparation of the war instructions, tactical instructions, manuals, and instructions governing the military activities of the fleet in war and in training for war.

(d) The collection, analysis, and review of all data in regard to fleet training and compilation of the same into suitable reports for the information and guidance of the service.

TECHNICAL DIVISION

Informs Chief of Naval Operations on the status of research in naval, industrial, university, and private laboratories.

Supervises the training of the naval research Naval Reserve assigned to Naval Operations.

Establishes contact between persons submitting ideas and inventions and the appropriate bureaus in cases where such ideas and inventions may be of value.

Represents Navy Department in matters of communication legislation, and communication matters under the Federal Communications Commission and other offices and departments of the Government concerning the frequency assignments and matters affecting naval radio technique, and at interdepartmental conferences, when such does not pertain exclusively to or directly involve purely naval communications.

Represents Navy Department at, and in preparation for, international communication conferences, and on Interdepartmental Radio Advisory Committee.

Naval Operations representative on the National Research Council.

BUREAU OF NAVIGATION

The Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, was created by the act of July 5, 1862.

1. (a) The Bureau of Navigation, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with and responsible for the procurement, education, training, discipline, and distribution of officers and enlisted personnel of the Navy, including the Naval Reserve and the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, except the professional education of officers, nurses, and enlisted men of the Medical Department.

(b) It is charged with the supply of ships' navigational outfits, including instruments, and with their maintenance and repair, except those specifically assigned to other cognizance; with ocean and lake surveys; with the collection of foreign surveys; with the publication and supply of charts, sailing directions, and nautical works, and the collection and dissemination of all nautical, hydrographic, and meteorological information to ships and aircraft; with pilotage; and with libraries.

(c) It is charged with the upkeep and operation of the following and with their repairs:

Naval Academy,
Postgraduate School,
Naval War College,
Schools for the training of enlisted men,
Training stations,
Naval Home,
Naval Observatory,
Hydrographic Office,

and with the direction of receiving ships and stations.

2. It issues, records, and enforces the orders of the Secretary of the Navy to the individual officers of the Navy and of the Naval Reserve.

3. It has under its direction recruiting stations, and shall supervise the enlistment and discharge of all enlisted persons.

4. It has under its direction the organization and administration of the Naval Reserve, and shall provide for the mobilization of all these Reserves.

5. It has cognizance of transportation for all naval personnel except the Marine Corps.

6. It establishes the complements and allowances of ships.

7. It keeps the records of service of all officers and men, and prepares an annual Navy Register for publication.

8. It is charged with all matters pertaining to application for appointments and commissions in the Navy and with the preparation of such appointments and commissions for signature.

9. It is charged with the preparation, revision, and enforcement of all regulations governing uniforms, and with the distribution of general orders and regulations.

10. Questions of naval discipline, rewards, and punishments are submitted by this Bureau for the action of the Secretary of the Navy. The records of all general courts martial and courts of inquiry involving the personnel of the Navy are, before final action, referred to this Bureau for comment and recommendation as to disciplinary features.

11. It receives all reports of services performed by individual officers or men.

12. It is charged with the enforcement of regulations and instructions regarding naval ceremonies and naval etiquette.

13. It is charged with the supervision of the welfare and recreational activities of the Naval Service except those under the cognizance of the Marine Corps.

NAVAL OBSERVATORY, BUREAU OF NAVIGATION

The Naval Observatory at Washington, D. C., broadcasts time signals 24 times daily. Signals are broadcast every hour. In addition to establishing standard time for the country and making it possible for the navigator at sea to determine his chronometer error and position, these signals are used by surveyors, engineers, scientific workers, and mining and petroleum engineers for the determination of position, measurement of gravity, and radio frequencies and other purposes requiring exact time. In order to meet the needs of all who may have use for them a number of different frequencies are used in broadcasting the signals via the naval radio stations at Arlington and Annapolis. Six of the daily signals are also retransmitted by the station at Mare Island, Calif., and the noon signals are also distributed by telegraph. Naval radio stations at Honolulu and in the Canal Zone transmit time signals which are based on Naval Observatory time.

The administration for the development, supply, upkeep, repair, and inspection of navigational, aeronautical, and aerological instruments for the ships and aircraft of the Navy is performed at the Naval Observatory.

The Naval Observatory maintains continuous observations for absolute positions of the fundamental stars, and the independent determination, by observations of the sun, of the position of the ecliptic and of the Equator among the stars, and of the positions of the stars, moon, and planets, with reference to the Equator and equinoxes, in order to furnish data to assist in preparing the American Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac and improving the tables of the planets, moon, and stars. Information is also furnished to foreign countries in accordance with international agreement.

The Nautical Almanac Office of the Naval Observatory computes and prepares for publication the American Ephemeris and its supplements and the Nautical Almanac. In addition, there is carried on the essential research work of deriving improved values of the fundamental astronomical elements and embodying them in new tables of the celestial motions.

One of the many scientific duties of the Naval Observatory is the determination and promulgation of information in connection with all solar and lunar eclipses. For many years it has been the practice to distribute pamphlets containing all of the astronomical data in connection with coming total solar eclipses.

HYDROGRAPHIC OFFICE, BUREAU OF NAVIGATION

The Hydrographic Office is charged with the execution of hydrographic surveys in foreign waters and on the high seas; the collection and dissemination of hydrographic and navigational information and data; the preparation and printing by its own personnel and with its own equipment of maps and charts relating to and required in navigation, including confidential, strategical, and tactical charts required for naval operations and maneuvers; the preparation and issue of sailing directions (pilots), light lists, pilot charts, navigational manuals, periodicals, and radio broadcasts for the use of all vessels of the United States and for the benefit and use of navigators generally; the furnishing of the foregoing to the Navy and other public services, and the sale to the mercantile marine of all nations and to the general public, at the cost of printing and paper. It maintains intimate relations with the hydrographic offices of all foreign countries and with the International Hydrographic Bureau, Monaco, and (through branch hydrographic offices and sales agents) with mariners and the general public.

The Hydrographic Office is charged with the publication and supply of naval air pilots; aviation charts and publications for special naval purposes; as well as the collection and dissemination of timely information which will contribute to the safe navigation of aircraft over sea.

The Hydrographic Office cooperates with the National Academy of Sciences by conducting research work in oceanography, especially in soundings and in the collection of the temperatures of the surface of the sea.

BUREAU OF YARDS AND DOCKS

The duties of the Bureau of Yards and Docks comprise all that relates to the design and construction of Navy and Marine Corps public works and public utilities, such as dry docks, marine railways, building ways, harbor works, quay walls, piers, wharves, slips, dredging, landings, floating and stationary cranes, power plants, coaling plants, heating, lighting, telephone, water, sewer, and railroad systems; roads, walks, and grounds; bridges, radio towers, and all buildings, for whatever purpose needed; it is charged with annual inspection and all major repairs of such public works and public utilities and provides for their general and routine maintenance, except at ordnance stations, radio stations, air stations, training stations, hospitals, marine posts, and the Naval Academy; it designs and makes the estimates for all naval public works after consulting as to their operating features with bureau or office for whose use they are primarily intended; it provides the fixtures and furniture for all buildings and has charge of the operation of power plants and of all means of land transportation, such as locomotives, locomotive cranes, cars, derricks, shears, passenger automobiles, motor trucks, and other vehicles, horses, and mules; necessary motor vehicle operators and teamsters, at all navy yards and naval stations except those above mentioned. It provides for certain clerical personnel for the offices of the commandant and captain of each yard, and all professional and clerical personnel for the public works offices. It has custody of all naval real estate not in active use. In general, the work of the Bureau is carried on by commissioned officers of the Corps of Civil Engineers, United States Navy, whose major duties comprise the design, construction, maintenance and repair of the public works of the Navy.

THE BUREAU OF ORDNANCE

The Bureau of Ordnance, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with and responsible for the design, manufacture, procurement, maintenance, issue, and efficiency of all offensive and defensive arms and armament (including armor, torpedoes, mines, depth charges, pyrotechnics, bombs, ammunition, war explosives, war chemicals, and defensive nets, buoys, and net appliances) and, except as specifically assigned to other cognizance, optical and other devices and material for the control of guns, torpedoes, and bombs.

It is charged with the upkeep and operation of the following naval ordnance establishments and with their repairs, except as excluded in article 484:

(a) Naval gun factories.
(b) Naval ordnance plants.
(c) Naval torpedo stations.
(d) Naval proving grounds.
(e) Naval powder factories.
(f) Naval ammunition depots.
(g) Naval magazines on shore.
(h) Naval mine depots.

When not prescribed by the United States Navy Regulations, specific assignment of cognizance will be as stated in the Bureau of Ordnance Manual.

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR

The duties of the Bureau of Construction and Repair comprise the responsibility for the general design, structural strength, stability, and seaworthiness of ships of the Navy except airships; responsibility for all that relates to the details of designing, building, fitting, and repairing of hulls of vessels, district craft (except those of the Bureau of Yards and Docks) and small boats, and the provision and installation of permanent fittings; and, except as specifically assigned to other cognizance, auxiliaries, appliances, and articles of equipage on its approved allowance list, preparation of preliminary plans, approximate data, or both, showing the designs of new ships in accordance with the military characteristics recommended by the General Board and approved by the Secretary of the Navy; preparation of final designs of new vessels in consultation with other bureaus.

It provides shipkeepers for the care of vessels and district craft (except those of the Bureau of Yards and Docks) not in commission.

It is responsible for the provision of facilities and arrangements for salvage of vessels.

It has administrative supervision of the drydocking of all vessels and district craft and of the operating and cleaning of drydocks and marine railways.

It is charged with the design, development, and procurement of materials and appliances for defense against gas attacks except as specifically assigned to other cognizance; diving gear and experimental diving units and respiratory protective devices; paravanes and mine-sweeping gear.

It is charged with the upkeep and operation of the experimental model basin and wind tunnel and the materials laboratory, Navy Yard, New York (joint cognizance with the Bureau of Engineering), and with such repairs as are under cognizance of the Bureau.

BUREAU OF ENGINEERING

The duties of the Bureau of Engineering comprise all that relates to the designing, building, fitting out, repairing, and altering of machinery and its related equipment used for the propulsion of naval ships. It has the same cognizance and responsibility over the following machinery not associated with propulsion equipment: Pumps (except motor-driven pumps for drainage and for distribution of fresh water for ship's use); distilling apparatus; refrigerating apparatus for cold storage, air conditioning, and process water cooling (except for small self-contained units); steam and electric heaters; all air compressors (except those required for adjusting and diving on submarines and those for galley use); all steam connections and piping on ships; and all small power-boat machinery.

It has cognizance of all that relates to electric generating sets and storage batteries; the generation and distribution of electric power on board ship for all purposes; all means of interior communication, including telephones and telegraphs of all description; the location of voice-tube outlets; all electrical methods of signaling, internal and external; all other electrical apparatus on board ship, except the following: Gyrocompass and anemometer equipment (Bureau of Navigation), fire-control instruments (Bureau of Ordnance), galley ranges and ovens (Bureau of Construction and Repair), and motors and control appliances used to operate machinery under the specific cognizance of other bureaus.

It is charged with the design, manufacture, installation, and maintenance of all radio and sound equipage, ashore and afloat, including all appliances used by the Naval Communication Service, except such material as is assigned to other cognizance.

It inspects all fuel for the fleet. It prepares recommendations for the purchase on annual contracts of consumable engineering supplies and conducts tests for determining the quality which these supplies must meet. It prepares the specifications for the yearly contract under which lubricating oil is purchased by the Navy and by all other Federal activities.

It has supervision and control of the upkeep and operation of the Naval Research Laboratory, Anacostia, D. C.; the Engineering Experiment Station, Annapolis, Md.; the Naval Boiler Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa.; and jointly with the Bureau of Construction and Repair of the material laboratory, Navy Yard, New York, N. Y., and employs these activities for conducting necessary tests and investigations to obtain suitable apparatus and material for naval purposes.

It prepares specifications and prescribes tests for material and machinery under its cognizance. It is represented on many of the national standardization and engineering bodies.

It maintains, in the field, offices of inspectors of machinery who are directly under the administrative control of the Bureau of Engineering, and also maintains jointly with the Bureaus of Ordnance, Aeronautics, and Construction and Repair the offices of the inspectors of naval material. In the offices of inspectors of machinery a force of trained naval and civilian experts is maintained for the inspection of machinery and engineering materials generally entering into the construction of new vessels; this force interprets and enforces strict compliance with the engineering specifications for the construction of vessels as regards the characteristics of the material used and the method of installation of completed parts. The offices of the inspectors of naval material, which are also composed of trained naval and civilian experts, are maintained for the purpose of inspecting and insuring strict compliance with the specifications of materials purchased for the maintenance of the Naval Establishment. These offices are available to and frequently used by other Federal departments for the inspection of material purchased for Government use.

It nominates to the Bureau of Navigation specially qualified officers for engineering duties at sea and on shore, including those for duty as inspectors of machinery and materials.

It compiles and issues instructions for the care, operation, and maintenance of engineering equipment and prepares and issues bulletins of official engineering information.

With the Bureau of Construction and Repair it has a joint supervision and control over the appropriations "Replacement of naval vessels, construction and machinery," and "Major alterations, naval vessels."

BUREAU OF MEDICINE AND SURGERY

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with and responsible for the maintenance of the health of the Navy, for the care of the sick and injured, for the custody and preservation of the records, accounts, and properties under its cognizance and pertaining to its duties, and for the professional education and training of officers, nurses, and men of the Medical Department.

It is charged with the management and control of all naval hospitals, medical supply depots, medical laboratories, the Naval Medical Center, and of all technical schools established for the education or training of members of the Medical Corps, Dental Corps, Nurse Corps, and Hospital Corps, and with their upkeep and operation.

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery shall provide for inspection of the sanitary condition of the Navy, and shall recommend with respect to all questions connected with hygiene and sanitation affecting the service; it shall advise with the Department and other bureaus in reference to the sanitary features of ships under construction and in commission, regarding berthing, ventilation, and location of quarters for the care and treatment of the sick and injured; of the provisions for the care of wounded in battle; and, in the case of shore stations, with regard to health conditions depending on location, the hygienic construction and care of public buildings, especially of barracks and other habitations, such as camps. It shall also advise concerning matters pertaining to clothing and food, to water supplies used for drinking, cooking, and bathing purposes, and to drainage and disposal of wastes, so far as these affect the health of the Navy. It shall safeguard the personnel by the employment of the best methods of hygiene and sanitation, both afloat and ashore, with a view to maintaining the highest possible percentage of the personnel ready for service at all times, and shall adopt for use all such devices or procedures as may be developed in the sciences of medicine and surgery as will in any way tend to an increase in military efficiency.

It shall be the duty of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery to provide for the physical examination of officers, nurses, and enlisted men, with a view to the selection or retention of those only whose physical condition is such as to maintain or improve the military efficiency of the service if admitted or retained therein; and it shall pass upon the competency, from a professional standpoint, of all men of the Hospital Corps for enlistment, enrollment, and promotion by means of examination conducted under its supervision or by such forms as it may prescribe.

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery shall recommend to the Bureau of Navigation the complement of Medical Department personnel for hospitals and hospital ships, and shall recommend and have information as to the assignment and duties of medical officers, dental officers, and Hospital Corps men. It shall be charged with the administration of the Nurse Corps, and shall have power to appoint and remove all nurses, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Navy.

It shall require for and have control of the preparation, reception, storage, care, custody, transfer, and issue of all supplies of every kind used in the Medical Department for its own purposes; and shall have charge of the civilian force employed at naval hospitals, medical supply depots, medical laboratories, the Naval Medical Center, and at all technical schools for the education or training of Medical Department personnel.

It shall approve the design of hospital ships insofar as relates to their efficiency for the care of the sick and wounded, and shall provide for the organization and administration of the medical department of such vessels.

The arrangements for care, transportation, and burial of the dead shall be under the jurisdiction and control of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

BUREAU OF SUPPLIES AND ACCOUNTS

The Bureau of Supplies and Accounts is charged with and responsible for the procurement, purchase, receipt, custody, warehousing, issue, and shipment of all supplies, fuel, and other materials for the Navy, except supplies for the Marine Corps, and except the procurement of certain special items of ordnance material, and the storage and issue of medical stores, ammunition, projectiles, mines, and explosives.

It has control of the Naval Supply Account Fund, the Naval Working Fund, the Clothing and Small Stores Fund, and the stocks procured from these funds.

It has charge of the upkeep and operation of the Naval Clothing Factory and the coffee roasting plants.

The Bureau exercises administrative supervision over fuel plants, commissary activities, supply depots, and storehouses at navy yards and stations.

It authorizes and has cognizance of the transportation of Navy property and household effects of Navy personnel. It has charge of the procurement of cargoes and the loading and discharging of supply ships, colliers, and tankers, and when necessary, charters merchant vessels for the transportation of supplies.

It handles the sale of condemned, salvaged, and scrap materials, and of condemned vessels.

The Bureau prepares and submits estimates of the funds required for freight, fuel, clothing, pay, allowances, subsistence, and transportation of Navy personnel, and has supervision of the allotments of funds from its appropriations and the accounting for allotments granted ships under all appropriations.

It recommends the necessity for, and the location, type, size, and interior arrangements of, storehouses ashore, and the equipment and arrangement of supply activity spaces afloat.

It has charge of the procurement and disbursement of funds for the payment of naval and civilian pay rolls and for all articles and services procured for the Navy.

It is charged with the keeping of the money and property accounts of the Naval Establishment, including accounts of all manufacturing and operating expenses at navy yards and stations, the direction of naval cost accounting, and the audit of property returns from ships and stations.

The Bureau originates the details to duty of officers of the Supply Corps.

BUREAU OF AERONAUTICS

The Bureau of Aeronautics is charged with matters pertaining to naval aeronautics as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy (sec. 8, act of Congress July 12, 1921).

The Bureau of Aeronautics, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with and responsible for all that relates to the design, construction, fitting out, testing, repair, and alteration of naval and Marine Corps aircraft and, except as specifically assigned to other cognizance, instruments, equipment, and accessories pertaining thereto.

It provides aircraft in accordance with approved operating plans.

It is charged with the upkeep and operation of all aeronautic shore establishments of the Navy and Marine Corps, exclusive of aircraft operations, and with their repairs, within the capacity of the force employed.

It makes recommendations covering all aeronautic matters as to operations, personnel, and material to the appropriate bureaus and offices of the Navy Department and the Headquarters, Marine Corps.

When not prescribed by the United States Navy Regulations, specific assignment of cognizance is as stated in the Manual of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

OFFICE OF THE JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL OF THE NAVY

The Judge Advocate General of the Navy has cognizance of all matters of law arising in the Navy Department and performs such other duties relating thereto as may be assigned him by the Secretary of the Navy.

Legal aspects of the administration of justice in the naval service come under the cognizance of the Judge Advocate General. Instructions for naval courts and boards are prepared and furnished to the service and court-martial orders and bulletins are issued from time to time to serve as guides. The proceedings of all courts-martial, courts of inquiry, and boards of investigation are reviewed to insure that there are no prejudicial errors. Charges and specifications for courts-martial and necessary orders convening courts-martial ordered by the Secretary of the Navy are prepared in this office. Naval prisons and prisoners are administered under the direction of the Judge Advocate General.

Boards for the selection of officers for promotion, boards for the examination of officers for promotion and retirement, and boards for the examination of candidates for appointment as officers in the naval service, other than midshipmen, are reviewed after the necessary convening orders have been prepared in this office for the Secretary of the Navy.

All legislation proposed by the Navy Department is drafted with necessary explanations of the existing law and statements of the purposes of the proposed legislation. An examination and report is also made upon all bills and resolutions introduced in Congress and referred to the Department for report.

International law and admiralty cases and claims for damages involving vessels and aircraft are reviewed and necessary action taken. Decisions and opinions on questions of law are prepared on a variety of subjects falling under the general heads of appointment, rank, precedence, promotion, retirement, pay, misconduct, line of duty, neutrality, and other miscellaneous matters. Official bonds for supply officers and navy mail clerks are examined and approved.

Contracts for naval vessels and public utilities are prepared and all payments and questions arising under these contracts are reviewed. All public building and service contracts are approved and claims arising thereunder are reviewed. The Judge Advocate General approves and retains on file all insurance policies, effects settlement thereunder, and passes on legal matters relative thereto. He handles matters in valuation, purchase, sale, rentals, permits, and licenses relating to real estate, legal matters relating to petroleum reserves, condemnation proceedings and defense of suits involving real estate, compromising settlements on war property, reviews and files muniments of title, adjusts claims for injury to private property through damage by Government automobiles, disposal of surplus material, sales of vessels, administration of public contracts act, and the act limiting profit on constructing naval aircraft and naval vessels.

The Office of the Judge Advocate General acts in the interest of the Government and of inventors by securing letters patent on a large number of inventions made yearly by personnel of the Naval Establishment. It is a further function of this office to investigate the scope and validity of patents either in connection with allegations of infringement or in connection with offers of assignments or licenses to determine their value to the Government. Cooperation is furnished the Department of Justice in gathering evidence for use in connection with the defense of suits relating to patents in the Court of Claims. Copyrights and trade-marks are also handled.

No oral or informal opinions are rendered. Formal opinions or decisions in writing are rendered only when directed by the Secretary of the Navy, and such opinions or decisions are the basis of official action by any bureau or office or officer of the Navy Department or Marine Corps only after the approval of such opinion or decision by the Secretary of the Navy.

HEADQUARTERS UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS

The Major General Commandant of the Marine Corps, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with and responsible for the procurement, discharge, education, training, discipline, and distribution of officers and enlisted personnel of the Marine Corps, including the Marine Corps Reserve, and the administration and general efficiency of the Marine Corps and of the Marine Corps Reserve. The headquarters is organized as the office of the Major General Commandant and three staff departments.

COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE

The Commissioner of the General Land Office is charged with the survey, management, leasing, and disposition of the public lands; adjudication of various kinds of applications filed under the public land laws; adjustment of conflicting claims; granting of railroad and other rights-of-way and easements; issuance of patents for lands; furnishing of certified copies of land patents, plats, and other records. In national forests executes all laws relating to surveying, prospecting, locating, appropriating, entering, reconveying, or patenting of public lands and the granting of rights-of-way.

COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has, under direction of the Secretary of the Interior, management of all Indian affairs and of all matters arising out of Indian relations. This includes the economic development of the Indian, both tribally and as an individual; the organization of Indian tribes, including credit organizations; Indian education in boarding schools, day schools, and community centers operated by the Government, and in public schools and other nongovernmental institutions; the health, medical, and sanitation activities; the land program, involving land acquisition and adjustment, tribal enrollment, land sales, and contracts; forestry, involving forest management, fire protection, grazing; the furtherance of an agricultural extension program; irrigation, both construction and maintenance and operation; the construction and upkeep of buildings at field units, and the construction and maintenance of roads and bridges on Indian lands; Indian emergency conservation work and other emergency activities; also health, education, and other activities in behalf of the natives of Alaska.

INDIAN ARTS AND CRAFTS BOARD

The Indian Arts and Crafts Board was created by the act of Congress approved August 27, 1935, and is composed of five members appointed by the Secretary of the Interior. Executive officers and other personnel are employed by the Board. The function of the Board is "to promote the economic welfare of the Indian tribes and the Indian wards of the Government through the development of Indian arts and crafts and the expansion of the market for the products of Indian art and craftsmanship." Broad powers are given the Board in the execution of this function, among which are the powers to engage in marketing and technical research, to engage in experimentation, to correlate activities of various governmental and private agencies in the field, to create Government trade-marks of genuineness and quality for Indian products, to establish standards and regulations for the use of such trade-marks, to license groups or individuals to use them, and to charge a fee for their use.

THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The Commissioner of Education has charge of the Office of Education, which was established by an act of Congress in 1867 "for the purpose of collecting such statistics and facts as shall show the condition and progress of education in the several States and Territories, and of diffusing such information respecting the organization and management of schools and school systems, and methods of teaching, as shall aid the people of the United States in the establishment and maintenance of efficient school systems, and otherwise promote the cause of education throughout the country." Additional duties have been placed upon the Office of Education in accordance with provisions in later acts of Congress and with executive regulations made under the same. Responsibilities are undertaken for all phases and all levels of education, from the beginning grades through the university, and relate to such major functions as are described below:

1. Administration, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, of laws of Congress. This responsibility includes: (a) The supervision of expenditures of funds appropriated by Congress for land-grant colleges by the act of 1862 (first Morrill Act) donating lands for colleges of agriculture and the mechanic arts, the act of 1890 (second Morrill Act) for the further endowment of land-grant colleges, the Nelson amendment of 1907, still further endowing the land-grant colleges and the Bankhead-Jones Act of 1935 (sec. 22) providing for the more complete endowment and support of land-grant colleges. The Secretary of the Interior is required annually to ascertain and to certify to the Secretary of the Treasury as to each State and Territory whether it is entitled to receive its share of the annual appropriations. To do this it is necessary to collect and compile for each institution information on expenditures and the purposes for which they were made. (b) The inspection of Howard University and the issuance of a report on the same. Acts of Congress require that the University be inspected by the Office of Education at least once each year and that an annual report making a full exhibit of the affairs of the University shall be presented to Congress each year in the report of the Office of Education. (c) The planning and supervision of educational programs in all Civilian Conservation Corps camps and the appointment of all educational directors for the camps. (d) The administration of Federal vocational education laws.

2. Educational research and investigation.—(a) Studies of current problems in all phases and at all levels of education regularly carried on by specialists in various fields of education. (b) Biennial surveys of education including both statistical and descriptive forms of information on the status of education in all fields. (c) Surveys in definite phases of education authorized by special appropriations of Congress. (d) Library research work as a regular function of the Office, by special authorization of Congress. (e) Projects and demonstrations carried on by allotments made to the Department of the Interior, Office of Education, from special funds appropriated by Congress.

3. Field services.—(a) Surveys of State and local school systems and of educational institutions. (b) Cooperative studies with representatives of educational systems and organizations. (c) Services on educational committees and through conference groups. (d) Participation in programs of educational organizations. (e) Advisory services to school officials. (f) Advisory and informational services to other Government agencies.

4. Library service.—The library of more than a quarter million volumes, together with charts, maps, and other forms of materials on educational data, provides facilities for study to a large number who come to its reference rooms and to larger numbers who have books made available to them through a system of inter library loans.

5. Publications and their distribution.—The Office by means of its appropriation for printing publishes bulletins, pamphlets, and other forms of materials for distribution through a limited free stock and a sales stock. Carefully selected mailing lists are prepared for the free copies. The Office also publishes a monthly journal, School Life, covering educational practices and current problems.

The Federal Board for Vocational Education was created by act of Congress approved February 23, 1917 (Smith-Hughes Act). This act makes continuing appropriations to be expended in the States under State plans for the promotion of vocational education. For the fiscal year 1917–18 the amount appropriated was $1,660,000, and the appropriation increased each year until in 1925–26 it reached $7,167,000, which sum was provided annually thereafter. An act approved February 5, 1929 (George-Reed Act), authorized an additional appropriation of $250,000 for agriculture and $250,000 for home economics for the fiscal year 1930, and for each year thereafter, for 4 years, a sum exceeding by $250,000 the appropriation of the preceding year for the promotion of vocational education in each of these two fields. This act expired on June 30, 1934, but an act approved May 21, 1934 (George-Ellzey Act), authorized an appropriation of $3,084,603 for each of the fiscal years 1935, 1936, and 1937 for the further development of vocational education to be used in equal amounts for instruction in agricultural subjects, home economics subjects, and trade and industrial education subjects. The George-Ellzey Act expired June 30, 1937, but an act approved June 8, 1936 (George-Deen Act), authorized an appropriation of $14,483,000 for the further development of vocational education in the States and Territories; $12,175,000 of which is to be used in equal amounts for vocational education in agriculture, trade, and industry, and home economics; $1,254,000 for vocational education in the distributive occupations; and $1,054,000 for the training of teachers of distributive occupational subjects. The money appropriated under these acts is to be allotted to the States on the basis of rural, farm, non-farm, urban, or total population as designated in the acts, for the promotion of vocational education in agriculture, trades and industries, home economics, and the distributive occupations, and for the preparation of teachers of vocational subjects. Utilization of allotments under the first three acts is authorized upon condition that for each dollar of Federal money expended the State or local community, or both, shall expend at least an equal amount for the same purpose. Under the George-Deen Act, States and Territories participating in the grants are required to match only 50 percent of these grants for the first 5 years in which the act is operative or until June 30, 1942; this matching percentage being increased by 10 percent annually thereafter until it reaches 100 percent beginning July 1, 1946.

The duties imposed upon the Board by the National Vocational Education Act were of a twofold character: On the one hand, as representative of the Government the Federal Board cooperated with State boards for vocational education in promoting vocational education; and, on the other, as a research agency it was required to make, or cause to have made, studies, investigations, and reports to aid the States in developing their programs. As representative of the Government, it examined the plans submitted by the State boards, presenting in the case of each State the scheme of vocational education to be conducted by the State, and approved plans found to be in conformity with the provisions and purposes of the act. It ascertained annually whether the several States were using or were prepared to use the money received by them in accordance with the provisions of the statute and each year it certified to the Secretary of the Treasury the States which complied with the provisions of the act, together with the amount which each State was entitled to receive. It was expressly required to make studies, investigations, and reports dealing with occupational processes and educational requirements for workers and apprentices, and with problems of administration of vocational schools and of courses of instruction in vocational subjects, in the several fields of agricultural, trade and industrial, home economics, and commercial employment.

The Federal Board for Vocational Education was designated as the administrative agency, also, of the Civilian Vocational Rehabilitation Act, approved June 2, 1920. By this act the Federal Government agrees to cooperate with the States in rehabilitating and restoring to remunerative employment any persons disabled in industry or otherwise. Under this act the duties imposed upon the Federal Board include the making of rules and regulations appropriate for carrying out the purposes of the act; cooperation with the States in the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons; examination of State plans and their approval, if in conformity with the provisions of the act; and cooperation in this work with public and private agencies. The Federal Board was required to ascertain annually whether the States are properly using Federal funds and to certify, on or before the 1st day of January of each year, to the Secretary of the Treasury those States which have accepted and complied with the provisions of the law, designating the amount of money which each State was entitled to receive. To aid the States, the Federal Board was authorized to make studies and investigations of the vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons and their placement in suitable or gainful occupations. Acts authorizing continuation of appropriations for this purpose were approved June 5, 1924, June 9, 1930, June 30, 1932, and June 6, 1936 (effective July 1, 1937). The Social Security Act, approved August 14, 1935, provides for a considerable increase in the funds to be paid to the States for vocational rehabilitation.

An act approved March 10, 1924, extended the benefits of the Vocational Education and Rehabilitation Acts to the Territory of Hawaii and authorized annual appropriations for this purpose.

An act approved February 23, 1929, extended to the District of Columbia the program for rehabilitating disabled persons. This act provided that the Board should be the active operating agency in the District. An amending act approved April 17, 1937, authorized an increased appropriation for this work.

An act of March 3, 1931, extended the Vocational Education and Rehabilitation Acts to the island of Puerto Rico, and authorized annual appropriations for this purpose.

An act of June 20, 1936, authorized the operation of stands in Federal buildings by blind persons, to enlarge the economic opportunities of the blind, and for other purposes.

Under Executive order of June 10, 1933, the functions of the Federal Board for Vocational Education were transferred to the Department of the Interior. These functions were assigned to the Commissioner of Education on October 10, 1933. The Board now acts in an advisory capacity without compensation.

Civilian Conservation Corps camp education.—On December 7, 1933, the President approved a plan for an educational program in the Civilian Conservation Corps camps. Under this plan, the Office of Education, acting in an advisory capacity to the War Department, is responsible for the selection and appointment of corps area, district, and camp educational advisers, and recommends to the Secretary of War the outlines of instruction, teaching procedures, and types of teaching material for use in the camps.

DIRECTOR OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

The organic act of the Geological Survey, approved on March 3, 1879 (20 Stat. 377), established the office of Director of the Geological Survey under the Interior Department. Under this act it is provided that the Director shall have the direction of the Geological Survey, the classification of the public lands, and the examination of the geological structure and the mineral resources and products of the national domain. In conformity with its organic act and later legislation the Geological Survey is engaged in the preparation and publication of reports upon the geology and mineral resources of the United States and Alaska, and in the chemical and physical research incident to this work; in the preparation, publication, and sale of topographic maps of the United States and its dependencies; in investigating and reporting upon water resources, both surface and underground; in classifying the public lands as to their mineral and power value and in supervising the technical phases of mineral leasing on lands in which the title to the mineral resources remains in the United States.

COMMISSIONER OF RECLAMATION

The Commissioner, under supervision of the Secretary of the Interior, is charged with the responsibility for the operation of all activities of the Bureau, including investigation of irrigation resources; preparation of plans, construction, operation, and maintenance of irrigation projects, including power development; administration of funds provided for reclamation; the settlement and improvement of irrigated lands; the repayment of sums due from irrigators; and the investigation of reclamation and farm development projects both inside and outside of the arid region of the United States.

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

Under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, administers the national park system in accordance with the act of August 26, 1916, as amended; the act of June 8, 1906; the Executive order of June 10, 1933; the act of August 21, 1935; and the act of June 23, 1936; formulates policies and directs protective work from standpoint of preservation and utilization and enjoyment of visitors; directs construction from engineering, architectural, and landscape viewpoints, including sanitation facilities; directs public educational service in natural sciences, history, and archeology, and provides for museum developments; and is responsible for the investigation of national park, monument, and historic site projects. The Director is charged with the supervision of the Civilian Conservation Corps work on Federal and State park lands and with the supervision of park, parkway, and recreational areas, and historic sites and buildings surveys.

DIRECTOR OF THE BUREAU OF MINES

The Director of the Bureau of Mines is charged with the investigation of methods of mining, especially in relation to the safety of miners, the appliances best adapted to prevent accidents, and the possible improvement of conditions under which mining operations are carried on; the treatment of ores and other mineral substances; the use of explosives and electricity; the prevention of accidents; the prevention of waste; the improvement of methods in the production of petroleum and natural gas; and other inquiries and technological investigations pertinent to such industries. He has charge of tests and analyses of ores, coals, lignites, and other mineral fuel substances belonging to or for use of the United States; has charge of the collection of statistics on mineral resources, and economic studies of metals and minerals produced or consumed in the United States and of statistical and other economic information pertaining to world production, distribution, and consumption of all mineral commodities; supervises all work relating to the production and conservation of helium; in case of war he has charge of issuance of licenses covering the manufacture, distribution, storage, use, or possession of all explosives and their ingredients.

THE ALASKA RAILROAD

The Alaskan Engineering Commission was created under the act of March 12, 1914, which empowered, authorized, and directed the President to locate, construct, operate, or lease a railroad, or railroads, to connect one or more of the open harbors on the southern coast of Alaska with the navigable waters in the interior, and a coal field or fields, and agricultural lands. Authority was also granted to purchase existing railroads, to construct, maintain, and operate telegraph and telephone lines, and to make reservations of public lands in Alaska necessary for the purposes of the railroad.

For the execution of this work a commission of three engineers was appointed by the President to make the necessary surveys. They were directed to report to the Secretary of the Interior, under whom the President placed the general administration of the work. After the completion of the preliminary surveys, the President, by Executive order, selected the route for the railway from the coast to the interior. Construction of the railway was begun in 1915 under the general supervision of the Secretary of the Interior.

The railroad was completed in the spring of 1923 and is now under operation. By Executive order of June 8, 1923, the President placed the operation of the railroad under the Secretary of the Interior, and by order of the Secretary of the Interior of August 15, 1923, the designation of the Alaskan Engineering Commission was changed to The Alaska Railroad, and a general manager was appointed in October of 1923, whose headquarters are at Anchorage, Alaska, with a purchasing office at Seattle, Wash., and a freight, passenger, and general business office at 333 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill. Reports and miscellaneous correspondence in relation to the railroad are handled in the Division of Territories and Island Possessions.

ALASKA ROAD COMMISSION

The Board of Road Commissioners in Alaska was created by the act of Congress approved January 27, 1905 (sec. 2), amended by the act approved May 14, 1906. By act approved June 30, 1932, the duties of the board were transferred from the jurisdiction of the Secretary of War to the Secretary of the Interior. Funds for the work are derived from a tax fund collected in Alaska and from special appropriations made by Congress.

The board is charged by law with the construction, repair, and maintenance of roads, tramways, ferries, bridges, and trails in the Territory of Alaska.

Under the act of June 30, 1921, there was authorized to be received from the Territory of Alaska or other source, funds contributed for the construction, repair, and maintenance of roads, bridges, trails, and related works, said funds to be deposited in the United States Treasury and expended in accordance with the purpose for which they were contributed.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

The Secretary of Agriculture is charged with the work of promoting agriculture in its broadest sense. He exercises general supervision and control over the affairs of the Department and formulates and establishes the general policies to be pursued by its various branches.

The Under Secretary and Assistant Secretary act for the Secretary in his absence and assist in the general direction of the work of the Department.

DIRECTORS

Each of the directors of extension work, marketing and regulatory work, research, personnel, finance, and information, reporting directly to the Secretary, has general supervision over all the work of the Department of the type which the title of his position implies.

OFFICE OF LAND USE COORDINATION

The Office of Land Use Coordination directs the coordination of land-use activities as they relate to the work of the Department as a whole, including the integration of land policies and the clearance of land acquisition projects; the establishment of uniform standards for surveys relating to land use and the correlation of survey projects; the formulation of policies relating to water utilization, water conservation, and water facilities programs; the coordination of administrative and procedural phases of the land-use programs; integration of the Department's land-use programs with those of State agencies. The Office cooperates with the Director of Research and chiefs of bureaus in coordinating land-use research with the survey and detailed planning work of the action agencies and also cooperates with heads of action agencies in coordinating basic land-use policies and programs. On behalf of the Secretary, staff members of the Office represent the Department on the National Resources Committee and in other interdepartmental activities relating to land use.

OFFICE OF PERSONNEL

This Office has general direction and supervision of the personnel, salary classification, organization, placement, safety work, training, and related operations of the Department as a whole. It conducts the business of the Department with the Civil Service Commission and, where personnel matters are concerned, with other agencies doing business with the Department of Agriculture.

OFFICE OF BUDGET AND FINANCE

This Office exercises general direction and supervision of the budget, fiscal, purchasing, accounting, and related work of the Department. It conducts the business of the Department with the Bureau of the Budget, the General Accounting Office, the Treasury Department, the Appropriations Committees, and other agencies of the Government concerned with fiscal and related matters.

OFFICE OF PLANT AND OPERATIONS

This office has general direction and supervision of the housing of Department activities, development of standards in connection with selection, use, maintenance, and repair of equipment, departmental service and management function of the Beltsville Research Center, communications service and administrative services for the internal operation of the office of the Secretary. It conducts the business of the Department, as it pertains to the above functions, with Government and other agencies.

OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR

The Solicitor is the legal adviser of the Secretary and the heads of the several branches of the Department. He directs and supervises all law work of the Department.

OFFICE OF INFORMATION

The Office of Information supervises the publication, press, and radio activities of the Department. It has general supervision of all editing, illustrating, indexing, printing and binding, and distributing of publications. It cooperates with the bureaus in the accurate recording of the results of scientific agricultural research and in the printing of these results in technical publications, and then assists the scientists and the bureaus to popularize this information in publications that are available to farmers, homemakers, and others interested in the practical use of the facts. Such publications serve to facilitate the Department's voluminous correspondence and reduce its cost. Through newspapers, farm journals, and other periodicals, this Office also secures the circulation in popular form of the discoveries and recommendations of the scientists, specialists, and field workers of the Department, thus enlarging the Department's service by placing facts about improved practices in the hands of greater numbers who can benefit by this information. The Office serves as a departmental clearing house for reports of the provisions of and the progress made in programs involving direct cooperation between farmers or groups of farmers and units of the Department; it correlates such information and serves to promote efficiency in its dissemination for use by farmers and the general public. This Office also furnishes daily to 380 radio stations, in all parts of the country, authentic, timely information of practical use to farmers and others. Radio stations donate the broadcasting time as an aid in disseminating facts about the important discoveries made by the Department, the farm and home practices recommended by it, and the program of its work involving direct cooperation between farmers or groups of farmers and units of the Department.

LIBRARY

The Department library, with its branch libraries in the various bureaus, contains approximately 285,000 volumes on agriculture, the related sciences, and economics, exclusive of the collections in the Weather Bureau library, which comprise more than 50,000 volumes. It receives currently approximately 5,000 periodicals.

The dictionary card catalog of the main library, containing three-quarters of a million cards, is a record of the book resources of the whole Department. It is supplemented by several extensive special indexes which are maintained by the branch libraries in the various bureaus. These together form the most comprehensive bibliography of agriculture and the related sciences available in the United States. Various current lists of accessions are also issued by the main library and the branch libraries.

The library lends its books for purposes of research to other libraries and institutions throughout the country, especially to the State agricultural colleges and experiment stations, and through the cooperation of the Bibliofilm Service of the American Documentation Institute is also able to supply film copies of scientific articles when desired, particularly those contained in periodicals. It also furnishes bibliographical assistance and endeavors in various other ways to serve as the national agricultural library.

OFFICE OF EXPERIMENT STATIONS

The Office of Experiment Stations administers Federal funds provided by the Hatch, Adams, Purnell, and supplementary acts, and the Bankhead-Jones Act for the support of research in agriculture and home economics by experiment stations in the several States and Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, and has immediate supervision of the experiment station of the Department of Agriculture in Puerto Rico. It examines in detail the work and expenditures of the State experiment stations to ascertain whether the Federal funds for their support are used and accounted for in accordance with the Federal acts and rulings, and reports annually on the work and expenditures of the experiment stations, as required by law.

The Office aids in coordinating the research work of the Department of Agriculture and in coordinating the research work of the Department with that of the State, Alaskan, Hawaiian, and Puerto Rican agricultural colleges and experiment stations. It collects and disseminates information and gives such advice and assistance as will best promote the efficiency of the stations and the effective coordination of their work with that of the Department, including the issuance of Experiment Station Record which gives a current review of progress and results of scientific research conducted by the stations and other agencies for the improvement of agriculture and rural life.

The Office is responsible for the administration of the "Special research fund, Department of Agriculture," including the planning and coordination of the research program of the Department under this fund which is authorized by the Bankhead-Jones Act of June 29, 1935. The Chief of the Office, as Director of Research, with the cooperation of the bureaus involved, is responsible for the planning and coordination of the programs of the four regional research laboratories authorized by section 202 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938.

EXTENSION SERVICE

The Extension Service cooperates with State agricultural colleges, under the Smith-Lever and supplementary acts, in making available to rural people information on agriculture and home economics. Its workers assist adults and young people in the application of the results of research to meet local conditions and to the individual farm and home enterprises. The Extension Service acts as an agency for coordinating the extension activities of the several bureaus of the Department with similar work conducted by the State agricultural colleges. It also has charge of the Department's activity in the preparation, distribution, and display of agricultural exhibits and motion pictures. Through these educational activities extension work serves to aid in maintaining and stimulating the interests of farm families in a progressive agriculture.

FOREIGN AGRICULTURAL SERVICE

The Foreign Agricultural Service administers the provisions of the act of Congress of June 5, 1930 (Public, No. 404). The Service provides current crop and market information, makes technical investigations relating to foreign markets, and reports on supply and demand conditions as they affect export prospects for our surplus agricultural products. The Service also promotes the use of our official grades and standards in foreign markets.

The Foreign Agricultural Service coordinates the relations of the Department of Agriculture in respect to foreign trade and allied problems and policies with the Department of State and other departments and agencies of the Government and with foreign governments and private agencies.

AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT ADMINISTRATION

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration is established within the Department of Agriculture to carry out certain provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938; certain provisions of the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, approved February 29, 1936, and later amended; the Marketing Agreement Act of 1937; the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933; and other related legislation.

The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, among other things, provides for regulation of interstate and foreign commerce in cotton, corn, wheat, tobacco, and rice, so as to maintain adequate reserves and to minimize fluctuations in supplies, marketings, and prices of these commodities, thereby assisting farmers in obtaining a fair share of the national income and assisting consumers in obtaining an adequate and steady supply of these commodities at fair prices. The act authorizes parity payments to producers of these five commodities whenever appropriations are made available therefor; and provides Federal crop insurance for wheat, beginning with the crop planted for harvest in 1939.

The amended Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act empowers the Secretary of Agriculture to encourage farm practices that protect and improve the soil by making payments to producers who adopt specific soil-building practices or who increase the proportion of their land devoted to soil-conserving crops by shifting from the production of intensively cultivated soil-depleting crops.

In determining such payments, the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to consider (1) producers' treatment or use of their land for soil restoration or conservation, or prevention of erosion; (2) changes in the use of their land; (3) their equitable share of the normal national production required for domestic consumption; (4) their equitable share of the normal national production for domestic consumption and exports, adjusted to reflect their conformity to conservational farming practices; or (5) any combination of these considerations.

Interest of domestic consumers is taken into account through provisions in the act that (1) no action shall be taken under it which will discourage production of a supply of any agricultural commodity equal to the domestic consumption of that commodity during the years 1920–29, as adjusted in view of changes in population and shifts in marketing and consumption of the commodity, and (2) that due consideration shall be given to the maintenance of a continuous and stable supply of agricultural commodities adequate to meet consumer demands at prices fair to both producers and consumers. The Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act authorizes the appropriation of not more than $500,000,000 annually for carrying out the purposes of the act, and the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to use the organization and personnel of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to effectuate those purposes.

The Marketing Agreement Act of 1937 authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to enter into marketing agreements with processors and handlers of certain agricultural commodities and with producers and associations of producers of these commodities, such agreements being designed to stabilize and improve the market conditions of the commodities concerned and to increase the returns to their producers by regulating the flow of the products in commerce with foreign nations and among the States and by other methods. Under certain conditions the Secretary is empowered to issue orders supplementing the marketing agreements. Under section 32 of the act of August 24, 1935 (Public, No. 320, 74th Cong.), funds are provided and authority is given for removing burdensome surpluses of agricultural commodities from ordinary market channels, for encouraging and stimulating domestic and foreign consumption of these commodities, and for making payments to producers in connection with the production of that part of any agricultural commodity required for domestic consumption.

FEDERAL SURPLUS COMMODITIES CORPORATION

The Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation was organized on October 4, 1933, under the laws of the State of Delaware, as the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation, a nonprofit corporation without capital stock, the members of which were designated as the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States, the Administrator of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, and the Administrator of the Public Works Administration. On November 18, 1935, the charter of the Corporation was amended to change the name to the present title, "Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation," and to change the membership of the Corporation so that it would consist of those persons who from time to time may occupy the positions of the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States, the Administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration. These changes effected transfer of direction of the Corporation from the Federal Emergency Relief Administration to the Department of Agriculture.

With the passage of Public, No. 165, Seventy-fifth Congress, approved June 28, 1937, the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation has become the principal agency of the Secretary of Agriculture for the removal of surplus agricultural commodities and their diversion from the normal channels of trade to the needy and underfed. The Corporation purchases, exchanges, processes, transports, handles, stores, and distributes surplus agricultural commodities pursuant to the directions of the Secretary of Agriculture on a noncommercial basis and finds outlets for these commodities through State relief agencies, who make the commodities available to relief families in addition to, rather than in substitution for, other forms of direct relief.

FEDERAL CROP INSURANCE CORPORATION

The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation administers the Federal crop insurance program of the Department of Agriculture. At the present time, crop insurance is available only to wheat farmers. Investigations are, however, being made to determine the possibility of offering crop insurance with respect to cotton, corn, and fruit.

BUREAU OF AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics conducts studies of the economics of production and marketing, farm organization, farm financial relations, farm labor, land economics, and the problems of rural life. It acquires and disseminates current information regarding the marketing and distribution of farm products; collects, compiles, summarizes, interprets, and makes public statistical data relating to agricultural production, including crop and livestock estimates, and estimates of the grade and staple length of the cotton crop and carry-over; studies marketing methods and conditions and the standardization, transportation, handling, financing, utilization, and storage of agricultural products; prepares and publishes reports on the outlook for farm products; and issues quarterly reports on stocks of leaf tobacco.

Reports are issued which furnish information on the supply, commercial movement, disposition, and market prices of fruits and vegetables, livestock and livestock products, dairy and poultry products, grain, hay, feed, seed, cotton, cottonseed, tobacco, and other products. Information is obtained and published also with regard to the supply of and demand for agricultural products in foreign countries. A market inspection service is available in many of the principal producing areas and receiving centers on fruits and vegetables, hay, beans, and other products, and a grading service is conducted on dairy and poultry products, canned fruits and vegetables, meats, tobacco, cottonseed, and rice.

Regulatory work is performed in connection with the enforcement of the Cotton Futures Act, Cotton Standards Act, Grain Standards Act, Standard Container Act, Standard Hamper Act, Produce Agency Act, Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act, the Tobacco Inspection Act, and the administration of the Warehouse Act.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics administers the land-conservation and land-utilization program provided for under title III of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act of July 22, 1937.

BUREAU OF AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERING

The Bureau of Agricultural Engineering conducts investigations of farm irrigation, farm drainage, farm machinery, farm buildings, and other rural engineering problems. These investigations include studies of the hydraulics of flow in open watercourses and in closed conduits; organization, administration, and operation of community enterprises for irrigating and for draining farm lands; water requirements for irrigating various lands and crops; land-clearing methods; rearrangement of field boundaries for effective use of farming machinery; mechanical equipment for use in producing crops, farm processing of products, and controlling insect pests; and the planning and construction of farm buildings. Service is rendered in the design and construction of engineering structures and the purchase of engineering equipment for other bureaus of the Department. The Bureau gives supervision to the Civilian Conservation Corps camps working on the maintenance of drainage improvements in organized drainage enterprises.

BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY

The Bureau of Animal Industry is primarily concerned with the protection and development of the livestock and meat industries of the United States. It conducts scientific investigations of the causes, prevention, and treatment of diseases of domestic animals; investigates the existence of communicable diseases of such animals, and aids in their control or eradication; and carries on investigations and experiments in animal husbandry, and in the feeding and breeding of animals. It also is charged with the administration of the Meat Inspection Act, the Animal Quarantine Acts, the 28-hour law, the Diseased Animal Transportation Acts, the Virus-Serum-Toxin Act, and the act relating to the supervision of the business in interstate commerce of packers, designated public stockyard markets, and commission men, traders, and other agencies operating in the public stockyard markets of the United States, and of licensees engaged in handling live poultry at certain designated markets.

NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH CENTER

The administrative organization of the National Agricultural Research Center provides for the general supervision of the entire plant and the development and operation of the common facilities required by the organizations of the Department engaged in fundamental agricultural research. The general superintendent of the center serves as the representative of the Secretary of Agriculture and the chiefs of the respective bureaus.

Eight bureaus of the Department of Agriculture and two bureaus of the Department of Commerce are represented. These include the Bureau of Animal Industry—Animal Disease Experiment Station, Division of Animal Husbandry (beef-cattle, dual-purpose cattle, goat, horse, meat, nutrition, poultry, sheep, and swine investigations), Division of Pathology, and Division of Zoology; Bureau of Biological Survey; Bureau of Dairy Industry; Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine—bee-culture investigations, control investigations, fruit insect investigations, insecticide investigations, insects affecting man and animals, and truck-crop and garden insects investigation; Food and Drug Administration—Insecticide Control Section; Forest Service; Soil Conservation Service; and Bureau of Plant Industry—horticultural station and forage crops and diseases investigation. The Department of Commerce activities include the National Bureau of Standards (radio section) and the Bureau of Air Commerce (airway beacon).

BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY

The Bureau of Biological Survey, the "wildlife service" of the Federal Government, studies the habits, needs, and utilization of the Nation's wild mammals, birds, reptiles, and amphibians and makes the results available for practical application in wildlife management, including preservation in the wild and on refuges, propagation in captivity, local control, and protection by conservation-law administration.

The Bureau's organization embraces nine divisions, concerned with (1) research, (2) Federal aid to States in wildlife restoration, (3) land acquisition, (4) refuge administration, (5) construction and C. C. C. operations, (6) wildlife conservation-law enforcement, (7) predator and rodent control, (8) business administration, and (9) disseminating information developed through wildlife research and management and facilitating law enforcement by acquainting the public with the nature and need of regulatory action.

Most of the Bureau's field work other than research and land acquisition is conducted through a regional organization under ten regional directors.

Established in 1885 for research purposes, the Survey has since been charged with (1) wildlife protection by the Lacey Act of 1900, by the Migratory Bird Treaty Act of 1918, as amended in 1936, and by other Federal laws; (2) refuge administration and restoration, by Executive orders beginning in 1903 and by the Migratory Bird Conservation Act of 1929; (3) cooperative control of species injurious to agriculture and stock raising, by congressional legislation in 1915 and subsequently; and (4) cooperation with the States under the Federal Aid to Wildlife Restoration Act of 1937. The early functions in economic and biological investigations and game protection have been expanded to meet changing conditions and to care for added responsibilities in cooperating with States and with farmers', sportsmen's, and other organizations interested in or affected by wildlife.

Research by the Survey, independently and in cooperation with State and Federal Government agencies and with educational and other institutions, includes (1) investigations concerned with the identification, classification, geographic distribution, and migration of species and their life history, ecology, and habitat; (2) studies of cover and food requirements in the wild and as influenced by the encroachment of agricultural and other economic interests on faunal ranges; (3) experiments in perpetuating the valuable wildlife resources through restoration of natural habitat, propagation on game and fur farms, and conservation on bird refuges, game preserves, forests, water areas, and elsewhere; and (4) investigations of control methods and of wildlife diseases that affect fur, game, and livestock production and human health.

The wildlife-management work, in the broad sense, embraces (1) refuge acquisition, restoration, development, patrol, and maintenance; (2) law enforcement, including the drafting of regulations for carrying out international obligations in the conservation of migratory species and the regulation of interstate shipments and importations of wild animals or parts thereof; (3) cooperative work with State and other organizations for the restoration and conservation of valuable species and for the control, where destructive, of predators, rodents, and other forms of wildlife; and (4) through the Alaska Game Commission, related management of the wildlife resources of the Territory of Alaska.

BUREAU OF CHEMISTRY AND SOILS

The Bureau of Chemistry and Soils is primarily concerned with the more profitable utilization of the country's soil resources and the conversion of farm products into farm profits.

The work of this Bureau is organized along three major lines—(1) chemical and technological research, (2) soil investigations, and (3) fertilizer investigations.

(1) Under research and technology is grouped the work relating to the application of the science of chemistry to the improvement of agriculture; development of processes for the utilization of agricultural products; biological, chemical, physical, microscopical, and technological investigation of foods, feeds, drugs, and substances used in the manufacture thereof, including studies of their physiological effects on the human organism; experiments on the utilization of agricultural and other raw materials for coloring, medicinal, and technical purposes; development of improved processes and equipment in the production of rosin and turpentine; and development of means to prevent farm fires and dust explosions.

(2) The soil work of the Bureau includes the classification and mapping of the soils of the United States, studies of the agricultural value of soils, their characteristics in relation to productiveness, their origin and development, and their chemical and mechanical compositions.

(3) The fertilizer work involves the study of the fertilizer resources of the country and of the preparation and properties of fertilizer materials and mixtures, including nitrogen and its fixation, phosphates, potash, high-analysis mixtures, organic waste products, and miscellaneous soil amendments.

COMMODITY EXCHANGE ADMINISTRATION

The Commodity Exchange Administration is charged with the enforcement of the Commodity Exchange Act (Grain Futures Act of 1922, as amended June 15, 1936). This involves Federal regulation of all commodity exchanges which conduct a futures market in any of the following commodities: Wheat, cotton, corn, oats, barley, rye, rice, flaxseed, grain sorghums, mill feeds, butter, eggs, Irish potatoes, and wool tops. Such exchanges are required to qualify under the act as contract markets and be so designated by the Secretary of Agriculture.

This administration is engaged in the continuous and systematic observance of future trading and speculative activity in the above-named commodities with a view to: (1) Prevent manipulation and corners, and excessive speculation, causing unreasonable and unnatural price fluctuations; (2) prevent the dissemination of false or misleading crop and market information affecting prices; (3) prevent cheating, fraud, and deceit in connection with the execution of customers' orders; (4) insure proper treatment and handling by commission firms of moneys belonging to their customers; (5) prevent bucketing and fictitious transactions; and (6) compel registration by futures commission merchants and floor brokers handling orders for others. Reports are compiled and released daily concerning volume of trading and amount of open futures contracts in various commodities; complaints are investigated, and general studies are made concerning the operations of contract markets, which are published from time to time for the information of Congress and the general public. The administration cooperates with other governmental agencies in obtaining factual data and in providing information of interest and value in connection with supply and demand factors affecting prices.

BUREAU OF DAIRY INDUSTRY

The Bureau of Dairy Industry conducts investigations of the various problems of dairy production and of the manufacture of dairy products and byproducts. These include studies in the breeding, feeding, and management of dairy herds; effect of minerals in feed in maintaining milk yield, animal growth and reproduction, and other nutritional problems, and the efficiency and economy of production through the operation of dairy-herd improvement associations; sanitary methods for the improvement of city milk supplies; efficiency of dairy machinery, milk-plant operation and milk transportation, and factors affecting the commercial value of milk; bacteriology and chemistry of milk; factors concerned in the manufacture of various dairy products and byproducts, and the development of new or improved processes of manufacture and their introduction into creameries and factories. The Bureau is also charged with the enforcement of regulatory laws pertaining to the sanitary inspection of renovated-butter factories.

BUREAU OF ENTOMOLOGY AND PLANT QUARANTINE

The Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine is concerned with investigations on insects and their economic relations; the development and application of methods for their eradication or control; the carrying out, in cooperation with the States, of necessary work to prevent the spread and to control or eradicate insect pests and plant diseases that have gained more or less limited foothold in the United States; and the utilization of those species that are beneficial. These activities include investigations on and direction of control campaigns against the species injurious to agriculture and forestry; investigations on the species affecting the health of man and animals, or infesting human habitations or injurious to industries; the culture and use of honeybees and beekeeping practices; investigations on the natural enemies of insects and plant pests and the possibility of using these as aids for control; the taxonomy, anatomy, physiology, and responses of insects; chemical and other problems relating to the composition, action, and application of insecticides; and the development of methods of manufacturing insecticides and materials used with them.

To aid in carrying out these assignments and to protect agriculture from plant pests and diseases, the Bureau is responsible for the enforcement of the following acts and restrictive orders promulgated thereunder: The Plant Quarantine Act of 1912, as amended; the Insect Pest Act of 1905; the act of 1922 governing the importation of adult honeybees; the act providing for the Mexican border inspection and control service; the act providing for export certification to meet sanitary requirements of foreign countries for plants and plant products; the Terminal Inspection Act of 1915, as amended (in cooperation with the Post Office Department).

FARM SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

The Farm Security Administration (formerly the Resettlement Administration) is engaged in carrying out the tenant purchase and rural rehabilitation programs authorized by titles I and II of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act of July 22, 1937. It also is completing resettlement projects started by the Resettlement Administration and making arrangements for their management.

Under the tenant purchase program, the Farm Security Administration is authorized to make loans to competent tenants, share-croppers, and farm laborers to enable them to become farm owners. Congress appropriated $10,000,000 for this purpose for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1938, and has authorized appropriations of $25,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1939, and $50,000,000 for each fiscal year thereafter. Funds are distributed among the States and Territories on the basis of farm population and the prevalence of tenancy. Loans are made at 3-percent interest for periods not exceeding 40 years.

The rural rehabilitation program is intended to enable farm families on relief or near relief to become permanently self-supporting. The Farm Security Administration makes loans to low-income farm families, who are unable to obtain reasonable credit from any other source, for the purchase of farm supplies, equipment, and livestock, for the refinancing of indebtedness, and for family subsistence. Each standard loan is accompanied by a farm and home management plan, providing for intelligent farm operation and soil-conserving practices.

Emergency loans and grants are made in cases of extreme distress in farm areas devastated by drought, flood, and similar catastrophes.

Through its voluntary debt-adjustment committees, the Farm Security Administration helps debt-burdened farmers adjust their financial obligations. These committees help arrange agreements between the farmer and his creditors, thus enabling the debtor to retain his property and the creditors to obtain some payment on apparently frozen assets.

FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION

The Food and Drug Administration enforces the Food and Drugs Act, Insecticide Act, Tea Act, Naval Stores Act, Import Milk Act, Caustic Poison Act, Filled Milk Act, and the immediately effective sections of the new Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

This administration inspects and analyzes samples of the various products coming under its jurisdiction, both at its field stations and in its laboratories at Washington, to the end that it may detect and cause to be removed from the channels of trade all those products which fail to comply with the terms of the regulatory acts which it administers. It assists manufacturers to keep their products in compliance with these acts and institutes legal action against those who violate the law. Its primary function is to protect the consuming public against misbranded or adulterated foods, drugs, naval stores, insecticides, and fungicides, and honest manufacturers against unfair competition with such goods.

FOREST SERVICE

The Forest Service administers the national forests; cooperates with States in maintaining organized protection of forest lands against fire, and in distributing planting stock to farmers for windbreaks, shelterbelts, and farm woodlands; conducts investigations in the entire field of forestry, including industrial research and research in forest economics and taxation; furnishes information relating to the best uses of forests and forest products; and, in short, seeks to promote the application of forestry throughout the country on both public and privately owned lands, together with efficient and economical use of the yield.

In the continental United States, except for Alaska, we now have 630,000,000 acres of forest land, but only 462,000,000 acres are commercial. The best three-fourths of these are in private ownership; only 215,000,000 acres grow trees now large enough for saw timber, and, with minor exceptions, most private operations are still conducted on a quick-liquidation basis.

The national forests contain approximately 175,000,000 acres of Government-owned land and approximately one-third of the timber in the United States, besides forage and recreational resources of great public value. The administration of the national forests aims to coordinate and develop to the utmost the use of all their resources in the best public interest. Technical methods of forestry are applied to the growing and harvesting of timber. Livestock grazing is scientifically regulated so as to obtain range conservation along with full use of the annual growth of forage. Sustained and, where possible, increased yields of timber and forage are obtained. Water from the protected watersheds is made available for power, irrigation, and municipal and domestic supply. Recreational opportunities are developed and maintained; scientific management is applied to the development and maintenance of its wildlife resources. Provision is made for many other forms of national-forest land use under regulation. Systematic protection is provided against fire and other destructive agencies. Supervision is given to the emergency relief work performed on the national forests by the Civilian Conservation Corps and the Works Progress Administration. General supervision is given to the emergency conservation work on State and private lands.

NORTHEASTERN TIMBER SALVAGE ADMINISTRATION

The hurricane of September 1938 throughout the New England area brought unprecedented disaster to the forests and woodlands of that region, without regard to boundaries or ownership. In the neighborhood of 2 billion feet of standing lumber were blown down. The Northeastern Timber Salvage Administration, supervised by the Forest Service, and cooperating with the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation and the Disaster Loan Corporation, conducts a program of purchasing this wind-thrown timber, storing it in water or otherwise, sawing into lumber or other forms of fabrication, and marketing the timber or products.

BUREAU OF HOME ECONOMICS

The Bureau of Home Economics conducts scientific research on foods and nutrition, economic problems, textiles and clothing, and housing and equipment from the consumer standpoint. The results of this research are made available in the form of technical bulletins and progress reports for the use of scientific workers in home economics and allied fields. For homemakers and consumers in general the basic research is translated into popular bulletins, radio talks, and exhibits, covering such practical problems as diet planning, preparation of foods to conserve nutritive value, and guides for selecting and caring for household textiles and equipment. The Bureau, through the home demonstration agents under the Extension Service and the State colleges of agriculture, is in close contact with homemakers and professional home economics workers throughout the country.

BUREAU OF PLANT INDUSTRY

The activities of the Bureau of Plant Industry are devoted to plant research and related problems. They include experiments in the improvement of plants so as to increase their yield, quality, and resistance to diseases and insect pests, together with fundamental research on the laws of inheritance looking to the establishment of the soundest procedures in plant breeding; the introduction and testing of promising seeds and plants from foreign countries; investigations of the methods of cultivation and allied operations, such as spraying to protect from important diseases, making for economical and profitable production of field, fruit, vegetable, and ornamental plants, together with studies of the physiology, morphology, and cytology necessary to an adequate understanding of the relation between environment and cultivation on the one hand and yield and quality on the other; fundamental studies of the relation of the crops to the soil, including materials and methods making for successful fertilizer practice and the function of microorganisms in soil fertility and crop production; investigations seeking to establish the best methods of storing plant products in warehouse or during transportation in order to insure maximum final quality and minimum loss and expense during storage and marketing. The regulatory activities of the Bureau are limited to the enforcement of the Federal Seed Act and the control of quality of plant and soil inoculants.

In addition to the experimental activities of the Bureau at the Arlington (Va.) Experiment Farm, which is immediately adjacent to the District of Columbia, and at the Horticultural Experiment Farm, near Beltsville, Md., the Bureau operates field stations or laboratories in practically all the major cropping regions of the United States, a majority of its activities being in direct cooperation with the State agricultural experiment stations.

Land in the District of Columbia has been acquired by the Bureau on which to establish and maintain the National Arboretum.

ADVISORY COUNCIL OF THE NATIONAL ARBORETUM

The appointment by the Secretary of Agriculture of an advisory council in relation to the planning and development of the National Arboretum was authorized by section 4 of the act authorizing the Secretary to establish a national arboretum (Public, No. 799, 69th Cong.), approved March 4, 1927.

This act authorizes and directs the Secretary to establish and maintain a national arboretum for purposes of research and education concerning tree and plant life.

BUREAU OF PUBLIC ROADS

The Bureau of Public Roads deals with all highway functions of the Department. It administers appropriations to the Department for Federal aid to the States for road construction and for the construction of forest roads. In order that funds may be properly administered it conducts research into highway design, construction, and economics. The Bureau also supervises the construction of national park roads for the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior and cooperates with other agencies in improving roads in areas under Federal control.

SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE

The function of the Soil Conservation Service is to carry out upon all lands except national forests, wildlife refuges, and certain other federally administered lands, a comprehensive program of readjustment and treatment adequate to conserve and put to beneficial use the land and water resources of the country. The Service is equipped to approach this objective through direct action in the fields of soil conservation, flood control, land acquisition and development, farm forestry, and water facilities development in arid and semiarid areas.

In all fields of activity, the Service relies wholly on the principle of cooperation, insisting that those most concerned take an active part in each undertaking. It conducts soil conservation demonstrations in cooperation with farmers in selected areas and assists legally organized groups of farmers in planning and putting into effect necessary land treatment programs. Likewise, it works hand in hand with local, State, and Federal agencies in purchasing submarginal land for purposes of readjusting the land-use pattern so as to conserve soil and water resources, reduce flood hazards, and stabilize agriculture generally. Other bureaus in the Department as well as interested State, local, and Federal agencies outside the Department take part in the planning and execution of all programs.

At present the service is assisting 52 legal soil conservation districts, involving approximately 29,000,000 acres in 16 States, by providing technical personnel to help plan and supervise local land-use programs. At the same time, it is cooperating with some 61,000 individual farmers in more than 500 selected demonstration areas about the country. In such areas, including more than 18,000,000 acres, the Service devises erosion control plans specifically adapted to each farm and assists with the application of soil-conserving measures as a means of demonstrating to other farmers in the region the merits of complete erosion control programs. In addition, the Service is directing land treatment work on approximately 54,000,000 acres of land publicly owned or controlled in the West and Southwest.

In the field of flood control, the Service cooperates with other bureaus of the Department of Agriculture in preparing watershed surveys and investigations. It also assists State and local agencies with the execution of land treatment work designed to retard surface water run-off and minimize flood hazards. Such work also reduces the amount of silt and other erosional debris deposited in stream channels, downstream reservoirs, and over lowlands.

The Service encourages farmers to develop farm woodlands by helping them obtain proper planting stock and assisting with the propagation and management of timber areas.

In sections where the continued use of submarginal land is uneconomic or a menace to adjoining good land, the Service buys the land and develops it for timber production, grazing, recreation or other uses to which it is best suited.

Cooperating with the Bureau of Agricultural Economics and the Farm Security Administration, it aids farmers in arid and semiarid regions with the development of farm water facilities. Work of this kind includes the opening of new wells, development of springs, construction of stock ponds, and the installation of windmills, pumping systems, water spreading devices, and irrigation works.

SUGAR DIVISION

The Sugar Division administers the Sugar Act of 1937. This act empowers the Secretary of Agriculture to determine the consumption requirements of sugar for the United States and to fix marketing quotas for the United States, insular territories and possessions, and foreign countries; to allot such quotas among persons who market or import sugar; and to make conditional payments to cooperating producers.

WEATHER BUREAU

The Weather Bureau has charge of the forecasting of the weather; issuance and display of weather forecasts, and storm, cold-wave, frost, forest-fire-weather, and flood warnings; gaging and reporting of river stages; collection and transmission of marine intelligence for the benefit of commerce and navigation; collection and furnishing of meteorological information and forecasts, including upper-air observations, for the benefit of air navigation; reporting of temperature and rainfall conditions for agricultural interests; and the taking of such meteorological observations as may be necessary to determine and record the climatic conditions of the United States.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

The Secretary of Commerce is charged with the work of promoting the commerce of the United States and its manufacturing, shipping, fishery, and transportation interests. His duties also comprise the administration of the Lighthouse Service and the aid and protection to shipping thereby; the taking of the census and the collection and publication of statistical information connected therewith; the making of coast and geodetic surveys; the collecting of statistics relating to foreign and domestic commerce; the inspection of steamships, and the enforcement of laws relating thereto for the protection of life and property; the supervision of the fisheries as administered by the Federal Government; the supervision and control of the Alaskan fur-seal, salmon, and other fisheries; the jurisdiction over merchant vessels, their registry, licensing, measurement, entry, clearance, transfer, movement of their cargoes and passengers, and laws relating thereto, and to seamen of the United States; the custody, construction, maintenance, and application of standards of weights and measurements; the gathering and supplying of information regarding industries and markets for the fostering of manufacturing; and the supervision of the Patent Office. The Secretary of Commerce is chairman of the Foreign Trade Zones Board; chairman of the United States Golden Gate International Exposition Commission; ex officio general chairman of the Business Advisory Council for the Department of Commerce; and a member of the following: Board of directors of the Textile Foundation; Council of National Defense; Federal Board for Vocational Education; Smithsonian Institution; Migratory Bird Conservation Commission; Foreign Service Buildings Commission; National Munitions Control Board; United States New York World's Fair Commission; Central Statistical Committee; National Resources Committee; Export-Import Bank of Washington; National Archives Council; National Emergency Council; Commodity Exchange Commission; Committee on Regulations, Pure Food and Drugs Act; Committee on Regulations, Insecticide Act; and the Central Housing Committee. The Secretary of Commerce is authorized to call upon other departments for statistical data obtained by them. It is his further duty to make such special investigations and furnish such information to the President or Congress as may be required by them on the foregoing subject matters, and to make annual reports to Congress upon the work of said Department.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF COMMERCE (JOHN MONROE JOHNSON)

Under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce, the Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. To him is assigned the general supervision and direction of the National Bureau of Standards, the Lighthouse Service, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and the Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation. In the absence of the Secretary he acts as head of the Department.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF COMMERCE (RICHARD C. PATTERSON, JR.)

Under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce, the Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. To him is assigned the general supervision and direction of the Bureaus of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Fisheries, and Census, and the Patent Office.

SOLICITOR

The Solicitor is the chief law officer of the Department of Commerce and his duties are to act as legal adviser to the Secretary of Commerce, the Assistant Secretaries, and the chiefs of the various bureaus.

THE ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT TO THE SECRETARY

As the chief executive officer of the Department the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary has the responsibility for all matters of administration, including personnel and budget matters, and for coordinating the functions of the various bureaus of the Department. He has supervision of the office of the Chief Clerk, including the Division of Personnel, the Division of Publications, the Division of Purchases and Sales, and the Division of Accounts.

CHIEF CLERK

As the administrative head of the divisions of the office of the Secretary, the Chief Clerk has supervision over the clerks and other employees of the Department, enforces the general regulations of the Department, and has administrative supervision of the buildings occupied by the Department; has general supervision of expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses; the care of all vehicles under the office of the Secretary; the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the mail; the custody of the Department's seal and the records and files of the Secretary's office; the answering of calls from Congress and elsewhere for copies of papers and records; and the discharge of all business of the Secretary's office not otherwise assigned. During the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretary he may be designated by the Secretary to sign official papers and documents.

DIVISION OF ACCOUNTS

Under the direction of the Chief Clerk, the Chief of the Division of Accounts is charged with the duty of preparing all requisitions for the advance of public funds from appropriations for the Department of Commerce to disbursing clerks and special disbursing agents charged with the disbursement of public funds; the keeping of appropriation ledgers relating to the advance and expenditure of all items of appropriations; the preparation of official bonds and custody of records pertaining thereto; and the general accounting of the Department.

DIVISION OF PERSONNEL

Under the direction of the Chief Clerk, the Chief of the Division of Personnel is charged with the supervision of matters relating to personnel, such as appointments, transfers, promotions, reductions, removals, classification, retirement, and efficiency ratings; the consideration of applications for positions, the conduct of correspondence and the preparation of recommendations connected therewith; the preparation and submission to the Secretary of all questions affecting the personnel of the Department in its relation to the civil service, classification, and retirement laws and rules; the preparation of nominations sent to the Senate and of commissions and appointments of all officers and employees of the Department; the compilation of statistics in regard to the personnel, service records of officers and employees, correspondence and reports relating to the personnel, and records relating to leaves of absence.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATIONS

Under the direction of the Chief Clerk, the chief of the Division of Publications is charged with the conduct of all business the Department transacts with the Government Printing Office; the general supervision of printing, including the editing and preparation of copy, illustrating and binding, the distribution of publications, and the maintenance of mailing lists. The advertising done by the Department is in his charge. He also approves all vouchers in payment for the publishing work of the Department, keeps a record of all obligations and expenditures in connection therewith, and conducts the correspondence it entails.

DIVISION OF PURCHASES AND SALES

Under the direction of the Chief Clerk, the Chief of the Division of Purchases and Sales has personal supervision of all the work incident to the purchase and distribution of supplies for the Department proper and for the services of the Department outside of Washington, and of the keeping of detailed accounts of all expenditures from the appropriation for contingent expenses of the Department. He receives, verifies, and preserves the annual returns of property from the offices and bureaus of the Department which are supplied from the contingent appropriation, and examines and reports on the property returns of all other bureaus and services.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS

The Bureau of the Census takes the decennial census of the United States, which in 1930 covered population, agriculture, manufactures, mining, distribution, and unemployment. It takes a census of manufactures every 2 years; censuses of agriculture and of electrical industries—covering electric light and power plants, electric railways, telephones, and telegraphs—every 5 years; and censuses of churches or religious bodies, of the dependent, defective, and delinquent classes in institutions, and of financial statistics of State and local governments every 10 years.

With funds supplied by the Relief Administration Act the Bureau took a census of business covering the year 1935, and conducted a survey or sample census of wholesale and retail trade covering 1937 and the first half of 1938.

Annually the Bureau collects statistics of births and deaths, financial statistics of States and of cities having a population of 100,000 or over; statistics of prisoners in State prisons and reformatories, and of patients in hospitals for mental disease and in institutions for epileptics and feeble-minded; and judicial criminal statistics.

At monthly or more frequent intervals the Bureau publishes statistics of cotton ginned, imported, exported, consumed, and held; also statistics relating to cottonseed and its products. It also collects monthly or quarterly data regarding the production or supply of many other commodities, including boots and shoes, clothing, wool, animal and vegetable fats and oils, etc., and compiles from various sources current data regarding production, orders, shipments, stocks, etc., for numerous lines of trade and industry.

BUREAU OF FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMMERCE

It is the duty of this Bureau to "promote and develop the foreign and domestic commerce of the United States." Included under the obligations with which it is charged are such duties as (1) "to report upon domestic as well as foreign problems relating to production, distribution, and marketing insofar as they relate to the important export industries of the United States"; (2) "to investigate and report upon such conditions in the manufacturing industries and trade of foreign countries as may be of interest to the United States"; (3) to promote American trade with Europe, Latin America, the Far East, Africa, and other areas; (4) "to operate and maintain district and cooperative offices within the United States"; (5) to enforce the China Trade Act regarding the tax exemptions of American firms doing business with China; (6) to compile and publish statistics on foreign trade; (7) to investigate trade restrictions and regulations of foreign countries in relation to American commerce; (8) to prepare and circulate lists of available foreign agents for American firms.

The Bureau maintains offices in 34 foreign countries. These are in charge of commercial attachés, and in countries where there is no American diplomatic mission, trade commissioners are in charge. Reports on trade conditions and prospects are received from these sources and are widely circulated among American firms.

Reports of the Consular Service of the Department of State on the trade of foreign countries and opportunites for the sale abroad of articles produced in the United States are transmitted to the Department of Commerce for distribution. This material is edited in the Bureau and distributed to the commercial public by means of the weekly magazine, Commerce Reports, special monographs, bulletins, pamphlets, and circulars or letters.

Industrial divisions, in charge of technical experts, put the resources of the Government at the disposal of basic industries in the extension of their foreign trade. Services to the following industries are in operation: Agricultural implements, aeronautics, automotive products, chemicals, electrical equipment, foodstuffs, hides and leather, iron, steel, and hardware, lumber, machinery, minerals, motion pictures, paper, rubber and rubber products, shoe and leather manufactures, specialties, tobacco, and textiles. There is close cooperation with committees of trade associations and other representatives of American industry.

The organization of the Bureau also includes nine technical divisions, besides a division devoted to problems of domestic commerce.

The Division of Economic Research compiles statistical data and makes analyses of economic relationships, particularly in connection with domestic commercial and industrial problems of broad economic character. Its activities include investigations and the preparation of publications in the following general fields: National income, long-term debts, urban real property, construction, and selected manufacturing industries.

The Division of Business Review prepares and issues regularly analyses of general business conditions. The compilation and publication of current business data include the preparation of the weekly and monthly issues and the biennial supplement of the Survey of Current Business. Current analyses of the broad trends and changes in the foreign trade of the United States are issued regularly.

Through the periodical Domestic Commerce and the Business Information Service, the Division provides a current flow of basic business data.

The Division of Foreign Tariffs collects and disseminates information regarding foreign tariffs, and the related conditions of movement of goods between countries. The Division advises exporters and importers concerning commercial treaties and preferential arrangements; import duties, restrictions, consular documents, and customs requirements; foreign export duties, bounties, and subsidies; shipment of samples and advertising matter abroad; and foreign treatment of commercial travelers.

The Finance Division attends to all financial and economic questions that are international in scope and to matters connected with the flotation of foreign securities in the United States, the investment of American capital abroad, and the general aspects of foreign-trade financing.

The Division of Regional Information furnishes basic information on the economic conditions and broad commercial problems, and disseminates information obtained from the foreign representatives of the Bureau and also of the State Department.

Statistical information with respect to United States imports and exports is received by the Bureau from the collectors of customs, showing the articles imported and exported and the countries from which imported and exported.

The Transportation Division compiles and furnishes to shippers information on freight rates, services, and facilities, both rail and ocean, which will enable them to route shipments economically and to quote c. i. f. prices. The Division is prepared to give advice on how to pack shipments for foreign markets. It gathers and distributes data on facilities, regulations, and charges in the ports of the world. This Division also deals with telephone, telegraph, cable, radio, and postal communication and is interested in all matters tending to protect and increase American facilities for world communication.

The Division of Commercial Laws furnishes information concerning commercial laws and judicial procedure, patent and trade-mark laws, the taxation of American firms doing business abroad, formalities in connection with bankruptcy proceedings, powers of attorney, the protesting of drafts, the legal aspects of construction enterprises, agency agreements, standardization of bills of exchange, etc.

An active trade directory of business houses and prospective buyers and agents all over the world is maintained by the Commercial Intelligence Division for the benefit of American manufacturers and exporters. The Bureau also locates, in foreign markets, exporters of such raw materials as are needed by American manufacturers.

The services of the Bureau in domestic commerce are directed toward providing the American manufacturer, wholesaler, and retailer with accurate and definite data upon which he can base efficient merchandising methods and thus eliminate the large wastes in our distribution system. These services aim to make available more adequate knowledge of markets and distribution costs. This work is carried on in close cooperation with commercial organizations.

The distribution work of the Bureau is facilitated by district offices maintained in the important commercial centers of the United States. In addition, arrangements have been made with chambers of commerce and commercial organizations in many other cities which act as direct representatives of the Bureau in the work of foreign and domestic trade promotion. These branch offices expedite the distribution of commercial information and establish closer relations between the Government and private industry.

NATIONAL BUREAU OF STANDARDS

The National Bureau of Standards was established by act of Congress approved March 3, 1901. Its functions are the development, construction, custody, and maintenance of reference and working standards and their intercomparison, improvement, and application in science, engineering, industry, and commerce. Under the Air Commerce Act of 1926, the Secretary of Commerce is authorized "to advise with the Bureau of Standards and other agencies in the executive branch of the Government in carrying forward such research and development work as tends to create improved air navigation facilities." By act of Congress approved May 14, 1930, there was established a national hydraulic laboratory at the Bureau for "the determination of fundamental data useful in hydraulic research and engineering."

The Bureau's functions are exercised for the National Government, State governments, and, subject to reasonable fees, the general public. Its unique research and testing facilities are used to discover and evaluate material standards and to solve basic technical problems. In connection with its work on standards of measurement, the Bureau assists in size standardization of containers and products, in promoting systematic inspection of trade weights and measures, and facilitates research in science and technology through the standardization of measuring instruments. The establishment of more precise values for the standard constants furnishes an exact basis for scientific experiment and design and makes possible the efficient technical control of industrial processes. It cooperates with tax-supported purchasing agencies, industries, and national organizations in developing specifications and facilitating their use; it encourages the application of the latest developments in the utilization and standardization of building materials and in the development of engineering and safety codes, simplified practice recommendations, and commercial standards of quality and performance. The Bureau's work on standards of quality sets up attainable standards to assure high utility in the products of industry and furnishes a scientific basis for fair dealing by promoting truthful branding and advertising. Standards of performance are usually specifications for the operative efficiency of machines or devices; their ultimate purpose is to make exact knowledge the basis of the buyer's choice and to clarify the understanding between the manufacturer, distributor, retailer, and consumer. To establish standards of practice the Bureau collates data and formulates codes of practice for public utilities and other services. This work makes possible a single impersonal standard of practice mutually agreed upon by all concerned and clearly defined in measurable terms.

The following are typical examples of work now in progress: Aid to State governments on technical details of weights and measures inspection service; standardization and testing of gages, screw threads, and other length standards required in manufacturing; investigation of railroad track scales, mine scales, motor truck, and other large scales used principally for interstate shipments; investigations of methods of high temperature measurements and temperature control in manufacturing processes; promotion of economy and efficiency in automotive transportation by land and air through investigations of the basic principles underlying the design, performance, operation, and testing of automotive power plants; development of color standards and methods of color measurement; studies of basic factors underlying distance range of radio signals, dissemination of national standards of frequency, and investigation and standardization of methods and instruments used in radio communication; investigation of principles of sound transmission and absorption and their application; preparation, analysis, and certification of the composition of technical materials, either of typical composition or of high purity, for checking the accuracy of scientific and industrial analysis and for testing measuring instruments; investigation of the fire resistance of building materials; determination of the properties of stone, clays, cement, and other structural materials, and the formulation of building codes and researches to promote, improve, and make possible less expensive building construction; development of improved standards for dental materials; investigations of methods for the control of active acidity in industrial processes, development of standards of quality and methods of measurement of textiles, paper, leather, rubber, and organic plastics; tests of paint, varnish, soap, ink, and other supplies for the Government services; study of ceramic materials and the processes used in their manufacture; investigation of problems involved in the production of optical glass; researches in metals, including melting, heat treatment, mechanical working, chemical, and optical properties, and effects of corrosion; use of testing machines in the determination of physical constants and properties of materials and the behavior of structures under load; determination of technical specifications for all grades of sugars, involving their standardization and methods of manufacture, and study of technical problems relating to the collection of revenue on sugars; investigation of radium, radium compounds, and other radioactive materials, and the development of standard specifications for X-ray equipment and for the operation of X-ray machines; formulation of standards of performance for instruments, equipment, tools, and other devices, development of test methods to insure compliance with specifications, and simplification of varieties of products; solution of problems in connection with standards for public utilities, such as gas, electric light and power; technical cooperation with manufacturers upon fundamental research to promote industrial development and to assist in the permanent establishment of new American industries; the standardization of mechanical appliances; and the investigation of problems of flowing water in rivers, canals, and pipes, and of the design of hydraulic structures.

BUREAU OF FISHERIES

The functions of the Bureau involve the promotion of trade and commerce in fishery products, as well as the conservation of fishery resources. This includes the inquiry into the causes of fluctuations in abundance of food fishes in the lakes, rivers, and coastal waters of the United States, the development of methods of husbanding these resources, including improvements in methods of fish culture and investigation of important fisheries of the Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific coasts, with a view to determining the condition of these resources; the propagation and distribution of food fishes; the rescuing of fishes from overflowed lands and the distribution of such fishes to suitable waters; the study of the methods of the fisheries and of the preservation, utilization, and merchandising of fishery products; the collection and compilation of statistics of the fisheries; the protection and conservation of the salmon and other fisheries of Alaska; the administration of the fur-seal herd of the Pribilof Islands, and the care of the natives of those islands; the enforcement of the act of July 2, 1930, regulating the interstate transportation of black bass; the administration of the Whaling Treaty Act of May 1, 1936; and the administration of the acts authorizing associations of producers of aquatic products, and the conduct of a fishery market news service.

BUREAU OF LIGHTHOUSES

The United States Lighthouse Service is charged with the establishment and maintenance of aids to navigation, and with all equipment and work incident thereto, on the sea and lake coasts of the United States, and on the rivers of the United States so far as specifically authorized by law, and on the coasts of all other territory under the jurisdiction of the United States, with the exception of the Philippine Islands and Panama.

The Bureau publishes Light Lists and radiobeacon charts, giving information regarding aids to navigation maintained by the Lighthouse Service; it publishes each week, jointly with the Coast and Geodetic Survey, Notices to Mariners, giving the changes in lights, buoys, etc.; it also issues broadcasts and local notices.

UNITED STATES COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY

The Coast and Geodetic Survey is charged with (1) the survey of the coasts of the United States and its possessions, to insure the safe navigation of coastal and intracoastal waters; (2) the determination of geographical positions and elevations in the interior of the country, to coordinate the coastal surveys and provide a framework for mapping and other engineering work; (3) the investigation of tides and currents, to furnish datum planes to engineers and tide and current tables to mariners; (4) the compilation of aeronautical charts, to meet the needs of the pilots of aircraft; (5) observations of the earth's magnetism in all parts of the country, to furnish magnetic information essential to the mariner, aviator, land surveyor, radio engineer and others; and (6) seismological observations and investigations, to supply data required in designing structures to reduce the earthquake hazard.

These duties require hydrographic, topographic, and air-photographic surveys along the coasts, including the rivers to the head of tidewater, for determining the depths of the waters and the configuration of the adjacent land; tide observations for determination of basic datum planes for elevations and for prediction of high and low waters in tide tables; current observations for determining water movements and for prediction of slacks and strengths in current tables; base measurements; determination of latitudes, longitudes, and azimuths by astronomical observations, triangulation, and traverse; determination of elevations by spirit leveling or by vertical angles; magnetic surveys in all parts of the country, including the operation of magnetic observatories; the operation of instruments recording building vibrations and strong earthquake motions, and cooperation with non-Federal agencies engaged in this work; and gravity measurements throughout the country.

The results of these surveys and studies are analyzed in the Washington office and published as nautical and aeronautical charts; annual tables of predicted tides and currents; charts showing magnetic declination; annual lists of United States earthquakes; publications of geographic positions and elevations; Coast Pilots; Notice to Mariners (jointly with Bureau of Lighthouses); and as annual and special publications covering all of its other activities, including comprehensive manuals prescribing the methods which obtain for its various classes of surveying.

BUREAU OF MARINE INSPECTION AND NAVIGATION

The Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation, comprising the administrative office at Washington, D. C., 7 offices of supervising inspectors, 48 offices of local inspectors and their assistants, and 14 shipping commissioners throughout the United States, its Territories and possessions, is charged with the administration and enforcement of all navigation and marine inspection laws and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

Resident with the administration office in Washington is the Law Enforcement and Review Division, charged with vessel penalties and fines, casualty investigation review, motor boat fines and penalties, and the patrol fleet.

The determination of violations and the assessment of penalties, the operation of the patrol fleet and the review of casualty investigations as carried on by the A, B, and C marine investigation boards are all handled through this Division.

The Technical Division, headed by the technical assistant to the Director and composed of naval architects, marine and electrical engineers, together with their draftsmen and necessary assistants, examines for approval all plans covering arrangement details and equipment concerning the design and construction of new vessels, repairs and alterations to existing vessels, the approval of the design and construction of boilers and unfired pressure vessels, and the approval of fire protection and detection installations.

The Load Line Section supervises the assignment and carrying into effect the act of Congress relating to the placing of the load lines on vessels.

The Admeasurement Section supervises the admeasurement of vessels to determine the gross and net tonnages.

The Ship Personnel Division, with its 14 offices of shipping commissioners in the field, handles the records of the licensed officers and certificated ship personnel. They sign the crew members on and off the ships, witness the paying off of crew, and administer assistance to the ship's personnel as required by law.

Changes in the law, with respect to ship's personnel, has placed directly upon the Bureau the work of classifying such personnel below the grade of licensed officers, providing for such examinations as are necessary and authorized by statutes to insure that proper qualifications are held by men who seek employment in the merchant marine, the preparation of forms of certificates and continuous discharge books now required by law to be issued to seamen, and setting up and maintaining a special division in the Bureau for the purpose of keeping the records of seamen in accordance with statutory requirements.

The Vessel Inspection Division at Washington, D. C., supervises the Field Inspection Service. Included therein are principal traveling inspectors who, under the direction of the Director, make frequent visits to the field in the interest of securing a high degree of uniformity in the applying of the general rules and regulations. They perform reinspections on vessels, investigate reported deficiencies, and conduct fire drills and life boat drills on board ship. They carry on investigations under the direction of the Director upon all matters concerning the regulations and sit as members of marine investigation boards in the investigations and trials relating to marine casualties.

The supervising inspectors are field division heads charged with the duty of establishing such rules and regulations, subject to the approval by the Secretary of Commerce, that may be necessary to put into effect the laws of Congress for safety to life and protection of property in the operation of ships. They also watch over all of the territory assigned to them, visit, confer with, and examine into the doings of the local boards of inspectors, within their assigned districts, instruct the local boards in the proper performance of their duties, and, with the principal traveling inspectors, sit on the marine investigation boards in the investigations and trials relating to marine casualties.

Located throughout the United States are resident inspectors and assistant inspectors especially detailed to test and supervise, at the mills of manufacturers, all material used in the construction of boilers and unfired pressure vessels to determine their physical characteristics for approval or rejection, according to the test determinations.

The local and assistant inspectors throughout the United States, its Territories and possessions, carry out the inspections of vessels annually and quarterly, reinspections, and dry dock examinations.

The carrying into effect of the provisions and requirements of the International Convention for Safety of Life at Sea by the local boards of inspectors forms a new and important function of the Bureau.

Foreign passenger vessels calling at United States ports are regularly inspected and certificated by the local boards of inspectors. These inspectors also conduct at regular quarterly intervals fire drills and life saving drills on these foreign vessels and examine into the condition of the life saving and fire fighting equipment on board.

The local boards of inspectors inspect and examine tank vessels and barges for the carrying of liquid cargoes in bulk, and of dangerous cargoes. They conduct fire drills and life saving drills on all types of vessels at quarterly intervals.

They issue to all vessels annually certificates of inspection, stating thereon the number of officers and crew necessary for the safe navigation of the vessel, the number of passengers allowed to be carried, the route or waters over which the vessel may operate, the life saving and fire fighting equipment necessary, and the steam pressure allowed carried on the boilers.

They conduct examinations and issue licenses to masters, mates, pilots, and engineers and carry into effect the laws, rules, and regulations on board ship for the safety to life and the protection of property.

The Bureau also maintains and operates a patrol fleet which is charged with the duty of making special inspections of vessels of all classes to see that the requirements of law are being complied with, and to report all instances involving any violation of law or failure to comply with the Bureau's requirements to the Director for submission to collectors of customs for the imposing of such penalties as may be determined by the Secretary of Commerce.

PATENT OFFICE

The Commissioner of Patents is charged with the administration of the patent laws and supervision of all matters relating to the granting of letters patent for inventions, and the registration of trade-marks.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

THE SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Secretary of Labor is charged with the duty of fostering, promoting, and developing the welfare of the wage earners of the United States, improving their working conditions, and advancing their opportunities for profitable employment. The Secretary has power under the law to act as mediator and to appoint commissioners of conciliation in labor disputes whenever in the Secretary's judgment the interests of industrial peace may require it to be done. The Secretary has authority to direct the collecting and collating of full and complete statistics of the conditions of labor and the products and distribution of the products of the same and to call upon other departments of the Government for statistical data and results obtained by them and to collate, arrange, and publish such statistical information so obtained in such manner as may seem wise. The Secretary's duties also comprise the gathering and publication of information regarding labor interest and labor controversies in this and other countries; the supervision of the immigration of aliens, and the enforcement of the laws relating thereto, and to the exclusion of Chinese; the direction of the administration of the naturalization laws, the direction of the work of investigating all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life, and to cause to be published such results of these investigations as may seem wise and appropriate.

The law creating the Department of Labor provides that all duties performed and all power and authority possessed or exercised by the head of any executive department at the time of the passage of the said law, in and over any bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service by said act transferred to the Department of Labor, or any business arising therefrom or pertaining thereto, or in relation to the duties performed by and authority conferred by law upon such bureau, officer, office, board, branch, or division of the public service, whether of an appellate or advisory character or otherwise, are vested in and exercised by the head of the said Department of Labor. The Secretary of Labor is also given authority and directed to investigate and report to Congress a plan of coordination of the activities, duties, and powers of the office of the Secretary of Labor with the activities, duties, and powers of the present bureaus, commissions, and departments, so far as they relate to labor and its conditions, in order to harmonize and unify such activities, duties, and powers, with a view to additional legislation to further define the duties and powers of the Department of Labor, and to make such special investigations and reports to the President or Congress as may be required by them or which may be deemed necessary, and to report annually to Congress upon the work of the Department of Labor.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. He becomes the Acting Secretary of Labor in the absence of the Secretary.

SECOND ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Second Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law.

ASSISTANTS TO THE SECRETARY OF LABOR

The assistants to the Secretary perform such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary.

SOLICITOR

The Solicitor is the chief law officer of the Department of Labor, and his duties are to act as legal adviser to the officials of that Department; to prepare and examine all contracts and bonds entered into or acquired by said Department; to assist in the drafting of departmental regulations and bills affecting the activities of the Department; to supervise the predetermination of prevailing rates of wages on Federal contracts pursuant to the Davis-Bacon law; and to render such legal services as may be required in connection with the administrative work of the Department.

UNITED STATES CONCILIATION SERVICE

The United States Conciliation Service is charged with the duty of using its good offices, through the director or the commissioners of conciliation, to seek peaceful settlement in any trade dispute arising between employers and employees in industry. The authority for this service is found in section 8 of the act creating the Department, wherein the Secretary is authorized to act as a mediator or appoint commissioners of conciliation whenever the interests of industrial peace may require it to be done.

DIVISION OF LABOR STANDARDS

To develop desirable labor standards in industrial practice, labor law administration and labor legislation; to make specific recommendations concerning methods and measures designed to improve the working conditions and the economic position of wage earners; in so doing to make directly available to interested organizations and persons the existing resources of the Department of Labor and pertinent material obtainable from public or private sources.

DIVISION OF PUBLIC CONTRACTS

It administers Public Act No. 846 (Walsh-Healey Act), Seventy-fourth Congress, approved June 30, 1936, which requires Government supply contracts to contain certain maximum hour, minimum wage, child labor, safety, and health stipulations, and charges the Secretary of Labor with the duty of promulgating these standards and supervising their enforcement. The Division is headed by an administrator and contains a public contracts board which holds hearings to determine minimum wages, the imposition of penalties, and other quasi-judicial matters arising under the act.

WAGE AND HOUR DIVISION

Under the provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (act of June 25, 1938, Public, No. 718, 75th Cong.) this Division was established in the Department of Labor to enforce the wage and hour provisions of the act. The Division is headed by an Administrator appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. Its duties are to see that employers engaged in interstate commerce or producing goods for interstate commerce conform to the wage and hour standards. It is authorized to enjoin manufacturers who do not meet these standards from shipping goods in interstate or foreign commerce. Employers subject to the statute must conform to a maximum work week of not more than 44 hours the first year of its operation, 42 hours the second year, and 40 hours thereafter, and must pay minimum wages of not less than 25 cents an hour the first year and not less than 30 cents an hour the next 6 years. During the interim the Administrator is authorized to appoint industry committees in which employers, labor, and the public are to be represented. These committees have authority to recommend higher minimum wages for their respective industries, provided such rate does not exceed 40 cents an hour. These recommendations have the effect of law if approved by the Administrator.

CHIEF CLERK

The Chief Clerk is charged with the general supervision of the clerks of the Department; the interpretation of the general regulations of the Department; the superintendency of all buildings occupied by the Department in the District of Columbia; general supervision in connection with expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses, printing and binding, and rents; and the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the mail.

LIBRARIAN

The duties of the librarian are to obtain and circulate currently to the staffs of the different bureaus such books and periodicals as they need in their investigations, to supply reference material and bibliographical assistance in connection with special inquiries, to prepare selected annotated bibliographies on special subjects, and to aid students of labor problems through reading-room service and correspondence.

DIVISION OF BUDGETS AND ACCOUNTS

The Chief, Division of Budgets and Accounts, supervises the establishment and maintenance of the central control accounts maintained in the Division, and the auditing, transportation control, and budget record operations conducted by the Division. He assists in planning, organizing, and coordinating all financial activities and procedures of the Department, including accounting, auditing, and budgetary activities of the bureaus of the Department.

DIRECTOR OF PERSONNEL

The Director of Personnel is in charge of all matters relating to personnel within the Department of Labor. He is the liaison officer for the Department with the Civil Service Commission, and with other departments and agencies of the Government on matters relating to personnel administration.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATIONS AND SUPPLIES

The Chief of the Division of Publications and Supplies is charged by the Secretary of Labor with the conduct of all business the Department transacts with the Government Printing Office; the general supervision of printing, illustrating, and binding, the distribution of publications, and the maintenance of mailing lists. All blank books and blank forms and the printed stationery used by the Department are supplied by him. The advertising done by the Department is in his charge. Under the direction of the Chief Clerk he has supervision of all the work incident to the purchase and distribution of supplies for the Department, and of the keeping of detailed accounts of all expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses and printing and binding of the Department. He receives, verifies, and preserves the semiannual returns of property of the Department supplied from the contingent appropriation, and examines and reports on the semiannual property returns of all bureaus and services.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS

The statutory functions of the Bureau of Labor Statistics are "to acquire and diffuse among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with labor, in the most general and comprehensive sense of that word, and especially upon its relation to capital, the hours of labor, the earnings of laboring men and women, and the means of promoting their material, social, intellectual, and moral prosperity." Other specific continuing duties have been added from time to time by acts or resolutions of Congress, by Executive order, and by the Secretary of Labor.

The Bureau makes and publishes current reports, usually on a monthly basis, on employment, pay rolls, earnings, and hours of labor in manufacturing, trade, public service, building construction, and other industries; union wages; industrial accidents and accident rates; labor turnover; industrial disputes; wholesale and retail prices; and changes in cost of living of workingmen's families in the principal cities of the United States. Federal and State legislation and court decisions affecting labor are closely followed, and digests and analyses thereof published. Special studies are made from time to time on the wage situation in particular industries, on productivity of labor, on consumers' cooperation, and on a large number of other subjects bearing on the welfare of labor.

Dissemination of the information acquired by the Bureau in the discharge of its duties is through the publication of special bulletins on specific subjects, and through the Monthly Labor Review and Labor Information Bulletin.

IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION SERVICE

Under the act of March 3, 1933 (Public, No. 428, 47 Stat. 1517), and the Executive order issued pursuant to the statute, dated June 10, 1933 (6166/sec. 14), the Immigration and Naturalization Service was formed through the consolidation of the former Bureaus of Immigration and Naturalization, effective August 10, 1933.

The functions of the consolidated Service are the administration of the laws relating to the admission, exclusion, and deportation of aliens, and the naturalization of aliens lawfully resident in the United States; to investigate alleged violations of said laws, and when prosecution is deemed advisable to submit evidence for that purpose to the appropriate United States district attorneys.

Under the provisions of the act of June 29, 1906, naturalization jurisdiction was conferred upon certain specified United States and State courts. The Service exercises administrative supervision over the clerks of these courts in naturalization matters, and requires an accounting for all naturalization fees collected by them. Through its field officers, located in various cities in the United States, the Service investigates the qualifications of candidates for citizenship and represents the Government at the hearings of petitions for naturalization.

CHILDREN'S BUREAU

The act establishing the Bureau provides that it shall investigate and report upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life among all classes of our people, and shall especially investigate the questions of infant mortality, the birth rate, orphanage, juvenile courts, desertion, dangerous occupations, accidents, and diseases of children, employment, and legislation affecting children in the several States and Territories. The Bureau is also empowered to publish the results of these investigations in such manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor.

Under the Social Security Act of 1935 the Children's Bureau was given responsibility for administration of parts 1, 2, and 3 of title V of the act, containing provisions for maternal and child-health services, services for crippled children, and child-welfare services.

WOMEN'S BUREAU

This Bureau was established as a statutory bureau under act of June 5, 1920, "An act to establish in the Department of Labor a bureau to be known as the Women's Bureau." Its functions are to formulate standards and policies to promote the welfare of wage-earning women, to improve their working conditions, increase their efficiency, and advance their opportunity for profitable employment. The Bureau has authority to investigate and report to the Department upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of women in industry. The Director of the Bureau publishes the results of these investigations in the manner and to such extent as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe.

This Bureau, formerly known as the Women in Industry Service, organized in July 1918, was established by an appropriation in the act providing for the sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1919, its function being to serve as a policy-forming and advisory body during the war emergency, whose special duty was to develop in the industries of the country policies and methods for the most effective use of women's services in production, and safeguarding such employment from injurious conditions. This service was continued by appropriation during the following year and until it became a statutory bureau by the act of Congress above quoted.

UNITED STATES EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

The United States Employment Service was established by an act "To provide for the establishment of a national employment system and for cooperation with the States in the promotion of such system, and for other purposes," approved June 6, 1933 (48 Stat. 113). The Employment Service which existed in the Department of Labor was abolished, effective September 6, 1933, by the provisions of this act, although many of its functions were redefined and continued.

The provinces and duties of the United States Employment Service as outlined in this act are: To promote and develop a national system of employment offices for men, women, and juniors who are legally qualified to engage in gainful occupation; to maintain a veterans' service to be devoted to securing employment for veterans; to maintain a farm placement service; to maintain a public-employment service for the District of Columbia; to assist in establishing and maintaining systems of public-employment offices in the several States and political subdivisions thereof; to assist in coordinating the public-employment offices throughout the country and in increasing their usefulness by prescribing minimum standards of efficiency and promoting uniformity in their administrative and statistical procedure; to furnish and publish information as to opportunities for employment; and to maintain a system of clearing labor between the several States.

Passage of the Social Security Act imposes heavy responsibilities upon the public-employment offices of this country. Section 303 (a) requires that unemployment compensation shall be paid "solely through public-employment offices in the State or such other agencies as the Board may approve."

JOINT COMMITTEE ON PRINTING

The Joint Committee on Printing, consisting of three Members of the Senate and three Members of the House of Representatives, was created by the act of August 3, 1846, and its principal duties are set forth in the Printing Act approved January 12, 1895. That act gave the committee authority "to remedy any neglect or delay in the public printing and binding." This authority was extended by section 11 of the Legislative Appropriation Act for 1920, empowering the committee "to adopt and employ such measures as, in its discretion, may be deemed necessary to remedy any neglect, delay, duplication, or waste in the public printing and binding and the distribution of Government publications."

The act of 1895 provides that the committee "shall have control of the arrangement and style of the Congressional Record, and, while providing that it shall be substantially a verbatim report of proceedings, shall take all needed action for the reduction of unnecessary bulk." The committee is also authorized to provide for the publication of semimonthly and session indexes to the Record and has general authority over the forms and style of congressional printing and binding.

The CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY, memorial addresses on deceased Senators and Members, statute proceedings, and similar publications are compiled and prepared under the direction of the committee. The Superintendent of Documents publishes the index of public documents upon a plan approved by the committee and indexes such single volumes as it shall direct.

The committee is directed by law to establish rules and regulations for the printing of documents and reports in two or more editions. Orders for subsequent editions after 2 years from date of original order must receive its approval. The committee directs whether extra copies of documents and reports shall be bound in paper or cloth, and prescribes the arrangement and binding of documents for depositary libraries.

The cost of printing any document or report which cannot be properly charged to any other appropriation may, upon order of the committee, be charged to the congressional allotment.

The committee may order additional copies printed of any Government publication within a limit of $200 in cost in any one instance.

The act of 1895 also provides that the committee shall exercise the following functions in regard to the purchase of paper for the public printing and binding: Fix upon standards of quality, receive proposals and award contracts therefor, appoint a member of the board of paper inspection, determine differences of opinion as to quality, act upon defaults, and authorize open-market purchases.

The Legislative Appropriation Act for 1925 authorizes the Public Printer to procure under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing in accordance with the act approved January 12, 1895, and furnish, on requisition, envelopes (not including envelopes printed in the course of manufacture) in common use by two or more departments, establishments, or services of the Government in the District of Columbia.

The Public Printer is required by law to advertise for bids for material, other than paper, under the direction of the committee, and to make a return to it on all such contracts awarded by him. The committee may authorize the Public Printer to make certain open-market purchases of material, and, by resolution, it has required him to obtain its approval on all purchases of machinery and equipment in excess of $1,000 in any one instance.

Maps and illustration plates for Government publications are purchased under the direction of the committee whenever the probable cost exceeds $1,200; or, whenever the exigencies of the public service do not justify advertisement, the committee may authorize immediate contracts for lithographing and engraving.

Printing for the Patent Office is required by law to be done under such regulations and conditions as the committee may prescribe.

Section 11 of the Legislative Appropriation Act for 1920 requires all printing, binding, and blank-book work for the Government to be done at the Government Printing Office, except such classes of work as shall be deemed by the Joint Committee on Printing to be urgent or necessary to have done elsewhere than in the District of Columbia for the exclusive use of any field service outside of said District.

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

The Smithsonian Institution was created by act of Congress in 1846, under the terms of the will of James Smithson, an Englishman, who in 1826 bequeathed his fortune to the United States to found, at Washington, under the name of the "Smithsonian Institution," an establishment for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." The Institution is legally an establishment, having as its members the President of the United States, the Vice President, the Chief Justice, and the President's Cabinet. It is governed by a Board of Regents, consisting of the Vice President, the Chief Justice, three Members of the United States Senate, three Members of the House of Representatives, and six citizens of the United States appointed by joint resolution of Congress. The Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution is its executive officer and the director of its activities.

The "increase of knowledge" the Institution accomplishes through researches in many branches of science and through scientific exploration in all parts of the world. Much of the research is now conducted in the laboratories and offices of the several bureaus listed below that originated from the early work of the Institution and are administered by it.

The "diffusion of knowledge" is carried on through several series of publications based on its researches and collections, through its museum and art gallery exhibits, and through an extensive correspondence.

Through the Hodgkins fund, the income of $100,000 of which is for the increase and diffusion of knowledge in regard to the nature and properties of atmospheric air in connection with the welfare of man, grants have been made, publications issued, and medals and prizes awarded.

The library of the Smithsonian Institution (of which the Smithsonian Deposit in the Library of Congress and the libraries of the United States National Museum and the Bureau of American Ethnology are the chief units) consists mainly of scientific publications, including especially the reports, proceedings, and transactions of the learned societies and institutions of the world, and numbers over 860,000 volumes, pamphlets, and charts.

GOVERNMENT BUREAUS UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

UNITED STATES NATIONAL MUSEUM

The United States National Museum is the depository of the national collections. It is especially rich in the natural science of America, including zoology, entomology, botany, geology, paleontology, archaeology, ethnology, and physical anthropology, and has extensive series relating to the arts and industries, the fine arts, and history. The great study series in the various fields of natural science form the basis for fundamental researches in pure science, upon which the structure of applied science is built. The collections in the field of history comprise art, antiquarian, military, naval, numismatic, and philatelic materials, and include many historic objects relating to the period of the World War. The arts and industries collections consist of objects relating to engineering, textiles, graphic arts, and medicine, and include raw materials, processes of manufacture, and finished products. The aircraft display includes among others historic airplanes of Langley, Wright, and Curtiss, Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," and Wiley Post's "Winnie Mae."

NATIONAL GALLERY OF ART

The National Gallery of Art is a bureau of the Smithsonian Institution created by joint resolution of Congress approved March 24, 1937, as a result of Andrew W. Mellon's gift to the Nation of his art collection and a monumental gallery building to be constructed therefor. The above act accepting Mr. Mellon's gift provided that the art collections already in possession of the Smithsonian Institution and theretofore designated the National Gallery of Art should thereafter be known as the National Collection of Fine Arts.

The National Gallery of Art is administered for the Smithsonian Institution, in which title is vested, by a board of trustees (nine in number).

Briefly, the collection which Mr. Mellon had been over 40 years in bringing together consists of some of the best examples of the work of the great masters of the Italian, Flemish, Dutch, Spanish, and English schools. The important Dreyfus collection of Renaissance sculpture was obtained by Mr. Mellon as well as large bronzes by Sansovino and Giovanni da Bologna. He also acquired a number of portraits by distinguished American painters, such as Gilbert Stuart, Copley, West, Sully, and others, and also the entire Clarke collection of some 175 paintings by practically all of our early well-known American painters.

The monumental marble building designed by John Russell Pope, which was also included in Mr. Mellon's gift to the Nation, is now under construction on the site on the north side of the Mall between Fourth and Seventh Streets, provided for it in the joint resolution above mentioned.

NATIONAL COLLECTION OF FINE ARTS

The National Collection of Fine Arts is the depository for those portions of the national collections now in the custody of the Smithsonian Institution, relating to the fine arts, including principally paintings and sculpture. It contains among other exhibits the George P. Marsh collection of etchings, engravings, and books on art; the Harriet Lane Johnston collection, including a number of portraits by British masters; the Ralph Cross Johnson collection of paintings by Italian, French, English, Flemish, and Dutch masters; the William T. Evans collection of paintings by contemporary American artists; and the gift of Mr. John Gellatly, of New York, made in June 1929, of his notable art collection, containing more than 150 pictures by eminent American and foreign artists, large collections of glass, jewels, oriental specimens, antique furniture, and other valuable and interesting material. By the terms of the gift, the collection was brought to Washington on April 30, 1933. A considerable addition was made by Mr. Gellatly in August 1930 to his original gift.

The Freer Gallery of Art is contained in a separate building provided by the late Charles L. Freer, of Detroit, especially designed and constructed to house the notable collection also presented by him. This comprises numerous paintings, etchings, etc., by Whistler, Tryon, Dewing, Thayer, and other American artists, and extensive examples of Japanese and Chinese art. This collection is to the art and archeology of the Far East what the Cairo Museum is to that of Egypt.

BUREAU OF AMERICAN ETHNOLOGY

The Bureau of American Ethnology is engaged in the collection and publication of information relating to the American Indians and the natives of Hawaii.

INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE SERVICE

The International Exchange Service is the agency of the United States Government for the exchange of scientific, literary, and governmental publications with foreign governments, institutions, and investigators. It receives and dispatches about 700,000 pounds of printed matter annually.

NATIONAL ZOOLOGICAL PARK

The National Zoological Park has an area of 175 acres, and is located in the Rock Creek Valley, 2 miles north of the center of Washington. Its collection comprises about 3,000 animals.

ASTROPHYSICAL OBSERVATORY

The Astrophysical Observatory investigates solar radiation and other solar phenomena. The work of this observatory is carried on partly in Washington, D. C., and partly at stations on Mount Wilson and Table Mountain, in California; Mount Montezuma, near Calama, Chile; and Burro Mountain near Tyrone, N. Mex.

DIVISION OF RADIATION AND ORGANISMS

(Supported by Smithsonian private funds)

The Division of Radiation and Organisms was established during the year 1929 for the purpose of making scientific investigations relating to the effect of radiation on the growth and life of plants and animals.

PAN AMERICAN UNION

(Formerly International Bureau of American Republics)

The Pan American Union is the official international organization of the 21 Republics of the Western Hemisphere. It was established with a view to developing closer cooperation between the nations of America, the fostering of inter-American commerce, the strengthening of intellectual and cultural ties, and the interchange of information on all problems affecting the welfare of the nations of this continent. It is supported through their joint contributions, each nation annually paying that part of the budget of expenses which its population bears to the total population of all the Republics. Its general control is vested in a governing board made up of the diplomatic representatives in Washington of all the Latin-American Governments and the Secretary of State of the United States. Its executive officers are a director general and an assistant director, elected by the board. They in turn are assisted by a trained staff of editors, statisticians, compilers, trade experts, translators, librarians, and clerks. It is strictly international in its scope, purpose, and control, and each nation has equal authority in its administration. Its activities and facilities include the following: Publication in English, Spanish, Portuguese, with separate editions, of an illustrated monthly bulletin, which is the record of the progress of all the Republics; publication of handbooks, descriptive pamphlets, commercial statements, maps, and special reports relating to each country; correspondence covering all phases of pan-American activities; distribution of every variety of information helpful in the promotion of pan-American commerce, acquaintance, cooperation, and solidarity of interests. It also sets the date and prepares the programs for the International Conferences of the American States, known as the Pan American Conferences, and is custodian of their archives. Its library, known as the Columbus Memorial Library, contains 100,000 volumes, including the official publications, documents, and laws of all the Republics, together with a large collection of maps. The Union also possesses a collection of more than 25,000 photographs, lantern slides, and negatives. Its reading room has upon its tables the representative magazines and newspapers of Latin America. Both are open to the public for consultation and study. It occupies and owns buildings and grounds facing Seventeenth Street, between Constitution Avenue and C Street, overlooking Potomac Park on the south and the White House Park on the east. These buildings and grounds, representing an outlay of $1,100,000, of which Mr. Andrew Carnegie contributed $850,000 and the American Republics $250,000, are dedicated forever to the use of the Pan American Union as an international organization. The Pan American Union was founded in 1890, under the name of the International Bureau of American Republics, in accordance with the action of the First Pan American Conference, held in Washington in 1889–90 and presided over by James G. Blaine, then Secretary of State. It was reorganized in 1907 by action of the Third Pan American Conference, held in Rio de Janeiro in 1906, and upon the initiative of Elihu Root, then Secretary of State. At the fourth conference, held at Buenos Aires in 1910, its name was changed from the International Bureau of American Republics to the Pan American Union. The fifth conference, held at Santiago, Chile, in 1923; the sixth conference, which met at Habana, Cuba, in 1928; the seventh conference, held at Montevideo, Uruguay, in 1933, and the eighth conference, held at Lima, Peru, in 1938, considerably enlarged the functions of the Pan American Union. All communications should be addressed to the Director General, Pan American Union, Washington, D. C.

GENERAL ACCOUNTING OFFICE

The Comptroller General of the United States is charged by law with the settlement and adjustment, independently of the executive departments, of all claims and demands whatever by the Government of the United States or against it, and all accounts whatever in which the Government of the United States is concerned, either as debtor or creditor, and is vested with all powers and duties previously conferred or imposed by law upon the former Comptroller of the Treasury and the six Auditors of the Treasury Department; also with the duty of keeping the personal ledger accounts of disbursing and collecting officers; of reporting to Congress delinquency in rendering accounts; and of certifying balances, which are final and conclusive, upon the executive branch of the Government. He may provide for payment of accounts or claims adjusted and settled in the General Accounting Office through disbursing officers of the several departments and establishments instead of by warrant, and prescribes the forms, systems, and procedure for administrative appropriation and fund accounting in the several departments and establishments and for the administrative examination of fiscal officers' accounts and claims, reporting to Congress upon the adequacy and efficiency of such administrative examination. He appoints and removes attorneys and other employees in the General Accounting Office, they performing such duties as may be assigned to them by him, all official acts performed by them, when specially designated therefor by the Comptroller General, having the same force and effect as though performed by the Comptroller General in person. He makes such rules and regulations as may be necessary for carrying on the work of the General Accounting Office, including those for the admission of attorneys to practice before it, and furnishes, under the seal of said Office for use as evidence, copies of records from books and proceedings thereof in accordance with sections 882 and 886 of the Revised Statutes.

Upon the application of disbursing officers, the head of any executive department or other independent establishment not under any of the executive departments, the Comptroller General is required to render his advance decision upon any question involving a payment to be made by them or under them, which decision when rendered governs in the settlement of the account involving the payment inquired about. He reviews, on his own motion, any settled account when in the interest of the United States to do so. He superintends the recovery of all debts finally certified by audited settlements to be due the United States exclusive of those arising under the Postal Service, and the preservation of all accounts, with their vouchers, etc., which have been finally adjusted, and countersigns all warrants authorized by law to be signed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

It is also the duty of the Comptroller General to investigate at the seat of government or elsewhere all matters relating to the receipt, disbursement, and application of public funds and to make recommendations to the President, when requested by him, and to Congress concerning legislation necessary to facilitate the prompt and accurate rendition and settlement of accounts, and concerning such other matters as he may deem advisable in regard to the receipt, disbursement, and application of public funds and economy or efficiency in public expenditures. He makes investigations for Congress as to revenue, appropriations, and expenditures, furnishing assistants from his office to Congress for that purpose, and specially reports to Congress every expenditure or contract made by any department or establishment in any year in violation of law. He also reports to Congress upon the adequacy and effectiveness of departmental inspection of the offices and accounts of fiscal officers, and, in accordance with law, has access to and examines any books, documents, papers, or records, except those pertaining to certain funds for purposes of intercourse or treaty with foreign nations, of all departments and establishments for the purpose of securing from time to time information regarding the powers, duties, activities, organization, financial transactions, and methods of business of their respective offices. It is also his duty to furnish to the Bureau of the Budget such information relating to expenditures and accounting as it may request from time to time.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

The purpose of the Civil Service Act (Jan. 16, 1883), as declared in its title, is "to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States." It provides for the appointment of three commissioners, not more than two of whom shall be adherents of the same political party, and makes it the duty of the Commission to aid the President, as he may request, in preparing suitable rules for carrying the act into effect. The act requires that, as nearly as the conditions of good administration will warrant, the rules shall provide, among other things, for open competitive examinations for testing the fitness of applicants for the classified service, the making of appointments from among those passing with highest grades, and apportionment of appointments in the departments at Washington among the States and Territories, and a period of probation before absolute appointment. It prohibits the use of official authority to coerce the political action of any person or body. The act also provides for investigations touching the enforcement of the rules, and forbids, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, or both, the solicitation by any person in the service of the United States of contributions to be used for political purposes from persons in such service, or the collection of such contributions by any person in a Government building.

The Retirement Act of May 22, 1920, as amended, places under the Commission the entire administration of that act. The Commission also administers the Canal Zone Retirement Act and the Alaska Railroad Retirement Act.

The Commission was organized on March 9, 1883. The first classification of the service applied to the departments at Washington and to post offices and customhouses having as many as 50 employees, embracing 13,924 employees. On June 30, 1938, there were 851,926 employees holding formal appointments in the Federal executive civil service. Of this number 115,590 were employed in the District of Columbia. On June 30, 1938, there were 562,909 positions in the classified service subject to competitive examination.

Examinations are held in the principal cities throughout the country through the agency of local boards of examiners, of which there are approximately 4,500. The members of these boards are detailed from other branches of the service.

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1938, the Commission examined 408,928 applicants, and 42,156 appointments were made.

The Commission also holds examinations in the Canal Zone, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. Under the rules, the Commission is required to render all practicable assistance to the Philippine Civil Service Board, and it may, if required, announce examinations for positions in the Philippine Islands.

Appointments of unskilled laborers in the departments at Washington and in all branches of the service in certain other cities and certain branches of the service in all cities are required to be made in accordance with regulations promulgated by the President, restricting appointments to applicants who are rated highest in physical condition. This system is outside the Civil Service Act and is auxiliary to the civil-service rules.

The Commission holds examinations for postmasterships at first-, second-, and third-class offices under an Executive order.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR AND CHIEF EXAMINER

Serves as the chief technical and executive officer of the Commission; plans, directs, controls, and is responsible for the technical and administrative work of the various divisions, field offices, and local boards of examiners, and the Commission's business and fiscal operations; serves as the principal consultant to the Commissioners and formulates and develops matters of policy, interpretation, and procedure.

APPLICATION DIVISION

Receives and passes upon applications; supervises the holding of examinations by local civil-service boards; maintains a record of applications.

CERTIFICATION DIVISION

Maintains registers of eligibles and issues certifications for appointments; passes on and records temporary appointments; answers inquiries concerning vacancies, relative standing, and prospect of appointment.

EXAMINING DIVISION

Prepares announcements of examinations; prepares examinations, rates the papers, issues notices of markings, and passes on the qualifications of applicants for examinations and of persons proposed for change in status.

SERVICE RECORD AND STATUS DIVISION

Maintains service records of permanent employees in the executive civil service; acts on cases of reinstatement, transfer, and change of status; acts in cases of violation of the civil-service law or rules by administrative officers or employees.

RETIREMENT DIVISION

Administers all civil retirement systems under the Commission's jurisdiction, involving the granting of annuities, refund of employees' contributions in cases of separation from the service or death, the maintenance and control of retirement accounts, and the preparation of actuarial data required for the proper operation of the retirement acts.

STATISTICAL DIVISION

Compiles, analyzes, and prepares statistical reports on personnel, administrative, and other matters pertaining to Government employment, and performs the machine-tabulation work of the Commission.

INVESTIGATIONS DIVISION

Investigates frauds, political-activity cases, irregularities in examinations, Executive order cases; conducts personal interviews and investigations of character, training, experience, and suitability of applicants for various classes of positions; supervises the taking of fingerprints.

PERSONNEL CLASSIFICATION DIVISION

Ascertains the facts as to the duties and responsibilities of positions within the scope of the Classification Act of 1923, as amended, and allocates them into services, classes, and grades.

Prepares class specifications, setting forth classification standards and containing titles of classes and statements of duties and responsibilities, and statements of minimum qualifications required to perform such duties and exercise such responsibilities.

Conducts surveys of groups of positions for the purpose of discovering the need for and making necessary classification adjustments due to changes in positions since they were last allocated.

Passes upon reductions and separations in connection with efficiency ratings and reductions in force in the departmental service.

RESEARCH DIVISION

Analyzes duties of positions and determines qualifications essential to their performance; develops means of measuring these qualifications; evaluates various selection methods by correlating their results with valid criteria; prepares model series of new-type examinations chosen for actual use; standardizes examination material and method; makes surveys and recommendations in connection with the revision of the efficiency rating system and research in the theory and practice of classification. Cooperates with other Government departments, with universities, industries, and research foundations, for purposes of furthering research with regard to selection, placement, promotion, and training, and of improving personnel procedure and administration. Maintains connections and exchanges findings with psychological laboratories of Europe and America. The Director of Research is also Director of the Council of Personnel Administration.

BOARD OF APPEALS AND REVIEWS

Has appellate jurisdiction in all matters pending before the Commission. Reviews the record and passes upon the merit of appeals from ratings in all examinations, including character investigations; appeals from debarment from examination on account of unsuitability; appeals from action taken in cases of transfer, reinstatement, promotion, or proposed noncompetitive appointments; appeals from action taken in retirement cases; appeals in connection with allocation.

CORRESPONDENCE DIVISION

Answers inquiries made by mail, giving general information about examinations; maintains central files for all divisions; receives and distributes incoming communications.

ACCOUNTS AND MAINTENANCE DIVISION

Has charge of accounts covering general business operations of the main office and field offices; preparation of estimates, statements, and auditing of expenditures; purchase and procurement of printing, supplies, and equipment, including maintenance of stocks and distribution; supervision of matters pertaining to quarters of the Commission in Washington, D. C., in cooperation with the National Park Service; operation of duplicating and photostat machines.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

The original act to regulate commerce, approved February 4, 1887, provided for a commission consisting of five members. By various amendatory and supplementary enactments the powers of the Commission have been increased and the scope of the regulating statute materially widened. Among the more important of these enactments are the acts of March 2, 1889; the Elkins Act, approved February 19, 1903; the Hepburn Act, approved June 29, 1906; the Mann-Elkins Act of June 18, 1910; the acts of August 24, 1912, and May 29 and August 9, 1917; the Transportation Act, 1920; the Emergency Railroad Transportation Act, 1933; the Air Mail Act, 1934; and the Motor Carrier Act, 1935. The number of commissioners was increased under the act of June 29, 1906, to 7 members; under the act of August 9, 1917, to 9 members; and under the Transportation Act, 1920, to 11 members.

The Commission appoints a secretary (who is its general administrative and executive officer), an assistant secretary, a chief counsel, and such attorneys, examiners, special agents, and clerks as are necessary to the proper performance of its duties.

The Motor Carrier Act, 1935, was added to the Interstate Commerce Act as part II thereof and will be separately described later.

The Interstate Commerce Act, part I, applies to all common carriers engaged in the transportation of oil or other commodities, except water, and except natural or artificial gas, by means of pipe lines, or partly by pipe lines and partly by railroad, or partly by pipe lines and partly by water, from one State, Territory, or District of the United States to any other State, Territory, or District of the United States, or to any foreign country, and to common carriers engaged in interstate transportation of passengers or property wholly by railroad (or partly by railroad and partly by water when both are used under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment); also to express companies and sleeping-car companies, to bridges, ferries, car floats and lighters, and all terminal and transportation facilities used or necessary in the interstate transportation of persons or property.

The Interstate Commerce Act requires all rates to be just and reasonable and prohibits unjust discrimination and undue or unreasonable preference or advantage in transportation rates or facilities. The act provides that whenever in any investigation, including one instituted upon petition of the carriers concerned, there shall be brought in issue any rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice made or imposed by any State authority, the authorities of the State or States interested must be notified of the hearings in such cases, and the Commission may confer and hold joint hearings with the authorities of the interested States. If, after hearing, the Commission finds such rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice causes undue or unreasonable advantage, preference, or prejudice as between persons or localities in intrastate commerce on the one hand and interstate or foreign commerce on the other hand, or any undue, unreasonable, or unjust discrimination against interstate or foreign commerce which is forbidden, it is authorized to prescribe the rate, fare, or charge, or the maximum or minimum, or maximum and minimum, thereafter to be charged, and the classification, regulation, or practice thereafter to be observed, in such manner as, in its judgment, will remove such advantage, preference, prejudice, or discrimination.

The act prohibits the charging of a higher rate for a shorter than for a longer haul over the same line in the same direction, the shorter being included within the longer haul, or the charging of any greater compensation as a through rate than the aggregate of the intermediate rates subject to the act. It is provided, however, that the Commission may, in special cases, after investigation, authorize carriers to charge less for longer than for shorter distances, and from time to time prescribe the extent to which such carriers may be relieved, subject, however, to the further proviso that in so doing the Commission shall not permit the establishment of any charge to or from the more distant point that is not reasonably compensatory, or authorize a circuitous rail line, because of such circuity, to meet the charges of a more direct line to or from competitive points, and to maintain higher charges to or from an intermediate point on its line where the length of the haul on the petitioning line is not longer than that of the direct line between the competitive points, or authorize any such relief because of merely potential water competition not actually in existence.

The Commission is authorized to require carriers to establish through routes and joint rates, and it may act summarily in itself establishing, temporarily, through routes when, in its opinion, shortage of equipment, congestion of traffic, or other emergency exists. The act requires that divisions of joint rates shall be just, reasonable, and equitable, and authorizes the Commission, upon complaint or upon its own initiative, after hearing, to prescribe the just, reasonable, and equitable divisions of such rates, and it may require readjustment of such divisions if it finds they have been unjust, unreasonable, or inequitable in the past, and if the joint rates, the divisions of which are in issue, were themselves prescribed pursuant to a finding or order of the Commission. The Commission is also authorized to require carriers subject to the act to construct switch connections with lateral branch lines of railroads and private sidetracks. The act forbids the construction of new, and the abandonment of old, lines of railroad without Commission approval, excepting "spur, industrial, team, switching, or sidetracks, located or to be located wholly within one State." The act provides that where two or more through routes and through rates shall have been established shippers shall have the right to designate in writing via which of such through routes the property shall be transported to destination. The act gives the Commission authority over the routing of traffic after it arrives at the terminus or a junction point of a carrier and is to be there delivered to another carrier in cases where routing instructions have not been given by the shipper. Where diversion of routed freight occurs which is not in compliance with an order, rule, or regulation of the Commission, the carrier or carriers so diverting the traffic are jointly and severally liable to the carrier deprived of its right to participate in the haul of the property.

The act authorizes the Commission, under certain circumstances, upon such terms and conditions and subject to such rules and regulations as it may think just and reasonable, to permit the pooling of freights of different and competing railroads, and the divisions of the aggregate or net proceeds of the earnings of such railroads. It requires the Commission to prepare and adopt, as soon as practicable, a plan for the consolidation of railway properties of the continental United States into a limited number of systems.

It permits the carriers, with Commission approval, to merge as well as consolidate their properties, or any part thereof, and to purchase, lease, or contract to operate the properties, or any part thereof, of other carriers, or acquire stock control of other carriers; a noncarrier corporation may acquire stock control of one or more carriers, and when so authorized by the Commission such noncarrier corporations are to be considered and treated as carriers subject to the act for the purposes of its provisions relating to reports, accounts, and issuance of securities. The act authorizes a consolidation of four express companies, and relieves carriers, when permission is so granted, from the restraints of the antitrust laws so far as may be necessary to effect such consolidations.

The Commission has jurisdiction, upon complaint or in a proceeding instituted upon its own initiative, and after full hearing, to determine and prescribe reasonable rates, regulations, and practices, including minimum, and maximum and minimum, rates; and also minimum, and maximum and minimum, proportional rates to and from ports, except that such minimum power does not apply to water carriers not controlled by rail carriers, and to award reparation to injured shippers. The transportation act also provides that actions at law by carriers to recover their charges shall be begun within 3 years from the time the cause of action accrues and not thereafter, and that complaints seeking reparation shall be instituted within 2 years from the time the cause of action accrues, except that if on or before expiration of the 2-year period of limitation in subdivision (b) or of the 3-year period of limitation in subdivision (c) a carrier subject to this act begins action under subdivision (a) for recovery of charges in respect of the same transportation service or, without beginning action, collects charges in respect of that service said period of limitation shall be extended to include 90 days from the time such action is begun or such charges are collected by the carrier. The act also provides that a cause of action against the carrier shall be deemed to accrue upon delivery or tender of delivery by the carrier of the property involved. The Commission may also require carriers to cease and desist from unjust discrimination or undue or unreasonable preferences. By the Transportation Act of 1920 the statute was amended to provide that an order of the Commission shall continue in force until its further order, or for a specified period of time, according as shall be prescribed in the order, unless modified or set aside by the Commission, or set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Carriers are required to publish and file rates, rules, and regulations applying to interstate traffic and are prohibited from engaging in interstate transportation unless such rates, rules, and regulations are published and filed. Severe penalties are provided in the statute for failure to observe the rates and regulations as shown in the published tariffs.

By the act of May 29, 1917, as amended on February 28, 1920, the Commission is given extensive jurisdiction over the use, control, supply, movement, distribution, exchange, interchange, and return of locomotives, cars, and other vehicles, including special types of equipment and the supply of trains.

The Commission may inquire into the management of the business of all common carriers subject to the provisions of the act, and may prescribe the accounts, records, and memoranda which shall be kept by the carriers, which shall be open to examination by the Commission through its authorized agents or examiners. Carriers are required to file annual reports with the Commission and such other reports as the Commission may from time to time require. By the amendment of February 28, 1920, the Commission was directed to prescribe, for carriers subject to the act, the classes of property for which depreciation charges may be included in operating expenses and the percentages of depreciation chargeable for each such class of property, with authority to modify such classes and percentages so prescribed when deemed necessary.

By the act of June 18, 1910 (Mann-Elkins law), the jurisdiction of the Commission was increased as to through routes and joint rates, freight classification, switch connections, long and short hauls, filing or rejection of rate schedules, investigations on own motion, determining reasonable rates, suspension of proposed rates, and other matters. By the act of March 4, 1927, the maximum period during which the Commission may suspend the operation of proposed schedules is fixed at not more than 7 months, and it is provided that if the proceeding upon suspension is not concluded within that time the proposed schedule shall go into effect at the end of such period, but that the Commission may require the carriers to keep account in detail of all amounts received by reason of increases in such rates and charges and, if the decision of the Commission be adverse, require the carrier or carriers to refund with interest such portions of such increased rates or charges as by its decision shall be found not justified.

By act approved August 24, 1912 (sec. 11), a new paragraph was added to section 5 of the act to regulate commerce by which it is made unlawful after July 1, 1914, for any common carrier subject to the act to regulate commerce to own, lease, operate, control, or have any interest in any competing carrier by water. Jurisdiction is conferred upon the Commission to determine questions of fact as to competition, after full hearing, on the application of any railroad company or other carrier and to extend beyond July 1, 1914, the time during which such ownership or operation of vessels plying elsewhere than through the Panama Canal may continue, when it is found to be in the interest of the public and of advantage to the convenience and commerce of the people, and such extension will neither exclude, prevent, nor reduce competition on the route by water.

At the same time section 6 of the act was amended by adding a new paragraph conferring upon the Commission jurisdiction over transportation of property from point to point in the United States by rail and water, whether through the Panama Canal or otherwise, and not entirely within the limits of a single State, this jurisdiction, under certain conditions, including power to establish physical connection between lines of the rail carrier and the dock of the water carrier by directing the rail carrier to make such connection, to establish through routes and maximum joint rates over such rail and water lines, and to determine the conditions thereof, and to determine to what traffic and in connection with what vessels, and upon what terms and conditions such rates shall apply; and to require rail carriers entering into through routing arrangements with any water carrier to extend the privileges of such arrangements to other water carriers.

By the act approved March 1, 1913, as amended by act approved June 7, 1922, amending the act to regulate commerce, the Commission is directed to investigate, ascertain, and report the value of all property owned or used by every common carrier subject to the provisions of the act.

The act approved March 4, 1915, which became effective June 2, 1915, as amended August 9, 1916, makes common carriers liable for all loss, damage, or injury to property caused by them, and forbids, with certain exceptions, limitations of liability. As amended February 28, 1920, it is provided that where the loss, damage, or injury occurs while the property is in the custody of a carrier by water, the liability of such carrier shall be determined by and under the laws and regulations applicable to transportation by water, and that the liability of the initial carrier shall be the same as that of such carrier by water, except in connection with shipments to foreign destinations by water carriers whose vessels are registered under the laws of the United States, in which case it is made the duty of the carrier by railroad to deliver such shipments to the vessel as a part of its undertaking as a common carrier, but it is provided in this connection that the rail carrier shall not be liable after its delivery to the vessel.

It is further provided that the 2-year period for the institution of suits against carriers for loss, damage, or injury shall be computed from the day when notice is given by the carrier to the claimant that the carrier has disallowed the claim or any part thereof.

The act approved April 23, 1930, modifies the requirements of this section as to notice and filing of claims.

The act as amended February 28, 1920, prohibits a carrier from issuing securities or from assuming obligations or liabilities as lessor, lessee, guarantor, indorser, surety, or otherwise, in respect of the securities of others from and after 120 days after the provision takes effect, except after having been authorized by the Commission so to do; prescribes the conditions under which the Commission may grant authorities to the carriers; the form and contents of applications which shall be made to the Commission for such purposes; provides for the giving of notice by the Commission of such applications to the Governor of each State in which the applicant carrier operates; for hearings by the Commission in respect of such applications; that carriers may issue certificates and assume obligations or liabilities without obtaining authority other than that of the Commission, and for the issuance by the carrier without the consent of the Commission of short-term notes in limited amounts, reports of which are, however, required to be filed with the Commission. It is further provided that nothing in the act shall be construed to imply any guaranty or obligation as to such securities on the part of the United States. The act also provides for a right of action in favor of investors or purchasers in good faith and without notice of securities which, if not legally issued, are void, and for penalties against directors, officers, attorneys, or agents of carriers who knowingly assent to or concur in the issuance of securities, etc., contrary to the provisions of the Commission's orders or grants of authority.

By the act approved August 18, 1922, the Commission is required to direct, after notice and hearing, each carrier by rail, subject to this act, to issue at such offices as may be prescribed by the Commission interchangeable mileage or scrip coupon tickets. The Commission may in its discretion except from the provisions of this amendatory act, either in whole or in part, any carrier where the particular circumstances shown to the Commission shall justify such exemption to be made.

The amended act further provides for the issuance of through export bills of lading by every common carrier by water in foreign commerce, to the point of destination; that such bills of lading shall name separately the charges to be paid for railway transportation, water transportation, and port charges, if any, not included in the rail or water transportation charges, and that the Commission shall, in such manner as will preserve for the carrier by water the protection of limited liability provided by law, make rules and regulations and prescribe the form of such through bills of lading; it provides that the issuance of such through bills of lading shall not be held to constitute "an arrangement for continuous carriage or shipment" within the meaning of this act.

An act approved February 28, 1933, amends section 17 so as to authorize the Commission to assign certain of its duties to an individual Commissioner or to a board composed of employees.

An act approved March 3, 1933, as amended by an act approved August 27, 1935, amends the Bankruptcy Act by providing for proceedings for the reorganization of railroads, which proceedings may be instituted either by a petition of a railroad, filed in the appropriate Federal court, stating that the carrier is "insolvent or unable to meet its debts as they mature and that it desires to effect a reorganization," or by the filing of a similar petition, after Commission approval, by the creditors of a railroad whose claim aggregates not less than 5 percent of its indebtedness. Many duties are imposed upon the Commission by these amendatory acts, including the approval, after hearing, of plans of reorganization, the regulation of protective committees, the ratification of the selection of trustees, and the fixing of maximum allowances, expenses, and attorneys' fees for the trustees, their counsel, or organization managers, or others entitled thereto.

The Emergency Railroad Transportation Act, 1933, provides for the termination of proceedings for recapture of excess income, and substitutes a new rule of rate making, under which the Commission is required to give due consideration to the effect of rates on the movement of traffic; to the need in the public interest of adequate and efficient railroad transportation service at the lowest cost consistent with the furnishing of such service; and to the need of revenues sufficient to enable carriers under honest, economical, and efficient management to provide such service.

By an act approved May 29, 1928, any person, firm, or corporation engaged in conducting a common-carrier service upon the Mississippi and Warrior Rivers or tributaries thereof may apply to and obtain from the Commission a certificate of public convenience and necessity, providing for such service. Thereupon the Commission may, by order, direct all connecting common carriers to join with such water carrier in through routes and joint rates. In such order, the Commission is to fix the reasonable minimum differentials between all-rail rates and joint rates in connection with the water service, which are to apply until changed by order of the Commission. If the carriers involved are unable to agree upon equitable divisions of the joint differential rates, the Commission is authorized to determine the reasonable divisions thereof.

By the Civil Aeronautics Act, approved June 23, 1938, the Commission's jurisdiction over air transportation was transferred to the Civil Aeronautics Authority, except that orders made by the Commission in proceedings instituted before it, either prior or subsequent to said June 23, are to be controlled by the act of June 12, 1934, as amended by act of August 14, 1935, until changed by the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Under said act of June 23, the Civil Aeronautics Authority and the Interstate Commerce Commission are required to direct their respective chairmen to designate, from time to time, a like number of members of each to act as a joint board to consider and pass upon matters relating to through service and joint rates, fares, or charges of air carriers and other carriers, in accordance with power conferred upon said Authority by the Civil Aeronautics Act.

By an act approved August 26, 1937, section 26 of part I of the Interstate Commerce Act was so amended as to authorize the Commission to require any carrier by railroad subject to that part (including any terminal or station company), and any receiver or any other individual or body, when in the possession of the business of a carrier subject to the section, to install the block signal system, interlocking, automatic similar appliances, methods and systems intended to promote the safety of railroad operation, which comply with specifications and requirements prescribed by the Commission, upon the whole or any part of its railroad, and thereafter to make such changes in the requirements, and in requirements concerning pertinent reports and records of the carriers as the Commission might find necessary.

By an act approved July 5, 1937, section 22 of said part I was so amended as to authorize a carrier to transport a totally blind person accompanied by a guide or seeing-eye dog or other guide dog specially trained and educated for that purpose at the usual and ordinary fare charged to one person.

By an act approved August 25, 1937, section 22 of said part I was so amended as to authorize carriers subject to said part to accord reduced rates for the transportation of property to or from any section of the country with the object of providing relief in case of earthquake, flood, fire, famine, drought, epidemic, pestilence, or other calamitous visitation or disaster, if such reduced rates have first been authorized by order of the Commission.

By section 201 (a) of the act of February 16, 1938, the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to institute and prosecute before the Commission complaints concerning charges, etc., pertaining to the transportation of farm products, and when like complaints are filed by parties other than the Secretary the Commission is required to give him notice concerning the fact and accord him an opportunity to be heard in the premises.

Under the Motor Carrier Act, 1935 (part II of the Interstate Commerce Act), the Commission is charged with the duty of regulating common carriers by motor vehicle, contract carriers by motor vehicle, private carriers of property by motor vehicle, and transportation brokers, who engage in interstate or foreign commerce. The regulation of private carriers of property by motor vehicle is confined to reasonable requirements to promote safety of operation, including qualifications and maximum hours of service of employees and standards of equipment, to be established by the Commission if need therefor is found.

Authority from the Commission to do business is required in the form of certificates of public convenience and necessity for common carriers, permits for contract carriers, and licenses for transportation brokers. Such certificates, permits, and licenses may be suspended, revoked, or changed by the Commission after notice and hearing for willful violation of the act or of any lawful order, rule, or regulation of the Commission, or of any term, condition, or limitation of any such certificate, permit, or license.

Consolidations, mergers, leases, and operating agreements of such carriers require prior approval of the Commission, to be granted if it finds consistency with the public interest in respect thereto. Issuance of securities by any such carrier likewise requires approval of the Commission, if the value of the securities to be issued together with the value of the securities outstanding exceed $500,000, except that this provision does not apply to the issuance of notes of a maturity of 2 years or less and aggregating not more than $100,000.

Common carriers are required to establish just and reasonable rates and fares, and to file tariffs thereof with the Commission. The authority of the Commission over rates is not that of initiation in the first instance, but of regulation. It may suspend a rate, and after hearing, and upon proper findings, may prescribe a lawful rate. It also has jurisdiction over divisions of rates and fares as between joint carriers and other related matters. The Commission is directed in determining the justness of any rate to take into consideration the elements of the inherent advantages of motor transportation, the effect of rates upon traffic movement by motor carriers, the need in the public interest of adequate and efficient transportation service by such carriers, at the lowest cost consistent with the furnishing of such service, and the need of sufficient revenues to enable such carriers to provide such service under honest, economical, and efficient management. The Commission may not consider goodwill, earning power, or certificate value in rate determination.

Common carriers of passengers are required to establish through routes and joint rates with other such carriers; and, if they choose, may make such arrangements with common carriers by rail or water. In the case of common carriers of property by motor, the establishment of joint rates and through routes is optional with the carriers.

Contract carriers must file schedules or, in the discretion of the Commission, their transportation contracts, showing their minimum charges, below which they are directed not to go, either directly or indirectly. If the Commission finds after hearing that any charge made by a contract carrier contravenes the policy of the act, it may prescribe a minimum charge in an amount found necessary or desirable in the public interest and to promote that policy.

All motor carriers must comply with the rules and regulations of the Commission concerning security for public protection. This may take the form of insurance, surety bonds, qualifications as a self-insurer, or some other form of security insuring against injury or death resulting from negligent operation or for loss or damage to property of others. Cargo insurance, or its equivalent, may be required of common carriers of property in the discretion of the Commission.

The Commission may require annual, periodical, or special reports from motor carriers, and the submission of true copies of traffic contracts between any such carrier and any other carrier. It may prescribe the forms of accounts, records, and memoranda of such carriers, and has the right of inspection of such records and of the premises of such carriers. The provisions of part I apply to receipts and bills of lading of such carriers.

As to common carriers by motor vehicle, the Commission, in addition to the general powers above mentioned, may establish reasonable requirements with respect to continuous and adequate service, transportation of baggage and express, uniform systems of accounts, records and reports, preservation of records, qualifications and maximum hours of service of employees, and safety of operation and equipment.

As to contract carriers, the Commission may also establish reasonable requirements with respect to uniform systems of accounts, records and reports, preservation of records, qualifications and maximum hours of service of employees, and safety of operation and equipment.

The Commission, by rules and regulations, may require the display of identification plates upon each motor vehicle operated by such carriers.

An investigation by the Commission is authorized of the need for Federal regulation of the sizes and weights of motor vehicles and combinations of motor vehicles.

RELATED ACTS AFFECTING INTERSTATE COMMERCE

Elkins Act.—The act of February 19, 1903, commonly called the Elkins law, prohibits rebating, allows proceedings in the courts by injunction to restrain departures from published rates, and provides that cases prosecuted under the direction of the Attorney General in the name of the Commission shall be included within the expediting act of February 11, 1903.

District Court Jurisdiction Act.—The Urgent Deficiency Appropriation Act approved October 22, 1913, provided that the Commerce Court should be abolished from and after December 31, 1913, and that the jurisdiction theretofore vested in the Commerce Court under act approved June 18, 1910, be transferred to and vested in the several district courts of the United States.

Expediting Act.—The act of February 11, 1903, provides that suits in equity brought under the act to regulate commerce wherein the United States is complainant may be expedited and given precedence over other suits, and that appeals from the circuit court (district court) lie only to the Supreme Court.

Clayton Antitrust Act.—Jurisdiction is conferred upon the Commission to enforce certain provisions of the act approved October 15, 1914, to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, insofar as such provisions relate to carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce. The act prohibits, with certain exceptions, carriers from discriminating between purchasers in sales of commodities, and from making leases or sales of commodities and from acquiring stock or capital of other corporations engaging in commerce tending to substantially lessen competition or create a monopoly; makes it a felony for a president or other specified officers to misappropriate a carrier's funds; and, as amended by act approved January 12, 1918, provides that, effective January 1, 1919, no carrier shall have dealings in securities or supplies, or contract for construction or maintenance to the amount of more than $50,000 in the aggregate in any one year, with another corporation or organization when, by reason of common officers or otherwise, there exists a community of interest between the carrier and such other corporation or organization, except as a result of free competitive bidding under regulations to be prescribed by the Commission. The Commission is further authorized to investigate violations of the act by carriers and to require the guilty parties to cease therefrom, and its findings of fact in such investigations shall be conclusive when supported by testimony.

Railway Mail Service Pay Act.—The act making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department, approved July 28, 1916, empowers the Commission to fix and determine fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of mail matter by railway common carriers and services connected therewith, prescribing the method by weight or space, or both, or otherwise.

The act making appropriations for the services of the Post Office Department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, empowers the Commission to fix and determine fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of mail matter by urban and interurban electric railway common carriers.

Standard Time Act.—By the act approved March 19, 1918, the Commission is authorized to fix the limits of the standard time zones established for the continental United States and Alaska, having due regard, in doing so, to the convenience of commerce and the junction and division points of common carriers whose movements are to be governed by the standard time of the zones so fixed.

Safety Appliance Acts.—The act of March 2, 1893, known as the Safety Appliance Act, provides that railroad cars used in interstate commerce must be equipped with automatic couplers, and drawbars of a standard height for freight cars, and have grabirons or handholds in the ends and sides of each car; and that locomotive engines used in moving interstate traffic shall be equipped with a power driving-wheel brake and appliances for operating the train-brake system. The act directs the Commission to lodge with the proper district attorneys information of such violations as may come to its knowledge. The act of March 2, 1903, amended this act so as to make its provisions apply to Territories and the District of Columbia, to all cases when couplers of whatever design are brought together, and to all locomotives, cars, and other equipment of any railroad engaged in interstate traffic, except logging cars and cars used upon street railways; and provides for a minimum number of air-braked cars in trains.

By act of April 14, 1910, the safety appliance acts were supplemented so as to require railroads to equip their cars with sill steps, hand brakes, ladders, running boards, and roof handholds, and the Commission was authorized to designate the number, dimensions, location, and manner of application of appliances.

Accident Reports Act.—By act of May 6, 1910, the prior accident reports law was repealed and a new statute enacted requiring carriers to make full reports of all accidents to the Commission and increasing the scope of the Commission's authority in making investigations of all accidents resulting to persons or the property of the carrier.

Hours of Service Act.—The act of March 4, 1907, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is made unlawful to require or permit employees engaged in or connected with the movement of trains to be on duty more than a specified number of hours in any 24.

Ash Pan Act.—The act of May 30, 1908, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is provided that after a certain date no locomotive shall be used in moving interstate or foreign traffic, etc., not equipped with an ash pan which can be emptied without requiring a man to go under such locomotive. Penalties are provided for violations of this act.

Transportation of Explosives Act.—The act of May 30, 1908, as amended by act approved March 4, 1921, directs the Interstate Commerce Commission to make regulations for the safe transportation of explosives by common carriers engaged in interstate commerce. Penalties are provided for violations of such regulations.

Locomotive and Boiler Inspection Acts.—The act of February 17, 1911, confers jurisdiction upon the Commission to enforce certain provisions compelling railroad companies to equip their locomotives with safe and suitable boilers and appurtenances thereto.

By amendatory acts approved March 4, 1915, June 7, 1924, and June 27, 1930, the powers of the Commission to inspect and to prescribe standards of safety for locomotive boilers and appurtenances thereto was extended to include "all parts and appurtenances of the locomotive and tender."

Block signal and automatic train-control safety devices.—The Urgent Deficiency Appropriation Act approved October 22, 1913, contained an appropriation of $25,000 to enable the Commission to investigate and test block signals and appliances for the automatic control of railway trains and appliances or systems intended to promote the safety of railway operation, including experimental tests of such systems and appliances as shall be furnished in completed shape to the Commission for investigation and test, free of cost to the Government, in accordance with the provisions of joint resolution approved June 30, 1916, and Sundry Civil Appropriation Act approved May 27, 1908. Provision was made in the Sundry Civil Appropriation Acts approved August 1, 1914, March 3, 1915, July 1, 1916, June 12, 1917, and July 1, 1918, for continuing the investigation and testing of these systems and appliances.

By the amendment approved February 28, 1920, the Commission is authorized to require carriers to install automatic train-stop or train-control devices or other safety devices in compliance with specifications upon the whole or any part of the carrier's railroad, but it is provided that any order made by the Commission in the premises shall be issued and published at least 2 years before the date specified for its fulfillment.

Railroad Retirement Act.—This act, approved August 29, 1935, as amended by the act of June 24, 1937, creates a Railroad Retirement Board of three members, and it directs the Commission, upon request of the Board or upon complaint of any party interested, to determine after hearing whether any line of railroad operated by electric power, is in fact a street, interurban, or suburban electric railway, exempt from the terms of the act.

Railroad Labor Act.—By act approved June 21, 1934, a National Railroad Adjustment Board and a National Mediation Board, to provide for the prompt disposition of disputes between carriers and their employees, is provided for, and by the terms of the act, the Commission is directed, upon request of the Board or upon complaint of any interested party, to determine after hearing whether any line of railroad operated by electric power is a street, interurban, or suburban electric railway, exempt from the provisions of the act.

By an act approved June 14, 1937, the act of February 22, 1935, was so amended as to continue until June 30, 1939, the prohibition against making shipments of petroleum and its products in interstate or foreign commerce, produced in violation of State law.

By the Carriers Taxing Act, approved June 29, 1937, which provides for the payment of excise taxes by certain carriers and the payment of income taxes by the carriers' employees, but does not apply to either street, suburban, or interurban electric railways, unless such railways are operated as parts of general steam-railroad systems of transportation, the Interstate Commerce Commission is authorized and directed, upon request of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, or upon complaint of any party interested, to determine, after hearing, whether any line operated by electric power falls within the terms of said exception.

Under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, approved June 25, 1938, the Commission is required to determine after hearing whether any line operated by electric power falls within the terms of the exemption proviso included in section 1 (a) of that act, when requested to do so by the Railroad Retirement Board or in a complaint filed by an interested party.

NATIONAL MEDIATION BOARD

The National Mediation Board was organized under the provisions of Public Act No. 442, Seventy-third Congress, approved June 21, 1934, entitled "An act to provide for the prompt disposition of disputes between carriers and their employees, and for other purposes," known as "the Railway Labor Act." It is an independent agency in the executive branch of the Government and is composed of three members appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The Board annually designates a member to act as chairman and maintains its principal office in the District of Columbia, but it may meet at any other place.

The Railway Labor Act applies to express companies, sleeping-car companies, and carriers by railroad subject to the Interstate Commerce Act, provides that such carriers, their officers, agents, and employees shall exert every reasonable effort to make and maintain agreements concerning rates of pay, rules, and working conditions, and to settle all disputes, whether arising out of the application of such agreements or otherwise. All disputes between a carrier and its employees shall be considered, and, if possible, decided with all expedition, in conference between representatives designated and authorized so to confer, respectively, by the carriers and by the employees thereof interested in the dispute.

The Railway Labor Act also applies to every common carrier by air engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, and every carrier by air transporting mail for or under contract with the United States Government, and every air pilot or other person who performs any work as an employee or subordinate official of such carrier or carriers, subject to its or their continuing authority to supervise and direct the manner of rendition of his service.

The act also provides that representatives for the purpose of the act shall be designated by the respective parties. The Mediation Board investigates and certifies disputes arising among a carrier's employees as to who are the representatives designated and authorized in accordance with the requirements of the act. The Board may take a secret ballot of the employees involved or utilize any other appropriate method of ascertaining the names of the representatives.

The act established the National Railroad Adjustment Board, composed of 36 members, 18 of whom are selected by the carriers and 18 by such labor organizations as have been or may be organized in accordance with section 2 of the act. The Adjustment Board, located at Chicago, Ill., was created to handle disputes growing out of grievances or out of the interpretation or application of agreements concerning rates of pay, rules, or working conditions. The Adjustment Board is divided into four divisions, as outlined in section 3 (h) of the act.

The parties, or either party, to a dispute may invoke the services of the National Mediation Board in any of the following cases: (a) A dispute covering changes in rates of pay, rules, or working conditions not adjusted by the parties in conference; (b) any other dispute not referable to the National Railroad Adjustment Board and not adjusted in conference between the parties or where conferences are refused.

The Mediation Board may proffer its services in case any labor emergency is found by it to exist at any time.

When mediation services are requested or proffered the Board is authorized to put itself promptly in communication with the parties to the controversy and use its best efforts by mediation to bring the parties to agreement. When unsuccessful in bringing about an adjustment through mediation the Board shall at once endeavor to induce the parties to submit the controversy to arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the act. The failure or refusal of either party to submit a controversy to arbitration shall not be construed as a violation of any legal obligation imposed upon such party by the terms of the Railway Labor Act or otherwise.

When an agreement to arbitrate has been filed with the Mediation Board a board of arbitration shall be chosen in the following manner:

The representatives of the carrier or carriers and of the employees shall each name one arbitrator (or two if the agreement to arbitrate so designates); the arbitrators thus chosen shall select the remaining arbitrator or arbitrators. On failure of the arbitrators named by the parties to agree on the remaining arbitrators during a period stipulated in the act, it shall be the duty of the Mediation Board to name such remaining arbitrator or arbitrators.

The agreement to arbitrate shall be in writing and shall stipulate, among other things, that the respective parties to the award will each faithfully execute the same. Copies of arbitration awards shall be furnished to the respective parties to the controversy, to the clerk's office of the district court of the United States for the district wherein the controversy arose or the arbitration is entered into, to the Mediation Board, and to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

If a dispute between a carrier and its employees is not adjusted under the foregoing provisions of the act and should, in the judgment of the Mediation Board, threaten substantially to interrupt interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive any section of the country of essential transportation service, the Mediation Board shall notify the President, who may thereupon in his discretion create a board to investigate and report respecting such dispute. The act also provides that after the creation of such board no change in the conditions out of which the dispute arose shall be made by either party to the controversy during a period of 60 days.

The Mediation Board makes an annual report to Congress of its activities and of the activities of each of the four divisions of the National Railroad Adjustment Board.

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

The Federal Reserve System was established pursuant to authority contained in the act of Congress approved December 23, 1913, known as the Federal Reserve Act, the purposes of which, as stated in the preamble, are "To provide for the establishment of Federal Reserve banks, to furnish an elastic currency, to afford means of rediscounting commercial paper, to establish a more effective supervision of banking in the United States, and for other purposes." The system comprises the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, which exercises supervisory functions, the Federal Advisory Council, which acts in an advisory capacity to the Board of Governors, the Federal Open Market Committee, the 12 Federal Reserve banks situated in different sections of the United States, and the member banks, which include all national banks in the United States and such State banks and trust companies as have voluntarily applied to the Board of Governors for membership and have been admitted to the System.

The Federal Reserve banks are located in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas, and San Francisco. There are also in operation 24 branches and 1 agency of the Federal Reserve banks, all of which are located in other cities of the United States.

The capital stock of the Federal Reserve banks is entirely owned by the member banks and may not be transferred or hypothecated. Every national bank in existence in the United States at the time of the establishment of the Federal Reserve System was required to subscribe to the capital stock of the Federal Reserve bank of its district in an amount equal to 6 percent of the subscribing bank's paid-up capital and surplus. A like amount of Federal Reserve bank stock must be subscribed for by every national bank in the United States organized since that time and by every State bank or trust company (except mutual savings banks) upon becoming a member of the Federal Reserve System; and when a member bank increases or decreases its capital or surplus, it is required to alter its holdings of Federal Reserve bank stock in the same proportion. A mutual savings bank which is admitted to membership in the Federal Reserve System must subscribe for Federal Reserve bank stock in an amount equal to six-tenths of 1 per centum of its total deposit liabilities; and thereafter such subscription must be adjusted semiannually on the same percentage basis. One-half of the subscription of each member bank must be fully paid and the remainder is subject to call by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System; but call for payment of the remainder has not been made.

After all necessary expenses of a Federal Reserve bank have been paid or provided for, its stockholding member banks are entitled to receive an annual dividend of 6 percent on the paid-in capital stock, which dividend is cumulative. After these dividend claims have been fully met, the net earnings are paid into the surplus fund of the Federal Reserve bank. In case of liquidation or dissolution of a Federal Reserve bank, any surplus remaining after payment of all debts, dividends, and the par value of its capital stock becomes the property of the United States Government. Federal Reserve banks, including the capital stock and surplus therein and the income derived therefrom, are exempt from Federal, State, and local taxation, except taxes upon real estate.

The board of directors of each Federal Reserve bank is composed of nine members, equally divided into three classes, designated class A, class B, and class C. Directors of class A are representative of the stockholding member banks. Directors of class B must be actively engaged in their district in commerce, agriculture, or some other industrial pursuit, and may not be officers, directors, or employees of any bank. Class C directors may not be officers, directors, employees, or stockholders of any bank. The six class A and B directors are elected by the stockholding member banks, while the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System appoints the three class C directors. The term of office of each director is 3 years, so arranged that the term of one director of each class expires each year.

One of the class C directors appointed by the Board is designated as chairman of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve bank and as Federal Reserve agent, and in the latter capacity he is required to maintain a local office of the Board on the premises of the Federal Reserve bank. Another class C director is appointed by the Board as deputy chairman.

Each Federal Reserve bank has as its chief executive officer a president appointed for a term of 5 years by its board of directors with the approval of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System. There is also a first vice president appointed in the same manner and for the same term.

Federal Reserve banks are authorized, among other things, to discount for their member banks notes, drafts, bills of exchange, and bankers' acceptances of short maturities arising out of commercial, industrial, or agricultural transactions, and short-term paper secured by obligations of the United States; to make advances to their member banks upon their promissory notes for periods not exceeding 90 days upon the security of paper eligible for discount or purchase and for periods not exceeding 15 days upon the security of obligations of the United States and certain other securities; to make advances upon security satisfactory to the Federal Reserve banks to member banks for periods not exceeding 4 months at a rate of interest at least one-half of 1 percent higher than that applicable to discounts and advances of the kinds mentioned above; in certain exceptional circumstances and under certain prescribed conditions, to make advances to groups of member banks; under certain prescribed conditions, to grant credit accommodations to furnish working capital for established industrial or commercial businesses for periods not exceeding 5 years, either through the medium of financing institutions or, in exceptional circumstances, directly to such businesses, and to make commitments with respect to the granting of such accommodations; in unusual and exigent circumstances when authority has been granted by at least five members of the Board of Governors, to discount for individuals, partnerships, or corporations, under certain prescribed conditions, notes, drafts, and bills of exchange of the kinds and maturities made eligible for discount for member banks; to make advances to individuals, partnerships, or corporations upon their promissory notes secured by direct obligations of the United States for periods not exceeding 90 days; to purchase and sell in the open market bankers' acceptances and bills of exchange of the kinds and maturities eligible for discount, obligations of the United States, and certain other securities; to receive and hold on deposit the reserve balances of member banks; to issue Federal Reserve notes and Federal Reserve bank notes; to act as clearing houses and as collecting agents for their member banks, and under certain conditions for nonmember banks, in the collection of checks and other instruments; to act as depositaries and fiscal agents of the United States; and to exercise other banking functions specified in the Federal Reserve Act.

Federal Reserve notes are a first and paramount lien on all the assets of the Federal Reserve banks through which they are issued and are also obligations of the United States. They are issued against the security of gold certificates and of commercial and agricultural paper discounted or purchased by Federal Reserve banks, and, until June 30, 1939, when authorized by the Board of Governors, may also be secured by direct obligations of the United States. Every Federal Reserve bank is required to maintain reserves in gold certificates of not less than 40 percent against its Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation and is also required to maintain reserves in gold certificates or lawful money of not less than 35 percent against its deposits.

The Federal Reserve Act provides for the issuance of Federal Reserve bank notes by the Federal Reserve banks under certain circumstances. However, these notes are not now being issued by the Reserve banks and they have deposited with the United States Treasury funds sufficient to discharge their liability on the relatively small amount of such notes that has not returned from circulation.

Broad supervisory powers are vested in the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, which has its offices in Washington. The Board of Governors is composed of seven members appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate. In selecting these seven members, the President is required to have due regard to a fair representation of the financial, agricultural, industrial, and commercial interests, and geographical divisions of the country. No two members may be from the same Federal Reserve district.

Among the more important duties of the Board of Governors is the review and determination of discount rates charged by the Federal Reserve banks on their discounts and advances. Each member of the Board of Governors is also a member of the Federal Open Market Committee, whose membership, in addition, includes five representatives of the Federal Reserve banks, each such representative being elected annually by the boards of directors of certain specified Federal Reserve banks. Open-market operations of the Federal Reserve banks are conducted under regulations adopted by the committee with a view to accommodating commerce and business and with regard to their bearing upon the general credit situation of the country; and no Federal Reserve bank may engage or decline to engage in open-market operations except in accordance with the direction of and regulations adopted by the committee.

In connection with its supervision of Federal Reserve banks the Board of Governors is also authorized to make examinations of such banks; to require statements and reports from such banks; to require the establishment or discontinuance of branches of such banks; to supervise the issue and retirement of Federal Reserve notes; and to exercise special supervision over all relationships and transactions of the Federal Reserve banks with foreign banks or bankers.

For the purpose of preventing the excessive use of credit for the purchase or carrying of securities, the Board of Governors is authorized to regulate the amount of credit that may be initially extended and subsequently maintained on any security (with certain exceptions) registered on a national securities exchange. Certain other powers have been conferred upon the Board which are likewise designed to enable it to prevent an undue diversion of funds into speculative operations.

The Board of Governors also passes on the admission of State banks and trust companies to membership in the Federal Reserve System and on the termination of membership of such banks; it has the power to examine member banks and affiliates of member banks; it receives condition reports from State member banks and their affiliates; it limits by regulation the rate of interest which may be paid by member banks on time and savings deposits; it is authorized, in its discretion, to issue voting permits to holding-company affiliates of member banks entitling them to vote the stock of such banks at any or all meetings of shareholders of the member bank; it may issue general regulations permitting interlocking relationships in certain circumstances between member banks and organizations dealing in securities or, under the Clayton Antitrust Act, between member banks and other banks; it has the power to remove officers and directors of a member bank for continued violations of law or unsafe or unsound practices in conducting the business of such bank; it may, in its discretion, suspend member banks from the use of the credit facilities of the Federal Reserve System, for making undue use of bank credit for speculative purposes or for any other purpose inconsistent with the maintenance of sound credit conditions; it may, within certain limitations and in order to prevent injurious credit expansion or contraction, change the requirements as to reserves to be maintained by member banks against deposits; it passes on applications of State member banks to establish out-of-town branches; it passes on applications of national banks for authority to exercise trust powers or to act in fiduciary capacities; it may grant authority to national banks to establish branches in foreign countries or dependencies or insular possessions of the United States, or to invest in the stock of banks or corporations engaged in international or foreign banking; and it supervises the organization and activities of corporations organized under Federal law to engage in international or foreign banking. Another function of the Board is the operation of a settlement fund, by which balances due to and from the various Federal Reserve banks arising out of their own transactions or transactions of their member banks or of the United States Government are settled in Washington through telegraphic transfer of funds without physical shipments of currency.

In exercising its supervisory functions over the Federal Reserve banks and member banks, the Board of Governors promulgates regulations, pursuant to authority granted by the law, governing certain of the above-mentioned activities of Federal Reserve banks and member banks. To meet its expenses and to pay the salaries of its members and its employees, the Board makes semiannual assessments upon the Federal Reserve banks in proportion to their capital stock and surplus. The Board keeps a complete record of all action taken by it and by the Federal Open Market Committee on any question of policy, and in the annual report which it makes to the Speaker of the House of Representatives for the information of Congress as required by law, it includes a full account of all such action and also a copy of the records required to be kept in that connection.

The Federal Advisory Council acts in an advisory capacity, conferring with the Board of Governors on general business conditions and making recommendations concerning matters within the Board's jurisdiction and the general affairs of the Federal Reserve System. The Council is composed of 12 members, 1 from each Federal Reserve district being selected annually by the board of directors of the Federal Reserve bank of the district. The Council is required to meet in Washington at least four times each year, and oftener if called by the Board of Governors.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

The Federal Trade Commission was created by an act of Congress approved September 26, 1914, in which the Commission's powers and duties were defined. The Commission is an independent agency, with its five members appointed for a term of 7 years each by the President of the United States with the approval of the Senate. No more than three members may be of one political party.

Further powers are conferred upon this Commission by "An act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes," approved October 15, 1914 (Clayton Act), by Public, 692, Seventy-fourth Congress, approved June 19, 1936, amending section 2 of said act of October 15, 1914; by "An act to promote export trade, and for other purposes," approved April 10, 1918, known as the export trade act (Webb-Pomerene law), and by "An act to amend the act creating the Federal Trade Commission, to define its powers and duties, and for other purposes," approved March 21, 1938, known as the Federal Trade Commission Act (Public, 447, 75th Cong., 3rd sess.).

FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURE UNDER THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION ACT

Section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission Act declares that "unfair methods of competition in commerce, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce, are hereby declared unlawful" and empowers and directs the Commission to prevent "persons, partnerships, or corporations, except banks, common carriers subject to the acts to regulate commerce, air carriers and foreign air carriers subject to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, and persons, partnerships, or corporations subject to the Packers' and Stockyard Act, 1921, except as provided in section 406 (b) of said act, from using unfair methods of competition in commerce and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce."

Whenever the Commission shall have reason to believe that any such person, partnership, or corporation has been or is using any unfair method of competition in commerce or any unfair or deceptive act or practice in commerce, and if it shall appear to the Commission that a proceeding by it in respect thereof would be to the interest of the public, it shall issue and serve upon such person, partnership, or corporation a complaint stating its charges in that respect. Provision is made for hearings and the taking of testimony. If the Commission shall then be of the opinion that the method of competition or the unfair or deceptive act or practice in question is prohibited by this act, it shall issue and cause to be served upon the person or organization against whom complaint is made its findings of fact and an order to cease and desist from such unfair method of competition and such unfair or deceptive act or practice.

Provision is made for petition to a circuit court of appeals of the United States, within any circuit where the method of competition or the act or practice in question was used or where such person, partnership, or corporation resides or carries on business, within 60 days from the date of the service of such order to modify or set aside such order of the Commission. Upon such petition the court has power to affirm, modify, or set aside such order, and to enforce the same to the extent that such order is affirmed. An order of the Commission to cease and desist becomes final upon the expiration of the time allowed for filing a petition for review, if no such petition has been duly filed within such time; and, in case petition for review has been duly filed within the time allowed, the order of the Commission becomes final when it is affirmed by a circuit court of appeals, or, if certiorari has been granted, at such time as the decision has been affirmed by the Supreme Court.

A letter to the Commission stating the employment of unfair practices by some concern is sufficient to institute the Commission's consideration of a proceeding. If the letter clearly discloses that nothing is charged within the jurisdiction of the Commission, it is filed without further action. If it appears, however, that there may have been such a violation of law, the matter is settled, after further investigation, by stipulation and agreement with the concern named in the letter, or by the issuance of a formal complaint followed by a formal trial of the charges, as required by the facts of the particular case and by the public interest, or by dismissal of the charges.

Stipulations setting forth the unfair or deceptive practices used by the individual or concern named and including therein agreements to discontinue their use voluntarily are permitted as a privilege and not a right, and are entered into in the Commission's discretion and in the public interest, where such interest does not require a formal action. All such stipulations are altogether for the public records of the Commission and digests thereof are published. Stipulations and agreements are not entered into in those cases where the Commission has reason to believe that the respondents have been guilty of intentional fraud or wrongdoing, or of violation of antitrust sections of the Clayton Act, or of violations of the criminal sections of the Sherman Act, or of any other statute, or where, in the opinion of the Commission, the respondents will not keep the agreement. Stipulations and agreements are also not entered into in those cases involving the false advertisement of food, drugs, devices or cosmetics where the use of the commodity advertised may be injurious to health because of results from such use under the conditions prescribed in the advertisement thereof, or under such conditions as are customary or usual, or if the false advertisement is made with intent to defraud or mislead, in violation of the provisions of section 14 of the Federal Trade Commission Act.

A formal proceeding, instituted by a formal complaint and followed by the taking of testimony, filing of briefs, and oral argument, is terminated by the entry of a formal order to cease and desist or by order terminating or closing the case. Such a proceeding is prosecuted in the name of the Commission by the chief counsel's division, and testimony and evidence in such proceeding are proffered before a member of the trial examiner's division, who is charged with passing upon the testimony and evidence and with other details incident to the trial of the case.

Investigation in the preliminary stages is the function of the chief examiner's office.

Procedure and internal organization of the Commission, and methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices condemned by the Commission under section 5, are set forth in detail in its annual report.

OTHER SECTIONS OF THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION ACT

Under section 6, the Federal Trade Commission derives its authority for making general investigations. It is provided that the Commission shall have power to gather and compile information concerning, and to investigate from time to time the organization, business conduct, practices, and management of any corporation engaged in commerce, excepting banks, and common carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce, and that it may require reports and answers to specific questions in the compilation of such information.

Under these powers, the Commission has conducted many economic inquiries, chiefly at the request of the President, the Senate, or the House, to whom reports have been made, and has gathered and published for the use of the Congress, the executive departments, and the public, a great deal of information regarding many of the essential industries of the country. The Commission also makes investigations on its own initiative under these powers, as in the instances of inquiries into the subjects of resale price maintenance and the price bases used by manufacturers and distributors in quoting and selling articles and commodities.

The Commission also has power under section 6 to investigate alleged violations of the antitrust acts by any corporation, upon the direction of the President or Congress, and, at the request of the Attorney General, to make such investigations and recommendations for changes in the corporation's methods so as to conform to the law.

Inquiries under way include investigations of certain practices and policies and concentration and control in the automotive industry, and participation in the monopoly investigations of the National Economic Committee.

The Commission is also empowered under section 6 to investigate the manner in which final decrees that have been entered in suits to restrain violations have been carried out, either upon its own initiative or at the request of the Attorney General, to whom it must report in the matter; to make such reports public; to investigate from time to time trade conditions in and with foreign countries where associations, combinations, or practices of manufacturers, merchants, or traders, or other conditions may affect the foreign trade of the United States; and to make public from time to time such portions of the information obtained by it as it shall deem expedient in the public interest, except trade secrets and names of customers.

Section 7 of the Federal Trade Commission Act provides that in any suit in equity brought by or under the direction of the Attorney General, as provided in the antitrust acts, the court may refer said suit to the Commission, as a master in chancery, to ascertain and report an appropriate form of decree therein.

Other sections of the act give to the Commission authorization for such investigations and the compilation of data, with provisions for procedure under the act, and penalties prescribed for refusal of persons, partnerships, or corporations to furnish such material or to comply with orders of the Commission to testify, produce evidence, or file reports, as required.

FUNCTIONS OF THE COMMISSION BOTH LEGAL AND ECONOMIC

It will be seen that under the Federal Trade Commission Act the functions of the Commission are both legal and economic. The legal functions include prevention of unfair competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices and of certain violations of the Clayton Act. Investigatory functions include economic studies of domestic industry and interstate and foreign commerce.

DUTIES OF THE COMMISSION UNDER THE CLAYTON ANTITRUST ACT

The Commission is given jurisdiction over violations of sections 2, 3, 7, and 8 of the Clayton Act. Section 2 has been amended to read as follows:

Section 2. (a) That it shall be unlawful for any person engaged in commerce, in the course of such commerce, either directly or indirectly, to discriminate in price between different purchasers of commodities of like grade and quality, where either or any of the purchases involved in such discrimination are in commerce, where such commodities are sold for use, consumption, or resale within the United States or any Territory thereof or the District of Columbia or any insular possession or other place under the jurisdiction of the United States, and where the effect of such discrimination may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce, or to injure, destroy, or prevent competition with any person who either grants or knowingly receives the benefit of such discrimination, or with customers of either of them: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall prevent differentials which make only due allowance for differences in the cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which such commodities are to such purchasers sold or delivered: Provided, however, That the Federal Trade Commission may, after due investigation and hearing to all interested parties, fix and establish quantity limits, and revise the same as it finds necessary, as to particular commodities or classes of commodities, where it finds that available purchasers in greater quantities are so few as to render differentials on account thereof unjustly discriminatory or promotive of monopoly in any line of commerce; and the foregoing shall then not be construed to permit differentials based on differences in quantities greater than those so fixed and established: And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall prevent persons engaged in selling goods, wares, or merchandise in commerce from selecting their own customers in bona-fide transactions and not in restraint of trade: And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall prevent price changes from time to time where in response to changing conditions affecting the market for or the marketability of the goods concerned, such as but not limited to actual or imminent deterioration of perishable goods, obsolescence of seasonal goods, distress sales under court process, or sales in good faith in discontinuance of business in the goods concerned.

(b) Upon proof being made, at any hearing on a complaint under this section, that there has been discrimination in price or services or facilities furnished, the burden of rebutting the prima-facie case thus made by showing justification shall be upon the person charged with a violation of this section, and unless justification shall be affirmatively shown, the Commission is authorized to issue an order terminating the discrimination: Provided, however, That nothing herein contained shall prevent a seller rebutting the prima-facie case thus made by showing that his lower price or the furnishing of services or facilities to any purchaser or purchasers was made in good faith to meet an equally low price of a competitor, or the services or facilities furnished by a competitor.

(c) That it shall be unlawful for any person engaged in commerce, in the course of such commerce, to pay or grant, or to receive or accept, anything of value as a commission, brokerage, or other compensation, or any allowance or discount in lieu thereof, except for services rendered in connection with the sale or purchase of goods, wares, or merchandise, either to the other party to such transaction or to an agent, representative, or other intermediary therein where such intermediary is acting in fact for or in behalf, or is subject to the direct or indirect control, of any party to such transaction other than the person by whom such compensation is so granted or paid.

(d) That it shall be unlawful for any person engaged in commerce to pay or contract for the payment of anything of value to or for the benefit of a customer of such person in the course of such commerce as compensation or in consideration for any services or facilities furnished by or through such customer in connection with the processing, handling, sale, or offering for sale of any products or commodities manufactured, sold, or offered for sale by such person, unless such payment or consideration is available on proportionally equal terms to all other customers competing in the distribution of such products or commodities.

(e) That it shall be unlawful for any person to discriminate in favor of one purchaser against another purchaser or purchasers of a commodity bought for resale, with or without processing, by contracting to furnish or furnishing, or by contributing to the furnishing of, any services or facilities connected with the processing, handling, sale, or offering for sale of such commodity so purchased upon terms not accorded to all purchasers on proportionally equal terms.

(f) That it shall be unlawful for any person engaged in commerce, in the course of such commerce, knowingly to induce or receive a discrimination in price which is prohibited by this section.

Section 3 prohibits, in certain cases, so-called tying contracts, or contracts whereby, as a condition of sale or lease, the seller or lessor exacts from the purchaser or lessee an agreement that he shall not use or deal in the goods or other commodities of a competitor of the lessor or seller, where the effect of such agreement may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce.

Section 7 prohibits acquisition by one corporation of the share capital of another corporation engaged in commerce, or acquisition by one corporation of the share capital of two or more corporations engaged in commerce, where the effect, in either case, may be to substantially lessen competition between the acquiring and acquired companies, or to restrain commerce or tend to create a monopoly.

Section 8 prohibits so-called interlocking directorates in cases where one person shall at the same time be a director in any two or more corporations (any one of which has capital, surplus, and undivided profits aggregating more than $1,000,000) engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, other than banks, banking associations, trust companies, and common carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce, if such corporations are or have been competitors, so that the elimination of competition by agreement between them would constitute a violation of any of the provisions of any of the antitrust laws.

Procedure under the Clayton Act is, with some exceptions, identical with that formerly prescribed under the Federal Trade Commission Act, prior to its amendment by the act of March 21, 1938.

AMENDMENTS TO SECTIONS 1, 4, AND 5 OF THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION ACT AND ADDITIONAL SECTIONS ADDED TO SAID ACT BY THE AMENDING ACT OF MARCH 21, 1938.

Section 1 of the Federal Trade Commission Act as approved September 26, 1914, was amended March 21, 1938, by a proviso to the effect "that upon the expiration of his term of office a Commissioner shall continue to serve until his successor shall have been appointed and shall be qualified."

Section 4 of the original act, which is the section having to do with definitions, was amended by broadening and clarifying the definitions of "corporation," "documentary evidence," "acts to regulate commerce," and "antitrust acts."

Section 5 was amended by declaring unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce unlawful; by making a cease and desist order of the Commission final 60 days after the date of service of such order, unless a written petition is duly filed before that time praying that the order of the Commission be set aside; by provisions definitely fixing the time when orders from which appeals have been taken shall become final, and by providing that "any person, partnership, or corporation who violates an order of the Commission to cease and desist after it has become final, and while such order is in effect, shall forfeit and pay to the United States a civil penalty of not more than $5,000 for each violation, which shall accrue to the United States and may be recovered by a civil action brought by the United States."

The amending act of March 21, 1938, added sections 12 to 18, inclusive, to said act.

Section 12 makes unlawful the dissemination or the causing of the dissemination of any false advertisement "by United States mails, or in commerce by any means, for the purpose of inducing, or which is likely to induce, directly or indirectly, the purchase of food, drugs, devices, or cosmetics; or by any means, for the purpose of inducing, or which is likely to induce, directly or indirectly, the purchase in commerce of any food, drugs, devices, or cosmetics." It also provides that the dissemination or the causing of the dissemination of any such false advertisement shall be an unfair or deceptive act in commerce within the meaning of section 5.

Section 13 authorizes the Commission to apply to any district court of the United States or in the United States Court of any territory for a temporary injunction to enjoin the dissemination or the causing of the dissemination of any false advertisement of food, drugs, devices, or cosmetics whenever it has reason to believe that such injunction, pending final action upon a complaint issued by the Commission under section 5, would be to the interest of the public.

Section 14 provides that any person, partnership, or corporation violating any provision of section 12 (a) shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by fine and imprisonment if the use of the commodity so advertised may be injurious to health because of results from such use under the conditions prescribed in the advertisement thereof, or under such conditions as are customary or usual, or if such violation is with intent to defraud or mislead; doubles the penalties for a second conviction, provides that meat and meat food products, duly inspected in accordance with the Meat Inspection Act, shall be conclusively presumed not injurious to health at the time the same leave official "establishments," and provides exemptions from the provisions of the said section to publishers, radio broadcast licensees, or agencies or mediums for the dissemination of advertising except the manufacturer, packer, distributor, or seller of the commodity to which the false advertisements relate, unless such persons refuse to furnish the Commission with the name and post office address of the manufacturer, packer, etc., residing in the United States, causing the dissemination of such advertisement.

Section 15 defines the term "false advertisement" and also defines "food," "drug," "devices," and "cosmetics."

Section 16 provides that whenever the Commission has reason to believe that any person, partnership, or corporation is liable to the penalty under section 14 or under subsection (l) of section 5, it shall certify the facts to the Attorney General, whose duty it shall be to cause appropriate prceeedings to be brought for the enforcement of the provisions of such section or subsection.

Section 17 contains the usual separability clause, while section 18 provides that the act may be cited as the "Federal Trade Commission Act." The amending act, after adding sections 12 to 18, inclusive, as above set forth, is then concluded by section 5 (a) and (b), which respectively provide that in case of an order to cease and desist served by the Commission on or before the date of the enactment of the act the 60-day period referred to in section 5 (c) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, as amended, shall begin on the date of the enactment of this act (March 21, 1938); and that section 14 of the Federal Trade Commission Act (containing the criminal penalty provisions) shall take effect on the expiration of 60 days after the date of the enactment of this act (effective date May 20, 1938).

TRADE PRACTICE CONFERENCES

The trade practice conference is a procedure of the Commission, having for its purpose the establishment of fair trade practice rules for the government of trade and industry. Rules set up under this procedure provide for elimination or prevention of various unfair methods of competition, unfair or deceptive acts or practices or other illegal trade practices. There may also be included in the rules provisions for otherwise fostering and promoting fair competitive conditions and ethical standards of business conduct in harmony with the public interest.

Such trade practice conference work of the Commission was instituted in 1919. By 1926 the work had grown to such importance that the Commission established what is now known as the Division of Trade Practice Conferences.

The procedure constitutes one of the several means for carrying out the Commission's function of keeping trade and industry free from harmful practices proscribed by the statutes which the Commission administers.

Rules established for an industry under the trade practice conference procedure are classified into two groups. In group I are placed all rules which proscribe practices that are illegal as constituting unfair methods of competition or, unfair or deceptive acts or practices or which otherwise offend against laws administered by the Commission. A greater part of the rules fall into this group, and the Commission has jurisdiction to enforce the laws they paraphrase regardless of whether the offender has signed the agreement or otherwise agreed to abide thereby. In group II are placed rules for the establishment of practices which the industry deems desirable and which are not contrary to the public interest. Infraction of rules of this class are not illegal per se. Compliance with such group II rules is obtained mainly through agreement and voluntary cooperation among the industry members.

FALSE AND MISLEADING ADVERTISING CASES

For the purpose of effecting a more direct and expeditious method of handling certain cases involving false and misleading advertising which may seem to be violative of the provisions of the Federal Trade Commission Act as amended, the Commission, on October 18, 1938, established a Radio and Periodical Division.

Advertisers, publishers, broadcasting stations, and advertising agents in such cases generally are accorded the privilege of dealing directly with the Director of this Division with a view to reaching an agreement for negotiating a stipulation that will dispose of the issues involved, and obviate the necessity for the preparation and service of formal complaint.

By this procedure the advertisers are afforded an opportunity to explain or justify the advertising claims questioned by the Commission or to revise their advertising copy and stipulate the discontinuance of misleading representations. In most cases the results obtained by this procedure are as effective as those that could be accomplished by the issuance of cease and desist orders, and long delays and litigation, expensive both to the advertisers and the Government, are avoided.

UNITED STATES RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION

Creation and authority.—The Army Appropriation Act, approved August 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 645), empowered the President in time of war, through the Secretary of War, to take possession and assume control of any system or systems of transportation, or any part thereof, and to utilize the same to the exclusion, as far as may be necessary, of all other traffic thereon, for the transfer or transportation of troops, war material and equipment, or for such other purposes connected with the emergency as may be needful or desirable.

By a proclamation dated December 26, 1917, President Wilson took possession and assumed control of railroads, effective at 12 o'clock noon on December 28, 1917, and appointed William G. McAdoo as Director General of Railroads to have charge of the possession, control, operation, and utilization of the railroads so taken over. The Director General of Railroads created an organization designated United States Railroad Administration to perform the duties arising from Federal control.

By the Federal Control Act, approved March 21, 1918 (40 Stat. 451), and amendments, provisions were made for the operation of transportation systems while under Federal control; for the just compensation of their owners, and for other purposes.

Purpose.—The purpose of Federal control of transportation systems in war time was to provide for their operation under a single authority and a simplified method of coordination which had not proved possible under private management and control of their owners.

By the Transportation Act, approved February 28, 1920 (41 Stat. 456), Federal control was terminated at 12:01 a. m., March 1, 1920, and the possession, control, and operation reverted back to the companies owning the transportation systems. The present purpose is to adjust, settle, liquidate, and wind up all matters, including compensation, and all questions and disputes of whatsoever nature arising out of or incident to Federal control.

Files and records.—In order to provide for an orderly disposition of the files and records of the Railroad Administration, the President, by Executive order dated January 27, 1937, directed—

(1) That all files and records of the United States Railroad Administration (including file equipment) relating to claims arising out of or incident to a fire in the State of Minnesota on October 12, 1918, be transferred to the custody and care of the General Accounting Office;

(2) That the files and records of the United States Railroad Administration consisting of an additional set of freight-rate authorities and all surplus copies of general orders, bulletins, circulars, annual reports, and contracts issued by or drawn in favor of the Director General of Railroads be transferred to the custody and care of the Interstate Commerce Commission; and

(3) That files and records of the Railroad Administration consisting of the original pay rolls and personnel records (including file equipment) be transferred to the custody and care of the United States Civil Service Commission.

The transfers directed in the Executive order of January 27, 1937, were completed shortly after that date.

The Archivist of the United States, on January 30, 1937, requisitioned for transfer to The National Archives the archives and records of the Railroad Administration, except for such files and records still needed for the transaction of its unfinished business.

Organization.—The remaining activities and affairs of the United States Railroad Administration are conducted by a Director General of Railroads and Agent, appointed by the President, assisted by three employees of the Treasury Department who have been designated as assistants to the Director General (to whom all necessary administrative powers have been delegated). Necessary clerical duties are carried on by employees of the Treasury in connection with their regular duties.

UNITED STATES COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

The Council of National Defense, composed of the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Commerce, and the Secretary of Labor, was charged by the act of August 29, 1916, among other things, with the "coordination of industries and resources for the national security and welfare" and with the "creation of relations which will render possible in time of need the immediate concentration and utilization of the resources of the Nation." No appropriations have been made for nor any meetings held by the council since the fiscal year 1921. The Assistant Secretary of War is charged by law (act of June 4, 1920) with the "assurance of adequate provision for the mobilization of matériel and industrial organizations essential to war-time needs." The records of the Council of National Defense, as well as those of the War Industries Board and the Committee on Public Information, are now under the jurisdiction of the Archivist of the United States.

UNITED STATES BOARD OF TAX APPEALS

The Board of Tax Appeals was created by the Revenue Act of 1924 (Public, No. 178, 68th Cong., June 2, 1924), and continued by the Revenue Act of 1926 (Public, No. 20, 69th Cong., Feb. 26, 1926).

It is an independent agency in the executive branch of the Government, with principal office at Washington.

Its function is to redetermine, after hearing, deficiencies determined by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, in income, profits, estate, and gift taxes. Proceedings are public and are conducted judicially, in accordance with its rules of practice and the rules of evidence applicable in courts of equity of the District of Columbia. A fee of $10 is prescribed for the filing of a petition. Hearings are held at Washington and, for the convenience of taxpayers, at other places within the United States. Practice is limited to practitioners enrolled under the rules.

The Board's published reports are printed and bound by the Government Printing Office and are available, separately or in bound volumes, as public documents, at listed prices.

Decisions are subject to review by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals of the prescribed circuit, or, by agreement, by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, and thereafter by the Supreme Court of the United States upon certiorari.

The Board is composed of 16 members, each of whom comprises a division to hear and decide cases, division decisions being reviewable by the full board at the chairman's direction. The chairman is designated by election of the members. Members are appointed by the President, with the advice and consent of the Senate, for 12 years, in groups of four. They are removable by the President, after public hearing, for inefficiency, neglect of duty or malfeasance in office, but for no other cause.

WAR FINANCE CORPORATION

The War Finance Corporation was created by the act approved April 5, 1918. Its original purpose was to give financial support to industries whose operations were "necessary or contributory to the prosecution of the war" and to banking institutions that aided in financing such industries. It was also authorized to make advances to savings banks and building-loan associations, to buy and sell obligations of the United States Government, and to issue bonds.

The Corporation was in existence only 6 months before the armistice was signed. When hostilities ceased its operations were contracted automatically, but in the spring of 1919 it was called upon to undertake the burden of financing the railroads, then under Federal control, because no appropriation had been made for the maintenance of their operations.

AUTHORITY TO FINANCE EXPORTS

By act approved March 3, 1919, the powers of the Corporation were extended to embrace an entirely new line of activity. In order to assist in the transition from conditions of war to conditions of peace, the Corporation was given authority to make advances to the extent of $1,000,000,000 to American exporters and American banking institutions which extended credits to finance American exports. The activities of the corporation under this authority were discontinued in May 1920, at the request of the then Secretary of the Treasury. In January 1921 the Congress passed a joint resolution directing the corporation to resume operations in accordance with the provisions of the act of March 3, 1919.

AGRICULTURAL CREDITS

By act approved August 24, 1921, commonly known as the Agricultural Credit Act of 1921, the Corporation's powers were further extended and it was authorized to make loans for agricultural purposes to banking and financing institutions, including livestock loan companies, and to cooperative marketing associations. The act required the Corporation to obtain in every case "full and adequate security by endorsement, guaranty, pledge, or otherwise," and provided that the aggregate of advances made by the Corporation remaining unpaid at any one time may not exceed $1,000,000,000. It contained a provision limiting to June 30, 1922, the period during which the Corporation was authorized to make new advances. This period, however, was extended to June 30, 1923, by the act approved June 10, 1922; to March 31, 1924, by the Agricultural Credits Act of 1923; and to December 31, 1924, by the act approved February 20, 1924.

In accordance with the act of February 20, 1924, the Corporation ceased to receive applications on November 30, 1924, and discontinued the making of new loans on December 31, 1924. It entered the period of liquidation on January 1, 1925, and since that date only expense advances incident to the liquidation of its assets and the winding up of its affairs have been made. For the purpose of liquidating its assets, the corporate life of the Corporation was extended for 1 year, from April 4, 1928, to April 4, 1929, by the act approved April 4, 1928. By the act approved March 1, 1929, the liquidation of the assets remaining at the close of April 4, 1929, and the winding up of the affairs of the Corporation thereafter were transferred to the Secretary of the Treasury, who for such purpose was given all the powers and duties of the board of directors of the Corporation under the War Finance Corporation Act of April 5, 1918, as amended. For carrying out the provisions of the act approved March 1, 1929, the Secretary of the Treasury, pursuant to authority contained in said act, assigned to a liquidating committee the exercise and performance, under his general supervision and direction, of all such powers and duties.

CAPITAL STOCK OF THE CORPORATION

The capital stock of the Corporation was fixed by the act of April 5, 1918, at $500,000,000, all of it to be held by the Government. On November 30, 1919, the entire amount had been subscribed, and on January 5, 1925, the Corporation, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, canceled and retired $499,000,000 of its capital stock, leaving $1,000,000 outstanding. On April 5, 1929, the Corporation canceled and retired $990,000 additional of its capital stock, and on February 10, 1938, canceled $9,000 of its capital stock leaving $1,000 outstanding. On April 5, 1929, and on subsequent dates, the Corporation paid into the Treasury all moneys belonging to it, aggregating $64,837,271.70, which, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Treasury, were not required for carrying on and completing the liquidation of its remaining assets and winding up of its affairs, including reasonable provision for the further expenses thereof.

In April 1919 the Corporation issued for public sale $200,000,000 1-year 5-percent bonds which matured on April 1, 1920. All but $10,000 of these bonds, which have not yet been presented for payment, have been retired.

The funds of the Corporation are kept on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States.

UNITED STATES TARIFF COMMISSION

The United States Tariff Commission was created by act of the Congress approved September 8, 1916, and was reorganized under the provisions of the Tariff Act approved June 17, 1930. The Commission consists of six members, appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, for terms of 6 years each, one term expiring each year. The principal office of the Commission is by law in the city of Washington, but the Commission may meet and exercise all its powers at any other place, and may, by one or more of its members, or by designated agents, prosecute any necessary inquiry in any part of the United States or in any foreign country. It maintains an office at the port of New York. The Commission has an official seal which is judicially noticed.

The Commission is required to put at the disposal of the President, the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives, and the Committee on Finance of the Senate, whenever requested, all information at its command; to make such investigations and reports as may be requested by the President or by either of said committees or by either branch of the Congress; and to report its activities annually to the Congress.

GENERAL FUNCTIONS

It is the duty of the Commission—

(1) To investigate the administration and fiscal and industrial effects of the customs laws of the United States; the relations between rates of duty on raw materials and on finished or partly finished products; the effects of ad valorem and specific duties and of compound specific and ad valorem duties; all questions relative to the arrangement of schedules and classification of articles in the tariff schedules; and the operation of the customs laws, including their relation to the Federal revenues and the industries and labor of the country.

(2) To investigate the tariff relations between the United States and foreign countries; commercial treaties; preferential provisions; economic alliances; the effect of export bounties and preferential transportation rates; the volume of importations compared with domestic production and consumption; and conditions, causes, and effects relating to competition of foreign industries with those of the United States, including dumping and cost of production.

(3) To investigate organizations and arrangements in Europe similar to the Paris Economy Pact.

(4) To ascertain conversion costs and costs of production in the principal growing, producing, or manufacturing centers of the United States, whenever practicable in the opinion of the Commission, and to obtain in foreign countries such costs of articles imported into the United States, whenever in the opinion of the Commission such costs are necessary for comparision with conversion costs or costs of production in the United States and can be reasonably ascertained; and to ascertain all other facts which will show the differences affecting competition between articles of the United States and imported articles in the principal domestic markets.

The Commission is directed also to select and describe articles representative of the classes or kinds of articles imported into the United States similar to or comparable with articles of domestic production; to obtain samples of such articles when deemed advisable; to ascertain the import costs of such foreign articles; and to ascertain the selling prices of such domestic articles in the principal growing, producing, or manufacturing centers of the United States.

SPECIAL FUNCTIONS

Sections 336, 337, and 338 of the Tariff Act approved June 17, 1930, contain special provisions for the modification of existing duties and for the imposition of special duties by Executive proclamation under certain conditions and within stated limitations in accordance with the legislative principles defined in those sections.

Section 336 provides that the Commission, under such reasonable procedure, rules, and regulations as it may deem necessary, shall investigate the differences in the costs of production of any domestic article and of any like or similar foreign article and shall report to the President the results of such investigation and its findings with respect to such differences. If the Commission finds that the duties fixed by the statute do not equalize the differences in costs as ascertained by its investigation, it shall specify in its report such increase or decrease, not exceeding 50 percent, of the statutory rate (including any necessary change in classification) as it finds shown by the investigation to be necessary to equalize such differences. If the Commission shall find, however, that such proceeding in respect of an ad valorem rate of duty will not equalize the ascertained differences, it shall so state in its report to the President and shall specify therein such ad valorem rates based upon the American selling price, as elsewhere defined in the act, of the domestic article as it finds shown by the investigation to be necessary to equalize such differences. No such rate, however, may be decreased by more than 50 percent, nor shall it be increased by more than 50 percent. Any specified increase or decrease of a rate so reported by the Commission, if approved and proclaimed by the President, shall take effect commencing 30 days after such proclamation. The section prescribes the elements to be taken into consideration in ascertaining such differences in costs of production; prohibits the transfer of an article from the dutiable list to the free list or from the free list to the dutiable list; and provides for the modification or termination of any increase or decrease so proclaimed.

The Commission is required, in the course of its investigations under section 336, to give reasonable public notice thereof and to afford reasonable opportunity for parties interested to be present, to produce evidence, and to be heard at such hearings.

The Commission is authorized under section 337 to investigate unfair methods of competition and unfair acts in the importation of articles into the United States or in their sale after importation. When the findings and recommendations of the Commission, upon its investigation of such acts, justify the President in doing so, he is authorized to exclude such articles from entry into the United States, such refusal of entry to remain in effect until otherwise ordered by the President. The testimony in every investigation under the provisions of this section is required to be reduced to writing, and with the findings of the Commission constitutes the official record in each case. A copy of the findings is required to be sent to the importer or consignee of the articles affected thereby and shall be conclusive, subject only to rehearing by consent of the Commission or to appeal on questions of law only to the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, whose judgment shall be final.

Under the provisions of section 338 the Commission is required to ascertain and at all times to be informed whether any foreign country discriminates against the commerce of the United States, whether by imposing upon it unreasonable charges or regulations not equally imposed upon other countries; or by laws, administrative regulations, or practices in regard to customs, port charges, classifications, or other like requirements which may be to the disadvantage of the commerce of the United States in such country or in any other foreign country. The Commission is required to report to the President with its recommendations any such discriminations which it may find to exist, and upon such findings, when confirmed by him, the President is authorized to specify and declare upon articles wholly or in part the growth or product of any such country such new and additional duties as will offset such burdens, or he may exclude from importation articles from such country. Such new or additional duties may, however, not exceed 50 percent ad valorem. Articles imported contrary to the provisions of this section are subject to seizure and forfeiture to the United States.

The Trade Agreements Act of June 12, 1934, assigned new work to the Tariff Commission by naming the Commission as a source of information and advice for the President in conducting reciprocal trade negotiations. The Commission, in cooperation with the Department of State and other agencies of the Government, analyzes trade data on all commodities under consideration, and appraises the effect of import quotas, exchange controls, preferential tariffs, and other trade restrictions as they relate to these negotiations. In practice, the Commission has found that its regular organization for the collection of tariff information can be brought into use in connection with numerous phases of trade-agreement work.

The Tariff Commission is represented on the Executive Committee for Commercial Policy, set up by the President on November 11, 1933, for coordinating all Government activities. All matters involving foreign commercial relationships, including tariff matters in their final form, pass before this Committee for review and judgment.

Two other important administration committees deal with aspects of the reciprocity program, and on each of these the Tariff Commission is represented. One is the Trade Agreements Committee, the other the Committee on Reciprocity Information. Under the Trade Agreements Committee numerous country committees, commodity committees, and special committees pursue assigned studies and projects, and on each of these committees the Tariff Commission is represented.

The Committee on Reciprocity Information is an interdepartmental body set up by Executive order to receive, analyze, and bring to the attention of those in the Government responsible for the preparation of these negotiations the views of agriculture, industry, commerce, and the general public concerning trade agreements, prior to negotiations. Henry F. Grady, vice chairman of the Tariff Commission is chairman of the Committee on Reciprocity Information and one of the Commissioners, A. M. Fox, is vice chairman. The Commission also assists the committee in all its work, furnishes facilities for technical and administrative work, and makes its hearing room available for the public hearings of the committee.

The Tariff Commission is also engaged from time to time in cooperative tasks for other governmental departments and agencies, especially in dealing with general economic and tariff problems.

The Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended (sec. 31 of Public, No. 320, 74th Cong., approved Aug. 24, 1935), contains a section (22), which as amended by the Soil Conservation Act (sec. 5 of Public, No. 461, 74th Cong., approved Feb. 29, 1936) was reenacted without change by the Agricultural Marketing Adjustment Act of 1937. The Agricultural Marketing Adjustment Act authorizes the President to direct the Tariff Commission to make an investigation when he has reason to believe that articles are being imported into the United States under such conditions and in sufficient quantities to render ineffective, or to interfere materially with, any program of benefits to agriculture under this law or its immediate predecessors.

UNITED STATES EMPLOYEES' COMPENSATION COMMISSION

The United States Employees' Compensation Commission was created by the act of Congress approved September 7, 1916 (U. S. C., title 5, ch. 15). This act assures compensation, including reasonable medical and hospital treatment, to all civil employees (unclassified as well as classified) of the Federal Government, employees of the District of Columbia except firemen and policemen, and officers and enlisted men of the Naval Reserve on authorized training duty in time of peace, who sustain personal injuries while in the performance of their duties, but no compensation is paid if the injury is caused by the willful misconduct of the employee or by his intention to bring about the injury or death of himself or of another, or if intoxication of the injured employee is the proximate cause of the injury or death. This compensation law, subject to certain modifications limiting the measure of benefits, has been made applicable to enrollees in the Civilian Conservation Corps, employees of the Civil Works Administration, personnel employed as civil employees of the United States on projects financed by funds provided by the Federal Emergency Relief Appropriation Acts of 1935, 1936, 1937, and 1938, and certain persons receiving assistance from the National Youth Administration. To obtain the medical and hospital treatment, the employee shall be sent to the nearest United States medical officer or hospital, but if this is not practicable, to the nearest physician or hospital designated by the United States Employees' Compensation Commission, or when neither of these is available, to the nearest physician or hospital.

The monthly compensation for total disability shall not be more than $116.66 nor less than $58.33, unless the employee's monthly pay is less than the latter amount, in which case his compensation shall be the full amount of his monthly pay. Beneficiaries receiving compensation under an award for permanent total disability, which renders them so helpless as to require the constant services of an attendant, may receive additional compensation at a rate not in excess of $50 per month. The maximum monthly compensation for persons employed on work-relief projects was increased from $25 to $30 on June 29, 1937, and to $50 on June 21, 1938.

Payment shall be made for partial disability equal to 66⅔ percent of the difference between the employee's monthly pay and his earning capacity after the disability. Employees on work-relief projects are entitled to compensation in accordance with a special schedule covering specific injuries.

In case of death the compensation shall be paid the widow or widower, to dependent children under the age of 18 years, to dependent parents or grandparents, and to other dependents under certain conditions. All claims for compensation must be filed within 1 year.

By Executive orders the administration of the Compensation Act so far as it relates to the Panama Canal employees and employees of the Alaska Railroad has been placed under the heads of those organizations. Decisions of the manager of the Alaska Railroad are subject to review by the Commission upon appeal.

The Commission also administers the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, approved March 4, 1927. This act covers employees in private industries engaged in maritime employment on the navigable waters of the United States (including drydocks) who sustain injury or death arising out of, and in course of, employment. These employees are mostly longshoremen and men engaged in repair work on vessels. It does not include the master or members of the crews of vessels, nor persons engaged by the master to load or unload or repair vessels under 18 tons. The compensation features of the act were effective July 1, 1927. Compensation is paid by the employer and the cost of administration by the United States.

On and after July 1, 1927, every employer having employees coming under the provisions of the act is required to secure payment of compensation by insurance in a company authorized by the Commission or self-insurance authorized by the Commission. A heavy penalty is provided for failure to secure compensation. A severe penalty is also provided for the employing of any stevedoring firm which does not present a certificate of compliance.

The Commission is required to make the rules and regulations under this act, prescribe forms, establish compensation districts, and appoint and assign Deputy Commissioners to such districts. The Deputy Commissioners are required to issue certificates of compliance with insurance provisions, enforce requirements as to reports and penalties, regulate medical and legal fees, hold hearings when necessary or demanded by either party, make investigations, allow or disallow claims, examine settlements when hearings are not required to see that the injured employee has received the benefits of the law, take action in case of default in payment, and certify records upon appeal to the courts. Appeal to the Federal courts from the decision of the Deputy Commissioner may be had upon questions of law.

Compensation for total disability is two-thirds of the average weekly pay, not to exceed a maximum of $25 per week, with a minimum of $8 per week. There is a schedule of benefits for permanent partial disability. Death benefits are payable to the widow until remarriage and to children until they reach the age of 18, also to other dependents under certain circumstances. Reasonable funeral expenses not to exceed $200 are provided. The total compensation payable for injury or death in any one case shall not exceed the sum of $7,500.

The act approved May 17, 1928, which became effective July 1, 1928, made applicable to employers and employees in the District of Columbia the provisions of the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, thus extending the principles of workmen's compensation to employment in the District of Columbia.

The act excludes from its benefits the master and a member of a crew of any vessel, such men having the rights known as maintenance and cure and the rights given by the Federal Employers' Liability Act; the employees of railroads when engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, who are also specifically provided for by the Federal Employers' Liability Act; and employees engaged in domestic service or agriculture; and those engaged in casual employment not in the usual course of the trade, business, occupation, or profession of the employer.

Compensation is paid by the employer through an insurance carrier authorized by the Commission or direct as a self-insurer under conditions prescribed by the Commission.

CIVILIAN CONSERVATION CORPS

The Civilian Conservation Corps was created by act of Congress approved June 28, 1937 (Public, No. 163, 75th Cong.), succeeding and continuing the work of the independent agency known as "Emergency Conservation Work" which was established by Executive Order No. 6101, dated April 5, 1933, under the act of March 31, 1933 (48 Stat. 22), as amended.

The Director is head of the Civilian Conservation Corps, and has complete and final authority in the functioning of the Corps, including the allotment of funds to cooperating Federal departments and agencies, subject to such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the President in accordance with the provisions of the act.

The purpose of the Civilian Conservation Corps is to provide employment, as well as vocational training, for youthful citizens of the United States who are unemployed and in need of employment, and to a limited extent for war veterans and Indians, through the performance of useful public work in connection with the conservation and development of the natural resources of the United States, its Territories, and insular possessions.

Under Executive Orders No. 7677–A, dated July 26, 1937, and No. 7717, dated September 29, 1937, the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Labor, and the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs, were requested to cooperate with the Director of the Civilian Conservation Corps in carrying out the purposes of the act. The Director is assisted by officers of these departments and by a staff of administrative, special and technical assistants.

VETERANS' ADMINISTRATION

The Veterans' Administration was authorized to be established as an independent agency under the direction of the President, by Public, No. 536, Seventy-first Congress, approved July 3, 1930, which further authorized the President by Executive order to consolidate and coordinate under a single control all Government agencies having to do with the administration of laws relating to the relief of and other benefits provided by law for former members of the military and naval forces. By Executive order of July 21, 1930, there was established the Veteran's Administration and consolidated therein the Bureau of Pensions (previously under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Interior), the United States Veterans' Bureau, and the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, the latter now known as the National Homes Service.

The Administrator of Veterans' Affairs is charged with the control, direction, and management of all agencies and activities comprising the Veterans' Administration, and all final decisions or orders of any agency of the Veterans' Administration are, on appeal, subject to review by him. The Administrator of Veterans' Affairs is also chairman of the Federal Board of Hospitalization, which board is advisory to the President in all matters having to do with the need for, the location of, and expenditures on account of increased Government facilities for the hospitalization and domiciliary care of all veterans of the United States.

The Veterans' Administration is responsible for extending relief to veterans and dependents of deceased veterans of all wars, and soldiers and dependents of deceased soldiers who served in the Military and Naval Establishments of the United States during peace time, provided for by the various acts of Congress. These laws include, in addition to pensions, benefits in the form of Government insurance, military and naval insurance, adjusted compensation, emergency officers' retirement pay for veterans of the World War, and hospital and domiciliary care for veterans of all wars.

Regional offices, or combined regional offices and hospitals and/or homes, are located in each State, with the exception of Delaware, to facilitate the granting of benefits provided for veterans. The Veterans' Administration maintains and operates 82 facilities providing hospitalization or domiciliary care for all veterans admitted thereto.

NATIONAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR AERONAUTICS

The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics was established by act of Congress approved March 3, 1915, and the membership increased from 12 to 15 by act approved March 2, 1929 (U. S. C., title 50, sec. 151). Its membership is appointed by the President and consists of two representatives each of the War and Navy Departments from the offices in charge of military and naval aeronautics, two representatives of the Civil Aeronautics Authority (Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938), one representative each of the Smithsonian Institution, the United States Weather Bureau, and the National Bureau of Standards, together with six additional persons who are "acquainted with the needs of aeronautical science, either civil or military, or skilled in aeronautical engineering or its allied sciences." All the members serve as such without compensation.

The law provides that the Committee shall "supervise and direct the scientific study of the problems of flight, with a view to their practical solution, * * *" and also "direct and conduct research and experiment in aeronautics."

Under rules and regulations formulated by the Committee and approved by the President, technical subcommittees, organized along lines similar to the main Committee, and with members serving as such without compensation, prepare programs of fundamental research in aeronautics. In order that research programs may be of maximum value, provision is made to keep the subcommittees informed as to aeronautical researches conducted by the more progressive foreign nations.

The Office of Aeronautical Intelligence was established in the early part of 1918 as an integral branch of the Committee's activities. It serves as the depository and distributing agency for the scientific and technical data on aeronautics comprising the results of fundamental committee researches and also the scientific and technical information collected by the Committee from governmental and private agencies in this country and abroad. A technical assistant in Europe with headquarters at the American Embassy in Paris, visits governmental and private agencies in Europe to collect, not merely results of researches but also first-hand information as to researches proposed and in progress.

Briefly, the general functions of this Committee may be stated as follows:

1. Coordinate the research needs of aviation, civil and military.
2. Prevent duplication in the field of aeronautical research.
3. Conduct under unified control of Committee in one central Government laboratory fundamental aeronautical research, including:

(a) Confidential researches for the Army and Navy on which they rely for supremacy of American military aviation.

(b) Fundamental researches to increase safety and economy of operation of aircraft, military and civil.

4. Advise the War and Navy Departments, Civil Aeronautics Authority, and the aviation industry as to the latest research information.
5. Consider merits of aeronautical inventions submitted by the public to any agency of the Government.
6. On request of the President, the Congress, or any executive department to advise upon any special problem in aeronautics which may be referred to it.

The Committee conducts at Langley Field, Va., a well-equipped aeronautical research laboratory known as the Langley Memorial Aeronautical Laboratory, comprising 14 structures and a research staff of 400 employees. There, under ideal conditions, are combined facilities for laboratory investigations and for researches on aircraft in flight. The aeronautical research facilities at this laboratory are unexcelled by those of any other single nation. With the research needs of military and of civil aviation coordinated through the subcommittees, on which all interested agencies of the Government are represented, and with the cordial and active cooperation of the War and Navy Departments, of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, of the aircraft industry, and of educational institutions, the Committee is able to discharge its responsibilities for the systematic and efficient prosecution of fundamental scientific research in aeronautics and for supplying the research needs of both military and civil aviation without overlapping or duplication of effort.

THE INTERNATIONAL JOINT COMMISSION

The International Joint Commission was created by the treaty between the United States and Great Britain signed January 11, 1909, the object of which is "to prevent disputes regarding the use of boundary waters and to settle all questions which are now pending between the United States and the Dominion of Canada involving the rights, obligations, or interests of either in relation to the other or to the inhabitants of the other, along their common frontier, and to make provision for the adjustment and settlement of all such questions as may hereafter arise."

The Commission consists of six members, three appointed by the President of the United States and three appointed by His Majesty on recommendation of the Government of Canada. It was organized in 1911, adopted rules of procedure, and established permanent offices in Washington and Ottawa. It has jurisdiction over all cases involving the use or obstruction or diversion of boundary waters between the United States and Canada, of waters flowing from boundary waters, and of waters at a lower level than the boundary in rivers flowing across the boundary.

Under article IX of the treaty the International Joint Commission also is constituted an investigatory body for the purpose of examining into and reporting upon any questions or matters of difference arising along the common frontier that shall be referred to it from time to time whenever either the Government of the United States or the Government of Canada shall request that such questions or matters of difference be so referred.

Under article X of the treaty any questions or matters of difference arising between the high contracting parties involving the rights, obligations, or interests of the United States or of the Dominion of Canada, either in relation to each other or to their respective inhabitants, may be referred for decision to the International Joint Commission, it being understood that on the part of the United States such action will be by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and on the part of Great Britain with the consent of the Government of Canada.

Under article VI of the treaty the Commission is charged with the measurement and apportionment from time to time of the waters of the St. Mary and Milk Rivers and their tributaries, these rivers lying partly in Montana and partly in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and being largely used for irrigation purposes in both countries.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY COMMISSION, UNITED STATES, ALASKA, AND CANADA

(For defining, marking, and maintaining the boundary between the United States, Alaska, and Canada)

The International Boundary Commission, United States, Alaska, and Canada was created under the provisions of the several boundary treaties between the United States and Great Britain, for the purpose of defining, marking, and maintaining the demarcation of the international boundary line between the United States and Canada and between Alaska and Canada, as follows:

1. Southeastern Alaska, or the boundary between Alaska and British Columbia. Length, 893 miles.

Article VI of the convention between the United States and Great Britain, providing for the settlement of questions between the two countries with respect to the boundary line between the Territory of Alaska and the British possessions in North America, signed at Washington, January 24, 1903, stipulated that when the high contracting parties shall have received the decision of the tribunal upon the questions submitted as provided in the foregoing articles, which decision shall be final and binding upon all parties, they will at once appoint, each on its own behalf, one or more scientific experts, who shall with all convenient speed proceed to lay down the boundary line in conformity with such decision.

2. The boundary between Alaska and Canada, along the one hundred and forty-first meridian. Length, 647 miles.

The convention between the United States and Great Britain, signed at Washington, April 21, 1906, provided for the surveying and marking out upon the ground of the one hundred and forty-first meridian of west longitude where said meridian forms the boundary line between Alaska and the British possessions of North America. The convention stipulated that each Government shall appoint one commissioner, with whom may be associated such surveyors, astronomers, and other assistants as each Government may elect, who shall locate the boundary line, erect the necessary boundary marks, make the necessary surveys, and file duplicate records with their respective Governments.

3. The United States and Canada boundary from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, with the exception of the St. Lawrence River and Great Lakes. Length, 2,697 miles.

Articles I, II, III, V, VI, VII, and VIII, of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain, entitled "Canadian International Boundary", signed at Washington, April 11, 1908, stipulated that each of the high contracting parties shall appoint without delay an expert geographer or surveyor as Commissioner, and the Commissioners so appointed shall jointly execute the necessary surveys, repair existing boundary marks, erect additional boundary marks, and lay down the boundary line in accordance with the existing treaties upon quadruplicate sets of accurate modern charts, prepared or adopted by them for that purpose, and that said charts so marked shall be filed with each Government, and said Commissioners shall also prepare, in duplicate, and file with each Government a joint report or reports, describing in detail the course of the boundary so marked by them, and the character and location of the several monuments and boundary marks and ranges marking it.

4. Article IV of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain in respect to Canada, signed at Washington, February 24, 1925, which provides for the maintenance of an effective boundary line between the United States and the Dominion of Canada and between Alaska and the Dominion of Canada, authorizes and directs the Commissioners appointed under the provisions of the treaty of April 11, 1908, to inspect the various portions of the boundary line between the United States and the Dominion of Canada and between Alaska and the Dominion of Canada at such times as they shall deem necessary; to repair all damaged monuments and buoys; to relocate and rebuild monuments which have been destroyed; to keep the boundary vistas open; to move boundary monuments to new sites and establish such additional monuments and buoys as they shall deem desirable; to maintain at all times an effective boundary line between the United States and the Dominion of Canada and between Alaska and the Dominion of Canada as defined by the present treaty and treaties heretofore concluded or hereafter to be concluded; and to determine the location of any point of the boundary line which may become necessary in the settlement of any question that may arise between the two Governments.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY COMMISSION, UNITED STATES AND MEXICO

The International Boundary Commission, United States and Mexico, was created pursuant to the provisions of the treaty concluded March 1, 1889, with exclusive jurisdiction to examine and decide all differences or questions arising on that portion of the frontier between the United States of America and the United Mexican States where for a distance of 1,210 miles the Rio Grande, and for a distance of 20 miles the Colorado River form the boundary line as originally established under the treaties of 1848 and 1853, and further regulated by the treaties of 1884, 1905, and 1933, growing out of changes in the beds of, or works constructed in, these rivers, or any other cause affecting the boundary line. Matters pertaining to the practical location and monumentation of the overland boundary of 675 miles between El Paso, Tex., and the Pacific Ocean, as well as questions for investigation and report touching flood-control measures and other engineering problems along the international boundary, are also submitted to the Joint Commission upon concurrence between the respective Governments through an exchange of notes. The Commission is empowered to suspend the construction of works of any character along the Rio Grande and Colorado Rivers that contravene existing treaties; erect and maintain monuments along the water boundary; make necessary surveys of changes brought by force of current in both rivers caused by avulsion, accretion, or erosion; mark and eliminate bancos caused by such changes; survey, place, and maintain monuments on all international bridges between the two countries. The Commission is authorized to call for papers of information relative to boundary matters from either country; hold meetings at any point questions may arise; summon witnesses and take testimony. If both Commissioners agree to a decision their judgment shall be binding on both Governments, unless one of them shall disapprove it within 1 month from the date it shall have been pronounced. By the provisions of the treaty of 1933 the Commission was charged with the direction and inspection of the construction, and with the subsequent maintenance of the Rio Grande Rectification Project in the El Paso-Juarez Valley.

The United States section of the Commission was by the act approved June 30, 1932 (Public, No. 212, 72d Cong.), charged with the exercise and performance of the powers, duties, and functions of the American section, International Water Commission, United States and Mexico, which was abolished by the terms of such act effective July 1, 1932. In addition to the development and analysis of general data pertaining to the extent of beneficial use of international waters, there are operated by the United States section of the Commission, over some 1,500 miles of the Rio Grande, its tributaries and diversions, 54 stream-gaging stations embracing the measurement of the run-off from over 55,000 square miles of the drainage area of the Rio Grande within the United States between Fort Quitman, Tex., and the Gulf of Mexico, and nearly one-half of the pertinent drainage area in Mexico between those points. Congressional concurrence in the development of these international data is found in the provisions of the act approved August 19, 1935 (Public, No. 286, 74th Cong.).

Statutory provision is also made by this act for the conduct by the American Commissioner of technical and other investigations relating to the defining, demarcation, fencing, or monumentation of the land and water boundary; and the construction of fences, monuments, and other demarcation of the boundary line as well as sewer and water systems and other enumerated structures crossing the international border. The act further embraces statutory authority and administrative provisions for the construction, operation, and maintenance of treaty and other boundary projects.

FEDERAL BOARD OF SURVEYS AND MAPS

The Board of Surveys and Maps was constituted by Executive order of December 30, 1919, to coordinate the activities of the various map-making agencies of the Government. Amendatory Executive order of January 4, 1936, designates it as the Federal Board of Surveys and Maps, and extends its advisory powers to include independent establishments as well as executive departments. The various executive departments and independent establishments are requested to make full use of the Board as an advisory body and to furnish all available information and data called for by the Board. Meetings are held at stated intervals, to which representatives of the map-using public are invited for the purpose of conference and advice. A central information office has been established in the Geological Survey for the purpose of collecting, classifying, and furnishing to the public information concerning all map and survey data available in the various Government agencies and elsewhere.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

STATUTORY HISTORY

Creation and authority.—Under the Federal Water Power Act of June 10, 1920 (41 Stat. 1063, 16 U. S. C. 791–823), the Federal Power Commission was originally composed of the Secretaries of War, Interior, and Agriculture. It was reorganized on December 22, 1930, under the act of June 23, 1930 (46 Stat. 797), with five full-time Commissioners appointed by the President. Its duties were enlarged under title II of the Public Utility Act of 1935 (49 Stat. 803), approved August 26, 1935, to include jurisdiction, not only over water-power projects on streams over which Congress has jurisdiction under the commerce clause or upon public lands, as provided in the Federal Water Power Act, but also over interstate commerce in electric energy. The short title of the act was changed to "Federal Power Act."

WATER-POWER DEVELOPMENT

Purpose of original act.—The Federal Water Power Act of 1920 represents a declared policy of the Congress to provide for the improvement of navigation and the development of water power on streams subject to Federal jurisdiction and on public lands by private and governmental agencies acting under licenses issued by the Commission. Licenses so issued are subject to conditions prescribed by the act to promote navigation and to conserve water-power resources in the public interest, and to aid in safeguarding consumers against exorbitant charges by licensees for generated power.

Recapture of water-power projects.—An important provision of the act relating to water-power projects reserves to the United States, under what is commonly called the recapture provision, the right to take over any licensed project at the expiration of the license period upon payment to the licensee of its net investment therein, not to exceed the then fair value of the project involved. To protect the recapture option and its incidental rights, as well as the rate-payers using energy produced by operation of the project, the statute requires the Commission to determine the actual legitimate original cost of projects constructed under license, additions thereto, and betterments thereof, and, in case of rights acquired prior to securing a license under authority antedating the act, to determine their fair value as of the date of license, or where no license has as yet been issued, as of the date of such determination. Provision is made for a reduction of the net investment and consequently of the recapture base (which is also the rate base under the statute when rates are determined by the Federal Power Commission) by the creation of amortization reserves accumulated in excess of a specified reasonable rate of return. In this connection the Commission also prescribes and enforces a system of accounts to be maintained by licensees. The right of the United States or any State or municipality to take over, maintain, and operate any project licensed under the act at any time by condemnation proceedings upon payment of just compensation is expressly reserved.

Limited authority over rates, service, and securities.—Licensees which are interstate electric utility companies are subject to the provisions of part I as well as to the provisions of parts II and III of the Federal Power Act as to such interstate business. The Commission's authority over the rates, services, and security issues of all licensees and their customers or subsidiaries engaged in the public service is very limited under part I of the act. It may regulate the rates, services, and security issues of such licensees and their customers engaged in the public service when they are engaged in intrastate business only where the State involved has no duly constituted regulatory agency for the purpose.

Reservation of power sites.—The Commission is authorized to determine whether the value of the lands of the United States reserved for power purposes will be injured or destroyed for purposes of power development by location, entry, or selection under the public-land laws, with reservation of power rights to the United States.

Investigation of value of power.—The Commission may investigate the value of power from Government dams, and whether it may advantageously be used by the United States for its public purposes.

Annual charges fixed.—Annual charges to be paid by licensees are fixed by the Commission for reimbursement of the cost of administration of the water-power provisions of the act; for recompensing the United States for the use of its lands and other property; and for the expropriation to the Government of excessive profits until the respective States shall make provision for preventing them or for their expropriation to themselves.

Charge for annual benefits determined.—Where a licensee or other developer of power benefits directly from a headwater improvement of another licensee, a permittee, or of the United States, the Commission determines the proper share of the annual charges for interest, maintenance, and depreciation on such headwater improvement, which must be paid by the lower power developer benefited.

Investigation of power resources.—The Commission is authorized to conduct general investigations of power resources and of the water-power industry and its relation to other industries and to interstate and foreign commerce, with power to cooperate with National and State agencies in its investigations, and to publish the results of its work in special and annual reports.

INTERSTATE TRANSMISSION OF ELECTRIC ENERGY

Purpose of Federal Power Act.—The Federal Water Power Act of 1920 was amended by the Public Utility Act of 1935 to clarify certain sections of the act, and, in addition, certain jurisdiction was conferred upon the Federal Power Commission over the interstate transmission and over the interstate sale of electric energy.

The terms "public utility" and "electric utility," as herein used interchangeably, refer to companies engaged in such transmission or sale of electric energy, for ultimate distribution to the public.

Interconnection and coordination of facilities.—The Commission is directed to divide the country into regional districts for the voluntary interconnection and coordination of electric facilities used for the generation, transmission, and sale of electric energy. It has the authority, under certain conditions, to order physical interconnection of the transmission facilities of electric utilities with the transmission facilities of any other person engaged in the transmission or sale of electric energy on application of any State commission, or of such person. In case of war in which the United States is engaged, or other emergency, as defined, the Commission may require, by order, temporary interconnections for the interchange of electric energy to meet the emergency and serve the public interest.

Transmission to foreign countries.—The exportation of electric energy from the United States to a foreign country is prohibited except on authorization of the Commission.

Disposition of property; consolidation of facilities; purchase of securities.—The Commission is given jurisdiction over sales, leases, or other dispositions by any electric utility of the whole of its facilities subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, or of any part thereof of a value in excess of $50,000; over the merger or consolidation, directly or indirectly, of such facilities with those of any other person or corporation; and over the purchase, acquisition, or taking by such an electric utility of any security of any other electric utility.

Issuance of securities; assumption of liabilities.—It also has jurisdiction over security issues and assumptions of liability by such electric utilities, when they are not organized and operating in a State under the laws of which their security issues are regulated by a State commission.

Rates and charges; schedules; suspension of new rates.—Electric utilities are required to file with the Commission schedules and contracts showing rates and charges made for energy interchanged or sold for purposes of resale in interstate commerce. Such rates are required to be just and reasonable and no undue preference or advantage may be granted any person, or unreasonable difference made as between localities or classes of service. No change in such rates or charges so filed with the Commission may be made without 30 days' notice to the Commission and the public. A power to suspend such changes is vested in the Commission. Whenever the Commission, after a hearing had upon its own motion or upon complaint, shall find that any rate, charge, or classification charged or observed by any public utility for transmission or sale subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, or any rule, regulation, practice, or contract affecting the same, is unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, the Commission shall determine the just and reasonable rate, charge, classification, rule, regulation, practice, or contract to be thereafter observed and in force, and fix it by order. In cases where the Commission has no authority to fix rates, it may, upon its own motion or upon the request of any State commission, determine the cost of production or transmission of electric energy.

Uniform system of accounts; reports.—The Commission is directed to prescribe for and require every public utility, and all agencies of the United States engaged in the generation and sale of electric energy for ultimate distribution to the public, to set up and maintain a uniform system of accounts and to file with the Commission such periodic or special reports as the Commission may prescribe. Under this provision, the Commission, on June 16, 1936, approved a "Uniform System of Accounts prescribed for public utilities and licensees subject to the provisions of the Federal Power Act," which supersedes the system of accounts prescribed for licensees under the Federal Water Power Act.

Ascertainment of cost of property.—The Commission is empowered to investigate and ascertain the actual legitimate cost of the property of every public utility engaged in the transmission or sale of electrical energy in interstate commerce, the depreciation therein, and, when found necessary for rate-making purposes, other facts which bear on such cost or depreciation, and the fair value of such property.

Use of joint boards; cooperation with State commissions.—The Commission is authorized to cooperate with State commissions and to hold joint hearings in connection with any matter with respect to which it is authorized to act, and to make available to State commissions such information and reports as may be of assistance to them in their regulation of electric utilities.

Officials dealing in securities; interlocking directorates.—The act makes it unlawful for any officer or director of an electric utility subject to regulation of the Commission to receive for his benefit any profit on the negotiation, hypothecation, or sale of securities of such utility. It also prohibits the holding of the position of officer or director, at the same time, of more than one such electric utility, or of such an electric utility and a bank, trust company, banking association, or firm authorized by law to underwrite or participate in the marketing of securities of such a utility, or supplying electrical equipment to such a public utility, unless the holding of such positions has been authorized by order of the Commission.

GENERAL POWERS OF INVESTIGATION

In addition to the regulatory powers and duties above enumerated, the Commission is directed to conduct investigations regarding the generation, transmission, distribution, and sale of electric energy, however produced, throughout the United States and its possessions, whether or not otherwise subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, including the generation, transmission, distribution, and sale of electric energy by any agency, authority, or instrumentality of the United States or of any State or municipality or other political subdivision of a State. The Commission is required to collect, compile, and keep current information regarding the ownership, operation, management, and control of all facilities used for such generation, transmission, distribution, and sale of electric energy; the capacity and output thereof and the relationship between the two; the cost of generation, transmission, and distribution; the rates, charges, and contracts in respect of the sale of electric energy and its service to residential, rural, commercial, and industrial consumers and other purchasers by private and public agencies; and the relation of any or all such facts to the development of navigation, industry, commerce, and the national defense. The Commission must report to Congress the result of such investigations. It may provide for the publication of its reports and decisions in such form and manner as may be best adapted for public information and use, and is authorized to sell at reasonable prices copies of all maps, atlases, and reports as it may from time to time publish.

DUTIES IN CONNECTION WITH TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY

Under section 8 of an act approved August 31, 1935, amending the Tennessee Valley Authority Act, and sections 301 and 303 of the Federal Power Act (1935), the Commission is directed to prescribe a system of accounts to be maintained by the Tennessee Valley Authority Board, the same to be similar to the system of accounts prescribed by the Commission for public utilities.

Under section 9 of the amended act a new section designated 15a is added to the Tennessee Valley Authority Act. It authorizes the Tennessee Valley Authority Corporation to issue bonds not to exceed in the aggregate $50,000,000 outstanding at any one time in order to obtain funds to carry out the provisions of section 7 of the amendatory act under which the Tennessee Valley Authority Board "is authorized to advise and cooperate with and assist, by extending credit for a period of not exceeding 5 years to States, counties, municipalities, and nonprofit organizations situated within transmission distance of any dam where such power is generated by the corporation, in acquiring, improving, and operating (a) existing distribution facilities and incidental works, including generating plants; and (b) interconnecting transmission lines; or in acquiring any interest in such facilities, incidental works, and lines." No bonds may be issued under section 15a for the performance of any proposed contract negotiated by the Tennessee Valley Authority Corporation under the authority of section 7 of the amendatory act until the proposed contract has been submitted to and approved by the Federal Power Commission.

To administer the larger duties imposed by the Federal Power Act, the Commission has reorganized its increased personnel in bureaus and divisions, and has established regional offices in five cities—New York, Atlanta, Chicago, Denver, and San Francisco.

The Commission also now compiles and publishes the monthly and periodical reports of the production of electricity for public use in the United States.

Under the act of August 20, 1937 (Public, No. 329, 75th Cong., 1st sess.), the Commission is entrusted with certain duties in connection with the Bonneville Project on the Columbia River near Portland, Oreg. Pursuant to the terms of this act, the Commission has appointed its chief engineer as its representative on the advisory board with which the administrator of the project must consult relative to the disposal of electric energy generated at the project.

The Commission is required to allocate the costs of facilities at Bonneville and rate schedules are to be based upon such allocation. Schedules of rates and charges for electric energy, and modifications thereof, are to be prepared by the administrator and become effective upon confirmation and approval by the Commission. The accounts of the administrator in operating the Bonneville Project are subject to the accounting requirements of the Power Act.

Under the act of May 18, 1938 (52 Stat. 403), the Commission is entrusted with certain duties in connection with the Fort Peck Project located on the Missouri River near Fort Peck, Mont. The Commission's duties with respect to this project are similar to its duties with respect to the Bonneville Project

FLOOD CONTROL ACT OF 1938

Under the Flood Control Act of 1938 (52 Stat. 1215) the Secretary of War is directed to install penstocks or other similar facilities in Federal flood-control projects so as to make such projects capable of future use for power development, upon the recommendation of the Chief of Engineers and the Federal Power Commission. Pursuant to its duties under this act, the Commission is required to investigate the hydroelectric power potentialities of all authorized Federal flood-control dam and reservoir projects.

NATURAL GAS ACT

Under the recently enacted Natural Gas Act (52 Stat. 821) the Federal Power Commission exercises regulatory powers over natural gas companies engaged in interstate commerce. All persons who own or operate any facilities used for the transportation of natural gas in interstate commerce or for the sale of natural gas in interstate commerce for resale for ultimate public consumption, for domestic, commercial, industrial, or any other use, are subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission.

The exportation or importation of natural gas to or from the United States by any person, whether or not otherwise subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, is prohibited except upon the securing of an order of the Commission authorizing such exportation or importation.

The Commission has jurisdiction over all wholesale rates of natural gas companies as defined in the Natural Gas Act. All rates and schedules of such companies are required to be filed with the Commission and no change in any existing rate schedule can be made except after 30 days' notice to the Commission and the public. The Commission has authority to suspend any proposed change in a rate schedule unless it relates to charges for natural gas for resale for industrial use only. The statute imposes upon the Commission the duty of determining whether all existing wholesale rates are just, reasonable, and nondiscriminatory and empowers the Commission to conduct investigations as a basis for making such determinations and to hear and settle any complaints relating to the lawfulness of existing or proposed rates. The Commission has no power to order any increase in any rate contained in the currently effective schedule of a natural gas company on file with the Commission unless such increase is in accordance with a new schedule filed by such natural gas company.

The Commission is authorized to investigate and ascertain the actual legitimate cost of the property of every natural gas company and the depreciation therein and, if necessary for rate-making purposes, any other facts which bear upon a determination of a proper rate base. Upon its own motion or upon the request of a State commission, the Commission may investigate and determine the cost of producing or transporting natural gas by a natural gas company in cases where the Commission has no authority to establish a rate governing the transportation or sale of natural gas by such company.

Authority is delegated to the Commission to prescribe proper and adequate rates of depreciation and amortization of the several classes of property of each natural gas company used or useful in the production, transportation, or sale of natural gas. After hearing, the Commission may determine the adequacy or inadequacy of gas reserves and may determine the propriety and reasonableness of the inclusion in operating expenses, capital or surplus, of all delay rentals or other forms of rentals or compensation for unoperated lands and leases.

The Commission is empowered to prescribe a uniform system of accounts for natural gas companies. The Commission is authorized to cooperate with the State commissions and to assemble pertinent information in connection with State compacts dealing with the conservation, production, transportation, or distribution of natural gas. The Commission may also require the filing of annual and other periodic or special reports from natural gas companies.

The Commission is empowered to require any natural gas company, subject to its jurisdiction, to extend or improve its transportation facilities or to establish physical connections of its facilities with those of and to sell gas to any person or municipality engaged in local distribution of natural gas. No natural gas company can abandon any of its facilities or service which are subject to the Commission's jurisdiction without the prior approval of the Commission. The Commission is further authorized and empowered to issue certificates of public convenience and necessity to any natural gas company which proposes to construct or extend its facilities into a market already being served by another natural gas company.

THE COMMISSION OF FINE ARTS

By act approved May 17, 1910, Congress created as a permanent body the National Commission of Fine Arts. The Commission is "composed of seven well-qualified judges of the fine arts," who are appointed by the President and serve for a period of 4 years each, and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

Under the provisions of this organic act Congress directs that "It shall be the duty of the Commission to advise upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia, and upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments erected under the authority of the United States and upon the selection of the artists for the execution of same. It shall be the duty of the officer charged by law to determine such questions in each case to call for such advice. The foregoing provisions of this act shall not apply to the Capitol Building of the United States and the building of the Library of Congress. The Commission shall also advise generally upon questions of art when required to do so by the President or by any committee of either House of Congress."

By Executive order dated October 25, 1910, the President directed that "Plans for no public building to be erected in the District of Columbia for the General Government shall be hereafter finally approved by the officer duly authorized until after such officer shall have submitted the plans to the Commission of Fine Arts created under the act of Congress of May 17, 1910, for its comment and advice."

On February 2, 1912, the President directed the Commission to advise the officer in charge of public buildings and grounds in regard to the improvement of any of the grounds in the city of Washington under his charge whenever such advice is asked for by that officer. That officer now uniformly consults the Commission regarding details of the development of all the parks and reservations under his control.

On November 28, 1913, the President issued the following Executive order: "It is hereby ordered that whenever new structures are to be erected in the District of Columbia under the direction of the Federal Government which affect in any important way the appearance of the city, or whenever questions involving matters of art and with which the Federal Government is concerned are to be determined, final action shall not be taken until such plans and questions have been submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts designated under the act of Congress of May 17, 1910, for comment and advice."

On July 28, 1921, the President issued the following Executive order: "It is hereby ordered that essential matters relating to the design of medals, insignia, and coins produced by the executive departments, also the design of statues, fountains, and monuments, and all important plans for parks and all public buildings, constructed by the executive departments or the District of Columbia, which in any essential way affect the appearance of the city of Washington, or the District of Columbia, shall be submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts for advice as to the merits of such designs before the executive officer having charge of the same shall approve thereof."

In order that the development of the District of Columbia may proceed harmoniously both under Federal and District jurisdictions, the President has requested the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia to consult the Commission of Fine Arts on matters of art falling under their jurisdiction and control.

The duties of the Commission, therefore, now embrace advising upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia; upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments erected under the authority of the United States, and the selection of the artists for their execution; also for medals, insignia, and coins; upon the plans and designs for public structures and parks in the District of Columbia, as well as upon all questions involving matters of art with which the Federal Government is concerned. In addition, the Commission advises upon general questions of art whenever requested to do so by the President or any committee of Congress.

The creation of the National Commission of Fine Arts in 1910 was the outcome of the Senate Park Commission of 1901, which presented plans for the development of the park system of the District of Columbia and the location of future Government buildings and memorials. These plans of 1901 were based on the plan of the National Capital prepared by Pierre Charles L'Enfant in 1792 under the direction of President Washington. The Commission of Fine Arts has been guided by the fundamental plan of 1901, which aims to secure the progressive development of Washington as the well-ordered, unified, and grand capital of a great nation.

The height, color, and design of private buildings facing public buildings and public parks in certain mapped areas in the District of Columbia are subject to the advice of the Commission, as provided in the act of May 16, 1930, known as the Shipstead-Luce Act.

The advice of the Commission of Fine Arts must be requested in the selection of lands to be acquired, under the act of Congress approved June 6, 1924, as amended, by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for the park, parkway, and playground system in the District of Columbia and adjacent areas in Maryland and Virginia.

In the will of Charles L. Freer, giving the Smithsonian Institution the building for the Freer Gallery, together with his collections of far eastern art, and an endowment for the increase thereof, it is stipulated that purchases shall have the approval of the National Commission of Fine Arts.

The Congress in various legislation has required the advice of the Commission on the design and location of special monuments, memorials, and other works of commemorative art.

NATIONAL CAPITAL PARK AND PLANNING COMMISSION

The National Capital Park Commission was created by the act approved June 6, 1924 (Public, No. 202, 68th Cong.), for the purpose of preserving the flow of water in Rock Creek, preventing the pollution of Rock Creek and the Potomac and Anacostia Rivers, preserving forests and natural scenery in and about Washington, and to provide for the comprehensive, systematic, and continuous development of the park, parkway, and playground system of the National Capital. The Director of National Park Service is executive officer of the Commission.

The Commission was authorized and directed to acquire such lands as in its judgment shall be necessary and desirable in the District of Columbia and (by agreement with Maryland and Virginia authorities) adjacent areas in Maryland and Virginia, for suitable development of the National Capital park, parkway, and playground system.

By act of April 30, 1926, the name of the Commission was changed to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The same officials named in the former act were retained as ex officio members and the President was authorized to add "four eminent citizens well qualified and experienced in city planning, one of whom shall be a bona fide resident of the District of Columbia," to be appointed, after the original appointments, for the term of 6 years, to serve without compensation. The new Commission retained all the powers of the Park Commission and was given further important advisory powers. It was charged with the duty of preparing, developing, and maintaining a comprehensive, consistent, and coordinated plan for the National Capital and its environs, which plan shall include recommendations to the proper executive authorities as to traffic and transportation, plats and subdivisions; highways, parks, and parkways; school and library sites; playgrounds; drainage, sewer, and water supply; housing, building, and zoning regulations; public and private buildings; bridges and water fronts; commerce and industry; and other proper elements of city and regional planning. Paragraph (c) transfers to this Commission the power previously vested in the highway commission, namely, the approval or revision of the recommendations of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia for changes in the existing highway plan. Paragraph (d) vested the new commission with all the powers of the original National Capital Park Commission.

By act of May 29, 1930, establishing the George Washington Memorial Parkway and for other purposes, a regional park system for Washington and its environs was approved, including a basis for cooperation with the States of Maryland and Virginia and authorizing an advance of funds to the District of Columbia for use by the Commission in accelerating park purchases within the District.

PAN AMERICAN SANITARY BUREAU

(Formerly International Sanitary Bureau)

The Pan American Sanitary Bureau is the central coordinating sanitary agency as well as the general collection and distribution center of sanitary information of the American Republics. It was created by the Second International Conference of American Republics (1901–2), organized by the First Pan American Sanitary Conference (1902), and reorganized by the Sixth Pan American Sanitary Conference (1920). Its functions and duties are fixed by the Pan American Sanitary Code (1924) and modified and amplified by the various international sanitary and other conferences of the American Republics. The Bureau is concerned in maintaining and improving the health of all the people of the 21 American Republics and in preventing the international spread of communicable diseases. It acts as a consulting office for the national directors of health of the American Republics, prepares the programs and publishes the proceedings of the Pan American Sanitary Conferences and the Conferences of the National Directors of Health, and carries out epidemiological and other scientific studies and investigations. It also publishes in three languages a monthly Pan American Sanitary Bulletin, weekly reports on disease prevalence, and a series of other publications on sanitary subjects. The Bureau is governed by a council elected at each Pan American Sanitary Conference. Its executive officer is a director, also chairman of the board, who is elected at the same conferences. The necessary personnel, including an assistant director, editor, traveling representatives, epidemiologists, experts, translators, and clerks, is assigned or employed by the director to attend to the various duties imposed on the Bureau by the Pan American Sanitary Code and the Pan American Sanitary Conferences. The Bureau is supported by a fund contributed by all the American Republics in proportion to their populations. Address all correspondence to the Director, Pan American Sanitary Bureau, Washington, D. C.

INLAND WATERWAYS CORPORATION

The Inland Waterways Corporation is charged with the duties incident to the development of national inland waterway transportation as delegated to the Secretary of War, under the Transportation Act of 1920 and by Public, No. 185, approved June 3, 1924, as amended by Public, No. 601, Seventieth Congress, approved May 29, 1928. This Corporation supervises the maintenance of barge lines operated by the Government on several important water routes; investigates types of floating and terminal equipment suitable for various waterways, as well as tariff and interchange arrangements between rail and water carriers and other matters tending to promote and encourage waterway traffic; and in general functions as the official governmental inland waterways bureau.

AMERICAN BATTLE MONUMENTS COMMISSION

The American Battle Monuments Commission was created by act of Congress approved March 4, 1923. It derives its authority from this and subsequent acts and Executive orders (U. S. C., title 36, ch. 8; 48 Stat., pp. 284–285; Executive Orders Nos. 6614 and 6690).

The principal duties of the Commission are: (1) To commemorate the services of the American forces in Europe during the World War by the erection of suitable memorials, by the preparation and publication of historical information and in other ways; (2) to administer and maintain the American national cemeteries and memorials in Europe; and (3) to exercise control over the erection of memorials in Europe by American citizens, States, municipalities, or associations.

The Commission's construction program, which is now complete, included the following: (a) The erection of a memorial chapel in each of the 8 American cemeteries in Europe and the construction of service buildings, caretakers' houses, and masonry walls at the cemeteries where needed; (b) the improvement of the landscaping in these cemeteries; (c) the erection of 11 memorials outside of the cemeteries; and (d) the placing of 2 bronze memorial tablets.

The Commission is responsible for the administration, supervision, and maintenance of the national cemeteries in Europe, containing the graves of 30,904 American dead, and of the chapels and other memorial features referred to above.

The Commission has prepared and published a Guide to the American Battle Fields in Europe. This book, profusely illustrated and containing numerous maps and charts, gives an account of America's part in the World War and includes detailed itineraries of battlefield tours. The first edition of this book, 20,000 copies, was sold within 9 months after publication. A new edition of this book, entitled "American Armies and Battlefields in Europe," has been prepared by the Commission and is expected to be available for sale at book stores and at the office of the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., by April 1939. Other historical data, covering operations of American divisions during the World War, have been prepared by the Commission and will be published during 1939. The Commission has taken numerous photographs showing the terrain of the various battlefields where American forces were engaged during the World War. These photographs, when assembled, will be of wide interest and of great value to historians.

Under agreements with the French and Belgian Governments, no World War memorials may be erected in those countries by Americans without the advance approval of the American Battle Monuments Commission. Although many reasons make it apparent that the number of such memorials should be restricted, the Commission's policy does not prevent it from approving such memorials if they are utilitarian in nature and meet other required standards.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

The Federal Communications Commission was created by an act of Congress approved June 19, 1934. The Commission is composed of seven commissioners. The duties of the Commission have to do with the regulation of interstate and foreign commerce in communication by wire and radio. The Commission is assisted by a secretary of the whole Commission, a general counsel, a chief engineer, a chief accountant, and a chief examiner. The Commission, when necessary, holds hearings on applications for facilities under its jurisdiction.

Upon enactment into law of the Communications Act, the Federal Radio Commission was abolished and its records and property transferred to the Federal Communications Commission. Also, all duties, powers, and functions of the Interstate Commerce Commission under the act of August 7, 1888 (25 Stat. 382), relating to operation of telegraph lines by railroad and telegraph companies granted Government aid in the construction of their lines, are hereby imposed upon and vested in the Commission: Provided, That such transfer of duties, powers, and functions shall not be construed to affect the duties, powers, functions, or jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission under, or to interfere with or prevent the enforcement of, the Interstate Commerce Act and all acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto. All duties, powers, and functions of the Postmaster General with respect to telegraph companies and telegraph lines under any existing provision of law are hereby imposed upon and vested in the Commission.

COURT OF CLAIMS OF THE UNITED STATES

This court was established by act of Congress February 24, 1855 (10 Stat. L. 612). It has general jurisdiction (36 Stat. L. 1135) of all "claims founded upon the Constitution of the United States or any law of Congress, except for pensions, or upon any regulations of an executive department, or upon any contract, express or implied, with the Government of the United States, or for damages, liquidated or unliquidated, in cases not sounding in tort, in respect of which claims the party would be entitled to redress against the United States, either in a court of law, equity, or admiralty, if the United States were suable, except claims growing out of the late Civil War and commonly known as war claims," and certain rejected claims.

It has jurisdiction also of claims of like character which may be referred to it by the head of any executive department involving controverted questions of fact or law. In all the above-mentioned cases the court, when it finds for the claimant, may enter judgment against the United States, payable out of the Public Treasury.

Under section 3 of the act of February 13, 1925, the Court of Claims may certify to the Supreme Court any definite and distinct questions of law concerning which instructions are desired for the proper disposition of the cause; and also in any case the Supreme Court upon the petition of either party may require by certiorari that the cause be certified to it for review and determination.

It also has jurisdiction of the claims of disbursing officers of the United States for relief from responsibility for losses of Government funds and property by capture or otherwise, without negligence, while in the line of duty.

There is a statute of limitations which prevents parties from bringing actions on their own motion beyond 6 years after the cause of action accrued, but the departments may refer claims at any time if they were pending therein within the 6 years.

By the act of March 2, 1919 (40 Stat. 772), known as the Dent Act, the Court of Claims is given jurisdiction of the class of war claims therein specified. In these cases the action of the Secretary of War upon the claim, or his failure to act thereon, is a condition precedent to the right of the claimant to commence an action in the Court of Claims.

The court also has jurisdiction of actions provided for by certain statutes passed during the last war permitting the seizure of property by the Government.

By section 151, Judicial Code (36 Stat. L. 1135), whenever any bill, except for a pension, is pending in either House of Congress providing for the payment of a claim against the United States, legal or equitable, or for a grant, gift, or bounty to any person, the House in which such bill is pending may, for the investigation and determination of facts, refer the same to the Court of Claims, which shall proceed with the same in accordance with such rules as it may adopt and report to such House the facts in the case and the amount, where the same can be liquidated, including any facts bearing upon the question whether there has been delay or laches in presenting such claim or applying for such grant, gift, or bounty, and any facts bearing upon the question whether the bar of any statute of limitation should be removed or which shall be claimed to excuse the claimant for not having resorted to any established legal remedy, together with such conclusions as shall be sufficient to inform Congress of the nature and character of the demand, either as a claim, legal or equitable, or as a gratuity against the United States, and the amount, if any, legally or equitably due from the United States to the claimant: Provided, however, That if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court upon the facts established that under existing laws or the provisions of this chapter, the subject matter of the bill is such that it has jurisdiction to render judgment or decree thereon, it shall proceed to do so, giving to either party such further opportunity for hearing as in its judgment justice shall require, and it shall report its proceedings therein to the House of Congress by which the same was referred to said court.

Section 5, act of March 4, 1915 (38 Stat. 996), provides: "That from and after the passage and approval of this act the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims shall not extend to or include any claim against the United States based upon or growing out of the destruction of any property or damage done to any property by the military or naval forces of the United States during the war for the suppression of the rebellion, nor to any claim for stores and supplies taken by or furnished to or for the use of the military or naval forces of the United States, nor to any claim for the value of any use and occupation of any real estate by the military or naval forces of the United States during said war; nor shall said Court of Claims have jurisdiction of any claim which is now barred by the provisions of any law of the United States.

By act of March 3, 1891, chapter 538 (26 Stat. L. 851, and Supplement to R. S., 2d ed., p. 913), the court is vested with jurisdiction of certain Indian depredation claims.

The act of June 25, 1910, chapter 423 (36 Stat. L. 851–852), "An act to provide additional protection for owners of patents of the United States, and for other purposes," conferred a new jurisdiction.

There are five judges, who sit together in the hearing of cases, the concurrence of three of whom is necessary for the decision of any case.

All claims are prosecuted in the Court of Claims by an action commenced by the filing of a petition and prosecuted in accordance with the rules of the court, copies of which rules can be obtained upon application to the clerk of the court.

The court is located at Washington, D. C., in the old Corcoran Art Building, Seventeenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue. The term begins on the first Monday in December each year and continues until the Saturday before the first Monday in December. Cases may be commenced and entered at any time, whether the court be in session or not.

RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was created by "An act to provide emergency financing facilities for financial institutions, to aid in financing agriculture, commerce, and industry, and for other purposes," approved January 22, 1932. This basic law, however, was amended, and the Corporation's powers were increased and the scope of its operations extended by subsequent legislation. By the act approved January 26, 1937, the Corporation may perform all functions it is authorized to perform under law until the close of business June 30, 1939. The President, however, may authorize the Directors of the Corporation to suspend the exercise of any lending authority for such time or times as he may deem advisable.

ORGANIZATION

The Corporation was organized and began operations on February 2, 1932. Its management is vested in a board of directors consisting of five persons appointed by the President of the United States by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The Corporation functions through a principal office at Washington and loan agencies established in cities throughout the United States. In addition, the Corporation has special representatives at Salt Lake City, Utah; Seattle, Washington; and San Juan, P. R.

The Federal Reserve banks act as depositories, custodians, and fiscal agents for the Corporation. Since there is no Federal Reserve bank in Puerto Rico, the insular treasurer at San Juan acts as custodian.

The funds of the Corporation are kept on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States.

LOANS UNDER SECTION 5 OF THE RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION ACT, AS AMENDED

TO FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, STATE INSURANCE FUNDS, AND RAILROADS

Pursuant to the provisions of section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, the Corporation is authorized to make loans, on full and adequate security and upon the terms and conditions stated in the law, to any bank, savings bank, trust company, building and loan association, insurance company, mortgage-loan company, credit union, Federal land bank, joint-stock land bank, Federal intermediate credit bank, agricultural credit corporation, livestock credit corporation, organized under the laws of any State, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, or the United States, including loans secured by the assets of any bank, savings bank, or building and loan association that is closed, or in process of liquidation, to aid in the reorganization or liquidation thereof, upon application of the receiver or liquidating agent of such institution; any State insurance fund established or created by the laws of any State (including Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico) for the purpose of paying or insuring payment of compensation to injured workmen and those disabled as a result of disease contracted in the course of their employment, or to their dependents; and any fund created by any State (including Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico) for the purpose of insuring the repayment of deposits of public moneys of such State, or any of its political subdivisions, in banks or depositories qualified under the law of such State to receive such deposits.

Under the same section of law, as amended, the Corporation, with the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, including approval of the price to be paid, may, to aid in the financing, reorganization, consolidation, maintenance, or construction thereof, purchase for itself, or for account of a railroad obligated thereon, the obligations of railroads engaged in interstate commerce, including equipment-trust certificates, or guarantee the payment of the principal of, and/or interest on, such obligations, including equipment-trust certificates, or when, in the opinion of the Corporation, funds are not available on reasonable terms from private channels, make loans, upon full and adequate security, to such railroads or to receivers or trustees thereof for the aforesaid purposes. In the case of loans to or the purchase or guarantee of obligations, including equipment-trust certificates, of railroads not in receivership or trusteeship, the Interstate Commerce Commission shall, in connection with its approval thereof, also certify that such railroad, on the basis of present or prospective earnings, may reasonably be expected to meet its fixed charges, without a reduction thereof through judicial reorganization, except that such certificate shall not be required in case of such loans made for the maintenance of, or purchase of equipment for, such railroads. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, provides that in respect of loans or renewals or extensions of loans or purchases of obligations under section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, to or of railroads, the Corporation may require as a condition of making any such loan or renewal or extension for a period longer than 5 years, or purchasing any such obligation maturing later than 5 years from the date of purchase by the Corporation, that such arrangements be made for the reduction or amortization of the indebtedness of the railroad, either in whole or in part, as may be approved by the Corporation after the prior approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

TO PARTIES TO MARKETING AGREEMENTS

Section 8b of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, approved May 12, 1933, as amended, authorizes the Corporation to make loans under section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, to parties to any marketing agreement entered into by the Secretary of Agriculture with processors, producers, associations of producers, and others engaged in the handling of any agricultural commodity or product thereof, only with respect to such handling, however, as is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce or which directly burdens, obstructs, or affects interstate or foreign commerce in such commodity or product thereof for the purpose of carrying out any such agreement.

TO THE FISHING INDUSTRY

Section 15 of the act of Congress approved June 19, 1934, authorizes the Corporation to make loans under section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, to any person, association, or corporation organized under the laws of any State, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, or Puerto Rico, for the purpose of financing the production, storage, handling, packing, processing, carrying and/or orderly marketing of fish of American fisheries and/or products thereof.

No loans or advances may be made under section 5 upon foreign securities or foreign acceptances as collateral or for the purpose of assisting in the carrying or liquidation of such foreign securities and foreign acceptances.

Section 4 of the act approved June 10, 1933, provides that the Corporation shall not make, renew, or extend any loan under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, or under the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, (1) If at the time of making, renewing, or extending such loan any officer, director, or employee of the applicant is receiving compensation at a rate in excess of what appears reasonable to the Corporation; and (2) unless at such time the applicant agrees to the satisfaction of the Corporation not to increase the compensation of any of its officers, directors, or employees to any amount in excess of what appears reasonable to the Corporation while such loan is outstanding and unpaid.

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR PREFERRED STOCK OF NATIONAL OR STATE BANKS OR TRUST COMPANIES, LOANS SECURED BY SUCH STOCK AS COLLATERAL, OR PURCHASES OF CAPITAL NOTES OR DEBENTURES OF STATE BANKS OR TRUST COMPANIES

Pursuant to the provisions of section 304 of the act approved March 9, 1933, as amended, the Corporation is authorized to subscribe for preferred stock, exempt from double liability, in any National or State bank or trust company, upon the request of the Secretary of the Treasury with the approval of the President. The Corporation also is authorized to make loans secured by the preferred stock of National or State banks or trust companies as collateral, upon the request of the Secretary of the Treasury with the approval of the President.

In any case in which a State bank or trust company is not permitted, under the laws of the State in which it is located, to issue preferred stock exempt from double liability, or if such laws permit such issue of perferred stock only by unanimous consent of stockholders, the Corporation is authorized to purchase the legally issued capital notes or debentures of such State bank or trust company.

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR PREFERRED STOCK AND PURCHASES OF CAPITAL NOTES, ETC., OF INSURANCE COMPANIES, AND LOANS SECURED BY SUCH STOCK OR NOTES, ETC., AS COLLATERAL

Pursuant to the provisions of the act approved June 10, 1933, as amended, the Corporation is authorized, upon the request of the Secretary of the Treasury with the approval of the President, to subscribe for preferred stock of any class, exempt from assessment or additional liability, in any insurance company of any State of the United States which is in need of funds for capital purposes either in connection with the organization of such company or otherwise, or to make loans secured by such stock as collateral.

In the event that any such insurance company shall be incorporated under the laws of any State which does not permit it to issue preferred stock exempt from assessment or additional liability, or if such laws permit such issue of preferred stock only by unanimous consent of stockholders, or upon notice of more than 20 days, or if the insurance company is a mutual organization without capital stock, the Corporation is authorized, for the purposes indicated above, to purchase the legally issued capital notes of such insurance company, or, if the company is a mutual organization without capital stock, such other form or forms of indebtedness as the laws of the State under which such company is organized permit, or to make loans secured by such notes or such other form or forms of indebtedness as collateral, which may be subordinated in whole or in part or to any degree to claims of other creditors.

The Corporation may not subscribe for any such preferred stock or purchase any such capital notes or make loans upon such stock or notes of any applicant insurance company: (1) If at the time of such subscription, purchase, or loan, any officer, director, or employee of the applicant is receiving total compensation, including any salary, fee, bonus, commission, or other payment, direct or indirect, in money or otherwise, for personal services, in a sum in excess of $17,500 per annum from the applicant and/or any of its affiliates; and (2) unless at such time the applicant agrees to the satisfaction of the Corporation not to increase the compensation of any of its officers, directors, or employees, except with the consent of the Corporation and in no event to an amount exceeding $17,500 per annum, so long as preferred stock or capital notes, etc., are held by the Corporation.

The total amount of loans outstanding, preferred stock subscribed for, and capital notes and such other form or forms of indebtedness purchased and held by the Corporation pursuant to the aforesaid provisions of law relating to insurance companies may not exceed $75,000,000 at any one time.

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR OR LOANS UPON NONASSESSABLE STOCK, PURCHASES OF CAPITAL NOTES OR DEBENTURES OF NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATIONS, MORTGAGE LOAN COMPANIES, TRUST COMPANIES, SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS, AND OTHER SIMILAR FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

To assist in the establishment of a normal mortgage market, the Corporation, pursuant to section 5c of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, may, with the approval of the President, subscribe for or make loans upon nonassessable stock of any class of any national mortgage association organized under title III of the National Housing Act and of any mortgage loan company, trust company, savings and loan association, or similar financial institution now or hereafter incorporated under the laws of the United States, or of any State, or of the District of Columbia, the principal business of which institution is that of making loans upon mortgages, deeds of trust, or other instruments conveying, or constituting a lien upon, real estate or any interest therein. In any case in which, under the laws of its incorporation, such financial institution is not permitted to issue nonassessable stock, the Corporation may purchase the legally issued capital notes or debentures thereof.

The total face amount of such loans outstanding, nonassessable stock subscribed for, and capital notes and debentures purchased and held by the Corporation may not exceed $100,000,000 at any one time.

LOANS TO PUBLIC AGENCIES AND TO BUSINESS ENTERPRISES

For the purpose of maintaining and promoting the economic stability of the country or encouraging the employment of labor, the Corporation is authorized and empowered, pursuant to section 5d, Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, under such terms, conditions, and restrictions as the Corporation may determine, to make loans to, or contracts with, States, municipalities, and political subdivisions of States, with public agencies and instrumentalities of one or more States, municipalities, and political subdivisions of States, and with public corporations, boards, and commissions, to aid in financing projects authorized under Federal, State, or municipal law, such loans or contracts to be made through the purchase of their securities, or otherwise, and for such purpose the Corporation is authorized to bid for such securities. The Corporation is further authorized and empowered to purchase the securities and obligations of, and to make loans to, any business enterprise when capital or credit, at prevailing rates for the character of loan applied for, is not otherwise available. All such purchases of securities and obligations and all such loans shall be, in the opinion of the board of directors, of such sound value, or so secured, as reasonably to assure retirement or repayment; may be made or effected either directly or in cooperation with banks or other lending institutions through agreements to participate or by the purchase of participations, or otherwise; shall be made only when, in the opinion of the board of directors, the business enterprise is solvent; and shall be made under such terms, conditions, and restrictions as the Corporation may determine. In carrying out the provisions of this section, the Corporation may purchase securities and obligations and may make loans, with such maturities as the Corporation may determine, notwithstanding any other provision of law.

LOANS TO OR FOR THE BENEFIT OF CERTAIN AGRICULTURAL IMPROVEMENT DISTRICTS, ETC., TO REDUCE AND REFINANCE OUTSTANDING INDEBTEDNESS, ETC.

Section 36 of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933, as amended, authorizes the Corporation to make loans, not to exceed $125,000,000 in the aggregate, to or for the benefit of drainage districts, levee districts, levee and drainage districts, irrigation districts, and similar districts, mutual nonprofit companies and incorporated water users' associations duly organized under the laws of any State or Territory and to or for the benefit of political subdivisions of States and Territories which have purchased or propose to purchase or otherwise acquire projects or portions thereof devoted chiefly to the improvement of lands for agricultural purposes. Such loans shall be made for the following purposes:

1. To enable an applicant to reduce and refinance its outstanding indebtedness incurred in connection with its project;

2. To enable an applicant which has purchased or proposes to purchase or otherwise acquire projects or portions thereof devoted chiefly to the improvement of lands for agricultural purposes, to purchase, acquire, construct, or complete such a project or any part thereof or to purchase or acquire additional drainage, levee, or irrigation works, or property, rights, or appurtenances in connection therewith, and to repair, extend, or improve any such project or make such additions thereto as are consonant with or necessary or desirable for the proper functioning thereof or for the further assurance of the ability of the borrower to repay its loan. Such loans shall not permit additional or new land to be brought into production outside of the present boundaries of any established or reorganized irrigation district; and shall be subject, with certain exceptions, to the same terms and conditions as loans under section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended.

LOANS UPON OR PURCHASE OF THE ASSETS OF CLOSED BANKS

Section 5e (a) of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, authorizes the Corporation to make loans upon or purchase the assets, or any portion thereof, of any bank, savings bank, or trust company, which has been closed on or after December 31, 1929, and prior to January 1, 1934, and the affairs of which have not been fully liquidated or wound up, upon such terms and conditions as the Corporation may by regulations prescribe. This section also makes provision for loans upon or purchase by the Corporation of the assets, or any portion thereof, of closed banks which have been trusteed or are otherwise held for the benefit of depositors or depositors and others.

MINING LOANS

Pursuant to section 14 of the act approved June 19, 1934, as amended, the Corporation is authorized and empowered to make loans upon sufficient security to recognized and established corporations, individuals, and partnerships engaged in the business of mining, milling, or smelting ores. The Corporation is authorized and empowered also to make loans to corporations, individuals, and partnerships engaged in the development of a quartz ledge, or vein, or other ore body, or placer deposit, containing gold, silver, or tin, or gold and silver, when, in the opinion of the Corporation, there is sufficient reason to believe that, through the use of such loan in the development of a lode, ledge, or vein, or mineral deposit, or placer gravel deposit, there will be developed a sufficient quantity of ore, or placer deposits of a sufficient value to pay a profit upon mining operations. Not to exceed $20,000 shall be lent to any corporation, individual, or partnership, for such development purposes. A sum not to exceed $10,000,000 may be allocated or made available for such development loans.

LOANS TO MANAGING AGENCIES OF FARMERS' COOPERATIVE MINERAL RIGHTS POOLS

Pursuant to the provisions of section 13 of the act approved June 19, 1934, the Corporation is authorized to make loans upon full and adequate security, based on mineral acreage, to recognized and established incorporated managing agencies of farmers' cooperative mineral rights pools for the purpose of defraying the cost of organizing such pools.

LOANS TO OR FOR THE BENEFIT OF PUBLIC-SCHOOL DISTRICTS OR OTHER PUBLIC-SCHOOL AUTHORITIES

Pursuant to the provisions of section 1 of the act of Congress approved August 24, 1935, the Corporation is authorized to make loans to or for the benefit of tax-supported public-school districts or other similar public-school authorities in charge of public schools organized pursuant to the laws of the several States, Territories, and the District of Columbia for the purpose of enabling any such district or authority which, or any State, municipality, or other public body which, is authorized to incur indebtedness for the benefit of public schools, to reduce and refinance outstanding indebtedness or obligations which have been incurred prior to August 24, 1935, for the purpose of financing the construction, operation, and/or maintenance of public-school facilities. Loans may also be made to enable applicants, to whom refinancing loans have been authorized, to make such repairs and necessary extensions or improvements to the public-school facilities on account of which the indebtedness refinanced was incurred as are necessary or desirable for the further assurance of the ability of the applicants to repay such refinancing loans.

LOANS FOR THE REPAIR OF DAMAGES CAUSED BY FLOODS OR OTHER CATASTROPHES

Pursuant to the provisions of the act approved April 13, 1934, as amended, the Corporation is authorized, through such existing agency or agencies as it may designate, to make loans, upon terms and conditions specified in the law, and not to exceed $50,000,000 in the aggregate, to corporations, partnerships, or individuals, municipalities or political subdivisions of States or of their public agencies, including public school boards and public school districts, and water, irrigation, sewer, drainage, and flood-control districts for the purpose of financing the repair, construction, reconstruction, or rehabilitation of structures or buildings, including such equipment, appliances, fixtures, machinery, and appurtenances as shall be deemed necessary or appropriate by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and for the purpose of financing the repair, construction, reconstruction, or rehabilitation of water, irrigation, gas, electric, sewer, drainage, flood-control, communication, or transportation systems, highways, and bridges damaged or destroyed by earthquake, conflagration, tornado, cyclone, hurricane, flood, or other catastrophe in the years 1935 or 1936, and for the purpose of financing the acquisition of structures, buildings, or property, real and personal, in replacement of structures, buildings, groins, jetties, bulkheads, or property, real and personal, destroyed or rendered unfit for use by reason of the catastrophe, when such repair, construction, reconstruction, rehabilitation, or acquisition is deemed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to be useful or necessary, said loans to be so secured as reasonably to assure repayment thereof.

LOANS FOR THE CARRYING AND ORDERLY MARKETING OF AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES AND LIVESTOCK

Under section 201 (d) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, the Corporation is authorized to make loans to bona fide institutions, organized under the laws of any State or of the United States and having resources adequate for their undertakings, for the purpose of enabling them to finance the carrying and orderly marketing of agricultural commodities and livestock produced in the United States. All such loans are required to be fully and adequately secured.

LOANS TO THE ADMINISTRATOR OF THE RURAL ELECTRIFICATION ADMINISTRATION

Section 3 (a) of the Rural Electrification Act of 1936, as amended, authorizes and directs the Corporation to make loans to the Administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration, upon his request approved by the President, not exceeding in aggregate amount $50,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1937, and $100,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1939, with interest at 3 per centum per annum upon the security of the obligations of borrowers from the Administrator. No such loan shall be in an amount exceeding 85 per centum of the principal amount outstanding of the obligations constituting the security therefor. Such obligations incurred for the purpose of financing the construction and operation of generating plants, electrical transmission and distribution lines, or systems shall be fully amortized over a period not to exceed 25 years, and the maturity of such obligations incurred for the purpose of financing the wiring of premises and the acquisition and installation of electrical and plumbing appliances and equipment shall not exceed two-thirds of the assured life thereof and not more than 5 years.

SELF-LIQUIDATING LOANS UNDER SECTION 201 (A) OF THE EMERGENCY RELIEF AND CONSTRUCTION ACT OF 1932, AS AMENDED

The power of the Corporation to make new self-liquidating loans or contracts, etc., under section 201 (a) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, as amended, was terminated at the close of June 26, 1933, pursuant to the provisions of section 301 of the National Industrial Recovery Act, which created the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works. The functions of the Corporation in this field were superseded by the functions of that Administration. Section 301 of the National Industrial Recovery Act provides, however, that the Corporation may issue funds to a borrower under section 201 (a) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, as amended, prior to January 23, 1939, under the terms of any agreement or any commitment to bid upon or purchase bonds entered into with such borrower pursuant to an application approved prior to the date of termination of the power of the Corporation to approve applications under such section.

Section 301 of the National Industrial Recovery Act, as amended by the act approved June 19, 1934, provides that in connection with any loan or contract or any commitment to make a loan entered into by the Corporation prior to June 26, 1933, to aid in financing part or all of the construction cost of projects pursuant to the provisions of section 201 (a) (1) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, as amended, the Corporation may make such further loans and contracts, subject to all the terms and conditions set forth in the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, as amended, for the completion of any such project, or for improvements, additions, extensions, or equipment which are necessary or desirable for the proper functioning of any such project, or which will materially increase the assurance that the borrower will be able to repay the entire investment of the Corporation in such project, including such improvements, additions, extensions, or equipment.

Section 11 of the act approved January 31, 1935, provides that in all cases where the Corporation shall hold any bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of any borrower under section 201 (a) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, whether heretofore or hereafter acquired, and such borrower shall be able and willing to substitute or cause to be substituted therefor any other bonds or other evidences of indebtedness, whether of the same or longer maturities or otherwise differing, which, in the judgment of the Corporation, are more desirable than those so held, the Corporation is authorized to accept such bonds or other evidences of indebtedness, in exchange and substitution for such bonds or other evidences of indebtedness so held by it, upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon with such borrower at the time of, or in contemplation of, such exchange and substitution.

LOANS FOR THE EXPORTATION OF AGRICULTURAL OR OTHER PRODUCTS

Under section 5a of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, the Corporation is authorized, subject to specified limitations, to accept drafts and bills of exchange drawn upon it, which grow out of transactions involving the exportation of agricultural or other products actually sold or transported for sale subsequent to the enactment of the law, and in process of shipment to buyers in foreign countries.

Under section 201 (c) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, the Corporation is authorized to make loans for the purpose of financing sales of surpluses of agricultural products in the markets of foreign countries in which such sales cannot be financed in the normal course of commerce, in order that such surpluses may not have a depressing effect upon current prices of such products; but it is stipulated that no such sales shall be financed by the Corporation if, in its judgment, such sales will affect adversely the world markets for such products, and that no such loan may be made to finance the sale in the markets of foreign countries of cotton owned by the Federal Farm Board or the Cotton Stabilization Corporation.

OTHER LOANS AND ADVANCES

LOANS TO RECEIVERS APPOINTED UNDER SECTION 29 OF THE FEDERAL FARM LOAN ACT, AS AMENDED, OR BY A UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

Section 27 of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933, as amended, authorizes the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make loans to any receiver appointed pursuant to section 29 of the Federal Farm Loan Act, as amended, and to any receiver appointed by a district court of the United States for the purpose of paying taxes on farm real estate owned by the bank or securing the mortgages held by it; and such receivers are authorized to borrow from the Corporation with the approval of the Land Bank Commissioner.

LOANS TO THE CORPORATION OF FOREIGN SECURITY HOLDERS

The Corporation of Foreign Bondholders Act, 1933, which is not to take effect until the President finds that such action is in the public interest and by proclamation so declares, creates a body corporate with the name "Corporation of Foreign Security Holders" for the purpose of protecting, conserving, and advancing the interests of the holders of foreign securities in default. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to lend not to exceed $75,000 for the use of the Corporation of Foreign Security Holders.

PURCHASE OF MARKETABLE SECURITIES FROM THE FEDERAL EMERGENCY ADMINISTRATION OF PUBLIC WORKS

The Corporation is authorized, pursuant to the provisions of the Emergency Appropriation Act, fiscal year 1935, to purchase marketable securities, satisfactory to the Corporation, acquired or to be acquired by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works. The amount that the Corporation may have invested at any one time in such securities shall not exceed $400,000,000.

PURCHASE OF DEBENTURES OR OBLIGATIONS OF THE FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

Section 5e (b) of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, authorizes the Corporation to purchase at par value such debentures or other obligations of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation as are authorized to be issued under subsection (o) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, upon the request of the board of directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, whenever in the judgment of said board additional funds are required for insurance purposes. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation may not purchase or hold at any time said debentures or other obligations in excess of $250,000,000 par value.

FUNDS OF THE RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION

CAPITAL STOCK

The capital stock of the Corporation was fixed by section 2 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act at $500,000,000, all of which was subscribed by the Secretary of the Treasury on behalf of the Government of the United States on February 2, 1932. The entire capital stock has been paid in by the Secretary of the Treasury and is held by the United States.

ISSUE OF NOTES, DEBENTURES, BONDS, OR OTHER SUCH OBLIGATIONS

The Corporation is authorized to issue notes, debentures, bonds, or other such obligations. Such notes, debentures, bonds, or other such obligations issued by the Corporation are to mature not more than 5 years from their respective dates of issue, to be redeemable at the option of the Corporation before maturity in such manner as may be stipulated in such obligations, and to bear such rate or rates of interest as may be determined by the Corporation. The Corporation, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, also may sell on a discount basis short-term obligations payable at maturity without interest. The law provides that the notes, debentures, bonds, or other such obligations of the Corporation shall be fully and unconditionally guaranteed both as to interest and principal by the United States and such guaranty shall be expressed on the face thereof. The Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion, is authorized to purchase any obligations of the Corporation which may be issued pursuant to the provisions of the law, and may, at any time, sell any of the obligations of the Corporation acquired by him. He is further authorized, at the request of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to market for the Corporation its notes, debentures, bonds, and other such obligations, using therefor all the facilities of the Treasury Department authorized by law for the marketing of obligations of the United States. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act also provides that any and all notes, debentures, bonds, or other such obligations issued by the Corporation shall be exempt both as to principal and interest from all taxation (except surtaxes, estate, inheritance, and gift taxes) at any time imposed by the United States, by any Territory, dependency, or possession thereof, or by any State, county, municipality, or local taxing authority.

REPORTS

QUARTERLY REPORTS

Section 15 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act provides that the Corporation shall make and publish a report quarterly of its operations to the Congress stating the aggregate loans made to each of the classes of borrowers provided for and the number of borrowers by States (including the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico) in each class. The law further provides that the statement shall show the assets and liabilities of the Corporation and the names and compensation of all persons employed by the Corporation whose compensation exceeds $400 per month.

MONTHLY REPORTS

Under section 201 (b) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, the Corporation is required to submit monthly to the President and to the Senate and the House of Representatives (or the Secretary of the Senate and the Clerk of the House of Representatives, if those bodies are not in session) a report of its activities and expenditures under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act and under section 201 of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, together with a statement showing the names of the borrowers to whom loans and advances were made, and the amount and rate of interest involved in each case.

FARM CREDIT ADMINISTRATION

The Farm Credit Administration was created by an Executive Order of the President, No. 6084, which was submitted to Congress on March 27, 1933, and became effective on May 27, 1933. It provided for the consolidation within one organization of substantially all the powers and functions of Federal agencies dealing primarily with agricultural credit. These included the functions of the Federal Farm Loan Board and Federal Farm Loan Bureau, including those of the Farm Loan Commissioner, whose title was changed on June 16, 1933, to Land Bank Commissioner; the functions of the Federal Farm Board, except those relating to stabilization operations which were virtually abolished; the functions of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation pertaining to the management of the regional agricultural credit corporations; and the functions of the crop production and seed loan offices of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The Executive order transferred these functions to the jurisdiction and control of the Farm Credit Administration, and vested in its Governor all the powers, authority, and duties of the officers, executive agencies, and heads of the units whose functions were transferred to the Farm Credit Administration, or relating to the functions transferred.

As a result of this Executive order, the Federal land banks, the national farm loan associations, the Federal intermediate credit banks, the regional agricultural credit corporations, the emergency crop and feed loan offices, the Agricultural Marketing Act revolving fund, and the joint stock land banks were placed under the jurisdiction of the Farm Credit Administration. To this group, the production credit corporations, the production credit associations, the Central Bank for Cooperatives, and the district banks for cooperatives were added by the Farm Credit Act of 1933, approved June 16, 1933, and the Federal credit unions by the Federal Credit Union Act, approved June 26, 1934.

In the Farm Credit Administration the operations of the Federal land banks and the national farm loan associations and the making of Land Bank Commissioner loans are under the supervision of the Land Bank Commissioner. He also has general supervisory authority over the joint stock land banks, appoints receivers of joint stock land banks, and approves, in his discretion, acts of such receivers. The Federal intermediate credit banks, the production credit corporations and associations, and the banks for cooperatives are under the supervision of the Intermediate Credit Commissioner, the Production Credit Commissioner, and the Cooperative Bank Commissioner, respectively. The Farm Credit Administration is authorized to make such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with law, and to exercise such incidental powers as it deems necessary or requisite to fulfill the duties vested in it by law.

Land Bank Commissioner loans are made under the provisions of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933, as amended. During 1933, 1934, and 1935 they were used principally for refinancing farm indebtedness either on security of second mortgages as a supplement to first-mortgage loans from the Federal land banks or other lenders or on security of first mortgages in cases where special risks were involved. However, since the passage of the Farm Credit Act of 1935, many young farmers and tenants have obtained these loans to aid them in purchasing farms.

The Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation was created by an act of Congress approved January 31, 1934, to aid in financing the lending operations of the Land Bank Commissioner and the Federal land banks in connection with the farm debt refinancing program begun in the spring of 1933. With the passing of the emergency the Federal land banks since January 1, 1936, again have been able to obtain necessary funds from the sale of their bonds directly to investors. The Corporation has its principal office in Washington, D. C., and is managed by a board of directors consisting of the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration as chairman, the Secretary of the Treasury or a Treasury officer designated by him, and the Land Bank Commissioner. To carry out its provisions of assisting in financing the lending operations of the Land Bank Commissioner and the Federal land banks, the Corporation was authorized to issue and have outstanding at any one time bonds in an amount not exceeding $2,000,000,000. These bonds are guaranteed fully and unconditionally as to principal and interest by the Government of the United States and the guaranty is expressed on the face of the bonds. The Corporation has a capital of $200,000,000 and its resources include the consolidated bonds of the Federal land banks obtained by purchase or in exchange for the Corporation's bonds and the farm mortgages obtained in connection with Land Bank Commissioner loans. All assets of the Corporation, of course, are available for the payment of the bonds.

The emergency crop and feed loan offices administer the emergency crop loans which have been made under various acts of Congress. These offices also administer the drought relief loans made under provisions of an act of Congress approved June 16, 1934. Both types of loans have been made to farmers having no other source from which loans could be obtained for the purchase of seed and feed, for summer fallowing, and similar purposes.

The original 12 regional agricultural credit corporations were chartered by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in accordance with section 201–e of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932. They were created as temporary emergency institutions to meet the unusual demand for short-term credit during a period of serious credit stringency. They have been in liquidation since May 1, 1934, when the production credit associations were ready to handle permanently this type of credit. On September 30, 1937, the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, acting pursuant to authority contained in the Farm Credit Act of 1937, approved August 19, 1937, consolidated six of the original corporations to form the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Washington, D. C., which acquired all the assets and assumed all the liabilities of the six constituent corporations. On August 31, 1938, the number of regional agricultural credit corporations was further reduced by the merger of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Fort Worth, Tex., with the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Washington, D. C.

The Agricultural Marketing Act of June 15, 1929, authorized the establishment of a revolving fund of $500,000,000 for use by the Federal Farm Board in making loans to cooperative associations and to stabilization corporations. Active lending operations from this fund were curtailed after the establishment of the banks for cooperatives.

The joint stock land banks are privately capitalized institutions organized under the provisions of the Federal Farm Loan Act. Prior to the approval of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933 on May 12, 1933, these banks were authorized to make long-term first-mortgage loans on farms from funds obtained primarily from the sale of bonds to the investing public. This act, however, provided that after that date none of these banks should issue any tax-exempt bonds or make any farm loans except such as are necessary and incidental to the refinancing of existing loans or bond issues, or to the sale of real estate owned by the banks.

The Governor of the Farm Credit Administration is authorized to charter and supervise Federal credit unions which are cooperative associations, organized in accordance with the Federal Credit Union Act for the purpose of promoting thrift among their members and providing a source of credit for provident or productive purposes.

In each of the 12 farm credit districts into which the continental United States is divided, a Federal land bank, a Federal intermediate credit bank, a production credit corporation, and a district bank for cooperatives are located. Throughout each district are located national farm loan associations and production credit associations, the local organizations through which farmers borrow. In addition, there is a Central Bank for Cooperatives in Washington, D. C., and a branch of the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore in Puerto Rico.

These central, district, and local organizations were established as permanent units of a complete farm credit system under the supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. The Federal land banks and the national farm loan associations provide long-term farm mortgage credit for farmers while the production credit associations, production credit corporations, and Federal intermediate credit banks comprise a short-term credit system for them. The Central and district Banks for Cooperatives are a source of both long- and short-term credit for farmers' cooperative associations. Thus, this farm credit system provides a complete credit service for farmers and farmers' cooperative business organizations having a sound basis for credit.

This permanent system is essentially one for obtaining funds in the investment markets of the Nation and making them readily available to farmers and their cooperative business organizations. All loan funds of the organizations comprising the system, except for the limited amounts provided by their capital, are obtained through the sale of bonds and debentures.

The four district institutions are located in the same city and have the same directors. Each organization has its own officers. In order to coordinate the activities of these four district credit units, however, the Farm Credit Act of 1937 created a "farm credit board" in each district. The members of each farm credit board are ex-officio the directors of the four credit units of the district. In each district there is an executive known as the general agent, who is responsible for coordinating day-to-day activities and has supervision over certain personnel and facilities, with the authority to direct the legal, accounting, informational, statistical, and field activities of the agencies.

The location of the district offices, with the States served by each, are as follows:

Farm Credit Administration of Springfield, Springfield, Mass.—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, and New Jersey.

Farm Credit Administration of Baltimore, Baltimore, Md.—Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia, District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Farm Credit Administration of Columbia, Columbia, S. C.—North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida.

Farm Credit Administration of Louisville, Louisville, Ky.—Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, and Tennessee.

Farm Credit Administration of New Orleans, New Orleans, La.—Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana.

Farm Credit Administration of St. Louis, St. Louis, Mo.—Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas.

Farm Credit Administration of St. Paul, St. Paul, Minn.—Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota.

Farm Credit Administration of Omaha, Omaha, Nebr.—Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota, Wyoming.

Farm Credit Administration of Wichita, Wichita, Kans.—Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico.

Farm Credit Administration of Houston, Houston, Tex.—Texas.

Farm Credit Administration of Berkeley, Oakland, Calif.—Utah, Arizona, Nevada, California.

Farm Credit Administration of Spokane, Spokane, Wash.—Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon.

WORKS PROGRESS ADMINISTRATION

The Works Progress Administration was created by Presidential Executive order, May 6, 1935, under the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1935, approved April 8, 1935 (Public Res. No. 11, 74th Cong.—an act to "Provids relief, work relief, and to increase employment by providing for useful projects * * *"). The Works Progress Administration is responsible to the President for the "honest, efficient, speedy, and coordinated execution of the works program as a whole, and for the execution of that program in such manner as to move from the relief rolls to work on such projects or in private employment the maximum number of persons in the shortest time possible."

CENTRAL STATISTICAL BOARD

The Central Statistical Board was established by an act of Congress approved July 25, 1935 (Public, No. 219, 74th Cong., 49 Stat. 498) to plan and promote the improvement, development, and coordination of, and the elimination of duplication in, statistical services carried on by or subject to the supervision of the Federal Government, and, so far as may be practicable, of other statistical services in the United States. Prior to this act, a predecessor Central Statistical Board had been created pursuant to Executive Order No. 6225, July 27, 1933, "to formulate standards for and to effect coordination of the statistical services of the Federal Government incident to the purposes * * * of the National Industrial Recovery Act."

The duties of the Board are:

(1) To improve the accuracy and adequacy of available information and to promote the development of new information when needed.

(2) To promote the comparability of data gathered by different agencies and to encourage the use of information available from various sources in the interpreting of statistics.

(3) To discourage unnecessary inquiries and unnecessary duplications in the solicitation of information, and to promote economy in the organization and conduct of the statistical services of the Federal Government.

The Board performs these duties through the following activities:

(1) Review and advice upon plans for the collection and tabulation of data.

(2) Review and advice upon statistical publications and releases of the Federal Government.

(3) Investigations of (a) the methods employed by the various statistical agencies and (b) the organization of any phase of statistical work common to two or more of the various Federal statistical agencies.

(4) Assistance in planning and developing new services needed to fill important gaps in available information.

(5) Preparation of information designed to keep the various Federal statistical agencies in touch with one another.

(6) Preparation of an annual report to be transmitted to the President for transmittal to Congress.

The Board's general powers are advisory rather than mandatory, but it is authorized to make such investigations of existing or proposed statistical work as may be deemed necessary or advisable, and it has power to demand submittal to it of all materials bearing upon the statistical work of the several departments and agencies of the Federal Government.

FEDERAL EMERGENCY ADMINISTRATION OF PUBLIC WORKS

The Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works was created under the act of Congress approved June 16, 1933 (Public, No. 67, 73d Cong.), and was extended until June 30, 1937, by the act of Congress approved April 8, 1935 (Public Res. 11, 74th Cong.). Its life was further extended until July 1, 1939, by the Public Works Administration Extension Act of 1937 (Public Res. 47, 75th Cong.), approved June 29, 1937, and to June 30, 1941, by the Public Works Administration Appropriation Act of 1938 (Public Res. 122, 75th Cong.), approved June 21, 1938.

The present functions of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works may be summarized as follows:

(1) To make allotments to finance Federal projects; (2) to make loans or grants, or both, to non-Federal public bodies to aid in financing the construction of useful public works; and (3) to construct and lease projects, with or without the privilege of purchase, to public bodies.

COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION

Commodity Credit Corporation was created as an agency of the United States, under the laws of the State of Delaware, on October 17, 1933, pursuant to Executive Order No. 6340, dated October 16, 1933. Its functions were first extended by the act of January 31, 1935 (Public, No. 1, 74th Cong.), to April 1, 1937, and were subsequently extended to June 30, 1941, or such earlier date as may be determined by the President, by the act of January 26, 1937 (Public, No. 2, 75th Cong.), as amended by act of March 4, 1939 (Public, No. 3, 76th Cong.).

Commodity Credit Corporation has an authorized and paid-in capital of $100,000,000. Under the provisions of the act of March 8, 1938 (Public, No. 442, 75th Cong.), the Secretary of the Treasury is required to make an appraisal of all of the assets and liabilities of the Corporation, as of March 31 each year, for the purpose of determining its net worth, and in the event such appraisal establishes a net worth of less than $100,000,000, the Secretary of the Treasury is required, on behalf of the United States, subject to appropriation of funds therefor which is authorized by the act, to restore the amount of such capital impairment. In the event the net worth of the Corporation, as of March 31 of any year, is in excess of $100,000,000, such excess is required to be deposited in the Treasury by Commodity Credit Corporation to be credited to miscellaneous receipts.

Under the act of March 8, 1938, the Corporation is authorized, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to issue and have outstanding at any one time, bonds, notes, debentures, and other similar obligations in an aggregate amount of not exceeding $500,000,000 which was subsequently increased to $900,000,000 by act of March 4, 1939 (Public, No. 3, 76th Cong.). Such obligations, when issued pursuant to the act, are fully and unconditionally guaranteed, both as to principal and interest, by the United States, and the income therefrom is exempt from Federal, State, municipal, and local taxation (except surtaxes, estate, inheritance, and gift taxes).

Commodity Credit Corporation is essentially a lending institution, making loans principally to producers to finance the carrying and orderly marketing of agricultural commodities. Section 302 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 authorizes the Corporation, upon the recommendation of the Secretary of Agriculture, with the approval of the President, to make loans on agricultural commodities (including dairy products) and, except as otherwise provided therein, the amount, terms, and conditions of such loans shall be fixed by the Secretary of Agriculture, subject to the approval of the Corporation and the President. Under its charter the Corporation is empowered, among other things, to buy and sell, lend upon, or otherwise deal in commodities, agricultural or otherwise.

FOREIGN-TRADE ZONES BOARD

The Foreign-Trade Zones Board was created by an act of Congress approved June 18, 1934. The Board is composed of the Secretary of Commerce, chairman, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Secretary of War.

Its duties are (1), after careful analysis of applications and investigations, to issue permits to public and private corporations for the privilege of establishing, operating, and maintaining foreign-trade zones in ports of entry of the United States for the purpose of expediting and encouraging foreign commerce, and (2) to administer the law governing the operation of such zones.

Foreign-trade zones as contemplated in the present act are designed primarily in the interest of our reexport trade. Within the zone, which is a segregated, enclosed, and policed area, commodities are substantially free from usual customs regulations, and a considerable degree of freedom is allowed in the handling of such goods within the zone, as, for example, repacking, resorting, mixing, and other types of manipulation; it should be noted that exhibiting and manufacturing are not permitted within the zone.

On January 30, 1936, the Board issued a grant to the municipality of New York permitting the establishment and operation of a foreign-trade zone at Stapleton, Staten Island, N. Y. This zone was placed in operation on February 1, 1937. On September 22, 1937, the Board issued a grant to the Alabama State Docks Commission permitting the establishment and operation of a foreign-trade zone in the port of Mobile, Ala. The zone at Mobile was opened July 21, 1938. While the New York and Mobile zones are the first to be authorized and placed in operation under the law, applications for permits to establish and operate foreign-trade zones in several ports of entry are now pending before the Board.

EXPORT-IMPORT BANK OF WASHINGTON

Export-Import Bank of Washington is a banking corporation organized under the Code of the District of Columbia pursuant to Executive order of the President of the United States, dated February 2, 1934. The capital stock is fixed at $46,000,000. Common capital stock in the amount of $1,000,000 is held by the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Commerce, and the individual members of the board of trustees for the use and benefit of the United States. Preferred capital stock in the amount of $45,000,000 is owned by Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The affairs of the bank are managed by a board of 11 trustees, and the bank is authorized to continue as an agency of the United States until June 30, 1941, or such earlier date as may be fixed by the President by Executive order.

The bank was established to aid in financing and to facilitate exports and imports and the exchange of commodities between the United States and any of its territories and insular possessions and any foreign country or the agencies or nationals thereof.

ALLEY DWELLING AUTHORITY FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

The Alley Dwelling Authority is the public housing agency for the District of Columbia. As such, it reclaims slums and provides dwellings for families of low income whose housing needs are not adequately met by private enterprise.

The Authority was established under the terms of the District of Columbia Alley Dwelling Act, approved June 12, 1934 (48 Stat. 930); amendments to this act were approved on June 25, 1938 (Public Law No. 733, 75th Cong.).

Members of the Authority were designated, and their duties generally outlined, in Executive Order No. 6868, October 9, 1934, which was amended by Executive Order No. 7784–A, January 5, 1938, and by Executive Order No. 8033, dated January 11, 1939. The Authority consists of the chairman of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia, the Architect of the Capitol, and the director of planning of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

The Authority's operations originally were restricted to squares containing inhabited alleys, so that these hidden communities—the characteristic slums of Washington—could be eliminated and their sites reclaimed. Amendments to the Alley Dwelling Act enlarge the alley slum reclamation program and permit the Authority to acquire sites in the District elsewhere than in "alley" squares, for the purpose of providing dwellings for persons or families substantially equal in number to those whose houses the Authority may demolish.

The amendments to the act were necessitated by the Authority's past and prospective demolitions of slum dwellings on sites unsuitable for residential redevelopment. In such instances, the Authority has reclaimed the cleared sites for nonresidential uses in harmony with the character of their neighborhoods; but a serious housing shortage would be caused if the Authority were unable to build compensatory housing in other areas.

The Authority may acquire sites by purchase, gift, or condemnation. It is authorized to replat land so acquired, to install public services, and to make such use of the sites as may be necessary; to lease, rent, maintain, equip, manage, exchange, sell, or convey any of its holdings—land or buildings—for such amounts and on such terms and conditions as it may determine.

The Authority may transfer to the Federal Government or the District government for public use any of its holdings on the payment to the Authority of their reasonable value. The Authority also may make loans to limited-dividend corporations or to home owners to enable them to acquire and develop sites on the property.

For the purposes of slum reclamation, the Authority is empowered to borrow an aggregate of $5,000,000 from the Treasury of the United States in five equal annual installments, beginning with the fiscal year 1939, such loans to bear interest at the going Federal rate. The Authority also may accept gifts of money from private sources, and may borrow funds from individuals or private corporations on the security of property and assets acquired under the act.

The act also permits the Authority to receive financial assistance from the United States Housing Authority to construct low-rent housing projects in accordance with the provisions of the United States Housing Act of 1937.

In addition to the foregoing, the United States Housing Act authorizes the President to make allocations of United States Housing Authority funds to the Alley Dwelling Authority for the purposes of the District of Columbia Alley Dwelling Act.

THE NATIONAL ARCHIVES

The National Archives of the United States was created by the National Archives Act (48 Stat. 1122–1124), and the duties and responsibilities of the Archivist are prescribed by said act, as amended, and by the Federal Register Act (49 Stat. 500–503) as amended.

These acts impose seven major objectives upon The National Archives: (1) The concentration and preservation in the National Archives Building of all archives of the Government of the United States of such administrative value or historical interest that they must be preserved over a long period of years, or permanently, in accordance with the regulation adopted by the National Archives Council defining the classes of material which shall be transferred to the National Archives Building; (2) the administration of such archives so as to facilitate their use in the business of the Government and in the service of scholarship; (3) the acceptance from non-Government sources, storage, and preservation of motion-picture films and sound recordings pertaining to and illustrative of the history of the United States, and the maintenance of a projecting room for showing such films and reproducing such sound recordings for historical purposes and study; (4) the examination, appraisal, and reporting to Congress of lists of papers, documents, etc., among the archives and records of the Government which appear to have no permanent value or historical interest, and which, with the concurrence of the Government agency concerned and the approval of the National Archives Council, subject to the approval of the Congress, shall be destroyed or otherwise effectively disposed of; (5) the preservation of all proclamations, orders, rules, regulations, etc., issued by Federal agencies and the publication in the Federal Register of all those having general applicability and legal effect; (6) the codification of all Presidential proclamations, Executive orders, etc., which have been issued or promulgated prior to July 1, 1938, and on the same date every fifth year thereafter, and which are still in force and effect and relied upon by the issuing agency as authority for, or invoked or used by it in the discharge of any of its functions or activities, and when authorized to do so by the President, the preparation for such codification for publication in special editions of the Federal Register; (7) the submitting to Congress of the recommendations of the National Historical Publications Commission, created by the National Archives Act, with the Archivist as chairman, and charged with the duty of making "plans, estimates, and recommendations for such historical works and collections of sources as seem appropriate for publication and/or otherwise recording at the public expense * * *."

To enable the Archivist to attain these major objectives, the National Archives Act gives him "full power to inspect personally or by deputy the records of any agency of the United States Government whatsoever and wheresoever located," and places under his charge and superintendence "All archives or records belonging to the Government of the United States (legislative, executive, judicial, and other)," which shall be approved by the National Archives Council for transfer to the National Archives Building, and said act, as amended, requires him to perform the following duties and functions:

(1) To appoint all persons to be employed in The National Archives in accordance with civil-service laws and the Classification Act of 1923, as amended.

(2) To inspect and appraise, personally or by deputy, the archives of any agency of the United States Government, whatsoever and wheresoever located.

(3) To requisition for transfer to, and to store and preserve in, the National Archives Building all archives and records approved for such transfer by the National Archives Council.

(4) To make regulations for the arrangement, custody, use, and withdrawal of materials deposited with The National Archives.

(5) To exercise immediate custody over and control of the National Archives Building and such other buildings, grounds, and equipment as may hereafter become a part of The National Archives (except as otherwise provided by law), and their contents.

(6) To serve as Chairman of the National Historical Publications Commission in making plans, estimates, and recommendations for such historical works and collections of sources as seem appropriate for publication and/or otherwise recording at public expense.

(7) To serve as a member of the National Archives Council which is charged with the duty of defining what classes of material shall be transferred from the several agencies of the Government to the National Archives Building, and to make regulations governing such transfer.

(8) To provide for the acceptance, storage, and preservation of motion-picture films and sound recordings pertaining to and illustrative of the history of the United States and to maintain a projecting room for showing such films and reproducing such sound recordings for historical purposes and study.

(9) To make reports to Congress regarding the disposal of papers and other documents among the archives and records of the Government which appear to have no permanent value or historical interest.

(10) To direct the expenditure of all appropriations for the maintenance of the National Archives Building, for the administration of the collections and other expenses of The National Archives, and for the work of the National Historical Publications Commission.

(11) To provide for the making or reproduction and furnishing of authenticated or unauthenticated copies of any of the documentary, photographic, or other archives or records in his custody that are not exempt from examination as confidential or protected by subsisting copyright.

The Federal Register Act, as amended, requires the Archivist to perform the following duties and functions:

(12) To establish and direct the work of a division of The National Archives charged with the custody and, together with the Public Printer, with the prompt and uniform printing and distribution of the documents required or authorized to be published in the Federal Register.

(13) To provide for the permanent filing and for public inspection of all such documents.

(14) To provide for the preparation of such documents for printing, the furnishing of copies thereof to the Public Printer for publication, and the indexing of the contents of the daily issues of the Federal Register.

(15) To provide for the codification of all documents which have been issued or promulgated prior to July 1, 1938, and on the same date every fifth year thereafter, and which are still in force and effect and relied upon by the issuing agency as authority for, or invoked or used by it in the discharge of any of its functions or activities, and when authorized to do so by the President to prepare such codification for publication in special editions of the Federal Register.

(16) To serve as chairman of the permanent Administrative Committee established by the Federal Register Act, which is charged with the duty of prescribing, with the President's approval, regulations for carrying out the provisions of the act.

(17) To direct the expenditure of all appropriations for the maintenance of the Division of the Federal Register.

NATIONAL HISTORICAL PUBLICATIONS COMMISSION

The National Historical Publications Commission was created by the act which established The National Archives (48 Stat. 1122–1124).

The duties of the National Historical Publications Commission are to make plans, estimates, and recommendations for such historical works and collections of sources as seem appropriate for publication and/or otherwise recording at the public expense, it being provided by the act that the preparation and publication of annual and special reports on the archives and records of the Government, guides, inventory lists, catalogs, and other instruments facilitating the use of the collections shall have precedence over detailed calendars and textual reproductions. The act requires that the Commission shall meet at least once a year and that the members thereof shall serve without compensation except repayment of expenses actually incurred in attending meetings of the Commission.

NATIONAL ARCHIVES COUNCIL

The National Archives Council was established by the act which created The National Archives (48 Stat. 1122–1124).

The act creating the National Archives Council provides that the Council shall define the classes of material which shall be transferred to the National Archives Building and establish regulations governing such transfer; and shall have power to advise the Archivist in respect to regulations governing the disposition and use of the archives and records transferred to his custody.

FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION

The Federal Housing Administration was established by an act of Congress approved June 27, 1934. The National Housing Act has five titles: (I) Housing Renovation and Modernization; (II) Mortgage Insurance; (III) National Mortgage Associations; (IV) Insurance of Savings and Loan Accounts; (V) Miscellaneous, consisting chiefly of amendments to the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, the Farm Credit Act of 1933, the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, the Federal Reserve Act, and the Interstate Commerce Act.

There is no provision in the act for the lending or expenditure by the Federal Housing Administration of any Government funds except for administrative purposes and the insurance of loans made by private lending institutions.

The Administrator has direct charge of administering titles I, II, and III of the act. Title IV is administered by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation under direction of a board of trustees consisting of the members of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Under the provisions of the act the President was authorized to create the Federal Housing Administration, all the powers of which shall be exercised by the Federal Housing Administrator, appointed for a term of 4 years by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Under title I, the Administrator is authorized to insure financial institutions against loss up to 10 percent of the total amount of insured loans made for the purpose of financing, alterations, repairs, and improvements upon real estate. The maximum amount of any such loan is $10,000 for alteration or repair of existing structures, or $2,500 for erection of new structures. Such loans need not be secured by mortgages but must comply with certain requirements as to interest rate, maturity, and periodic payment. No premium is charged for the insurance of such loan but the authority granted under this title is regarded as an emergency measure and expires July 1, 1939.

Under title II, the Administrator is authorized to insure mortgages given to secure loans on real estate made by private lending institutions properly approved by the Administrator as mortgagees. Mortgages submitted for insurance under section 203 of this title must be upon dwellings designed for not more than four families, must not exceed $16,000 or 80 percent of the appraised value of the property; except that mortgages upon newly constructed single-family owner-occupied dwellings may be up to 90 percent of the appraised value, provided such amount does not exceed $5,400, or may be up to 90 percent of the first $6,000 of the appraised value and 80 percent of the balance of such value provided the amount of the mortgage does not exceed $8,600. Mortgages insured under this section carry a maximum interest rate of 5 percent and provide for a mortgage insurance premium of one-half percent on reducing balances, except that the premium in connection with newly constructed single-family owner-occupied properties, on which the amount of the mortgage is $5,400 or less, the mortgage insurance premium is one-fourth percent of such reducing balances.

In addition to the insurance of mortgages on individual homes, provision is made for the insurance of mortgages on apartment houses or groups of single or multifamily houses, under section 207, up to $5,000,000, or under section 210, in amounts ranging between $16,000 and $200,000. Such mortgages are limited to 80 percent of the appraised value, carry a maximum of 5 percent interest and an insurance premium of one-half percent on reducing balances. Strict regulation of the mortgagor is maintained by the Administrator in connection with mortgages insured under section 207, and under both sections the insurance may cover advances made during the progress of construction.

The aggregate amount of principal obligations of all mortgages insured under title II of the act and outstanding at any one time shall not exceed $2,000,000,000, except that with the approval of the President such aggregate amount may be increased to an amount not to exceed $3,000,000,000.

The Administrator does not lend the money on the mortgage but is authorized to insure the mortgage when presented by the mortgagee, which must be an institution approved by the Administrator.

Under title III, the Administrator is authorized to provide for the establishment of national mortgage associations, which may make real estate loans accepted for insurance or insured under title II of the act, purchase, service, or sell any mortgages or partial interest therein which are insured under title II of the act, purchase, service, or sell uninsured first mortgages and such other liens as are commonly given under the laws of the State, District, or Territory in which the real estate is located, provided such mortgage does not exceed 60 percent of the appraised value of the property as of the date the mortgage is purchased by the association. Each association shall have a capital stock of a par value of not less than $2,000,000, and no authorization to commence business shall be granted by the Administrator to any such association until he is satisfied that the capital stock has been subscribed for at not less than par and at least 25 percent paid in cash, or in Government securities, or in first mortgages, or such other first liens as described above. National mortgage associations are authorized to borrow money for the above purposes through the issuance of notes, bonds, debentures, or other such obligations in a ratio not to exceed 20 times the amount of their paid-up capital and surplus.

FEDERAL PRISON INDUSTRIES, INC.

The Federal Prison Industries Corporation was authorized by act of Congress, approved June 23, 1934 (Public, No. 461), and created by Executive Order No. 6917 of December 11, 1934. It manages and operates all industrial enterprises in Federal penal and correctional institutions. Its board of directors is charged by law with the duty of determining in what manner and to what extent industrial operations shall be carried on in Federal penal and correctional institutions, and is required to diversify, so far as practicable, prison industrial operations and so operate the prison shops that no single private industry shall be forced to bear an undue burden of competition from the products of the prison workshops. The Corporation is governed by a board of directors of five persons—a representative of labor, a representative of industry, a representative of agriculture, a representative of retailers and consumers, and a representative of the Attorney General. They serve at the will of the President and without compensation. The principal office of the Corporation is in the city of Washington, with branch offices at the several penal and correctional institutions. The officers of the Corporation are a president, a vice president, a secretary, and a Commissioner of Prison Industries. The Commissioner of Prison Industries is the acting executive officer of the Corporation. The products of the industries are sold only to other Government departments and agencies at current market prices. No goods or articles made in the Federal penal and correctional system are sold to the public.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION ADMINISTRATION

Creation and authority.—The Rural Electrification Administration was created and established an agency of the United States by the Rural Electrification Act of 1936 (7 U. S. C. 901–914), approved by the President May 20, 1936. To its jurisdiction were transferred the functions, property, and personnel of the Rural Electrification Administration, created by Executive Order No. 7037, dated May 11, 1935, under authority of the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1935 (Public Res. No. 11, 74th Cong.), approved April 8, 1935. The act was amended by Title IV of the Work Relief and Public Works Appropriation Act of 1938 (Public, No. 122, 75th Cong. approved June 21, 1938).

Organization.—The duties and functions of the Rural Electrification Administration are exercised by an Administrator, appointed by the President, by and with the approval of the Senate, for a term of 10 years. In order to carry out the purposes of the act the Administrator has established the following divisions: Management, Finance, Engineering, Legal, Utilization, Examining, Information and Research, and Operations Supervision.

Activities—Types of loans permitted.—The Administrator is authorized and empowered to make two types of loans:

(1) To persons, corporations, States, Territories, subdivisions and agencies thereof, municipalities, people's utility districts, and cooperative, nonprofit, or limited-dividend associations organized under the laws of any State or Territory of the United States for the purpose of financing the construction and operation of generating plants, electric transmission and distribution lines, or systems for the furnishing of electric energy to persons in rural areas who are not receiving central-station service.

(2) For the purpose of financing the wiring of premises of persons in rural areas and the acquisition and installation of electrical and plumbing appliances and equipment. Such loans may be made to any of the borrowers of the first type or to any person, firm, or corporation supplying or installing the said wiring, appliances, or equipment.

Loans of the first type must be self-liquidating within a period of not to exceed 25 years while loans of the second type are for such terms, subject to such conditions, and so secured as reasonably to assure repayment thereof. Interest on both types of loans is required to be equal to the average rate of interest payable by the United States of America on its long-term obligations issued during the last preceding fiscal year. No grants are made.

The Administration also makes studies, investigations, and reports concerning the condition and progress of the electrification of rural areas, including the applications of electricity to agricultural processes and rural life, and publishes and disseminates information with respect thereto.

SOCIAL SECURITY BOARD

The Social Security Board was established to administer provisions of the Social Security Act relating to old-age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the blind, unemployment compensation, and old-age insurance, and to study and make recommendations as to the most effective methods of providing economic security through social insurance, and as to related legislation and administrative policy. The Board receives its authority under the provisions of title VII of the Social Security Act (49 Stat. 620), approved August 14, 1935.

The Board is composed of three members—not more than two of whom may be of one political party—appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The President designates the chairman of the Board. Judicial and policy-making functions under the Social Security Act are exercised by the Board while administrative functions are vested in an Executive Director who is directly responsible to the Board Bureaus and offices and a field service comprising regional, territorial, and field offices have been established by the Board to carry out its functions under the Social Security Act. Operating bureaus are the Bureau of Old-Age Insurance, the Bureau of Public Assistance, and the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation. Service bureaus and offices are the Office of the General Counsel, the Bureau of Accounts and Audits, the Bureau of Research and Statistics, the Bureau of Business Management, the Informational Service, and the Office of the Actuary.

OFFICE OF THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Within the Office of the Executive Director are centered the administrative and executive duties of the Board, and the Executive Director has general supervision and direction of the work of the several bureaus and offices, the immediate supervision and direction of the regional and territorial offices, and the coordination of Federal-State relations in the administration of the Social Security Act.

BUREAU OF OLD-AGE INSURANCE

The Federal old-age insurance system, established by title II of the act, provides for benefit payments by the Federal Government to eligible persons who are 65 years of age or more, and who have retired from employment. Its purpose is to bring to persons employed in the broad fields of commerce and industry increased assurance of independence in old age.

The provisions of the Federal old-age insurance plan became effective January 1, 1937. By November 1938 over 41,500,000 social security account numbers had been assigned to applicants for participation in this program. Wage reports for 1937 indicate that an estimated 32,000,000 individuals received wages for employment covered by the old-age insurance plan during that year.

Benefits are cash payments, based on the total wages of the individual, and are of three types: (1) Monthly retirement benefits; (2) lump-sum payments to persons who fail to qualify in all particulars for a monthly retirement benefit, and (3) death payments to estates of persons who die before becoming 65, or so soon after passing that age that their monthly benefits have not equaled 3½ percent of their total wages.

The size of the monthly benefit checks will range from $10 to $85—limits fixed by the act—and payment will begin after January 1, 1942. But the lump-sum payments for persons not qualifying for monthly benefits, and death payments, have been payable since January 1, 1937.

The wages on which benefits are based must have been received in this country after December 31, 1936, and before the worker becomes 65. They include remuneration for every kind of employment, except that specifically exempt in the act: Agricultural labor, domestic service in a private home, casual labor not in the course of the employer's trade or business, service on a documented vessel, work for any Government agency, or work performed in the employ of certain nonprofit organizations. Only the first $3,000 received from each employer in any one year will be considered in computing the total of an individual's wages.

The largest organization unit of the Board is the Bureau of Old-Age Insurance. This Bureau administers the assigning of account numbers and the recording of wage reports; it is responsible for the determination of the total amounts of wages received by individuals; and it maintains records which supply statistical data necessary to the Board in supervising the old-age insurance provisions of the Social Security Act. This Bureau also is responsible for computing and adjudicating retirement benefits, lump-sum benefits, and death claims. It handles claims involving overpayment, recovery and forfeiture, and escheat, as well as questions of domestic relationship and other legal problems pertaining to benefit claims. The Bureau conducts current studies to provide a background of data for the operation of the old-age insurance system and to improve the technical execution of the Bureau's work.

Field offices located in all parts of the United States are points of contact between the public and the Bureau. These offices, staffed with personnel recruited in accordance with civil service regulations, will bring the administration of the Federal old-age insurance plan as close as possible to the people who are affected by it and should assure adequate, efficient, and economical operation of the plan.

BUREAU OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

This Bureau is concerned with the administration of grants to the States for old-age assistance, aid to dependent children, and aid to the blind under the provisions of titles I, IV, and X of the Social Security Act.

Title I authorizes grants-in-aid to States for assistance to needy aged individuals. The Bureau of Public Assistance, in cooperation with the Office of the General Counsel, analyzes State administrative plans and recommends such plans to the Board for approval if they conform to certain standards established by the act, relating to procedure, administration, and eligibility requirements. It also recommends the amount of Federal grants-in-aid to be certified by the Board. States having approved plans receive from the Federal Government an amount equal to the sum expended by the States and their local governmental units for old-age assistance, up to a combined Federal-State total of $30 a month for each needy individual 65 years of age or over who is not an inmate of a public institution. In addition, the Federal Government grants to States an amount equal to 5 percent of the sum paid to the State for old-age assistance, which may be used by the State for administrative expenses or for old-age assistance or for both purposes.

Title IV provides for Federal grants to States having approved plans for aid to dependent children deprived of a parent's support and maintained in their own homes or in the homes of certain close relatives. These States receive an amount equal to one-third of the sums expended by them and their local governmental units under such plans, except that Federal funds may not be used for that part of payments in excess of $18 a month for the first child and $12 for each additional child in the same home.

Title X authorizes grants to States having approved plans for furnishing financial assistance to the needy blind. These grants equal one-half of the total expenditures for aid to the needy blind of the States and their local units, except that Federal funds may not be used for that part of individual monthly payments which exceeds $30. State payments to needy blind or aged persons who are in public institutions are not matched from Federal funds. As in the case of grants for old-age assistance, the Federal Government will pay an additional sum of 5 percent of its assistance grant, which may be used by the State for administrative expenses, for aid to the blind, or for both purposes.

The Bureau of Public Assistance advises States concerning the preparation of State public-assistance plans and periodically reviews the operation of approved plans to insure continuing conformity to the provisions of the Social Security Act. It provides a technical consultative service to the States with regard to the administration of public assistance, including such matters as administrative organization, policies and procedures, fiscal operations, staff training, and the coordination of old-age assistance, aid to the blind, and aid to dependent children. The Bureau also serves as a clearing house for the exchange of public-assistance information and experience among the States.

BUREAU OF UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION

The act, in title III, makes provision for Federal cooperation with States establishing systems of unemployment compensation. Grants-in-aid are authorized to be made to those States which have unemployment compensation laws approved by the Board under this title. The grants are designed to enable the States to meet all proper administrative costs of their unemployment compensation programs.

Title IX of the act levies a Federal excise tax on employers of eight or more. The Social Security Board is authorized under this title to approve State unemployment compensation laws which fulfill certain conditions and include provision for depositing, to the credit of the State, all contributions, upon collection, in the unemployment trust fund of the United States. Such approval will permit employers making contributions to State unemployment funds under approved State laws to obtain credit up to a maximum of 90 percent against the Federal tax.

The analysis of State unemployment compensation laws for approval and certification by the Social Security Board under titles IX and III of the act is the function of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation in conjunction with the Office of the General Counsel.

The Bureau aids the States, on request, in the preparation of unemployment compensation laws. After a State law is passed and submitted to the Board, the Bureau analyzes the new law in cooperation with the General Counsel's office, to see if it meets the basic requirements of title IX of the act and can be certified by the Board for credit offset against the Federal excise tax.

Upon request for funds as provided under title III, each State law is checked by this Bureau and the Office of the General Counsel to determine whether it contains the provisions which are necessary if the State is to receive Federal funds for administrative purposes.

The Bureau also maintains a technical staff to advise with States and State agencies on problems of organization and administration of State unemployment compensation laws, including questions of general policy, cooperation with employment offices, claims procedure, deposit of funds, expenditure of funds, statistical reports, reports to public-works agencies, reciprocal agreements among States, and form of reports.

This Bureau cooperates with the United States Employment Service of the Department of Labor on problems relating jointly to unemployment compensation and placement service.

OFFICE OF THE GENERAL COUNSEL

The duties of the Office of the General Counsel include legal advice to the Board, the Executive Director, the directors of the operating bureaus, and the regional directors concerning proposed and enacted unemployment compensation laws, public-assistance laws and plans, and all legal aspects of the old-age insurance program. This office cooperates with the Department of Justice in litigation involving the Social Security Act and with States in litigation involving State laws enacted to carry out the terms of the act. It also renders legal advice to the Board and to its bureaus and offices with respect to the legal aspects of methods proposed for providing social security.

BUREAU OF ACCOUNTS AND AUDITS

The Bureau of Accounts and Audits maintains fund accounts covering the Board's appropriations, prepares budgetary data, and conducts an administrative audit of Board expenditures. This Bureau also conducts field audits pertaining to expenditure of Federal grants by State public-assistance and unemployment compensation agencies. It advises the Board as to the availability of State and local funds for matching public-assistance grants, and as to the adequacy of State accounting and fiscal procedures to account for funds granted by the Board.

BUREAU OF RESEARCH AND STATISTICS

The Bureau of Research and Statistics plans and conducts the statistical service and cooperates with the operating bureaus in the research and analytical work necessary for the administration of the Social Security Act. It conducts research regarding factors causing insecurity, the adequacy of existing legislation, and the problems connected with the accommodation of the Federal and State social security programs to different population groups. In conjunction with the operating bureaus, it carries on special studies related to public-assistance and unemployment compensation administration in the States and to old-age insurance in its long-range and broad financial aspects. This Bureau is responsible for the Board's official monthly publication, the Social Security Bulletin, and for other technical publications relating to its field of activity. This Bureau also renders continuing consultative service to State statistical organizations concerning statistical reports required by the Board covering public assistance and unemployment compensation, and concerning uniform statistical organization and practice.

BUREAU OF BUSINESS MANAGEMENT

This Bureau is responsible for servicing the Board and its bureaus and offices with respect to procurement of supplies and equipment, selecting quarters and allotting space, furnishing centralized stenographic and typing assistance, maintaining centralized files and records, preparing travel orders, itineraries, vouchers, and other business operations. It conducts personnel training classes covering the basic substantive phases of the Board's work. It is responsible for formulating for the Board's action a consistent personnel policy and for executing this policy, providing the analytical service essential for the recruitment, transfer, and promotion of personnel, classifying positions and maintaining contacts with other Government agencies concerning appointments and retirements. The library of the Board is a part of this Bureau.

INFORMATIONAL SERVICE

The Informational Service is responsible for the dissemination of information and the answering of inquiries from the public as to the provisions of the Social Security Act which are administered by the Board, and of the public's rights, benefits, and responsibilities under these provisions. This program is conducted through publications of the Board, and through other channels of public information and education. The Informational Service also cooperates with States in planning and conducting their informational programs essential for proper administration of public assistance and unemployment compensation.

OFFICE OF THE ACTUARY

The Actuary of the Board is consultant and adviser to the Board with respect to technical actuarial analysis on a long-range basis of all data pertaining to population, employment, wages, and other subjects which are necessary for the Board in planning its operations under the Social Security Act, and in considering proposals concerning the social security program.

REGIONAL OFFICES

The Social Security Board has established 12 regional offices for the purpose of maintaining close relationships with the cooperating States, and of supervising the work of the representatives of the various bureaus and offices of the Board located within each regional area. Each regional director is a representative of the Board in his region and is responsible to the Executive Director for relations between the Board and the States within his region.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was organized under authority of the Banking Act of 1933, approved by the President on June 16, 1933 (Public, No. 66, 73d Cong.). This act was amended by Public, No. 362, approved June 16, 1934 (73d Cong.); by Public Resolution No. 38, approved June 28, 1935 (74th Cong.); by the Banking Act of 1935, approved August 23, 1935 (Public, No. 305, 74th Cong.); and by Public Resolution No. 83, approved April 21, 1936 (74th Cong.).

The management of the Corporation is vested in a board of directors of three members, two of whom are appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, the third member being the Comptroller of the Currency.

The capital stock of the Corporation, according to the requirements of law, is as follows: The Treasury of the United States has subscribed $150,000,000. Each Federal Reserve bank has subscribed to stock in an amount equal to one-half of the surplus of such bank on January 1, 1933, the total amount of such subscription being $139,299,556.99.

The chief function of the Corporation is to insure the deposits of all banks which are entitled to the benefits of insurance under the law, to the extent of $5,000 for each depositor. All national banks and all Federal Reserve member banks are insured under the law, and any bank located in the States of the United States and the District of Columbia which is not a member of the Federal Reserve System, may become insured upon application to and examination by the Corporation, and approval by the board of directors. The benefits of insurance are also extended to banks in Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. The creation of an insurance reserve is provided for through annual assessment at the rate of one-twelfth of 1 percent upon the average deposits, less authorized deductions, of each insured bank.

A second function of the Corporation is to act as receiver for insured banks which fail. The Corporation is appointed receiver for all national banks which fail and may be appointed receiver for closed insured State banks if such appointment is tendered by the State banking authority and is permitted by State law. Upon the closing of an insured bank, the Corporation immediately assumes the insured deposit liability of the closed bank and makes available the funds needed to discharge such liability. For this purpose the Corporation may, if it finds that it is advisable, organize a new national bank. The claim of each insured depositor is paid upon assignment to the Corporation by him of all rights to dividends and recovers on account, and to the extent of his insured deposit.

Further, the Corporation may make loans secured by assets of an open or closed insured bank, or may purchase such assets, or may guarantee any other insured bank against loss by reason of its assuming the liabilities of another open or closed insured bank, whenever, in the judgment of the board of directors, such action will reduce the risk or avert threatened loss to the Corporation and facilitate a merger or consolidation of an insured bank with another insured bank.

Of the 15,342 operating banks in the United States and possessions on June 30, 1938, deposits in 13,782 banks, including 56 mutual savings banks, were insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. As of that date 6,338 banks, members of the Federal Reserve System, had been automatically admitted to membership, and 7,388 nonmember banks, other than mutual savings banks, had made application and had been accepted for membership.

FEDERAL FIRE COUNCIL

The Federal Fire Council was organized in April 1930 by collective action of Government departments and establishments and established by Executive Order No. 7397 of June 20, 1936, as an official advisory agency in matters relating to the protection of Federal employees and property from fire.

The council is authorized to develop standards, procedures, and forms, and, on request, to conduct surveys or such other investigations as may be necessary to determine what measures should be taken to safeguard life and property from the hazards of fire, including review of plans for new construction. The council is also authorized to make such independent studies of Federal buildings and property as it may deem desirable from the standpoint of fire protection, and to maintain a record of fire losses on Government property.

The membership of the council consists of such officers or employees of the various departments and establishments of the Federal Government and of the District of Columbia as are designated by the respective heads thereof. These are organized into standing committees concerned with matters such as fire-hazard surveys, requirements for fire-protection equipment, establishment of fire-loss prevention procedures and organizations within Government establishments, development of inspection forms, manuals, and fire-resistance standards for new construction, protection of records, and fire-loss statisitics.

Reports of surveys and other committee actions are submitted for adoption at periodic meetings of the council. Reports and recommendations involving matters of general policy are subject to the approval of the governing body. These reports and other informative material are distributed to the membership, to the heads of bureaus and establishments, and to other interested Federal, State, and city officials. A manual covering the general subject of fire-loss prevention has been issued together with a fire report and self-inspection forms, the latter for use within departments and establishments in connection with inspections.

UNITED STATES MARITIME COMMISSION

The United States Maritime Commission was created by the Merchant Marine Act, 1936, approved June 29, 1936 (49 Stat. 1985), which is entitled "An act to further the development and maintenance of an adequate and well-balanced American merchant marine, to promote the commerce of the United States, to aid in the national defense, to repeal certain former legislation, and for other purposes." The Commission is an independent establishment of the executive branch of the Government, charged with the determination and administration of certain governmental financial aids to private citizens for the construction and operation of vessels in the commerce of the United States. It also exercises other business functions. In addition to its business functions, the Commission possesses regulatory powers over common carriers in the foreign and interstate water-borne commerce of the United States similar to the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission over land carriers.

The act directs that the Commission shall be composed of five members, appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. The chairman is designated by the President. The Commission may elect one of its members as vice chairman and is authorized to appoint and fix the salaries of a secretary, a general counsel, and other officials and employees.

The terms of office of the Commissioners first appointed are fixed at 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 years, but their successors are to be appointed for terms of 6 years. Three Commissioners were appointed and took office on September 26, 1936. A full Commission was appointed and took office on April 16, 1937.

By the terms of the act, the United States Shipping Board Merchant Fleet Corporation was dissolved and all its records, books, papers, and property were taken over by the Commission. Likewise, all money, notes, bonds, mortgages, contracts, lands, vessels, terminals, property, and interests of every kind, owned by the United States and controlled by the Department of Commerce as the successor to the powers and functions of the former Shipping Board, were transferred to the Commission by the act.

Ocean mail contracts made by the Postmaster General were terminated effective June 30, 1937. The holder of any such contract was authorized to file an application with the Commission to adjust and settle all the rights of the parties under the contract, subject to appeal by the Attorney General.

Under the act the Commission, as successor to the powers and functions originally vested in the United States Shipping Board and later transferred by Executive Order No. 6166, issued on June 10, 1933, to the Department of Commerce, possesses all the powers and functions delegated in the Shipping Act, 1916, as amended, the Merchant Marine Act, 1920, as amended, and the Intercoastal Shipping Act, 1933, as amended.

By the act of Congress approved June 23, 1938 (Public, No. 705, 75th Cong., 3d sess.) certain clarifying amendments were made to the Merchant Marine Act, 1936, and additional powers were vested in the Commission.

The duties of the Commission include the investigation and determination of the ocean services, routes, and lines from points in the United States to foreign markets essential for the development and maintenance of the foreign commerce of the United States and the determination of what additions and replacements of the American merchant marine are required to create an adequate and well-balanced merchant fleet to provide shipping service on all routes essential for the flow of the foreign commerce of the United States, the vessels to be so designed as to be capable of serving as naval or military auxiliaries in time of war or national emergency; and investigation of other maritime problems arising under the act.

To aid a citizen of the United States in the construction of a new vessel to be used on a service, route, or line in the foreign commerce of the United States determined to be essential, the Commission is empowered to have the vessel constructed in a shipyard in the United States, to pay such construction cost, and to sell the vessel to the applicant for an amount equal to the estimated cost of the construction of the vessel if it were constructed in a foreign shipyard. The plans and specifications are required to be approved by the Secretary of the Navy, the Commission being directed to cooperate with the Navy Department as to national-defense needs and the adaptation of the merchant fleet to national-defense requirements. The difference between the cost of constructing the vessel in the United States and the estimated cost of constructing the vessel in a foreign shipyard is termed a construction-differential subsidy, but in no case may such subsidy exceed 50 percent of the cost of the vessel. The applicant is required to pay 25 percent of the price at which a vessel is sold to the applicant, and the balance, payable in 20 years at 3½ percent interest per annum, must be secured by a first preferred mortgage upon the vessel.

Aid may be extended to any citizen of the United States in the construction of a new vessel to be operated in the foreign or domestic trade (excepting vessels engaged solely in the transportation of property on inland rivers and canals exclusively), in cases where no construction subsidy is to be allowed except for the cost of national-defense features. The applicant is required to pay not less than 25 percent of the cost of the vessel and the balance, payable in 20 years at 3½ percent interest per annum, must be secured by a first preferred mortgage and otherwise as the Commission may direct.

If it is found that the national policy declared in the act and the building program contemplated by the act cannot be realized within a reasonable time, after approval by the President, the Commission may have new vessels constructed and old ones reconditioned. Vessels transferred to the Commission and being operated in foreign commerce may be temporarily operated by the Commission for its account by private operators. All vessels transferred to or otherwise acquired by the Commission may be chartered or sold. Charters are restricted to bare-boat charters.

The Commission is empowered to grant an operating-differential subsidy to aid a citizen of the United States in the operation of a vessel to be used in an essential service, route, or line in the foreign commerce of the United States. The operating-differential subsidy, which is intended to place the proposed operations of such vessels on a parity with those of foreign competitors, is the excess of the cost of items of operating expense in which it is found the applicant is at a substantial disadvantage in competition with foreign vessels over the estimated cost of the same items of expense if the vessel were operated under registry of a foreign country whose vessels are substantial competitors of the vessels covered by the contract. Certain reserve funds are required to be set up by the vessel operators, and no operating-differential subsidy may be paid for the operation of vessels engaged in coastwise or intercoastal trade.

The 1938 amendments added a new title to the act which provides for a Federal ship mortgage insurance fund to be administered by the Commission. Under authority conferred by this new title the Commission may, upon application of a mortgagee, insure mortgages on all types of passenger and cargo vessels, tugs, towboats, barges, dredges, and fishing vessels, owned by citizens of the United States. To be eligible for such insurance the mortgage must be to secure a new loan or advance to aid in the construction, reconstruction, or reconditioning of a craft and the amount of the mortgage insured may not exceed 75 percent of the cost of such new construction, reconstruction, or reconditioning. The premium charge for the mortgage insurance is fixed by the Commission but shall not be less than one-half of 1 percent per annum nor more than 1 percent per annum of the amount of the mortgage obligation outstanding at any time. The premium charge is to be paid by the mortgagee.

The Commission is directed to investigate employment and wage conditions in ocean shipping and to incorporate in contracts for operating-differential subsidies minimum-manning scales, minimum-wage scales, and reasonable working conditions for all officers and crews employed on vessels receiving an operating differential subsidy. All licensed officers of vessels documented under the laws of the United States must be citizens of the United States, and the act contains provisions in respect to the citizenship of members of crews of subsidized vessels. Citizenship requirements of officers and crews are enforced by the Secretary of Commerce.

The 1938 amendments to the act directed the Commission to prepare and report to Congress a comprehensive system for the training of citizens to serve as licensed and unlicensed personnel on American merchant vessels. However, the amendments also included authorization to the Commission to proceed with establishment of the United States Maritime Service, which is to be a voluntary organization consisting of such licensed and unlicensed personnel of the United States merchant marine as may be enrolled to receive training by the Coast Guard. The Commission is authorized to determine the number of persons to be enrolled, to fix their rates of pay, and to prescribe such courses and periods of training as may be necessary to maintain a trained and efficient merchant marine personnel.

The regulatory powers possessed by the Commission extend to all common carriers by water engaged in interstate and foreign commerce of the United States and to all persons carrying on the business of forwarding or furnishing wharfage, dock, warehouse, or other terminal facilities in connection with common carriers by water. These powers are principally in relation to rates, fares, charges, regulations, and practices. Carriers in interstate commerce subject to the Commission's jurisdiction are required to file their maximum rates, fares, and charges with the Commission, and after Commission approval thereof, to keep such rates, fares, and charges open to public inspection. The Commission possesses quasi-judicial authority to receive and determine complaints of shippers, passengers, and others alleging unreasonableness or unjust discrimination by common carriers by water and others subject to its regulatory authority and the method for the enforcement of orders of the Commission, including orders directing the payment of money in reparation for violation of statutory provisions, is prescribed in the Shipping Acts. An important regulatory power vested in the Commission is the approval, disapproval, or modification of agreements entered into between common carriers by water respecting cooperative working arrangements. The Commission's approval of such agreements, commonly referred to as conference agreements, excepts the parties thereto from the operation of the Sherman Anti-trust Act, Wilson Tariff Act, Clayton Act, and supplementary acts and amendments directed at monopolies in restraint of trade. The Commission also regulates the sales to aliens of vessels owned in whole or in part by citizens of the United States and documented under the laws of the United States.

COMMITTEE FOR RECIPROCITY INFORMATION

The Committee for Reciprocity Information was created by Executive order in June 1934 to carry out the provisions of section 4 of the act entitled "Promotion of Foreign Trade," under which the President is authorized to enter into trade agreements with foreign countries. This section provides that before any foreign-trade agreement is concluded public notice of the negotiations shall be given in order that any interested person may have the opportunity of presenting his views to the President or to such agency as the President may designate.

The President designated the Committee for Reciprocity Information as the body to receive the views of interested parties. This Committee is composed of representatives from those Government departments or agencies concerned with the operation of the Trade Agreements Act. Its chairman is one of the members of the Committee and is named by the Executive Committee on Commercial Policy.

Under the rules promulgated by the Committee for Reciprocity Information, those wishing to present information or requests for consideration in connection with announcements as to proposed negotiations may file their material with the Committee, and may request permission to present supplementary information at the hearing which the Committee holds on each trade agreement.

The Committee also receives information on any phase of the trade agreements program, whether relating to the operation of an agreement already made or to one under consideration, and such views may be presented verbally or by letter.

THE RAILROAD RETIREMENT BOARD

The first Railroad Retirement Board was created under the first Railroad Retirement Act passed by Congress in June 1934 (Pub. No. 485, 73d Cong., S. 3231), which act was declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court in May 1935. A second Board was created by the provisions of the second Railroad Retirement Act (Pub. No. 399, 74th Cong., H. R. 8651), passed in August 1935; and this Board was continued by the provisions of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937 (Pub. No. 162, 75th Cong., H. R. 7519), which act is an amendment to the Railroad Retirement Act of 1935. The Board comprises three members appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate—one upon recommendation of representatives of employees, one upon recommendation of representatives of carriers, and one, who is the chairman of the Board, without specific recommendation. The Railroad Retirement Board is charged with the duty of administering both the Railroad Retirement Acts of 1935 and 1937.

The Railroad Retirement Act of 1935 is still in force and effect with respect to claims of individuals (and of their spouses and dependent next of kin) who relinquished their rights to service and became eligible for annuities before the enactment of the act of 1937 (June 24, 1937). The two acts provide for the payment of annuities and pensions to the superannuated and disabled employees of the railroad industry of the United States and for the payment of death benefits on their account. The act covers the employees of (1) express companies, sleeping-car companies, and carriers by railroad, subject to part 1 of the Interstate Commerce Act; (2) companies which are directly or indirectly owned or controlled by or are under common control with one or more of such express companies, sleeping-car companies, or carriers by railroad, and which perform a service (with certain exceptions) in connection with the transportation of passengers or property by railroad; (3) certain associations, bureaus, and agencies engaged in services incidental to or in connection with railroad transportation; (4) railway labor organizations, national in scope, organized in accordance with the Railway Labor Act, and certain of their subordinate units; and (5) railway labor organizations, not national in scope, with respect to certain of their employees.

Payments under the two acts are made from the "Railroad Retirement Account," which was created under the 1937 act, and to which is appropriated each fiscal year an amount actuarially determined by the Board to be sufficient as a premium to provide for the payment of all annuities, pensions, and death benefits under both acts; part of this premium is used for the payment of current liabilities and the remainder is invested in obligations of or guaranteed by the United States, to yield interest at not less than 3 percent per annum for the purpose of creating a reserve with which to cover future increases in payments arising under the two acts.

In order to be qualified for an annuity, an individual must have been, on or after August 29, 1935, either in the active service of, or in an employment relation to, an employer under the act, and must in addition be (1) 65 years old, or (2) between 60 and 65 years and (a) have completed 30 years of service or (b) have become totally and permanently disabled for regular employment for hire, or (3) have completed 30 years of service, and be totally and permanently disabled for regular employment for hire, irrespective of age. Annuities paid under (a) and (b) above are reduced by $\frac{1}{180}$ for each calendar month during which such individuals are under age 65 when their annuities begin to accrue. In order to receive annuities, such individuals must (1) file applications, (2) cease all compensated service, and (3) relinquish all rights to return to the service of employers under the law and the last employer, whether or not an employer under the law, except that relinquishment of rights is not required before age 65 when annuities are paid on account of total and permanent disability for regular employment for hire.

The amounts of annuities are calculated by multiplying the number of years of service by the sum of the following percentages of the average monthly compensation: 2 percent of the first $50, 1½ percent of the next $100, and 1 percent of the next $150. The years of service include all service subsequent to December 31, 1936, and, in certain cases, as much service prior to January 1, 1937, as is needed to bring the total "years of service" to 30. In computing the average monthly compensation, amounts in excess of $300 in any one month are disregarded. In making this computation, the average monthly compensation for the years 1924–31, inclusive, is taken as the average for all the years prior to January 1, 1937.

The 1937 act also provides minimum annuities for individuals who are employees under the act at age 65 and have 20 years of service. If the average monthly compensation of the individual is $50, or more, he is entitled to at least $40 per month; if his average monthly compensation is between $25 and $50, he is entitled to 80 percent of his average monthly compensation; if his average monthly compensation is between $20 and $25, he is entitled to $20; and if his average monthly compensation is less than $20, he is entitled to the full amount of his average monthly compensation. In every case, regardless of his compensation and years of service, the individual is entitled to at least enough to make his combined benefits under title II of the Social Security Act and the Railroad Retirement Act equal to the benefits he would receive under title II of the Social Security Act if his employment after December 31, 1936, under the Railroad Retirement Act, were included as employment under the Social Security Act.

Ordinarily, an annuity ceases upon the death of the annuitant; however, under certain conditions an employee may elect a joint and survivor annuity instead of a single-life annuity. If such an election is made, the employee will receive a reduced annuity during his life and after his death his widow will receive a survivor annuity during her life. The amounts of the two annuities are such that their combined actuarial value is the same as the actuarial value of the single-life annuity to which the employee would otherwise be entitled. If an election of a joint and survivor annuity is made, it is irrevocable, except that it becomes inoperative under certain circumstances.

An annuity is payable on the first day of the month following the month during which it accrued, but no annuity accrues during the month in which the annuitant dies. Survivor annuities under joint and survivor elections begin to accrue on the first day of the month in which the annuitant dies, so that the first payment to the survivor is due on the first day of the following month.

The Board certifies to the Secretary of the Treasury the name and address of each person entitled to receive any payment under the acts, the amount of such payment, and the day when it is to be made. The Secretary of the Treasury, through the Division of Disbursements of the Treasury Department, makes payment prior to audit and settlement by the General Accounting Office.

Section 6 of the 1937 act provides that beginning July 1, 1937, each individual then on the pension or gratuity roll of an employer by reason of his employment. who was on such roll on March 1, 1937, shall be paid on July 1, 1937, and on the first day of each calendar month thereafter during his life, a pension at the same rate as the pension or gratuity granted to him by the employer without diminution by reason of a general reduction or readjustment made subsequent to December 31, 1930. Such pension is not to exceed $120 a month. Persons on such pension rolls who were, on July 1, 1937, eligible to receive annuities, are not entitled to pensions under section 6, except that they may receive pension payments pending the adjudication of their annuity claims, but in no event later than October 1, 1937.

A death benefit is payable under the 1937 act with respect to the death of any individual who rendered service under the act after December 31, 1936. The amount of this death benefit is 4 percent of the total creditable earnings of the individual after December 31, 1936 (excluding earnings in excess of $300 in any one calendar month), less the aggregate amount of annuities paid to the individual and his surviving spouse. The death benefit is payable to the person designated by the individual, or, if there be no designation, to the estate of the individual. In the case of an individual governed by the 1935 act, the death benefit is an annuity, equal to one-half the annuity the individual was receiving or entitled to receive at the time of his death; is payable for 1 year after his death to his surviving spouse, or (if there be no such spouse) to his dependent next of kin; and is payable only if he was receiving or entitled to receive an annuity at the time of his death.

Under section 8 of the 1937 act, employers are required to file with the Board returns of monthly compensation of employees, and such returns are conclusive as to the amount of compensation unless an error in the amount, if any, is called to the Board's attention within 4 years after the last date on which the return was required to be made. Employees are given an opportunity to examine the returns and to report errors in such returns. By this means, the Board will have a record of the service and compensation of employees and, as a result, the adjudication of claims in the future will require much less time.

The Board is required to make an annual report to the President of the United States, to be submitted to Congress. It is also required to submit annually to the Bureau of the Budget an estimate of the appropriation to be made to the Railroad Retirement Account. Its annual report is to include a statement of the status and the operation of the Railroad Retirement Account and, at intervals not longer than 3 years, an estimate of the liabilities created by the Railroad Retirement Acts. Such annual report shall also contain an estimate of the reduction in liabilities under title II of the Social Security Act arising as a result of the maintenance of the Railroad Retirement Acts of 1935 and 1937.

RAILROAD UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

Effective date.—The act goes into operation both with respect to the payment of benefits and with respect to the collection of contributions on July 1, 1939.

Qualifications.—To be eligible for benefits, an unemployed employee must have earned $150 or more, in compensation, from covered employment within the appropriate preceding calendar year, known as the base year. If the benefit year begins on or after July 1 of any calendar year, the base year is the immediately preceding calendar year. If the benefit year begins prior to July 1, the base year is next to the last completed calendar year.

The employee also must have had within 6 months preceding the beginning of a benefit year, a waiting period of 15 consecutive days of unemployment or 2 half months (which need not be consecutive) in each of which there were at least 8 days of unemployment for which benefits were not paid. A half month is defined as any 15 consecutive calendar days.

Disqualifications.—Employees will be disqualified from the receipt of benefits for varying periods for such reasons, among others, as leaving suitable work voluntarily without good cause; being discharged or suspended for misconduct related to their work; refusing to accept suitable work offered.

Benefits.—The amount of benefits that will be paid to an employee during any half month is determined by multiplying rates varying from $1.75 to $3 by the number of days of unemployment in excess of 7 during the half month. The daily rate of benefit and the maximum amount of benefit applicable to an employee during his benefit year varies with the amount of his compensation from covered employment during the employee's base year.

The following is a table of the benefit rates and maximum benefits during a benefit year applicable to the various compensation classes:

Total compensation during base year	Daily benefit rate	Maximum amount of benefit during benefit year	Total compensation during base year	Daily benefit rate	Maximum amount of benefit during benefit year
$200 to $474.99	2.00	160	$1,025 to $1,299.99	2.75	220
$475 to $749.99	2.25	180	$1,300 and over	3.00	240

For workers employed regularly on a part-time basis, this table and the provision governing maximum benefits do not apply. The benefit rate and maximum benefits for such part-time workers are to be prescribed by the Board.

Source of benefits.—Contributions are payable by covered employers at a rate of 3 percent of compensation payable to employees, excluding any amount in excess of $300 per month payable to any employee. Such contributions are to be collected by the Railroad Retirement Board.

For the payment of benefits 90 percent of these contributions will be credited to a special account known as the Railroad Unemployment Insurance account, to be maintained in the unemployment trust fund established by section 904 of the Social Security Act.

Ten percent of the contributions collected will be deposited in a special fund known as the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Administration fund, to meet the expenses of administering the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act.

Where and how to apply for benefits.—Until July 1, 1939, every unemployed railroad worker should immediately register for work and file a claim for benefits under the unemployment compensation law of his State at the nearest office of his State employment service.

After July 1, 1939, an unemployed railroad worker should apply to employment offices which will be designated by the Railroad Retirement Board.

DISASTER LOAN CORPORATION

The Disaster Loan Corporation was created by act of Congress approved February 11, 1937.

Organization.—The Corporation was organized February 15, 1937, and will have succession until dissolved by act of Congress. It is managed by officers and agents appointed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, under rules and regulations prescribed by the Board of Directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It functions through a principal office at Washington and agents located in the loan agencies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Functions.—The function of the Disaster Loan Corporation is to make, upon such terms and conditions and in such manner as it may prescribe, such loans as it may determine to be necessary or appropriate because of floods or other catastrophes in the years 1936, 1937, or 1938.

THE CODIFICATION BOARD

The Codification Board was established by the act of June 19, 1937 (50 Stat. 304), which amended section 11 of the Federal Register Act (49 Stat. 500). It is composed of six members, the Director of the Division of the Federal Register, chairman ex officio, three attorneys of the Department of Justice designated by the Attorney General, and two attorneys of the Division of the Federal Register designated by the Archivist.

The duties of the Board include the supervision and coordination of the form, style, arrangement, and indexing of codifications of executive and administrative documents submitted by Federal agencies. The codifications are, under the law, required to include all documents which in the opinion of the agency have general applicability and legal effect and which have been issued or promulgated by the agency and are in force and effect and relied upon by the agency as authority for, or invoked or used by it in the discharge of, any of its functions or activities on June 1, 1938.

MARITIME LABOR BOARD

The Maritime Labor Board was created by Title X of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936, as amended on June 23, 1938, by Public, No. 705, Seventy-fifth Congress, third session. The Board is composed of three members.

The principal duties of the Board are to encourage maritime employers and their employees to make and maintain written collective agreements; to settle disputes in order to avoid interruptions to transportation in water-borne commerce; to secure compliance with the statutory requirement that every maritime employer shall file with the Maritime Labor Board a copy of each contract with any group of its employees in effect on such date, covering rates of pay, hours of employment, rules, and working conditions; to prepare for submittal to the President and to the Congress by March 1, 1940, a comprehensive plan for the establishment of a permanent Federal policy for the amicable adjustment of all disputes between maritime employers and employees and for the stabilization of maritime labor relations.

CIVIL AERONAUTICS AUTHORITY

The Civil Aeronautics Authority was created by the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, approved June 23, 1938, "to promote the development and safety and to provide for the regulation of civil aeronautics."

The act provided for the transfer to the new agency of the personnel, property, and unexpended balances of appropriations of the Bureau of Air Commerce of the Department of Commerce and of the Bureau of Air Mail of the Interstate Commerce Commission. This was accomplished by Executive order on August 22, 1938.

PURPOSE

The declaration of policy found in section 2 of the act directs the Civil Aeronautics Authority, in exercising its powers, to "consider the following, among other things, as being in the public interest and in accordance with the public convenience and necessity—

"(a) The encouragement and development of an air-transportation system properly adapted to the present and future needs of the foreign and domestic commerce of the United States, of the Postal Service, and of the national defense;

"(b) The regulation of air transportation in such manner as to recognize and preserve the inherent advantages of, assure the highest degree of safety in, and foster sound economic conditions in, such transportation, and to improve the relations between, and coordinate transportation by, air carriers;

"(c) The promotion of adequate, economical, and efficient service by air carriers at reasonable charges, without unjust discriminations, undue preferences or advantages, or unfair or destructive competitive practices;

"(d) Competition to the extent necessary to assure the sound development of an air-transportation system properly adapted to the needs of the foreign and domestic commerce of the United States, of the Postal Service, and of the national defense;

"(e) The regulation of air commerce in such manner as to best promote its development and safety; and

"(f) The encouragement and development of civil aeronautics."

ORGANIZATION

The Authority is composed of five members, appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate. One is annually designated by the President as chairman and one as vice chairman. The first appointees are named for 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 years, their successors to be named for 6 years. Not more than three members may be of the same political party.

The Administrator is appointed in the Authority by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The three members of the Air Safety Board are appointed within the Authority by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, initially for 2, 4, and 6 years, and thereafter for 6 years. The Board annually chooses its chairman. One member of the Board must be "an active airline pilot and shall have flown not less than 3,000 hours in scheduled air transportation."

ACTIVITIES

Economic regulation.—The Authority issues certificates of convenience and necessity to air carriers and permits to foreign air carriers, receives tariffs filed by air carriers, regulates rates for the carriage of passengers and property, prescribes rates of compensation for the carriage of mail, regulates accounts, records and reports, mergers, loans and financial aids, and interlocking officers and directors.

Safety regulation.—This involves the issuance of safety certificates and other aeronautical documents; maintenance of records of persons and things subject to regulation; investigation incident to certificate denial, suspension, revocation, and penalties; enforcement of rules and regulations; conformity of aircraft engineering data with airworthiness requirements; examination and inspection of interstate, overseas, and foreign scheduled airline operations; examination of persons and matériel for rating and certification; and the prescribing of air traffic rules and other regulations relating to safety in air commerce. A special division has been created for private flying development through the prescribing and supervision of courses for pilot training in established educational institutions, the study of regulations in their application to private flying and the encouragement of built-in safety factors in training and private planes.

Statistics and information.—Collection and dissemination of information relative to the development of air commerce and the aeronautical industry and trade and other aeronautical activities; compilation and publication of statistics and other data pertinent to aviation development; compilation and distribution to airmen of current information pertaining to airports and air navigation facilities on civil airways; and general correspondence.

This activity involves the preparation of plans for aids to air navigation, obtaining sites therefor, negotiation of contracts for electric, telephone, and other utility services, planning and supervision of construction of navigational aids, radio engineering of a nonexperimental character, and maintenance of navigational aids.

Airways operation.—Supervision of airway communications, including establishment of schedules, teletype circuits, radio frequency allocations, and station complements; supervision of air traffic control, procedures, techniques, operations, stations, and station complements.

Technical development.—Conduct of research and special studies in perfecting a program of long range development of civil aeronautics; air transport operation studies, including pilot and crew efficiency, passenger comfort and safety, and ground control; studies in power plant, accessories, and instrument development, with particular emphasis on radio air navigational facilities; studies in foreign airline operation and technique; permits and governmental arrangements for international air commerce; studies of a national program of aeronautical education.

AIR SAFETY BOARD

The activities of the Air Safety Board have to do with the investigation of accidents and reporting to the Authority on the facts, circumstances, and probable causes thereof; recommendations to the Authority of measures to prevent recurrences of such accidents; the making public of its reports and recommendations in such manner as it deems to be in the public interest; and assisting the Authority when requested, by investigating complaints and conducting special studies and investigations to reduce accidents and prevent their recurrence.

FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION

The association was organized and established on February 10, 1938, pursuant to the provisions of title III of the National Housing Act, as amended, under the name of the National Mortgage Association of Washington. Its name was subsequently changed to Federal National Mortgage Association. The association has a paid-in capital of $10,000,000 and a paid-in surplus of $1,000,000. Its capital stock is owned by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The association functions through a principal office in Washington, D. C., and agents located in the loan agencies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and is managed by a board of nine directors.

The principal functions of the association are:

(1) The purchase at par and accrued interest of mortgages, other than farm mortgages, insured subsequent to January 1, 1937, by the Federal Housing Administrator under section 203 of the National Housing Act, as amended, which encumber small homes constructed subsequent to January 1, 1936, and otherwise meet the association's requirements. Such mortgages are purchased from institutions which have been approved as mortgagees by the Federal Housing Administrator (except institutions approved by the Administrator on the basis of their loan correspondent relationship with an approved mortgagee pursuant to the provisions of section I, subsection 4 (c) (2) of said Administrator's rules), and which have a net worth satisfactory to the association; and

(2) To make loans, or to purchase loans, secured by first mortgages insured under section 207 or 210 of the National Housing Act, as amended. Applications for such loans, or applications to purchase such loans, must be submitted to the association prior to the beginning of the construction of the proposed housing project.

Pursuant to section 302 of title III of the National Housing Act, as amended, each national mortgage association may have outstanding at any time notes, bonds, debentures, or other such obligations in an aggregate amount not to exceed (1) 20 times the amount of its paid-up capital and surplus, and in no event to exceed (2) the current unpaid principal of insured mortgages held plus its cash and the amortized value of its investments in bonds or other obligations of the United States, or in bonds or other obligations guaranteed as to principal and interest by the United States. The National Housing Act, as amended, further provides that any such notes, bonds, debentures, or other obligations shall be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from all taxation (except surtaxes, estate, inheritance, and gift taxes), now or hereafter imposed by the United States, by any Territory, dependency, or possession thereof, or by any State, county, municipality, or local taxing authority.

THE RFC MORTGAGE COMPANY

Public Act No. 1 of the Seventy-fourth Congress authorizes the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, with the approval of the President, to "subscribe for or make loans upon the nonassessable stock of any class of any national mortgage association organized under title III of the National Housing Act and of any mortgage loan company, trust company, savings and loan association, or other smiliar financial institution * * *."

Pursuant to this authority the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has subscribed for $25,000,000 of the capital stock of the RFC Mortgage Company, which was organized under the laws of Maryland on March 14, 1935.

The general purpose of the company is to aid in the reestablishment of a normal market for sound mortgages on income-producing urban property, such as apartment houses, hotels, and business and office buildings, when credit is not otherwise available on reasonable terms and when the net income from the property, after payment of taxes, insurance, and operating costs, is sufficient to pay interest and the required amortization.

The principal office of the company is in Washington, D. C., and it operates in all the States and Territories of the United States. Its business is handled through agents whose offices are located in the various loan agencies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The activities of the company can be classified into the following major groups:

(1) When financing is necessary and cannot be obtained upon reasonable rates and terms, the company considers applications for loans, on a sound basis, secured by first mortgages on urban, income-producing properties, such as apartment houses, hotels, business and office buildings, if the net income from the property, after the payment of taxes, insurance, and operating expenses, is sufficient to pay interest charges and the required amortization of the loan. These loans are chiefly for refinancing and aiding in the reorganization of distressed real property.

(2) The company also gives consideration to applications for loans to finance new construction, provided there is an economic need for such construction, the mortgagor's investment in the completed project will be substantial in relation to the amount of the loan requested, and his resources and experience are sufficient to indicate that the property can be operated on a sound basis.

(3) The company also considers applications for loans to distressed holders of first mortgage real-estate bonds and certificates upon the security of their notes secured by such bonds and certificates, provided sufficient information is available to the company to enable it to determine that the income of the property securing the bonds or certificates is sufficient to warrant the loan. Loans will not be made to holders of such bonds or certificates who acquired them for speculative purposes.

(4) The RFC Mortgage Company also purchases, at par and accrued interest, 5-percent mortgages insured under section 203, title II, of the National Housing Act, as amended, provided such mortgages meet the eligibility requirements of the company.

PRESS GALLERIES

RULES GOVERNING PRESS GALLERIES

1. Persons desiring admission to the press galleries of Congress shall make application to the Speaker, as required by rule XXXV of the House of Representatives, and to the Committee on Rules of the Senate, as required by rule IV for the regulation of the Senate Wing of the Capitol; and shall state in writing the names of all newspapers or publications or news associations by which they are employed, and what other occupation or employment they may have, if any; and they shall further declare that they are not engaged in the prosecution of claims pending before Congress or the departments, and will not become so engaged while allowed admission to the galleries; that they are not employed in any legislative or executive department of the Government, or by any foreign Government or any representative thereof; and that they are not employed, directly or indirectly, by any stock exchange, board of trade, or other organization, or member thereof, or brokerage house, or broker, engaged in the buying and selling of any security or commodity or by any person or corporation having legislation before Congress, and will not become so engaged while retaining membership in the galleries. Holders of visitor's cards who may be allowed temporary admission to the galleries must conform to the restrictions of this rule.

2. The applications required by the above rule shall be authenticated in a manner that shall be satisfactory to the standing committee of correspondents who shall see that the occupation of the galleries is confined to bona fide correspondents of reputable standing in their business, who represent daily newspapers or newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service; and it shall be the duty of the standing committee at their discretion, to report violation of the privileges of the galleries to the Speaker, or to the Senate Committee on Rules, and pending action thereon the offending correspondent may be suspended.

3. Persons engaged in other occupations whose chief attention is not given to newspaper correspondence or to newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service shall not be entitled to admission to the press galleries; and the Press List in the CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY shall be a list only of persons whose chief attention is given to telegraphic correspondence for daily newspapers or newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service.

4. Members of the families of correspondents are not entitled to the privileges of the galleries.

5. The press galleries shall be under the control of the standing committee of correspondents, subject to the approval and supervision of the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Senate Committee on Rules.

Approved.

WILLIAM B. BANKHEAD,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Approved by the Committee on Rules of the Senate.
